DECK GRAVES OF COMRADES

The Veterans of Grand Army Celebrate Memorial Day in Its Truest Sense.

A PARADE IN MORNING

Visit Local Cemeteries and Parade Through City and Borough—Exercises in Reform Hall in Afternoon—Address By Former Mayor Randolph.

Memorial Day in its true sense was appropriately observed by the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., assisted by the Woman's Relief Corps. Following the annual custom, the veterans gathered early Saturday morning and visited the various cemeteries in Plainfield and vicinity.

After returning from the cemeteries, where the graves of the soldier dead were decorated with flowers, the Post assembled for the parade. Past Commander L. L. McVoy was marshal of the day and was assisted by Past Department Commander W. C. Smith, followed by the Raritan Brass Band. Then came the members of Company K, in charge of Lieut. John M. Lewis, escorting the veterans. It was expected that the Plainfield High School cadets would turn out, but through a misunderstanding the school boys failed to appear.

Along the line of march the homes and stores were decorated with American flags. The veterans visited the North Plainfield Cemetery and Plainfield Avenue Cemetery, where special services were held at the graves of the late E. C. Morse and Isaac Brokaw, according to former custom. These services were in charge of the officers of the Post.

Early in the afternoon, the Post reassembled and marched to Reform Hall, where special services were held. On the platform there was a large chorus of children and patriotic songs were rendered. These children were drilled by members of the Woman's Relief Corps, who were in charge. There was also the grave on the platform to represent the unknown soldier dead, over which there was a special service in which the veterans took part. A feature of this service was the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg and the general orders issued annually by the National Commander of the G. A. R. Included in the musical programme were appropriate soprano solos by Miss Mears, accompanied on the piano by Andrew G. Carpenter.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, who gave a soul stirring talk to his fellow-veterans. Mr. Randolph reviewed the history of past years and during the Civil War, of the sacrifice and devotion on the part of those who fought for their country. The speaker also referred to the development of the country since the Civil War, showing how wonderful it all has been.

In addition to the singing by the chorus of children there was also a solo by Arthur Manley, who rendered patriotic airs. He was accompanied on the piano by his mother.

There is much praise due to the members of the Woman's Relief Corps for their assistance in the general observance. They made nearly two hundred beautiful bouquets and presented them to the veterans and members of Company K. Patriotic literature was also distributed.

The services were concluded with the benediction by Rev. W. E. Honeyman, after which the children adjourned to the basement, where ice cream and cake were served to them.

Fire in Chimney.

For a fire in a chimney which did but little damage, a still alarm was sent into the store of William Debele, of Somerset street. The combination hose wagon and truck responded and the blaze was soon under control. The fire was in the house of Frank O. Webster, 47 Duer street.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Grape juice is still the most popular drink at the soda fountain of T. S. Armstrong on Park avenue. It is the most satisfactory weapon with which to combat a thirst.

B. J. Schreiner makes a specialty of keeping only the best of sodas for the summer trade. Great care is taken with the manufacture of his syrups, this insuring a healthful, tasty and refreshing drink.

The dairy firm of Wm. Lindsay & Son, of Mountain avenue, complies with the Board of Health rules and this assures customers the best and purest cream and milk. The firm asks that you give their product a trial.

If you have not yet contracted for your summer painting and papering it will be to your advantage to let the New York Painting and Decorating Company give you a figure on the work. The firm does only the best work, while they charge only a fair price.

The firm of Bears Brothers on West Front street is meeting with gratifying success since coming to Plainfield. A fine stock of men's clothing, hats, as well as dresses for women and children, is constantly kept and the prices are low. This firm sells on the installment plan.

You will not find James C. Hansen's name in the encyclopedia as one of the great painters of the age, but that is because he paints houses instead of pictures. His paints look the best and wear the longest. To delay in painting your house when it needs it is only to incur extra expense later on.

One of the essential requisites of a well appointed table is the butter. For the sake of health, as well as taste it is desirable to have only the best. Neuman Brothers have the best and sell it at the lowest prices. Their assortment of fine teas and coffees is unequalled by any other store in the city.

WEST POINT EXCURSION.

Being Arranged by Jersey Central for June 6.

The New Jersey Central will run an excursion up the Hudson to West Point, June 6, on the steamer St. Johns. The scenery throughout the trip is grand and an outing at this time of the year will be delightful as well as beneficial.

After leaving the commercial section of the river you see Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive and the Palisades, while further along there is Anthony's Nose, the Crow's Nest and West Point.

The visit to the grounds and buildings of the Military Academy at West Point is both interesting and instructive as this is the place the generals are trained and on whom the safety of this beloved country often depends. This will be a first-class family excursion, no intoxicating liquors being offered for sale on the steamer.

There will be music on the steamer and the restaurant will be in charge of a first-class caterer. The train leaves Plainfield station at 8:02 a. m. Round trip tickets, $1. Don't forget this trip. 5 28 td

The Famous Welsh Circus.

Welsh Brothers' circus needs no introduction to the people of this city's amusement public. For a period of a dozen years or more, this aggregation, always embracing the best artists of the sawdust arena, has been annually welcomed in this city and it cannot be said of this show, as it can of many others, that it has ever failed to give entire satisfaction. This show will unfold its caravan of wonders at Plainfield, Wednesday, June 3.

LITERARY.

There are eight short stories in the June Leslie, ranging from a most original baby story, the "Gymkhana at Milkville," which is illuminated by Miss Cory's drawings, to a dreamy tale of an old bishop in a peaceful little town in Spain, by S. R. Crockett. The best story of a college boat race that has appeared for a long time, one thoroughly American in its quality, and the account of the business stratagem of a real estate man, possessed of a sense of humor and a love of dogs, together with a true yarn of a noted band of Western desperadoes, make up a variety of choice in the fiction.

The article called "Life Ashore" is the second paper on the life of the modern sailor, and takes up the most unknown, but one of the most interesting sides of a sailor's life, and that on "Our Farmer Presidents" tells much about those of our Chiefs of State who were farmers as well as statesmen, though not always so successfully. A dramatic sketch of E. S. Willard, a good deal of verse, and the usual light stories and rhymes in Marginalia and "Men, Women and Books," round out the number.

Hearing Postponed.

TOPEKA SUBMERGED

One Hundred and Seventy Lives Lost.

FIRE ADDED TO HORRORS OF FLOOD

Victims Roosted on Trees and House Tops—The Worst Disaster the City and Suburbs Have Ever Experienced.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 1.—Rain has been falling for two hours, and this has had a tendency to check the fires in the dwellings. Absolutely no reliable estimate of the lives lost can be made, because the flooded district cannot be traversed. It is at least 200 and may be larger than this. This extent of the damage is hard to get at. People were cooped up in their houses and could not escape from the fire or flood. If there is no further rise in the river it is possible that many of the beleaguered people may be rescued. Boats have been telegraphed for, and a train load will arrive in a few hours from Ottawa and others from Emporia.

It will be impossible before daylight to make a reliable report about the extent of the damage. Almost superhuman efforts have been made to rescue those remaining, but the task has been too great for the facilities at hand. The current runs like a mill race down the principal streets. Even an expert oarsman can make no headway against it. West of Kansas avenue the rescue of imprisoned people is probable. East of Kansas avenue it is an impossibility. A boat cannot be driven against the current. All day the rescuers worked, and people were landed by the hundreds, but it is a conservative estimate to say that there are a thousand people in the town who have not been rescued.

There can be as yet no estimate of the number of lives offered as a sacrifice to the flood. The receding of the waters alone will reveal the worst there is to know, and even that will not show the maximum count, for the waters often bury their dead beyond human resurrection. With few exceptions the names of those who succumbed are lacking. It is known only that babies were torn from the arms of their mothers to die in the waters and that men and women perished like rats in a trap.

It is impossible for the people living in security to realize the conditions as they exist in the flooded district. The people who lived in two story houses refused to leave them Saturday night with but few exceptions, and on Sunday they would have been only too glad to leave their homes and all their valuables, but it was too late.

The trip in a small boat around through Redmondville, Shorey and as far as Kansas avenue was as far as it was possible to go, as the current ran down all the cross streets with such force that no boat, however tight and manageable, could be made to go far enough west to reach the landing. Several times the two men and their little craft were thrown against driftwood and houses with such force that the boat was in imminent danger of capsizing.

A conservative estimate of the number of houses inhabited in the district thus traversed is one in every three. This is of the two story houses alone, as all the single story houses are standing in water to the eaves, while in many places the water has risen to the floors in the second stories. About the houses the current of the river rushed with tremendous force.

People roosted in the trees in almost all the blocks. Some were compelled to take refuge there because their homes had been destroyed and others because the houses were flooded so that it was no longer possible to live in them. In one place a man, his wife and six children were perched in a tree which looked hardly strong enough to sustain one person. The little girls and the woman had been securely lashed to the tree by the man. There was no way in which this family could be relieved. At the sight of a boat they made frantic signals. From every window heads of water bound people were thrust forth, and each person endeavored to make more frantic signs than the others. Little could be done for these people, as the means for getting them out were so meager. In some places where the rescuers went they found people sitting on the roofs of houses who refused to come down. They feared the danger of getting into the boats more than they did their perilous positions on the house tops. Many of them were placed in Forbes' elevator, and the Union Pacific depot was also used as a refuge station.

Some of the larger houses and buildings near Shorey were not flooded seriously, and many persons had been able to get to these before the flood had grown so bad.

One of the hardest working rescuers was Dr. L. M. Powell. In the scow with him was L. L. Kiene. Dr. Powell, Mr. Kiene and two others were drawn by the shouts of a man on the roof of a house. This man was rescued, and the party continued the journey. They found considerable difficulty in managing their boat and at the corner of Gordon and Van Buren anchored to a tree. Shortly afterward Dr. Powell was taken off in a skiff. Mr. Kiene and Colonel Vanetta and the rescued man remained in the scow, and Dr. Powell reported that the party was safe whether brought off before morning or not.

"I think," said Dr. Powell, "that there are no persons west of Kansas avenue as far as Van Buren and perhaps two or three blocks further and as far north as Mordoa. We came across a great number of cattle, horses, hogs and other animals, but saw only one man in need of help in this district, and we rescued him."

One of the most remarkable escapes is reported by Dr. Powell, that of a man who climbed along from the Union Pacific depot on the telegraph cable to the approach to the bridge, where he came down the telegraph pole and a rope was thrown to him. This man reported passing three men on the roof of the billiard hall opposite the Adams hotel, and a boat was sent out to their relief. They were brought to safety.

At 1 o'clock the number of drowned people was known to be at least 150, and a large number were yet missing.

From all over eastern Kansas boats are being rushed here for the rescue of the sufferers. The north end of the Melan bridge, the only way of reaching both Topekas, has gone out, and an effort will be made to stretch a wire cable across the bridge.

All of the pontoon bridges on the north side were washed out, and the only possible chance of reaching the survivors then was by boats.

Shortly after daylight nine boats arrived from Ottawa on a special train, and they were put into active service at once.

Soon after reports of drowning began to come in. A boat containing eight men was swept away in the swift current about 7 o'clock, and as far as known all were drowned. A boat containing two men was capsized. The boats were too frail to live in the swirling water.

More boats arrived from Emporia at 10 o'clock, and hurry messages have been sent to other towns for more. The river remained stationary after having fallen seven inches.

Eighty seven people are high and dry in the Page elevator. If the building holds together they will be rescued. In the B street colored Baptist church nearly a hundred people have been standing since yesterday. The building stands intact, and those who are left alive may be rescued. As seen from a high place on North Tyler street near the Rock Island bridge the stream appeared to be widening. The bridge had not gone out, as reported, but it was getting very shaky. The current was running with an incredible swiftness. Small boats have no chance at all, and many of them have been already swamped. Even if they could successfully traverse the whirling, eddying stream for a mile they would be almost sure to be overturned by striking against houses and other wreckage.

North Topeka is a scene of utmost desolation. Not a square foot of land can be seen in any direction.

Sherry, Oakland and the region about the Reform school north of North Topeka are all under the rushing waters.

The plan of trying to cross the river near what remains of the Kansas avenue bridge has been abandoned. Boats will be taken in wagons to a point near Auburndale, a suburb two and a half miles southwest. They will then be launched and allowed to float with the current to points where people are to be rescued.

It was soon recognized that rowboats would be of no use in battling with the currents. Messages were sent to the superintendent of the Rock Island at St. Joseph and to Mayor Bergundthal.

"Topeka wants three to six steam launches and twelve or eighteen clinker built boats, with men to handle, sent here by special train at once to rescue people in North Topeka."

The train sent with the boats was to feel its way as far as possible on the submerged tracks, and then the boats would be launched.

Boats were received here on a number of special trains run by the Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe over circuitous routes, but the current in the river seemed to be growing more powerful every minute, and they were powerless to cope with it. Meanwhile the beleaguered ones were being encouragd as far as possible to hold on a little longer in the hope that rescue would soon be effected. The eighty-five people in the Page elevator in North Topeka were in desperate straits for food, having had nothing to eat since last Friday. Two boat loads of provisions were started to them. They had not yet reached the elevator after struggling in a hard battle with the waters for over an hour.

E. L. Bailey and E. H. Alexander performed some of the most heroic work of the night. At the greatest risk of their own lives they succeeded in reaching one of the burning lumber yards and rescued a dozen women and children. On the way to the south shore one of the women fainted from fatigue and fright, and this all but swamped the boat.

The most prominent men of the town donned oilskins and, submerged in water up to their breasts, worked for hours in the cold water.

The next thing looked forward to with agonizing anticipation was the arrival of the steam launches. E. L. Cowdry and his brother are among those who escaped from the flood.

H. J. Henry, a hardware merchant, first sent his father and mother to safety and then undertook to remain and keep their property out of the hands of looters. He managed to escape when the flood came by riding a trusty horse. His stock of hardware had been swept away with the building and entire establishment.

Chief of Police Goff and his family are among those not yet accounted for. Isaac Standen succeeded in reaching the B Street Baptist church with 500 pounds of provisions. He was two hours in making the trip of not much more than a mile. Half a dozen persons are in an abandoned street car north of the bridge and have been there for thirty hours, but will be rescued. Eighteen people were rescued from a house. A man who has just returned from the flood says he could see as many as ten persons hanging from trees near the Sarlou avenue bridge at the foot of Morse street. E. D. L. and Charles Waldon, Santa Fe employees, started out in a boat early to rescue a Russian whom they saw on the roof of a house not far from the bank of the river. They got the Russian in the boat, which immediately capsized. The three found resting places in trees, where they remain at this time.

Another party is trying to rescue the trio. A gang of telegraph linemen succeeded in getting a heavy wire cable stretched across the top of the pontoon bridge. A large sand dipper was attached to this and used to take large quantities of provisions to those who were not yet rescued.

The first flood victim to be rescued by means of the cable was the Rev. A. N. Pearson of the North Topeka English church. Mr. Pearson said:

"We spent three days on the top of our house. We were fairly warmly dressed, but had only two loaves of bread for our family of four during that time. All day Saturday and Sunday we had nothing to eat. Our situation was desperate and extremely uncomfortable, but we at no time lost faith in the ultimate ability of our friends to rescue us. My wife and children were rescued; soon my turn came, and I cannot begin to tell how thankful I am."

Harvey Parsons, a local newspaper man, had a thrilling experience. He took a boat and made his way to a house in the hope of making rescues.

A woman and her baby, names unknown, were in the house, and Parsons took them into his boat. They had proceeded only a short distance when the boat capsized. Parsons contrived to get himself and the others up into a tree, and there they remained some hours. When rescued they were brought to a place of safety, but probably will not survive. Two small steamboats were put into service at 4:30, one from Ottawa and the other from St. Joseph. One of the boats brought eighteen people and landed near the dessicating plant. They floated down half a mile and became lost north of the Melan Bridge. This was before the flood had reached its height. Fourteen people entered a car, but soon had to seek the roof. Standing in this uncertain position for twenty-four hours, their condition was desperate until they were taken off with the aid of a big cable.

There is ground for hope that the worst has passed. With 175 or 200 lives lost, millions of dollars of property destroyed, with hundreds of pistol shots as signals of distress blended with the agonizing cries of unwilling inhabitants of tree tops and roofs of houses and the waters creeping upward and then slowly subsiding and alternately changing hope to despair, the capital city has passed the most memorable day of its existence. Through all this discomforting condition of affairs was added the presence of a cold, dismal rain.

The arduous work of the heroic rescuers was not abandoned in the least by the conditions which confronted them. For long, dreary hours knee deep in water and sometimes in water up to their necks they worked with might and main. They can point to 300 or more rescued persons who otherwise might have been swept away in the current.

Briefly stated, the present condition of the flood is this: One hundred and seventy to 200 people drowned; 8,000 people without homes; $4,000,000 loss of property; identified dead, five; floating bodies seen, 20; people missing, 200; houses burned as result of fire in lumber from slacking lime, probably 200; big business blocks almost ready to crumble, 50.

Rock Island trains containing 150 passengers are held here by high water.

FLOOD AT DES MOINES.

Six Thousand Refugees Are to Be Cared For.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 1.—Once more hope has been inspired in the breasts of the 6,000 flood refugees by the report that the river has begun to slowly decline. The condition of the sufferers has been slightly alleviated by the better organization of the relief forces. But isolated instances of extreme need of food have been discovered, and those who were living in rain soaked tents have nearly all been removed to places of comfort in public buildings.

Boats afford the only means of communication between North, South and East Des Moines and the main part of the city. This is extremely perilous. So far as is known but seven authenticated fatalities have been reported. The Great Western, Wabash and Burlington roads have completely abandoned their lines in this city.

For over two days it has rained constantly, and the mercury has stood close to the freezing point. Scores of men, women and children have spent hours at a time in soaking wet garments sitting on the roofs of their houses awaiting the arrival of rescuers. The property loss will mount up into the millions. The situation at Ottumwa and other points on the Des Moines river below here is little better.

The Flood at Ottumwa.

OTTUMWA, Ia., June 1.—Hundreds of homes in the west and south part of Ottumwa are flooded. The work of rescuing victims occupied all the day. Churches, public buildings and many private houses have been opened to the sufferers. Railroad traffic is cut off on all roads except the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. The police report that thieves in boats are plundering stocks of merchandise to an alarming extent, and several arrests have been made.

neavy damage to the islands and bottom lands. Thousands of acres of corn and other crops are submerged, and everything is lost, including all farm property as well as dwellings and more than half the live stock. The residents escaped to the Missouri shore. In Hannibal the water is far up on the levee, and residents of the squatter section have been compelled to vacate their homes for higher places. The Mississippi river is rising at all points north of Hannibal up to St. Paul.

The Flood at Muskogee.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., June 1.—The flood condition here is growing serious. The Arkansas river is out of its banks and lowlands are flooded. The river is now even with the tracks of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas bridge. Rain has been falling all day, and there is no immediate prospects of relief.

ROOSEVELT'S RIDE.

President Sees the Equality State on Horseback.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 1.—President Roosevelt left his train and made about sixty miles of his journey on horseback. The weather was all that could be desired, and the president enjoyed his ride immensely. He reached Laramie, and after a short address to the citizens of that place at the University of Wyoming he mounted his horse and, accompanied by a mounted escort, started for Cheyenne.

The party stopped for luncheon at Van Tassel's ranch, twenty-three miles from Laramie, which place was reached soon after noon, three changes of horses having been made during the ride. The president was joined here by all the members of his party, his train having been run to Islay, a mile and a half from the ranch.

After leaving Van Tassel's the president rode to Fort Russell, where he made a short stop. At this place he was joined by Governor Chatterton and his staff, who rode with him to Cheyenne. At Laramie a beautiful gold mounted saddle, the gift of Cheyenne friends, was presented to the president, and he rode this saddle over the entire course.

Citizens of Douglass furnished the handsome horse ridden from Fort Russell into Cheyenne and have offered it to President Roosevelt.

The presidential party arrived in Cheyenne on schedule time, the sixty mile horseback ride having been without a mishap. The police, fraternal and military organizations of the city and Fort Russell all turned out and gave the president one of the heartiest receptions of his tour.

Thousands came from Utah and Colorado to participate. In slouch hat, riding boots, spurs and gauntlets the president rode direct to the speakers' stand in the city square and found himself greeted by 20,000 enthusiastic and cheering people. Seated on the platform were Secretary Moody, Secretary Wilson, Private Secretary Loeb and nearly 100 prominent citizens. The president's speech was addressed more particularly to the civil war veterans.

Two Negroes and White Boy Killed.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—Two negroes and a white boy were killed and a third negro terribly beaten in a quarrel over a game of craps at High Bridge, West Liberty. The enraged mob of whites had a rope about the neck of the third negro and were dragging him to a tree to lynch him when he was rescued by officers. Both sides had revolvers, and during the battle a hundred or more shots were fired. The quarrel was the result of an attempt on the part of the white boys to break up the crap game and stop the gambling.

Want Opium Excluded.

MANILA, June 1.—Opposition is developing to the plan providing for the sale by the government of an exclusive opium concession. The Evangelical union is urging that opium be entirely excluded from the islands, claiming that its use is spreading and working great injury to the Filipinos. The union predicts that the granting of such a concession would result in the spreading of the evil in a much greater degree. The Chinese and other residents oppose the creation of such a monopoly.

Anti-Sunday Ball.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 1.—Agents of the Ministerial association yesterday caused the arrest of Edward Levi and Nelson Hathaway, who were selling tickets to the Schenectady-A. J. & G. ball game, on the charge of violating the Sunday law. The ticket office was then moved across the bridge leading to Island park, which is in the town of Rotterdam, and the sale went on.

McGovern-Attell Battle Off.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Doctors in attendance on Terry McGovern have decided that the pugilist will certainly break down if he continues training for his battle with Abe Attell at Fort Erie. For this reason the match has been declared off, and the $1,000 posted with the International Athletic club of Buffalo will be forfeited. McGovern is suffering from a severe attack of malaria.

Fatal Canoe Trip.

WATERVILLE, Me., June 1.—Arthur Bryant was accidentally drowned while canoeing on the Messalonskee river. Bryant and Miss Annie Steward were together when, as the girl says, without warning the canoe lurched, and Bryant went over the side, but did not overturn the canoe.

Hunting Carey's Slayer.

WINSTED, Conn., June 1.—The entire Winsted police force is engaged in a hunt for the slayer of Clarence Carey, a colored youth, aged twenty-four years, who was shot while walking on the Central New England railroad track near the South cemetery.

MEMORIAL DAY.

While it is well to see the American people enjoy themselves on a holiday, one cannot help but feel that the significance of Memorial Day should not be allowed to fall too far into the background. It will not be forgotten by the veterans, those who passed unscathed through the dangers of battle and the more peaceful days following. But one by one, they are answering the summons of the Great Captain and the little band grows fewer and fewer as the years roll by. Those that remain gather together and deck the graves of those who have gone before and hold appropriate services.

In customary fashion, the local Grand Army men observed the day in Plainfield Saturday. They were assisted by many who played no part in the great conflict but who honored the memory of those who did. While there were many Plainfielders who did not take any part in the observation of the day save to enjoy themselves in one fashion or another, it does not signify that they did not respect or honor the men who fought and bled for their country. The opposite is really the case. The attractions of the immediate present occupy the mind sometimes to the exclusion of other things which are not called prominently to the fore. We are a forgetful nation, perhaps, but not an ungrateful one and there is not an American who fails to honor the memory of those who fought for their country and either met death at that time or in the years that have followed.

The members of the Hillside Golf Club, of Plainfield, voted on the question of Sunday golf as if it were a local question of club discipline. The vote, 98 to 91, showed a pretty even division of opinion against Sunday golf. If it had been in favor of Sunday golf a nice question would have come up for the public prosecutor of Union county, who has been active in breaking up baseball games. If he discriminated against baseball, why not against golf? It must be said for the Scotch game, however, that it is not played before a noisy crowd and on city lots in the residence neighborhood. Golf is essentially a quiet game. The man or woman who talks on a golf links is always a nuisance. The opposite is true about baseball. Notwithstanding the difference in the sports, the general question of allowing one set of people to amuse themselves and another set not to is plainly covered by the law in New Jersey, which prohibits sports of all kinds on Sunday. The adverse decision of the Hillside Golf Club has avoided an interesting problem, however, for the Prosecutor of Union county.—New Brunswick Home News.

The editor of the Home News does not seem to realize the fact that the grounds and club house of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club are located in Middlesex county and that the trouble, if there was any, would fall to the share of Prosecutor Voorhees, of New Brunswick.

While the approach of the heated months naturally puts an end to activity in certain lines at the Young Men's Christian Association, it does not mean that the efforts of that association are suspended during the summer. While the educational classes and the class work in the gymnasium are given up until fall, there is much at the association building to interest young men. Special terms are offered for summer privileges in the gymnasium which include the use of the tennis courts, the plunge and shower baths. For young men who have come to the city for the summer, a membership in the association during this time will be of considerable value. Not only are the privileges offered well worth the cost but the opportunity of making the acquaintance of other young men is a particularly desirable one.

In the course of a month, the street committee is preparing to start the work of sprinkling the streets at municipal expense. While every street in the city cannot be reached by the city carts, the main thoroughfares will be looked after. Six wagons are to be started and they will be kept steadily at work. Where the city wagons do not go, the householders will have to continue to pay to have the work done by private contractors. Another season it is sincerely to be hoped that the Canadian system will be followed and the laws so changed as to permit the city to assess the property owners benefitted an amount proportionate to the frontage of their property.

Both local baseball leagues are now in full swing. So far, both leagues have done very well. The Associationg League plans to play its games early in the afternoon so as not to interfere with the other. Only time will tell how successful that double list of attractions is going to be. Plainfield has lots of lovers of the National game but it seems very doubtful if there will be enough to supply a good paying crowd for five different games every Saturday. Where the best ball is played, there will be the crowd and the future of all the teams depends on the character of games played.

Somerset's last murder trial resulted very differently from the others. This time the defendant was found not guilty. Credit for his acquittal is undoubtedly due to Former Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan. There are few cleverer men in criminal cases than Somerset's former official.

This question of individual communion cups is one which is being more and more considered throughout the country. Already several of the local churches have adopted the new system and now the subject is being investigated at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company ought to be glad to put in water meters so as to prevent a woeful waste of water. People will never be careful in that direction until the water company gives them an equitable arrangement for paying for their water supply.

The path of municipal ownership in Summit is not so smooth as appeared at first sight. The excellence of it in theory was admitted but some of the members of the Summit Council failed to agree on details.

Company K receives some assistance from the county in caring for its armory. What a pity, however, the Legislature did not provide for a suitable building for Plainfield's crack military organization.

Subscriptions for the open air band concerts are coming in steadily. It is an excellent thing and deserves the hearty support of all.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

Baseball was the chief attraction here on Decoration Day and large crowds attended both morning and afternoon games. The Danbury A. C., of New York, was the attraction on both occasions. In the morning the locals took the visitors into camp by a score of 14 to 7. "Dave" Smith and Ettinger were in the box and the New Yorkers were unable to do anything with them. The locals did some heavy batting and despite some clever fielding by the visitors were easy winners. "BiNy" Giles played a star game at shortstop for Dunellen and won much applause by his clever work. In the afternoon both teams lined up somewhat differently. Frank McQuade went in the box for the locals and for seven innings only one run was made from his delivery. "Ike" Ettinger then went in and out of charity gave the visitors two runs. The game put up by Dunellen, in the afternoon, was unquestionably the finest they have done this season. Both outfield and infield played like clock work and time and again spoiled the visitors chances for scoring. "Dave" Smith at third was an iron wall and played a fine game while the others were not behind him. The batting was timely too, and enough runs were gathered in to defeat the New Yorkers by a score of 11 to 3. The best work for the latter was done by the outfield. Burke in left field, pulling down some flies that looked like sure hits.

Funeral services over the remains of the late John S. Beekman, whose death occurred on Friday morning, were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church, of which the deceased was an earnest member. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. K. Doolittle, and were attended by a large number. The flowers consisted of a pillow from his brother, a wreath from the Sunday-school and a wreath from the Epworth League. The pall bearers were William Dealaman, Stephen Kennedy, Herbert Wyckoff and Ruliff Fisher. Interment was in the Methodist burying ground in Plainfield.

Much adverse criticism has been caused by the action of the Borough Council in tearing down the backstops of the tennis court in the park and making the court unfit to play on. The members of the club that they had been given no notice of any dissatisfaction and are at a loss to know why the action was taken. The court was to have been played on for the first time this season on Saturday and had been put in fine condition. The members of the tennis club say that the end of the matter has not come yet.

The Watchung A. C. played two games of ball on Saturday. In the morning they won from the New Market A. C. and in the afternoon defeated the team from Levering & Garrigues' factory. It took ten innings to decide the latter contest and the result was in doubt until the end. The final score was 10 to 8.

A very enjoyable dance was given in Apgar's Hall by the Watchung Baseball Club on Friday evening. The floor was thronged with dancers the evening. Music was furnished by Suhr, of Plainfield, and dancing was continued until a late hour. The club is considerably the richer as a result.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley set the broken collar which Lewis Tinsman sustained in an accident Friday, yesterday and Mr. Tinsman is now much improved.

NEW MARKET.

The Watchung A. C., of Dunellen, got even with the local team on Saturday morning for their defeat earlier in the season. Walter Nelson went in the box for New Market and was hit so hard that he had to be relieved by Whitley. Fisher pitched five innings for the Watchungs and his place was then taken by Mohan. The Watchungs outplayed the locals both in batting and fielding. The final score was 11 to 4. Each team now has one game to its credit.

The entertainment given in Friendship Hall, Thursday evening, for the benefit of the baseball team was a big success. A programme by local artists was well received and the evening spent very pleasantly. The baseball club will net considerable profit from the affair.

Rev. Frank Fletcher preached to a good sized congregation at the First Baptist church yesterday.

Quite a number from here attended the opening of Riverside Park, on Saturday evening.

The Township Committee will hold a regular meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Irene Day spent Saturday evening with Plainfield friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Memorial Day was appropriately observed in town. In the morning at 8 o'clock the delegation from the G. A. R., of Plainfield, was met at the Park avenue crossing of the trolley by the members of the several fire companies and a delegation of school children. The march was taken up Park avenue to the cemetery where the graves of the fallen who are buried in our midst were strewn with flowers. At the close of the exercises at the cemetery the delegation was escorted back to their car and the parade dismissed.

Williams, who is playing a great game at third base for the local, came near being done out in the game with the Xaviers on Memorial Day morning. Ball thrown to catch a man going to third struck the runner on the elbow, glancing off hit Williams in the mouth, knocking out a tooth and cutting his lip badly. Bosterle was put in to cover the bag while Williams played the balance of the game in right garden.

The women in charge of the fair to be held in the hall Wednesday and Thursday of this week, for the benefit of the Public Library, have worked untiringly for the success of their efforts to help swell the treasury of the association and are anticipating a record breaking in both sales and attendance during the two days. The pupils and teachers of the public school observed Decoration Day on Friday afternoon in the assembly room of the school. KANSAS CITY FLOOD

Many Perish by the Rising Waters.

INUNDATION STOPS ALL TRAINS.

Entire Districts Are Submerged—All Trolley Lines and Cable Cars Shut Down—Victims' Bodies Afloat in the Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 1.—The greatest flood in the history of Kansas City, Kan., and the bottoms of Kansas City, Mo., prevails here, and millions of dollars' loss will result.

A great body of water coming from the west swelled the Kansas river at Kansas City, Kan., causing a most alarming rise. Waters rushed with terrific force over the outlying railroad tracks and the crowded wholesale districts of the west bottoms and finally into the Union depot. At 10 o'clock a mile of wholesale houses, elevators and freight depots were entirely surrounded, basements were soon brimful, and water began to reach the first floors.

Within fifteen minutes the tracks entering the western end of the Union depot were entirely submerged, and at 11 o'clock the water had risen at such a rapid rate that the thousands of delayed passengers were making preparations to leave for the high grounds up Union avenue. Union avenue, on which the Blossom House and numerous smaller hotels, restaurants and stores are located, is a running stream.

The water rose so fast in the vicinity of the depot that many persons were forced to remove to second floors, and preparations were made hurriedly to remove the passengers uptown. Trains that have been waiting in the depot for hours for an opportunity to start west and south stand a foot deep in water.

No trains have left Kansas City for the west or south, and none will leave for several days. Trains from the east also are late, many apparently having met the flood now being caused by the rise in the Missouri river east of here. The losses in the wholesale district will aggregate well into the millions, and the losses to the various packing houses nearer the river will be tremendous. The street directly in front of the big Armour packing plant is under five feet of water. Armour & Co. have a force of 200 men working at the pumps trying to keep the rising water out of the buildings.

At the superintendent's office it was stated that the plant will continue to operate with a full force unless the water goes much higher. All the hundreds of smaller concerns near the ordinary banks of the Missouri river which depend upon the river for power are under water, and they will be forced to suspend till the river recedes, throwing thousands of men out of employment. The entire stock yards situated on the state line are submerged, many of the pens being five feet deep in water. The basement of the Live Stock Exchange, containing a hundred railroad and other offices, as well as the big barns of the mule and horse markets in that district, are several feet under water. There is no way of reaching the stock yards except by boat from a point one mile east. Sheep valued at $7,000 as well as many head of cattle and horses have been drowned, and the loss at this point will be very heavy.

All night the forces of the stock yard men were at work rescuing live stock. Hundreds of head were brought up into town.

All trolley lines in both cities have been shut down, the power at Riverview being under water, and only one or two cable lines on the Missouri side are running. All freight houses of the various roads entering Kansas City which are located in the west bottoms, on a level with the Union depot are flooded and the loss from this source alone must be great. Because of the delayed traffic west of Kansas City during the past week a great amount of freight has accumulated here, and now that the railway yards are under water it will be impossible to move this save by boat. As practically all the boats to be had are being used to rescue people, much freight will be damaged. All telephone communication with the flooded district is shut off, making it difficult to accurately estimate the damage.

At 12:30 the water in Union avenue was three feet deep, and people were being taken out of the Blossom House and adjacent buildings in wagons, which will soon be forced to quit. The water will at the present rate be in the Union depot main waiting room within an hour.

The packing houses on the Kansas river were entirely surrounded, and fifteen feet of water surrounded the Schwarzschild & Sulzburger and Swift packing plants. The Kansas City police spent all night rescuing persons, and at noon no deaths had been reported. The police have thirty-five boats in service. At Schwarzschild's plant twenty-five persons, employees and people in the vicinity who had been driven from their homes, are imprisoned. They are safe from harm, but will not be removed until those in greater danger in the low lying ground near Armourdale and Argentine have been taken to places of safety.

A steady rain has fallen here and west and still continues, and all streams in the stricken territory were rising at an alarming rate. The property loss in the wholesale district of the west bottoms will be tremendous. Both Kansas cities are co-operating in the matter of relief, and the great auditorium of Convention hall, on the Missouri side, capable of seating 20,000 persons, was turned into a relief camp and the unfortunates brought there from the Kansas side.

Eight distinct fires are burning in the flood district between three blocks west of the Union depot and Toad-a-Loup, the latter a settlement near Armourdale. It is impossible to reach any of the fires, as communication is cut off.

All the fires appear to be isolated except one at Eleventh and Bluff streets, which started in a lime warehouse and spread to a fruit warehouse. Close to the fruit house, which is still burning, is a shed containing thirty barrels of oil.

At Toad-a-Loup three blocks of small buildings appear to be burning, while at another point a string of box cars is on fire.

A force of police began ordering out of the main waiting room of the Union depot the hundreds of persons awaiting outgoing trains. At that time the water had reached the trains. Passengers on the outbound Santa Fe limited who had been waiting for hours to move were ordered out also. Many went to the second floor, which under any condition will be safe, but the crowds were so great that a majority of the people could not find room there and were forced to go uptown. A half foot of water covered the waiting room, and the ticket office, telegraph office, baggage and express offices were soon flooded.

Although the water was rising more slowly as it spread out, it made it impossible to move trains in any direction. The depot will, with the exception of the second story waiting rooms, restaurant and offices, have to be temporarily abandoned.

The only outlet now is over the Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Alton, Burlington and Wabash tracks in the eastern part of the city, but as little switching can be done outside the depot all trains finally will be stalled. All incoming trains from the east are laid out, and, the wires being down, it is impossible to state the railway condition east of here.

The damage, however, is slight as compared to the havoc wrought in the low bottom farming land opposite the city and on the big sand bars, where prosperous farms are located. Wolf island, opposite the city, is completely submerged and many acres of corn washed out.

The Missouri is higher at Booneville than it has been in years. It went over the banks on the Howard county side, and the lowlands are being submerged. The inhabitants on islands west and east of Booneville are being removed by steamboats to places of safety. The damage to crops in the lowlands along the Missouri river in Cooper county will go into the thousands of dollars.

Farmers living on Bay island and in the Mississippi river bottoms north of Hannibal are abandoning their homes and seeking higher places of safety on the Missouri side. The steamers Flying Eagle and Jacob Richtman were busily engaged in taking families and their household goods, stock, etc., from Bay island. Over one-half of the island is under water, and the crops, corn being the principal one, are a total loss. The tenants on the farms have lost everything and are now almost penniless. All the lowlands along the tracks of the Burlington railroad between Hannibal and West Quincy, a distance of nineteen miles, are submerged and are now one sea of water.

The militiamen and police of both cities are working together to protect property, and citizens universally are aiding in the relief of the sufferers.

Twelve bodies were counted as they floated past during the day. In nearly every instance they were lying across pieces of wreckage. On the roof of a cabin that came swirling down could be seen the body of a woman and her child.

Rios Sentenced to Death.

MANILA, June 1.—Ruperto Rios, the fanatical Filipino leader in the province of Tayaba who was captured about a month ago, has been convicted of murder and sentenced to death. Twenty-seven of his followers were also convicted and were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. A detachment of scouts has defeated and scattered the Canigut island insurgents, killing eighteen of them. This, it is believed, will end the opposition to the government in that locality.

Racine Blaze Costs $315,000.

RACINE, Wis., June 1.—Fire has swept the southern manufacturing district of the city, doing about $300,000 damage. The fire started in the boiler room of the Racine Boat Manufacturing company, and before the firemen arrived a tank of gasoline exploded. A tower of flame 300 feet high shot up into the air. The loss is estimated at $315,000.

Santa Barbara Train Wrecked.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 1.—A Southern Pacific passenger train, south bound, was ditched at Rincon, twenty miles south of this city, at a point several miles from the nearest telegraph office. Several persons are reported killed and the cars burning. A special train is being sent from Santa Barbara with physicians aboard.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS,

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

But how would the radical change in her life and the adulation incident to her wealth affect her? Now she was all womanliness. There was a sweet timidity about her, a half-startled air, a frankness without artifice and a sentient beauty that rendered any description of her colorless. Unspoiled by contact with a money-getting, place-hunting society, Miriam was the lovely token of something which Warde only dreamed.

But the test? How would she come out of the furnace fed by the associated passions of humanity? Would she remain steadfast to herself, or would she alter with alteration? There would be uncouth lips to tell her that she was beautiful. The radiance that wealth can scatter round about one would cling to her. The sensuous arts would environ her and assail the simplicity which was now her charm. Fashion would spread for her its subtlest wiles, and mammon would write sonnets to her deep gray eyes.

These thoughts flew through his mind while Miriam was gone, but when she returned she almost tempted him to lay aside his judgment with his doubts, she was so frankly happy in his presence. It cost him a great exertion of will not to put his fortune to the test then and there, but he conquered the inclination and went away with his secret unspoken.

CHAPTER XIV.

The trial of Herbert made a great stir. He was young, good-looking and intelligent, and possessed that telling requisite of the first-class murderer—he was a member of one of the best families in the state. For several weeks the case had been lost sight of, and now that it was actually set for trial for the first Monday in February, it became again the sensation of the day. The general impression was that if Herbert frankly admitted killing his unnatural parent, the jury's verdict would have been—to quote the irreverent language of Frank Hillsman: "Well done, good and faithful servant; go and kill him some more."

The popular sympathy was with him, though the popular judgment considered him guilty. Curiosity sent hundreds of people, among them a number of ladies, to the court house to witness the trial.

Those who were present made a mental picture of the scene with details like these: That the face of the judge was ominously severe and solemn; that the prosecuting attorney was easy and self-satisfied; that the voice of the clerk was rasping and unemotional in its staccato-like enunciation, reading an indictment for murder as if it were a railway announcement to dinner; that lawyer Everett looked ruddy and unconcerned; that Col. Franklin, who sat among the attorneys present, frowned heavily, and evidently disapproved very heartily of the accused; that the prisoner seemed to have no appreciation of the gravity of his situation, but was apparently more unconcerned than anyone else in the court room; that his wife was well-dressed, plump, rosy-cheeked, and evidently very well contented with her husband, herself, and the world at large, except that she was a trifle excited at being so conspicuous in the court room. This was the picture pretty fully outlined.

Herbert Wright was very much improved since the day when he entered the office of the chief of police and told his story of the finding of his father's body. He had been well taken care of by his friends at the jail, supplied with wholesome food and dressy clothes; and now, well-groomed, cleanly-shaven and scrupulously neat, he looked the gentleman he had always been.

A few hours were consumed in obtaining the jury, the prosecution doing the major part of the challenging, the defense apparently being willing to try the case before any 12 men in the court room. While there were no outward signs of it, the prosecution was not a little surprised at this manifest indifference of Lawyer Everett, who was usually a most painstaking critic of the impanelling of a jury.

The jury selected, the indictment was read and the trial was begun.

The case against Herbert Wright was presented with what appeared to be miraculous completeness. It was proved that on the day before the murder there had been a quarrel between young Wright and his father; that the former had asked for money, which had been refused, and that he had gone away in an angry frame of mind; that his wife was sick and without the necessaries of life, and that he was utterly desperate. It was then shown that Herbert was seen shortly after five o'clock near the place where his father had been murdered. Half an hour later he was in the city pawning a gold watch, a pair of sleeve buttons and a knife which had belonged to John T. Wright, and which he had about him when he was murdered.

When the prosecuting attorney got this far he announced that he could not obtain one of the most important of his witnesses, Detective Fenton, who was nowhere to be found.

"What do you expect to prove by Fenton?" asked Mr. Everett.

"We can show by him that a pistol with one barrel empty was found at the home of the defendant," said the prosecuting attorney, "and we can also show how he found the articles which were taken from the body of the murdered man."

"The defendant is perfectly willing to admit the truth of all that," said Mr. Everett, "without requiring the presence of Mr. Fenton."

The prosecuting attorney was astonished, but he was also delighted at this admission, which completed the chain in his case. In conclusion he showed that Wright had left no will, and that by his death Herbert would be greatly benefited. It was still further shown that the ball which had been taken from the body of the murdered man was the exact size of those used in the pistol found at the house of Herbert Wright.

It took about a day to bring out all this testimony, which the defense made no attempt to tangle up in cross-examination. An inexplicable lethargy appeared to have infected Herbert Wright's side of the case, and when the state's testimony was completed and the chain of evidence remained entirely unbroken, the lawyers present declared that the case was flawless, and that the value of circumstantial evidence was thoroughly vindicated.

Some of the lawyers who regarded the case unemotionally and purely from a legal standpoint declared that such a case, so impregnable as a whole, was an intellectual treat.

When the defense was about to be heard Lawyer Everett arose serenely, and stated to the court that the answer to the charge of murder was in this case of exceptional complexity. It involved the details of the most thrilling romance, and it required an unusually large mass of evidence. He hoped, therefore, that the court would indulge him considerable latitude in the introduction of his testimony, and he pledged himself to introduce no matter that was not relevant to the theory of the defense.

This statement set the audience to gossiping, and aroused a considerable amount of speculation. The prosecuting attorney, who was much flattered by the perfection of his case, arose before the judge could respond, and magnanimously said: "I wish to say for the state that I hope the utmost latitude will be indulged. If there are any straws at which this unfortunate young man can catch, I have no desire to take them from him."

"The court is inclined to be indulgent," said the judge, "since both sides request it."

"We ask no other indulgence, your Honor," said Mr. Everett, "than the permission to tell our whole story in our own way."

"Call your first witness," said the judge.

"I believe I will take Col. James Franklin first," said the lawyer, examining a memorandum. "I am not certain whether a subpoena has been served on him or not, but he is present, and I presume will accept service now."

Franklin looked darkly at Everett a moment, and then bowed gravely to the court, took the witness chair, stolidly faced the lawyer, and twirled his thumbs. Mr. Everett asked him a few playful questions about his profession, his age, etc., which put him in a subdued passion, and then began in earnest:

"Do you know the condition of Mr. Wright's estate at the time of his death?"

"I do."

"What valuation would you put on it?"

"About $5,000."

"When did Mr. Wright dispose of most of his estate?"

HOUSE FURNISHINGS.

They Have Attained a Daintiness Never Before Known.

What would the world be without variety?
Soon half would die from sameness or satiety.

That is what the poet says, and it is true of things to have in one's house as well as of the clothes we wear. We would soon weary of ourselves if we were obliged to appear always in exactly the same kind of garments, and fortunately for us and our reason we are permitted to have changes in the fashions of our home decorations and furnishings too. I can remember when white marseilles bedspreads and ruffled pillow shams were considered absolutely necessary to the peace and happiness of the woman of the house.

NEW STYLES IN JARDINIERES.

and now see what has entirely displaced them. A round roll has made the old pillow hide in some forgotten closet, while a lace spread lined with satin of some preferred color covers the bed. This lace cover is not very strong and is everlastingly being sewed up, but it is the style. When one has a country house rooms are furnished with hangings of cretonne or chintz, and the bedspread and pillow roll and the cushions, bureau covers and dressing table covers—in fact, everything which in times gone by was furnished with other fancies is now made to match with beruffled and lace edged chintz or whatever the material is. Each room is done in one tone, and to assist in carrying out this color scheme there are handsome fiber rugs of the different hues. Red and white, blue and white, green and, in fact, all the colors are represented. Table covers are shown to match the rugs.

In bedrooms, parlors, dining rooms and libraries there are from two to half a dozen jardinieres, some on small tables and some on their own stands. There is less effort made to cultivate flowers around country houses than heretofore, so plants are set in these to lend their grace and freshness to the rooms. I do not know but this is a good plan for some reasons, but—well, I love to fuss around flowers too well to be a dispassionate counselor.

There is a new thing in jardinieres and such things made of pottery. They are now oxidized with a silver finish and are particularly cool looking and pleasing when filled with green things. Ferns, which are set close and so planted that they hang over the outer edge a little, make beautiful ornaments for the table, the dark silver harmonizing admirably with the tender green of the ferns. The jardinieres are made in many sizes, so that they may be filled with any preferred plant. They may be left outside also without injury. Some of the jardinieres are so large that, with the pedestal, they can almost make a shade—with the proper plant, that is—and thus they are just what women have been wanting for porches. Some are bronzed, others are painted and still others are glazed. There is something for every one. But all are marked by soft and harmonious colors.

It is unprofitable to speak of the china for these luncheons, for each woman has her own, but I may say a word about the unusual amount of glassware that is added to all country services, to say nothing of the city requirements. Glassware has had two drawbacks—the cut glass is so very dear and, unfortunately, so fragile, and the pressed glass has been so clumsy and ugly. There is a new process of annealing and working the glass, so that now the pressed glass is as handsome as the finest cut glass and has a tougher quality, which makes it desirable from every point of view, and some of it is quite as elegant and artistic as cut glass, like tall vases for cut roses, great lemonade bowls and so many other things that I cannot mention them. But it seems to me a move in the right direction that fashionable women have taken to the general use of this glassware in view of the fact that it is so superior from the hygienic view point. Glass cups and other vessels do not crack like china to admit the dreaded microbes. Clear glass is beautiful to set out a luncheon, tea or dinner table, but colored side dishes for small matters are too pretty to leave aside.

There are fan, strawberry, chrysanthemum and thistle designs in annealed pressed glass, besides spoon trays, punch cups, coffee mugs (quite new these), nappies and drinking glasses of every kind, and as they cost little in comparison with the cut glass we can see why women have seized upon them for country use.

Scotch Plains' crack team added two more victories to their list Decoration Day by defeating the Xavier Deaf Mutes, of New York, in the morning and taking the strong Celluloids, of Newark, into camp in the afternoon. The morning game was a tiresome contest from a spectators point of view. The locals seemed to know that they had the visitors beaten from the start and played listlessly. The game was finally brought to a close, the score being 13 to 7 in favor of the locals. The afternoon game proved to be one of the prettiest contests a lover of the game could ask for. Davis occupied the box for the locals and pitched a great game, striking out seven of the visitors. The support given him was gilt-edged, only one error being made. The visitors presented Parker, one of Newark's cracker-jack pitchers, against the home team but they had but little trouble in finding him, only one man fanning the air, but the support given him, especially in the outfield, when two and three base hits were pulled down so regularly that it was enough to break the hearts of the lusty rooters, kept the score down so as to make it one of the closest and snappiest games of the season. When the dust of battle had cleared away victory was found perched upon the banner of the home team to the tune of 3 to 1. Following is the lineup of the teams:

TO MEET INCREASE.

Whole Pennsy Railroad System to be Duplicated—Shorter Line From Pittsburg to Baltimore.

It is stated on good authority that the whole Pennsylvania Railroad system is to be duplicated to meet the large increase in the company's business. President Cassatt's statement was made recently to a well-known business man of this city. The serious need of an enlarged system first became apparent to Mr. Cassatt when he visited Pittsburg last winter and witnessed the great freight blockade at that point. In addition to providing double accommodations for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company Mr. Cassett has also entered heartily into the plans of Mr. Loree, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, for the extension of that system and for the enlargement of its facilities.

Among the latest of these projects is said to include the passing of the old South Pennsylvania route over to the Baltimore and Ohio, by which it will be possible for the Baltimore and Ohio to have a shorter line from Pittsburg to Baltimore.

WATER PLANT.

Being Built in Warren County for Drill Company's Plant.

A large gang of men are now at work two miles north of Stewartsville, Warren county, laying pipes, building roads and blasting rock for the purpose of building a large dam with which to make a hugh reservoir for the waters from the old Merrill brook. The water is to be run through pipes to the big plant of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, now in course of construction east of Phillipsburg. It will be used for fire and drinking purposes at the plant, and it is possible that water may be supplied to the people of the neighborhood occupying private residences. The work is being done under the direction of an incorporated concern known as the Hopatcong Water Company.

Prosperous Council.

The members of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., after the meeting Friday evening, went by trolley to Nelson's Hotel at Watchung, where a supper and a social time was enjoyed. The affair was in commemoration of the Council reaching the one hundredth mark in membership. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps accompanied the Council.

Ladies and Children Invited.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Layayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. MILEAGE TICKETS.

General Passenger Agent Burt, of Jersey Central, Explains Regarding Them.

In referring to the new interchangeable mileage ticket, which certain of the eastern railroad companies propose adopting June 1, C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, New Jersey Central, stated that the Central Railroad of New Jersey had not become a party to the new arrangement for the reason that it is felt their present form of 1000-mile ticket is less complicated than the proposed new interchangeable form; as no excess is charged at time of purchase, no identifications necessary at time of presentation for passage, and there are no subsequent rebates.

Mr. Burt explained that the 1000-mile ticket issued by the Central Railroad of New Jersey is issued at a flat rate of $30, the tickets being good for use of bearer and limited to one year from date. In addition to their being accepted over all rail lines of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, they will, from and after June 1, be accepted on the main line and branches of the Philadelphia and Reading R'y., Atlantic City R. R., Philadelphia, Newtown and New York, R. R., Perkiomen R. R., Stony Creek R. R., Gettysburg and Harrisburg R. R.; main line and branches of the New York Central and Hudson River R. R., Adirondack Division (including St. L. and A. R.), R. W. and O. Division, Pennsylvania Division; West Shore R. R.; New York, Ontario and Western R'y (between Scranton and Hancock); and Delaware and Hudson R. R. (between Wilkesbarre and Scranton).

DEPARTMENT STORE TO OPEN ITS DOORS

Woodhull & Martin's Attractive Building Now Ready for Occupancy.

IS A MODEL STRUCTURE

TWENTY THOUSAND FEET OF SPACE ON FIRST FLOOR.

Handsome Appointments Throughout—Formal Opening Tomorrow—Description of Store—The Removal From Babcock Building.

An auspicious event in the history of Plainfield will be celebrated tomorrow, when the firm of Woodhull & Martin opens its handsome new building on East Front street. Since starting to this city a few years, this firm has gradually won the confidence of the people, and today it enjoys a large share of patronage. Soon after the unfortunate fire, which visited the Babcock building and wrought so much damage, it was decided to erect a new building. One that would be best suited to the particular needs of such a business. This building is now complete and after much hard work the firm will open its doors to the public tomorrow with an entire new stock of goods.

Woodhull & Martin's New Building.

In many respects the general arrangement of goods will be found the same as at the old store, the exception being more room for classification. One strong feature of the new store is that with the exception of the carpet department, everything will be found on the main floor, easy of access. One is much impressed with the general character of the store. It is large, light, well ventilated and there are no crowded conditions.

As one enters the store he finds two large swinging doors, inside the vestibule. There is a handsome Mosaic tile floor just outside with the firm's monogram therein. The vestibule will be properly heated in winter. After stepping inside the store, one will be impressed with the main aisle, extending from the front doors backward 200 feet and ending at a staircase which leads to the basement. Just over the staircase is a large cathedral window.

All of the aisles, as well as the main one, correspond. They are quite broad. The aisles running across the store are one hundred feet long. There are six counters with glass fronts in the fore part of the store. Half-way back and on either side is to be found a staircase of quarter oak leading to the carpet room. At the first landing on either staircase there is a cathedral glass window.

To the left of the main aisle is the firm's office and to the right a woman's resting parlor, finished in quartered oak. One hundred feet from the main entrance in about the centre of the store is the department devoted to dress goods, linings and notions. The section assigned to dry goods is 105x100 feet. The rear half of the store is devoted to housefurnishings and furniture, including space for French china and dinnerware and smaller wares. These will be banked up by the heavy substantial furniture. An innovation is a series of booths which will be used for the demonstration of oil stoves, bathroom furnishings, and the like.

Directly in the centre of the store is the cash desk, fitted with the Acme cash-carrier. This connects with thirty-five stations in various parts of the store.

The trunk department is just back of the dress goods' section and plenty of space is allowed for a fine showing. To the right of the rear staircase are to be found the receiving and shipping elevators.

The store is well lighted with three large skylights, each 500 square feet, while additional light is secured in front of the store through prism glass over the main show windows. Around each skylight is placed radiators, which in cold weather will prevent disagreeable draughts from descending to annoy shoppers. The chandeliers are of the Roman style and are in groups to eight lights each.

The several show windows are models. The ceilings are tufted and the electric lights are hidden from view. These windows are reached by movable panneis. The entrance to the lockers for the clerks and the lavatories is by a staircase to the right of the main entrance. Toilet rooms are provided for men and women.

Throughout the store are large heavy columns, thirteen inches in diameter. They are fire-proof and capped at the top with ornamental trimmings. The store is well provided for proper heating. Two large steam boilers are located in the basement, being well calculated to give all the heat necessary.

The carpet room on the second floor is a model one. It is 40x105 and extends across the building. There are fifteen windows, giving perfect light and ventilation.

Upon entering the store from either door one is attracted by a magnificent oriental vase mounted on a teek wood hand-carved tabourette. On the landing of either staircase there is displayed a large palm. A decided feature of the store is the fact that it is finished entirely in white, presenting a clean and attractive appearance. The 20,000 square feet of space on the main floor is well utilized to the best advantage and the goods are displayed so that they can be easily seen and examined. A new department will be that devoted to upholstery. This is located near the dress goods' department.

In the front of the building on the second floor are several fine offices in suites of two and three, while on the top floor are rooms suitable for lodge purposes. The building outside presents a strong and substantial appearance and reflects credit upon A. L. C. Marsh, the architect under whose supervision the structure was erected. The electric wiring is along the most approved lines, as well as the steam heating plant. As far as practical the building is fire-proof.

GREAT CIRCUS.

All the Acts in Welsh Brothers Show Are Equal to Any High-Class Performances.

A Hornellsville, N. Y. exchange in speaking of the great Welsh Brothers' shows has this to say regarding the performance:

"Of the show itself nothing can be said but in words of praise. Not a thing was done or a word spoken to shock the sensibilities of the most fastidious. Everything neat and clean, the performers the best in their respective lines, the orchestra and band excellent and every attachee polite and courteous.

"All the acts were equal to the high-priced shows with this advantage, that all can see and enjoy them without having their attention divided between many acts and thus losing the best of all of them."

Two performances will be presented at Plainfield, Wednesday, June 3.

Wm. Carter Injured.

While riding his bicycle down Somerset street, yesterday, William Carter, of Grove street, was knocked from his wheel by a horse attached to a runabout. He received injuries which will confine him to his bed. The name of the owner of the rig is not known.

TO GUARD AGAINST CONTAGIOUS DISEASE

Board of Education Considers Health Conditions in the Public Schools.

FINANCE SATISFACTORY

COMPETITION FOR ARCHITECTS OF NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Annual Budget Determined for Ensuing Year—Janitors Re-Employed—Increased Number of Graduates—Other Details.

Important recommendations from the school medical inspectors in regard to the care of contagious diseases in the schools were submitted to the Board of Education at its regular monthly meeting, last evening, and although left open for action at a later meeting they were discussed at length.

It was advised by Doctors Tomlinson and VanHorn that special provision be made in each of the schools for rooms in which the books and other articles used by infected pupils might be disinfected. Such room properly equipped would cost not greatly in excess of $15, according to estimates submitted. In this way, infected books which, up to the present time, have been burned could be saved for further use. It was further urged that all books should be disinfected at least twice a year, and that desks, door knobs, pencils, and penholders in use by pupils should be cleansed once a week. Mention was also included, in the report of the inspectors, of the inadequate drinking facilities afforded the eighty pupils in the Wadsworth building, where, it was asserted, a new drinking fountain and new cups should be provided.

With the exception of a few cases of diphtheria, the schools have been almost wholly free from contagious diseases during the year now nearing completion. The inspectors have examined 190 pupils during the past month.

The report of the custodian of the school monies showed a balance on hand of $10,047.52. According to the report of the county superintendent, the apportionment of State money for the support of Plainfield's schools was this year $24,165.40. The increase over that of the preceding year, said Superintendent Maxson, in explanation, was due to last year's small school attendance caused by the smallpox scare.

It was decided that fifteen architects should be invited to compete for the privilege of designing the new high school, the plans of the first prize winner to be accepted, and prizes of $400 and $300 to be awarded for the designs that should be considered second and third in merit.

Superintendent Maxson announced that the sum necessary to be appropriated by the city for the use of schools during the coming year is $64,000. The following committee were named by the Superintendent to select winners in the High School prize essay competition: George H. Goddard, Rev. E. Vicare Stevenson and Mrs. Robert Lowry.

There will be thirty-four graduates from the High School this June, and seventy-nine from the grammar schools, in each case a larger number than ever before. Reference was made to the brilliant record of LeRoy Hallock in Lehigh University, as reflecting credit upon Plainfield's schools. The Superintendent advised disposing of three old type-writers in use by students and the renting of five new ones of different manufacture to make a total of twelve. The present supply, he said is out of date and insufficient.

The building committee reported that measures had been taken at a cost of $350 to avoid the danger occasioned by the insecure position of the cornices on the Bryant School. Other recommendations of the building committee which were accepted were that the Epworth House should be rented for the next school year, beginning September 1, and that the janitors now in office should be employed again in the several school buildings, beginning July 1. Clerk Frank Clark was appointed a committee of one to have charge of programmes, ushers and police at commencement.

AN IMPROVEMENT TO BE MADE IN NORTH PLAINFIELD SOON.

Surface Water on Willow and Myrtle Avenues and Other Thoroughfares to be Carried Off.

Plans have been completed for a storm sewer to be laid on Willow and Myrtle avenues, in the borough, which will carry off all surface water in that locality. As soon as the pipe, which has been ordered, arrives the work will be commenced. This will probably be in a week or ten days.

The storm sewer as planned will run from Mercer avenue and Sycamore avenue, connecting with a catch basin at the corner of Myrtle and Willow avenues and from thence to the brook. Pipe has been ordered for the Grove street storm sewer and for the sewer which is to run along Jackson avenue connecting with the Somerset street catch basin.

RELIEF FROM DUST IS NOW ASSURED

Common Council Passes Appropropriation for Street Sprinkling Purposes.

SCHOOL APPROPRIATION

NO EXTRA PAY FOR ELECTION OFFICERS UNTIL DECISION.

Hospital Wants Randolph Road From Park to Woodland Avenues Graded—Report of Building Inspector—Other Business.

An unusual amount of business of more or less importance was considered at the June meeting of the Common Council, last evening, after a public hearing for and against the granting of a franchise to the Central New Jersey Telephone Company, was concluded. All of the members, except Mr. Tolles, were present.

The first business was the presentation of the report of the Board of School Estimate fixing $64,000, exclusive of the sum apportioned by the county superintendent of schools, as the sum necessary for the maintenance of the public schools for the coming year. Accordingly an ordinance was introduced by Mr. Daniel fixing that sum to be assessed and collected as other taxes for the purposes named. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

A communication was received from the trustees of the First M. E. Church asking that an appropriation of more than $20 be made for the proper keeping of the burial plot in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery used for the interment of the city poor. The keeper of the cemetery offered to clean the plot of weeds, etc., and put it in good condition for the sum of $50 and then keep it in condition for $10 a year thereafter. The communication was referred to the alms committee.

The New Jersey Telephone Company made application for the right to open South avenue from Richmond street to Belvidere avenue, for the purpose of continuing its system of underground work. The application was referred to the street committee.

The resignaion of Alex. Muir, as a call-man in the city fire department, was accepted, and the appointment by Mayor Jenkins of Sylvanus Hoffman to fill the vacancy, was referred to the fire and building committee.

D. C. Ivins & Company made application to the Council for permission to build an addition to the firm's office on Watchung avenue, and on motion of Mr. Lee, of the fire and building committee, permission was granted.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital petitioned to have Randolph road, from Park to Woodland avenues, graded and the petition was referred to the street committee. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during May twenty permits for new buildings were granted, and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that during the same time twenty-four permits for sewer connections were granted.

Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh reported on the claim of Armstrong Mulford and other members of the City Board of Registry and Elections regarding their claim for extra money account of work performed in connection with their official duties. He suggested that a decision from the highest court be secured before any further action be taken. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Marsh also reported on the matter referred to him at the last meeting as to what rights the Council has to adopt municipal street sprinkling similar to the system in use in Ottowa, Canada. Mr. Marsh stated that while the State laws do not give the Council any specific rights, the members are given wide scope of action and he believed that if in the judgment of the Council the sprinkling of streets is considered wise for the best health of the city, this can be done and provision be made for it in an appropriation from the general fund. Later in the evening in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Pray, a sum not to exceed $2,500 was appropriated for the purpose of street sprinkling. This resolution was adopted. The sum mentioned will undoubtedly cover the cost of the work this season, as another sum was appropriated at the last meeting for the purchase of six sprinkling carts. It is the purpose of the city to cover just as many streets as possible with the six carts.

Mr. Daniel reported on a petition received from Herbert L. Moody, asking that certain taxes be remitted on his property on Belvidere avenue, and moved that the request be granted as the assessment was a double one and in error. The motion was adopted. A resolution offered by Mr. Daniel and providing for an increase in the salary of Jacob Dunham, janitor of the Council rooms and city offices, from $16 to $25 per month, was adopted, the increase to commence June 1.

Regarding the petition received from the Board of Trade asking that a committee of three be appointed from the Council to confer with a similar committee from the Board to ascertain the best means to secure consolidation of the city and borough, Mr. Daniel moved that the petition be laid on the table so that it can be taken up at a future meeting.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution providing for the acceptance of the $8 poll tax owing the city by J. S. Cosgrove and the placing of the sum in the general fund. At the last meeting Mr. Cosgrove communicated with the Council, stating that the assessor had failed to assess him for poll tax and that he desired to pay the sum to the city.

The petition of the Board of Health for $1,286.18 to provide for certain necessary expenses, was granted on motion of Mr. Daniel, and resolutions by the same members provided for the transfer of $1,500 from the general fund to the fire fund and the borrowing of $4,000 on account of sewer improvements. These resolutions were adopted. Monday evening, June 15, was the time fixed for receiving bids for the purchase of the new school bonds, which has already been advertised.

Mr. Lee informed the Council that the contract for furnishing the fire department with coal for the coming season had been awarded to D. C. Ivins & Company, at $5.65 per ton. This price is ten cents less than that paid by the Board of Education. Incidentally, Mr. Lee remarked that he was anxious that all eye-witnesses of the accident at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, when one of the fire department horses was injured, be furnished to him as soon as possible so that the investigation now in progress may be completed.

Mr. Randolph offered a resolution which provided for the leasing of the Camera Club rooms, as additional room for the use of the police department, at an annual rental of $200. This is the second floor over police headquarters. The extra room is needed very much and the police committee has had the matter under consideration for some time past. The resolution was adopted.

The first step toward taking advantage of the new law providing for the election of a tax collector by the Council instead of by the people, was taken in the introduction of an ordinance offered by Mr. Murphy. This ordinance provides that by a three-fourths vote a collector shall be elected on January 1 next for a term of three years and thereafter triennially. The ordinance further provides that the former way of electing the collector be abolished in accordance with the State law, which was introduced by Assemblyman Newcorn and adopted. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised. All the members, except Mr. Daniel voted for its adoption. The latter voted in the negative on a principal of technicality.

Mr. Pray introduced a new ordinance providing for the macadamizing of certain streets in the city, the ordinance being intended to take the place of one offered at the last meeting and adopted on second reading. The original ordinance was killed and the new one was advanced to first and second readings and ordered advertised. The only changes in the ordinance are that Sycamore street is omitted and Prospect avenue is included from Park to Woodland avenue instead of Hillside avenue. The ordinance provides for the issuance of sixteen registered municipal bonds of $1,000 denomination each, bearing 5 per cent. interest, the same to run three years from date. It further provides for the appointment of commissioners and a public hearing on the matter was set for Monday evening, July 6. After the auditing of bills, Council adjourned.

Before the meeting adjourned the ordinance for accepting West Fifth street, from Grant avenue to Monroe avenue, and the ordinance for amending the building ordinance were passed on third reading.

'PHONE FRANCHISE FORMS DISCUSSION

Arguments Made Relative to New Company's Application for a Franchise.

AS IN OTHER CITIES

NO ACTION TAKEN BY CITY FATHERS AT THE MEETING.

E. T. Barrows, A. E. Hoagland and Others Oppose New Company, While W. M. Miner and Others Are Among Its Champions.

Arguments for and against the granting of a franchise to the Central New Jersey Telephone Company were heard last evening by the Common Council but no definite action was taken. The lobby was filled with citizens and for over an hour opinions were publically expressed in the Council chamber.

Two petitions were received, signed by some physicians and the druggists, protesting against the granting of a franchise on the grounds that two telephone companies would be a source of double expense, not warranted unless it would be direct benefit and that it would be unwise to tear up the streets again.

The first speaker was Former Councilman Elliott T. Barrows, who at the outset stated that he was not interested in either telephone company. He argued that Plainfield does not need another telephone company. In the use of water, gas or electricity, Mr. Barrows said that a person has his choice. One side of a street can use gas, while the other uses electricity. Persons can have city water or not as they choose, but with a second telephone company all would have to come in to make it a success. If the people did not come in it would probably bring more expense on those who do use a telephone. Mr. Barrows considered the $30 rate a low one and he said that the present telephone system in Plainfield is conducted in a business-like manner. The wires are underground with no unsightly poles. He said the service is good.

Mr. Randolph, a superintendent for the Central New Jersey Telephone Company, followed with a few remarks. He referred to the objections offered by Mr. Barrows as stock arguments. He said that telephone competition is not well known in New Jersey and the East as it is in the West. He argued that if telephone competition is not good for a place, why do companies thrive where this competition exists. Mr. Randolph said that in the West there is a telephone for every twenty of the population and on the average of one to eight there are two telephones used. He stated that with competition two telephones are usually secured for the price of one. It means a wider extension of telephone service. The speaker declared that in the southern part of the State many towns and cities have rival companies and the result is beneficial.

F. E. Kinsman, an electrician, said that there are two and half million dollars invested in independent telephone companies at present. The large investment by the old company, he believed, had impeded competition in New Jersey. In estimating the cost of construction, Mr. Kinsman said that poles cost about $4.50 each, copper wire 16 cents per pound, insulators $7 a hundred, while the cost of cross arms and other material was low. For underground work the estimated the cost of wiring at 24 cents per foot in two duct conduits, 19 cents in three, 17 cents in four, 15½ cents in six and 14 cents in eight. This is along roads not macadamized. Mr. Kinsman said that in Binghamton, N. Y., and Carlisle, Pa., there is a $12 a year rate, while Plainfield pay $30 as its lowest rate.

The speaker felt sure that some physicians in Plainfield must be practicing for money and not humanity if they are not willing to answer calls from another telephone. He then cited an instance where a poor woman, unable to afford a telephone, was put to great inconvenience in calling a physician for her sick husband, who eventually died. "I am speaking for humanity," said Mr. Kinsman. "At least three thousand people should have telephones in this city. I have been in business since the spring of 1877 and understand the telephone business. I have watched it grow from nothing to its present enormous proportions. I approve granting another

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and, continuing their use all the pain left me."

Favorite Palmbearer Wins.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Hudson stakes for two-year-olds, the feature of the card at Gravesend, was won by the favorite, Palmbearer. Highball and Steelmaker were added starters and were also heavily played. Palmbearer broke in front and, holding his advantage to the finish, won easily by one length from Highball, who in turn was one and a half lengths in front of Luxembourg. Dekaber, backed from 15 to 1 to 3 to 1 in the last race, finished second to the favorite, St. Barnaby. Five favorites and one second choice divided the money.

Mrs. Grannan Wins at Latonia.

CINCINNATI, O., June 2.—The Cincinnati steeple chase handicap over the full course at Latonia was won easily by Mrs. Grannan. Phosphorus fell with Jockey Schill, but neither boy nor horse was hurt.

Kindred Won at Fair Grounds.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—Kindred, backed from 15 to 10 to 1, won the fourth race, the feature at the fair grounds, getting off first and remaining there to the wire.

Drought Means Ruin to Crops.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 2.—Records of the Albany weather bureau show that the month of May here was the driest in seventy-five years. The amount of rainfall recorded for the past month was .15 of an inch, a trifle more than the ordinary average of precipitation for one day. The usual average for May during twenty-nine years is 3.17 inches and during seventy-seven years 3.63 inches. On only three days last month did rain fall here in amounts recognizable by the instruments of the weather bureau. The local bureau reports that since January there is a deficiency in precipitation as compared with the average of 5.51 inches. The drought is ruining crop prospects of all kinds hereabout, and truck gardens which cannot be watered by artificial means are practically destroyed. Meadows are bleaching in the dryness and the heat, and the hay crop will be greatly damaged.

Lowell Strike Will Fail.

LOWELL, Mass., June 2.—After nine weeks' idleness the Massachusetts, Boott, Merrimac, Tremont and Suffolk, Appleton and Hamilton corporations resumed the manufacturing of cotton goods with fully 50 per cent of their usual working force. Latest figures made public by the mill agents tend to show that the efforts of the textile council to enforce the demand for a 10 per cent increase in wages will fail. The council, however, claims that the strike has just begun, that the past nine weeks' suspension has been a lockout on the part of the agents and that the test was simply that which was anticipated Monday, April 1, when the strike order was to have been effective had it not been forestalled by the agents on the preceding Saturday.

German Financiers in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Baron von Rheinbaben, Prussian minister of finance, accompanied by Privy Councilor Moritz von Boeker of Remscheid, Germany; F. von Kersen, United States deputy consul general in Berlin; Secretary von Scheller-Steinwartz of the imperial German legation in Washington, and J. K. Hand of New York, a representative of J. Pierpont Morgan, has arrived in Chicago from a tour through the west and will remain here for several days.

Extraordinary Session at Bogota.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Senor Herran, Colombian charge d'affaires, has received a cablegram from the Colombian minister for foreign affairs officially announcing that an extraordinary session of congress had been called for June 20. Private advices received at the legation, it is said, continue to show a strong opposition to the ratification of the treaty, but recent indications, it is added, have given more hope.

Irish Literary Society.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 2.—The Irish Literary society of New York, with principal office in New York city, has been incorporated. It proposes to promote the study and knowledge of the Irish language and of Irish literature, history, music, drama and art and to establish for this purpose a center of literary intercourse, with library and assembly room.

KANSAS CITY FLOOD

Has Now Become a Fight For Life.

TWENTY THOUSAND ARE HOMELESS

City Is In Darkness and Without Water Supply to Fight Fires Should They Break Out. Many Heroic Rescues.

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—With gas and electric lights extinguished, the waterworks shut down and the city practically at the mercy of the first fire that shall break out, with railroad transportation feeble and uncertain, Kansas City may, if the waters do not recede within the next two or three days, be compelled to fight for her very life. The skies are dark and lowering, the rain is falling heavily, more stormy weather is sweeping up from the west, and the insatiable river is stoutly holding its own. It is practically stationary now, but what the flood has it keeps, and there is no certain promise of when it will recede. Chief Connor of the weather bureau says that while the outlook is for continued rains it would necessitate a very heavy fall if the present high water is to continue.

In this district 20,000 people are homeless. Many have been drowned, but the number cannot be estimated. The property loss has been heavy.

There is no great probability that there will be further loss of life if the river does not rise very suddenly. All through the wholesale districts and in the east and west bottoms there are people still in houses, many of them anxious to be taken away and a goodly number of them content to remain where they are with all the chances of the flood.

The police have done wonders in rescuing people and have probably brought 250 of them safe to the high ground since sunrise. One hundred and fifty of these were brought to the viaduct at Twelfth street, and the others were saved in the east and the west bottoms by boats. Twenty people were taken from the Martin school and thirty from O'Brien's lodging house in the east bottoms. The rest of them were brought in singly. In the east and the west bottoms a number of obstinate people are still clinging to their homes. Although the police have run boats beneath their windows and offered to save them, they refuse to leave and will take their chances for another night at least.

It is utterly impossible to form any estimate of the number of dead here. There have been manifold stories of how boats laden with people have been seen to sink, and there have been reports without end of bodies seen floating by on wreckage, of men who have tried to drive wagons laden with their household effects against certain death in the swift current and gone down in the flood.

An emergency board of health has been appointed by the mayor to cooperate with the city physician in quelling the disease which will result from the flood.

In the hotels, all of which are crowded to capacity, care is taken to prevent the wasting of water. In front of every wash room a guard is stationed, and no one is admitted even to wash his hands unless he identifies himself at the desk. The gas company made a fight all of the day to keep gas in the mains, but was forced to shut down. The flood forced the closing down of the plant that the company has been using, and it was necessary to start the fires in the old Missouri Gas company plant that has been unfit for service for years. The best the company can promise is gas for two hours night and morning to cook with.

In the Missouri river's surplus waters, known locally as the "east bottoms," many difficult rescues were made. Lieutenant of Police Harry A. Adams, assisted at first by five policemen and later by double that number, working with boats throughout the day made rescues under great difficulties. Probably seventy-five people were removed to places of safety during the day in this section of the city. Nightfall found the rescuers still at work. A quarter of a mile in the direction of the river the land was protected by the embankment of the Missouri Pacific railroad, and nearly 2,000 sightseers were strung along the tracks. Lieutenant Adams scented danger in the embankment, and with what few policemen he had and a few volunteers he ordered the crowd from the tracks. Arguments and commands having proved futile, he and his men literally pushed the crowd from the tracks to the higher ground south of the brewery. It was not more than half an hour after the lieutenant had driven the crowd off that the embankment crumbled away and the east bottoms for miles were under water, people crying for help and shooting pistols from the roofs and upper windows of their dwellings.

The brewery, the police station itself, stores, saloons and scores of cottages were flooded, and there was not a boat within miles. Lieutenant Adams promptly transferred headquarters to a 4-by 8 shed and began working wires in every direction to get boats. A few people nearer the high ground than others were rescued on rafts during the night, but the active rescue work began when wagons with fifteen boats arrived. Men, women and children were rescued from tree branches, telegraph poles, box cars and rocks. Twenty people who spent the night in the Martin school were taken out, and about thirty more were rescued from O'Brien's lodging house. What appealed to some of the people as an almost ludicrous state of affairs was that in many instances the rescuers had fairly to drag people into the boats. Like horses huddled in a blazing stable, they seemed to fear to leave their homes, and some were afraid to trust themselves to the boats. Once on shore the refugees were cared for in elevators, private homes and some in tents. Food and hot coffee were served to them by the relief committee. Approximately 150 refugees from Armourdale were rescued at the Twelfth street viaduct.

TOPEKA TRAINS ARE STALLED.

Flooded District Will Not Be Habitable For Months.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 2.—The latest reports from flooded districts say:

"Miles of the Rock Island track are washed out and much of the remaining track is up on end. It will be a week before we can get trains into Topeka. Three train loads of material for rebuilding the tracks have been sent from Chicago, and we expect to be among the first people to get passenger service started after the flood goes down."

Dr. H. A. Keith, accompanied by A. M. Baird, former foreman of the Santa Fe boiler shops, went over to the north side to attend some sick people. Their boat was swamped, and word comes that they are now in a tree. Efforts will be made to rescue them with one of the steam launches received from St. Joseph.

The Santa Fe is laying a floor on its bridge across the Kansas river in the hope of being able to rescue some sufferers that way. General Manager H. U. Mudge has been out there all day personally superintending the work.

The Santa Fe is doing a great work in behalf of the sufferers. The facilities of their enormous shops here are at the disposal of those wishing to make a steam launch or machinery for rescue. The officers have caused a pumping apparatus to be constructed, and they are now sending a supply of water through the mains in the east portion of the city. By boiling the water it can be made fit to drink.

It is likely that within a short time the water will be low enough to permit people to wade from one end of Kansas avenue to the other.

The people of Topeka have responded loyally to the calls for supplies and shelter for the needy and the homeless.

Physicians say that the sanitary condition of North Topeka when the water shall go down will be such that the place will not be fit for habitation for some months. They say the best plan would be to get tents from the state and establish a tent city on some plot of high ground.

Provisions of all sorts are becoming scarce in Topeka. No freight trains have entered the city for several days, and as large quantities of groceries were destroyed in North Topeka there will not be enough for the people to eat if the present situation lasts much longer. It is charged that certain of the merchants have formed a combination for the purpose of controlling the prices on provisions.

To Preserve the Adirondacks.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 2.—Attorney General Cunneen will give a hearing upon an application for the beginning of proceedings to annul the deed of 30,000 acres of Adirondack forest land two years ago by the state to Cornell university for the study of scientific forestry. The application is made by Eric P. Swenson and others, New Yorkers, who allege that the forestry operations have already demanded a large area of the forest growth and that the university, through a contract made with the Brooklyn Cooperage company, permits the lumbering of the land for purely commercial purposes with the attendant destruction of the forest.

Consultation In Machen Case.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Post Office Inspector Mayer was in conference with Assistant United States District Attorney Taggart in connection with the presentation of the Machen case to the grand jury. While postal officials deny that any immediate arrests are in contemplation, they do not deny that such steps might occur at any minute. They denied any knowledge of reported impending arrests in New York in connection with the investigation of affairs at the New York post office, but said that some arrests might be contemplated by the authorities there without the knowledge of the department.

Sell Sentenced For Killing.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 2.—Charles W. Sell in the superior court retracted his plea of not guilty on charges of assault with intent to kill Mabel French and Joseph Clough and was sentenced to serve not more than five and not less than three years in state prison. In a fit of jealousy Sell shot Miss French and Clough, who was her escort, on their way home from a dance. Sell fled, but gave himself up later.

Four Fishermen Drowned.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 2.—The American fishing schooner Helen F. Whittin arrived here and reports having lost four men in last week's gale. The schooner Elector of Gloucester, Mass., was crushed by the ice in Bell Isle strait. Her crew of eighteen men escaped over the floes to land and then had to walk eighty miles to reach a settlement, where they arrived in a famished condition.

Manager Arrested.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 2.—I. E. McGetrick of Trenton, who during the past two months has been manager of the Western Union Telegraph office here, has been arrested charged with being several hundred dollars short in his accounts.

A TERRIFIC CYCLONE

Strikes Gainesville, Ga., Killing One Hundred Persons.

COTTON MILLS WERE WIPED OUT.

And Every Person Working In the Second and Third Stories Perished—Fire Started In the Wreck. The Depot Was Blown Down.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 2.—The city was struck by a terriac cyclone, killing probably 100 persons, maiming and injurifg scores, unroofing the city hotels, other large buildings and destroying the Gainesville cotton mills. The greatest loss of life is reported in the destruction of the cotton mills, where about eighty persons are reported killed and scores injured.

Eighteen persons were killed in the city, between the center of the town and the railroad station, where four large stores were blown down. The storm had driven many persons into these stores for refuge. There were 500 persons at work in the cotton mill when the cyclone struck. The mill was a three story building. The first story was left standing, but badly wrecked. The second and third floors were completely demolished, and the employees were caught under the wreckage and mangled.

It is estimated that there are at least seventy-five bodies under the wreckage of the third floor, and it is not known how many persons on the second floor of the building were killed.

Nearly every employee in the Gainesville Cotton mill was killed, including a large number of children.

The Southern depot was blown down.

The Gainesville Iron works was demolished, and several people perished in the wreck.

The Gainesville cotton oil mills were blown down.

The old Piedmont hotel, now used as a school and apartment house, was razed, and half a dozen or more people were killed in it.

The Richmond hotel was wrecked, and several people perished along with it.

One hundred and twenty-five cottages, a schoolhouse and a church were blown away in the negro section of the town.

Five brick stores on the main street of Gainesville were swept away. In all 200 buildings are demolished here.

The tornado first hit the town below the Southern railway depot. It dropped unnoticed, and before any one realized what was happening it had ripped down brick buildings, frame houses, churches and school buildings as if they were structures of paper. One of the first large buildings to fall was the Gainesville cotton mills, a three story structure. The third and second stories were shaved off smoothly, and it is believed every person working in them perished. About 500 were working in them at the time, but a great portion of them were in the lower story and escaped.

In the five brick buildings on the main street about eighteen people were killed, most of them employees in the stores.

A fire has started in the pile of wreckage, and the fire department is unable to get to it because of the obstructions in the street.

As soon as the storm had razed the buildings those who were not disabled immediately went to work at rescuing the victims. This work of rescue is now going on, and the piles of dead in the path of the storm are being identified and given to relatives as rapidly as possible.

The tornado tore down all the wires leading into Gainesville except those of the Southern Bell Telephone company.

Twenty-six bodies have been recovered from the mills by the rescue party. The latest estimates are that 150 have been killed, 100 at the Gainesville mill and 50 at the New Holland mill.

Plainfield, N. J., June 2, 1903.

In a State which calls itself a commonwealth, the condition is lamentable when the politicians are forced to seek cover by rushing a press muzzler through the Legislature. Scorn and ridicule made effective through the cartoonist's art has driven the Pennsylvania lawmakers to muzzle the newspapers. Strange as it may seem the dailies representing the dominant party are responsible for the action of the Legislature. Unabashed by the new statute some of the more influential newspapers continue to publish cartoons which appear to be in plain violation of the law and Wanamaker's North American seems to be openly inviting prosecution.

In a well regulated State there seems to be no need of such a law. Where a newspaper oversteps the bonds of decency and heaps calumny or satire or a public or private citizen undeservedly there is sure to be a reflex action and the paper suffers more than the person who is the target of its abuse. Pecuniary purposes alone are sufficient to deter the responsible head of a paper from unjust attacks. But Pennsylvania is no ordinary State in a political sense. That plundering has been going on there for years is generally admitted and it may be argued that the policy of the papers is excusable if not justifiable. The Keystone State's newspapers are united in the fight and the battle promises to have some features interesting alike to the publishers and the readers. Press censorship in Germany and press muzzling in Pennsylvania may have some advantages, but this is not generally admitted.

The action of local promoters of amateur baseball in suppressing boistrous conduct among over zealous enthusiasts of the game is commendable. Occasionally a rooter gives vent to a remark which affords amusement to the crowd, but personalities should be stopped. The police detailed at the various games naturally find it impossible to detect all who are guilty of offense remarks and therefore every true lover of the National sport should consider it his duty to aid in maintaining perfect order. Interest in the game will certainly decline if this evil is allowed to continue. It would be unjust to place any responsibility on the management of the teams for its existence, for none deplores the existence of such a condition as does the man or boy who is in love with the game. That the people of this city are deeply interested in the matches which take place during the summer months is evident from the remarkably large attendances. They like to watch a good clean game, stripped of professional features, and they demand that bolstrous actions be elminminated. Let everyone who takes pride in the standard of baseball exhibited on the local diamonds do his share in putting an end to this unfortunate feature and baseball will prosper here.

The election of J. Howard Wright as an honorary member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital is to be commended. His handsome gift to one of the most worthy of our local institutions is not only fully appreciated by those having the interests of the hospital directly at heart but by the community at large. The Howard Wright Corlies and Parker Wright Mason Memorial Operating Pavilion erected through the beneficience of their grandfather is one of the more important parts of the new institution. This example in donating a sum amply sufficient for the purpose may well be emulated by some of our local charitably inclined citizens.

Speaking against the granting of a franchise to the Central New Jersey Telephone Company at the Common Council meeting last night a prominent citizen attempted to draw an analogy between telephone companies and newspapers, arguing that two newspapers are too much for this city. Following along the line of his argument one might just as well say that one school house, one church, one store and one bank are sufficient for a city.

A New York man last week waltzed unsteadily up to a bookmaker and requested him to place $10 for him. The latter picked what he thought was the poorest horse in the field and his client won $500 on a 50 to 1 chance. It's enough to drive a sober man to drink.

Wishing to send her artificial palate away for repairs yesterday a New York woman took the precaution to have it insured for $500. Wonder if her husband placed the valuation upon it.

TRIBUTE TO P. H. S.

Pupils of Local Institution to be Admitted to Lehigh With Examination.

Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, of the city schools, has received word from Lehigh University that hereafter graduates of the Plainfield High School will be admitted to the University without examination.

Lehigh is one of the universities that does not ordinarily admit students without examination, but the record of G. L. Hallock, P. H. S., 1902, who is now a member of the freshman class, has been so very creditable to himself and to the High School that the authorities of the University have given the local institution the privilege of having its pupils, who desire to enter the University, exempted from the entrance examination.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening in the hall. Mayor Wyckoff was in the chair and all the members were present, excepting Mr. Fredericks. Bills amounting to $216 were ordered paid and the reports of the various standing committees were received. A petition was received, signed by property holders, asking that the east side of Washington avenue be flagged. The petition was placed in the hands of the law and ordinance committee for action. W. J. Winges asked the Council what had become of the petition he presented last year, asking that part of North avenue should be macadamized. The petition had been lost and found only last week. The Council then adjourned to meet next Monday evening when some committee work will be finished.

That this place is willing and intends to support a good live, baseball team was shown by the attendance at Saturday's games. There were fully three hundred people at the afternoon game alone.

The Dunellen A. C. will play the Twentieth Century Club on the home diamond Saturday. The team comes from New Brunswick. The players are colored and are said to be a fast aggregation.

The Literary Circle will hold a regular meeting this evening at the home of Rev. N. J. Sproul.

The trouble about the tennis court has been settled and it will again be put in condition for play.

A meeting of the trustees of the Methodist church was held last evening.

Next Sunday children's day will be celebrated in the local churches.

The Board of Education will hold a regular meeting this evening.

NEW MARKET.

Tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock the voters of the village will be called upon to vote for three street light commissioners and to state also by their ballots the amount of money thought necessary to light the streets. This is the first time the people have had an opportunity to have a lighting district.

The household furniture belonging to Jacob Bowers will be sold at public auction from his residence, next Friday afternoon.

Abram G. Nelson and wife, are spending a few days at Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada.

The First Baptist church will not observe the regular children's day exercises this year.

Charles Rogers has returned from New York State after an absence of one month.

Mark Andrews, formerly of this place, called on old friends yesterday.

Stanley Day, Jr., spent yesterday afternoon in Plainfield on business.

J. P. Vail and family have been entertaining out of town friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The township and water company have struck a snag in their contract for the laying of the water mains through the village. When the contract was made the water company agreed to put the streets back in good condition, carting away all surplus dirt or stone. Park avenue was the first street finished, the dirt was left standing in the gutters for several days, completely blocking them in case of a heavy rain and making it extremely dangerous for wheelmen, automobiles or carriages to try and reach the curb at the stores or their homes. The company finally started the work of removing the debris, carting it by wagons to the valley road where it was used to fill up the hollow and dangerous holes which abound on the mountain road. Township Committeeman Bruchman, who has had a gang of men for several weeks past repairing the side streets through the village, concluded he could use the dirt to advantage in the township without helping to repair the roads of North Plainfield township. He ordered the company to cart the dirt where the township needed it. This the water company refused to do so they were ordered to stop the work of cleaning up until the thing could be settled. This was a week ago and the dirt still lies in the gutters which are completely blocked from the borough line to Mountain avenue. If a heavy rain should come and the water back up into the cellars of the stores and houses or any one should loose a horse, the township may have a suit for damages on their hands.

The ball team will have to put an extra piece of wire or board at the bottom of the wire guard in front of the bleacheries. Nearly every game played finds the ball at some stage of the game going under the bleachers. This means a clearing of the bases every time as the ball is practically lost. The improvement will probably be made this week before the game with Garwood on Saturday.

The two days' fair for the benefit of the Public Library opens tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. As everyone in the village and borough are interested in the work of the Library Association there is no doubt but what the affair will be one of the most successful events of the year.

Manager Johnston, of the ball team, is trying to change the game with Westfield for the morning of July 4 to Saturday, June 20. If successful in making the change a series of three games will be arranged between the two teams.

GREAT STRIKE IS ON

Textile Workers of Philadelphia Go Out.

WANT THE HOURS OF LABOR REDUCED

Estimated That Seventy-five Thousand Operatives Have Refused to Go to Work Until Their Demands Are Complied With.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—It did not need the assertion of the executive board of the textile workers to carry conviction that the greatest conflict between employers and employees ever seen in Philadelphia is now on. The crowd of idle men, women and children that congregated on the streets of the city's textile mill districts formed a story without words. It was estimated by leaders in the strike that more than 75,000 textile workers have refused to go to work as a protest against the employers refusing to reduce the working time of the workers from sixty to fifty-five hours a week.

The executive board of the textile workers after a mass meeting sat for the remainder of the day at Upholstery Weavers' hall receiving reports from representatives of the different textile centers of the city and to give advice as to the conduct of the strike. There were two more firms added to the list of employers granting the fifty-five hour week, making forty-eight in all. There are about 600 firms in Philadelphia, and with the exception of those who have agreed to the demands of their employers they say they will not make any concessions.

The situation was summarized by the executive board in a statement which in part is as follows:

"We have proved what we said all along, that we would close every plant where our demands were refused. The textile industry of Philadelphia is practically at a standstill except in those mills that have signed our new schedule. Forty-eight firms, employing 15,000 out of 120,000, have conceded the demands. Meetings were held all over the city, at Southwark, Germantown, Frankford, Kensington and Manayunk, at which resolutions were adopted to remain out until the demand of fifty-five hours is granted and expressing the fullest confidence in the executive board of the textile workers and indorsing their action in endeavoring to bring about a joint conference with the employers."

The ingrain carpet weavers held a big meeting and reaffirmed their declaration for a 10 per cent increase in wages in addition to the demand for the fifty-five hour week. Representatives were present from each of the sixty-three ingrain mills, numbering 3,000 employees, whose action affects 7,000 other workers. In reply to the contention of the manufacturers that because of competition elsewhere in the trade they could grant neither the advance in pay nor the shorter work week the meeting issued a statement through President Joseph Settle, in which, after showing 80 per cent of the ingrain carpet of the country is manufactured in the Kensington district, he asks:

"Why should one-third of the country fix the price for the two-thirds and 256 looms control 3,400? I believe that if the ingrain manufacturers of Kensington would form a combination and adhere to a uniform selling price much of the complaint of injurious competition of outside mill districts would be done away with. There is no bitterness between the ingrain carpet manufacturers and their weavers. But in any case the dyers hold the key to the situation. If they refuse to dye the material we cannot work even if we were able to effect a settlement. We are simply awaiting developments."

Cuban Loan of $35,000,000.

HAVANA, June 2.—The permanent treaty between Cuba and the United States, accompanied by a message from President Palma, was read in the senate and referred to the committee on foreign relations. In view of the apparent plentifulness of money in London, shown by the fact that the recent Brazilian loan for $25,000,000 was subscribed for three times over, Senor Montoro, the Cuban minister at London, has been instructed to ascertain the attitude of the London financiers regarding the prospective Cuban loan for $35,000,000.

Whitaker Wright to Be Extradited.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The United States supreme court refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Whitaker Wright, the financial operator who is in custody in New York awaiting extradition on charges of fraud made in England. The opinion affirms the decision of the United States circuit court, which held that the crime alleged against Wright is an extraditable offense under the terms of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

French Admiral at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, June 2.—The French cruiser Tage, the flagship of Rear Admiral Louis Jean Rivet, arrived in the harbor and dropped anchor off Canton pier. As the cruiser entered the harbor she fired a salute, which was answered by the guns of Fort McHenry. Today Admiral Rivet and his staff will call on Mayor McLane and invite him to visit the Tage.

Emigration Agents Punished.

VIENNA, June 2.—As the result of information imparted to the police by United States Emigration Inspector Braun, thirteen emigration agents in the country districts of Hungary have been arrested and sentenced to heavy fines and ten to sixty days' imprisonment for infractions of the emigration laws.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth. 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

Secretary Darling Wants Good Work at the Navy Yard at Bremerton.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Captain Bleecker in his report says the rum element in Bremerton, in sympathy with whom are three members of the city council, succeeded in forcing the renewal of the licenses of two saloons which expired in April, but the mayor refused to sign these licenses, and no money has been received for them.

Mass meetings were held recently at which these three members of the council were denounced and a committee was appointed to request them to resign their offices. This they refused to do. Efforts have been made and are being made by the respectable members of the council to prosecute these two saloon keepers, but through the powerful influence of the saloon element and their sympathizers obstacles and delays have thus far defeated justice. It is believed the large majority of the citizens of Bremerton are sincere in their desire to clear the town of objectionable resorts.

According to the official report, there are sixteen saloons in the town of Bremerton, of which seven are located on Front street within the shadow of the navy yard. The acting secretary sent a dispatch to the Bremerton authorities stating that the navy department had no desire to interfere with the government of the town and that the navy department is not instituting a temperance campaign in the town of Bremerton, but it will not submit to the existence of numerous saloons at the approaches to the navy yard, as experience has shown that under such conditions only inferior work can be done on ships in docks. Had the town of Bremerton cleaned up Front street as was promised nearly $250,000 would have been expended at the yard within the next six months.

FLOODS DESTROY MAILS.

Railroad Mail Rooms Under Eight Feet of Water.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Dispatches to the post office department report that the floods have wrought havoc to the mail service in southern Iowa, Nebraska and in the neighborhood of Kansas City. A telegram received here from Superintendent Taft of the railway mail service at Kansas City says:

"Situation worse, if such is possible. Union station and transfer clerks' room under eight feet of water. Missouri Pacific is running trains between here and St. Louis. Santa Fe railroad expects to start train for west some time during the day, but doubtful. Only train service into and out of the city is from the Milwaukee depot, Twenty-second and Grand avenue. Frisco and Katy trains are being operated from Rosedale, Kan., south. Conditions are deplorable and demand prompt attention. Property losses beyond computation. Argentine and Armourdale wiped off the map and no communication with Kansas City, Kan. Probably two car loads of second, third and fourth class mail matter will be lost, as we are unable to reach the cars and remove the mail, the water being from three to five feet above the floors of the cars. Still storming, and no one can predict the outcome."

Old Dominion Engineers Strike.

NORFOLK, Va., June 2.—About 400 men here, consisting of engineers and boats' crews, are thrown out of work by the engineers' strike. The New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk railway, the Norfolk and Southern railway, the Old Dominion Steamship company and the Chesapeake and Albemarle Towing company are putting up the strongest fight against the engineers, each one of the above companies having withdrawn half a dozen vessels. The Old Dominion has tied up five steamers that ply between Norfolk and tide water points in Virginia and North Carolina. Traffic here has been badly interfered with.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

"About 20 years ago he assigned all of his property to the Shelby

"THE COURT IS INCLINED TO BE INDULGENT," SAID THE JUDGE.

County Real Estate & Investment company, and, I believe, to some western company."

"The Diamond Mining company?"

"I believe it was."

"You are interested in the Shelby County Real Estate & Investment company?"

"Yes."

"Own about nine-tenths of the stock, don't you?"

"Can you tell me what all this fol-de-rol has to do with this case?"

"Well, yes, I could tell you," said Everett blandly, "but that is not material. Answer my question, please."

"Answer the question, Colonel," said the judge.

"Yes; I do."

"You also own virtually all the stock in the Diamond Mining company?"

"Yes."

"Then you are to-day the owner of nearly all that has been regarded as the Wright estate?"

"I suppose I am."

"Will you please tell us what that estate consists of?"

After considerable haggling Franklin mentioned the various city lots and plantations, but omitted any mention of the Colorado tract.

"There was a tract in Colorado, was there not?"

"Yes."

"It was purchased by your mining company?"

"It was."

"The consideration for all this was about how much?"

"Twenty-five thousand dollars."

"Was it a bona fide sale?"

"It was."

"And you paid Wright $25,000?"

"About that sum."

"What do you mean by that?"

"He owed me something for legal services, which was credited on the amount?"

"What is all this property worth now?"

"It has increased very largely in value in 20 years, as a matter of course."

"What figure do you put upon it?"

"I should say that it was worth between $200,000 and $300,000."

"Of course that does not include the Colorado tract?"

"Well, no; I was not thinking of that."

"What is that worth?"

"That is impossible to say."

"You have some idea?"

"If it should prove to contain gold it would be a very valuable piece of land. If it contains no precious metals I should not think it was worth a song."

"Is it worth $10,000,000?" asked the lawyer, quietly.

"Why, sir, I could not place any valuation on a piece of land I have never seen and that has never been mined."

"Well, I'll put the question in another way. If you could show a clear title to that mining tract could you not sell it at once for $5,000,000 cash?"

Franklin looked at his questioner keenly for a moment, but the latter was casually examining the contents of a letter as if he were preparing to propound another query from something he found therein. The witness answered somewhat savagely:

"Yes."

"Couldn't you easily get $10,000,000 for that property?"

"I suppose I could."

There was a tremendous sensation in court when Franklin, with evident reluctance, made this admission.

"You have recently, I believe, been in correspondence with capitalists regarding the Colorado tract?"

"Yes."

"I believe that is all I want to know on that branch of the subject, but there is another point on which I wish to question you."

Franklin was evidently aware of what this point was, and he put on a swaggering air of victory.

"When all the Wright estate was turned over to you 20 years ago, was not a secret agreement drawn up between you and John T. Wright specifying that no consideration was ever paid by you, and that the transfer was made in order to protect Wright from damage suits that might be brought by the family of Jeremiah Baxter?"

"No."

"And did not this paper state that you pledged your honor to take steps to re-vest the property in Wright whenever he desired it?"

"No."

"And did not this agreement specify the Wright homestead, several pieces of city property, plantations in Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi, and tracts in Colorado and Texas?"

"No," said Franklin, with increasing vehemence. "There was no agreement of the kind between us. It was a bona fide sale."

"You were at my residence a few weeks ago?"

"Yes," reluctantly.

"I received you in my library?"

"Yes."

"Did you not at the point of a revolver compel me to sell you a copy of this very agreement, which had been in the possession of Wright, for the sum of $10,000?"

"The idea is preposterous. You are evidently losing your wits, sir. Such a betrayal of trust on your part could not be to your credit. I deny it in toto."

"You also deny in toto that there was any such agreement?"

"Most emphatically."

Lawyer Everett now took from his pocket a yellow paper which he lightly shook at the witness as he propounded the next question:

"When you came to my house that evening, Colonel, I had just had the agreement, whose existence you deny, copied on an old piece of paper and dried thoroughly before the fire to conceal its age. When you were announced I threw the original in the back of one of my bookcases, and the copy I placed in my safe. At the point of your pistol, I was more than willing to sell you the copy for $10,000. Now you can refresh your memory sufficiently to tell whether this is your signature appended to this paper, and to reconsider your denial of its existence."

Franklin clutched the paper which the lawyer politely extended to him, and then a pitiable appearance of defeat seemed to shrivel him up.

He glanced at the lawyer and preserved a dogged silence.

"You have not answered my question," said the lawyer, blandly.

"It is not my writing," said Franklin, savagely. "The whole thing is a clever, manufactured lie."

"I desire to introduce this paper in the case and have it read to the jury," said Mr. Everett. "Subsequently I shall prove how it came into my possession, and the jury can judge of its genuineness."

Works and Ways of the New Woman

LAST Sunday I went to hear a man expound to a gaping world the new scientific religion. He called it that, but the two hours during which he spoke were devoted to tearing to pieces the old religions. He rattled off words like a phonograph, the sound of which indeed his voice resembled not a little. He told us there was no such place as heaven; science could not prove it. He smacked his lips with infinite satisfaction while he told us the multitude no longer believed in heaven or hell, that there is not sufficient proof of the truth of spiritualism and that therefore there is no proof of immortality. Now, I didn't object to any of this rant; it seemed to give such pleasure to the man, jumping around there like a dancing phonograph. But by and by he smacked his lips with still more relish and told us, "A dear old lady said to me, 'Mr. Talkee-Talkee, I like to hear you speak, you are so eloquent and splendid, but I fear if I come to your meetings you will destroy my hope of immortality.'" Now, dear, dear! That old lady was an adept in the art of flattering the masculine sex and making it think she set it up on a pedestal and worshiped its superior intellect. She must have been practicing a long time and have known how to bait her hook with the rawest kind of a big piece of fat flattery to catch her gudgeon. No wonder she caught him and made him swell up like a balloon fish at the thought that he was great enough to destroy the inferior sex's belief in immortality. If you had seen the ineffable self conceit with which he detailed to us the story, telling us at the same time that he wouldn't—he really wouldn't now—destroy this poor, weak minded old lady's faith. "Dear granny, I wouldn't!" He would spare her superstitions. It was kind of him, wasn't it? But the pitiable vanity of the man, to believe she meant it! Just so women have been flattering men since Adam and Eve and spoiling them with self conceit. But the wonder is that to this day men do not see through it.

You have read of radium, that mysterious, marvelous, newly discovered substance which gives off heat continuously without ever being reduced in bulk in the least. You have read how rays from this extraordinary material penetrate any substance the most opaque and photograph objects in darkness and that it is worth nearly $3,500,000 per pound. But did you ever read that radium was discovered by a woman, Mme. Curie, a French lady? No? Of course not. Well, it was thus discovered, though credit has not been given to Mme. Curie. Her husband gets all the glory, because he and she for years have worked together in the same laboratory. But isn't that just like this world?

A young lady who is short tells me that if this elevated elbow hand shaking gets much higher she will have to carry around with her a folding step-ladder so as to reach up to her friends.

Don't be afraid of things. Remember Grant's saying, "What you are not afraid of does not hurt you."

Speaking of women's clubs, the jolliest I have heard of is one calling itself the Widders' club. It is composed of a few merry, self supporting widows, kindred souls, brilliant, cultured, witty and experienced, who never read papers at the club meetings. Their proceedings never get into the newspapers either. They meet in summer at some lovely outdoor spot and picnic together. They feast, they sing and say what they like, regardless of Mrs. Grundy. Do they enjoy themselves? Well, rather!

A friend tells me a good story regarding the late suffrage campaign in New Hampshire. Mrs. Mary D. Fiske was one of the state suffrage speakers. She went into a village and looked for a hall in which to hold a meeting. The only available one belonged to a woman, the largest taxpayer in the town. Moreover, she learned that the woman was opposed to woman suffrage. Mrs. Fiske bravely called on the lady, told her errand and asked to hire the hall. "No," answered the lady shortly. "You can't have it. I don't want suffrage." "But you are the chief taxpayer in this town, aren't you?" gently asked Mrs. Fiske. "What's that got to do with it?" This was Mrs. Fiske's opportunity. She sailed in, as it were, and talked an hour to the lady. At the end of it the woman taxpayer arose, put on her hat and not only gave the hall, but called on the people of the town with Mrs. Fiske to help her get a large audience.

I never feel in the least sorry for the woman whose trailing skirts in the street get trodden on and torn half off her or tangle her feet up and throw her down. It serves her right.

"I hate to see him come into the office. He always has a story of hard luck." I recently overheard a business man say to another.

LAMP EXPLODED.

$250 Blaze in Residence of LeGrand Fulton, of Grant Avenue, Last Evening.

A lamp explosion in the house of LeGrand Fulton, of Grant avenue and West Third street, at 10:30 o'clock last evening caused a lively blaze, damaging the kitchen of the residence to the extent of $250. The wick of a lamp in the kitchen, turned too high, caused the explosion of the chimney and the ignition of the oil. The walls and ceilings of the kitchen were ruined, and a number of articles of clothing burned including a valuable uniform of a secret order. A sideboard was also destroyed.

The fire provided the department with its first opportunity of putting the chemical satisfactorily into action, and the test proved entirely successful.

Fish Market at Auction.

Rogers' fish market, owned by the Rogers Bros., of New York City, was sold at auction yesterday afternoon by Justice Hand, auctioneer, to C. J. Johnson, of New York.

'PHONE FRANCHISE FORMS DISCUSSION

franchise to a responsible company agreeing to give telephone service for $15 a year."

Alvin E. Hoagland, the expressman, objected to granting a second franchise because of the additional expense.

Willard M. Miner, of East Seventh street, an electrician, formerly with the Knickerbocker Telephone Company, of New York, said that he believed in competition. In speaking of other independent companies Mr. Miner said that Philadelphia has just as good a telephone system as the Bell Company ever dared to have and the service is the best.

L. B. Woolston declared that in Trenton, the banner town of the new company the service is poor and that in Elizabeth and Newark the new company has fizzled out. Continuing he said: "One good newspaper in a town is better than two. A merchant gets as good results in advertising in one as he would in two, for one paper would reach all the people."

A. W. Laggren, associated in this city with the Morey-Larue Company, and formerly of Elizabeth, spoke briefly against the granting of another franchise.

W. A. Codington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, a subscriber to five telephones, argued that there are many New York business men in Plainfield and a telephone system unable to communicate between Plainfield and New York would be of little use and until the new company gets into New York it is not wanted in Plainfield.

Mr. Demarest, another superintendent of the new company, volunteered to answer any questions those present might ask. He spoke of the success attending the independent company's efforts in other places and how rapidly the business is increasing. All he asked for his company was that it be allowed to come to Plainfield and be given a chance to do business.

Mr. Demarest admitted that the business of his company in Elizabeth was poor, but added that it is the intention of the company to rebuild all of the old plants. He said that the Bell Company had bought up the independent company in Newark for a "bluff," that the lines were operated, but such poor service was given that people were forced to take the Bell telephone.

DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR DRAWS LARGE CROWD

A Recital by Mrs. Charles Hazeltine's Pupils at the Casino Last Evening.

LENGTHY PROGRAMME

RECITATIONS, MONOLOGUES, PLAYS, POSES AND DRILLS.

One of the Pleasant Events of the Season—Teacher and Pupils Receive Praise for Their Work.

A delighted audience at the Casino last evening gave enthusiastic evidence of their approval of the recital by the pupils of Mrs. Charles Hazeltine, loading the performers with flowers, books and other tokens of appreciation for their remarkably clever work. The occasion was made a social event, and the hall was crowded to the doors with the friends of the class. The affair was one of the most ambitious of the kind yet attempted at the Casino. Recitations, monologues, plays, poses and drills gave variety to the attractive programme.

A minuet fan drill by the Misses Davis, Dewey, Hanford, James, Lambert, Pound, Serrell and Weeks introduced the first half of the entertainment. The graceful movements of the exercise were executed with the precision of long practice. A stirring recitation by Miss Ursula Krewson, assisted by the Euterpean Quartette, won the approbation of all. It was followed by humorous recitations by the Misses Frances Rittenhouse and Louise Davis. Miss Davis in particular made a laughing hit of "Miss Maloney on the Chinese Question." Miss Margery Hart recited "The Little Fairy" with the skill of a practised speaker.

A comedy sketch enacted by the Misses Edna Randolph, Bessie VanArsdale and Ursula Krewson was interpreted with dramatic finish. Miss Grace Weeks won a recall by her unconventional rendering of "The Tramp Musician," and "That Picture," delivered by Miss Grace Stephenson, provoked outbursts of merriment. Miss Elizabeth Pound, by her artistic interpretation of "Aunt Hetty's Visit," won the audience completely and made one of the distinctive hits of the evening. She was one of the many recipients of a magnificent bouquet, presented by an admirer.

Miss Mabel Dewey, in "The Coming Out of Miss Cummings," held the sympathies of her audience throughout, winning golden opinions for her carefully prepared work. Her monologue was one of the best numbers presented and deserved all the commendation it received. Master Wallace Doying's violin obligato added much to the performance.

A beautiful floral fantasy opened the second half of the programme, followed by amusing and capably rendered selections by the Misses Laura James and Ruth Wean. A laughter-producing monologue by Miss Mabel Pound gave much pleasure, and a Grecian drill by Miss Mabel Dewey interested everybody. Miss Caroline Lambert recited "The Theatre Party" most acceptably and Miss Bessie Stephenson was equally good in another of Eugene Field's clever sketches, "The Night Wind."

The last two numbers on the programme were statue posing and a play entitled "The Hartville Shakespearean Club" and they made a fit climax to the entertainment. The statues, Greek and Roman subjects, were posed by Misses Krewson, Pound, Dewey, Randolph and VanArsdale. The characters in the play were taken by the Misses Marguerite Serrell, Elizabeth Pound, Louise Davis, Edith Haniford, Caroline Lambert, Edna Randolph and Grace Weeks. All the performers reflected high credit upon their instructor, Mrs. Hazeltine.

The ushers were H. L. Lucky, A. N. Hazeltine, F. K. Armstrong, E. W. Adams, F. R. Hazeltine and Charles Hazeltine. Calcium light effects were produced under the direction of A. V. Searing, Jr.

Wedding Bells.

The wedding of Miss Minnie Kirch, of Springdale, and Peter Voorhees, of this city, will take place Tuesday evening, June 9, at the Springdale M. E. church.

Theodore A. Kurzhals, Jr., and family, of West Second street, have returned from Long Island, after a two weeks' stay for the benefit of Mr. Kurzhals' health.

BIDS REJECTED.

Trouble Over Arrangements for Erection of Giraud Avenue Bridge.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met the bridge committee from the Union County Board, yesterday afternoon, at the Giraud avenue bridge, when all bids for the construction of the new bridge at that point were rejected. Proposals for new bids will be advertised. This action was taken owing to a technicality regarding one of the bids. The members will meet in the near future to receive the new bids. At that time arrangements will be made to commence the erection of the much-needed structure.

CHURCH CELEBRATION.

Joint Anniversary of Pastor's Incumbency and of Congregation at Mt. Olive Baptist.

The fifth anniversary of the pastor's stay and thirty-second anniversary of the church will be observed by the congregation of Mt. Olive Baptist church June 23, 24 and 25. A banquet, under the auspices of the Faithful Workers, the King's Daughters and the Missionary Society will be the feature.

On Tuesday evening, June 23, there will be music by the Junior chorus, forty voices. Rev. E. Elliot, of Newark, will preach. The church choir will present a musical programme Wednesday eveving, and on that occasion Rev. Dr. Morris, of Morristown, will speak. On Thursday evening a musical programme will be rendered by the young people of the church under the direction of Miss Elnora Oliver. There will also be addresses by Rev. R. D. Wynn, of New York; Rev. R. A. Motley, of Jersey City, and Rev. P. W. Lawrence, of Elizabeth.

On Sunday, June 28, there will be a big rally, when an effort will be made to raise $400 with which to make needed repairs to the church.

THEIR OWN HOUSES.

Iron and Steel Company to Erect Cottages at High Bridge for Workingmen.

For the purpose of furthering the best interests of their workingmen the officers of the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge, have decided to erect a number of cottages at High Bridge for the occupancy of the men and their families. The work will begin as soon as plans and specifications can be made. This is partially made necessary by reason of the fact that the new houses are desired to accommodate the extra workmen required at the plant. It is claimed that High Bridge lost the plant of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, because there were not enough vacant houses there to accommodate the workingmen.

New York Society Folk.

In its Saturday issue The Commercial Advertiser, of New York, said: "N. Pendleton Rogers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, will enter the West Point Military Academy June 15, having passed a most creditable examination. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, who live at Plainfield, N. J., were prominent in New York society before their marriage and during their early married life."

A Fish Story.

A huge species of fish hawk, it is said, has been seen flying over some of the swamps in South Plainfield. The bird had a fish in its talons, when it was seen and frightened by a small boy. The boy still has the fish which he offers as proof of the accuracy of his story.

Contract Cases.

Summons has been issued in Justice Hand's court in the contract case of Hansen against Mann. The case will be heard Tuesday, June 9, at 10 o'clock. The contract case of Klein against Rowley before Justice Hand has been adjourned until Monday.

Amicable Settlement.

Another death claim has been settled by Claims Agent John K. Large, of the New Jersey Central, as a result of the Westfield disaster. The claim was that for the death of Roland Chandor, son of Mrs. A. A. Chandor, of 203 East Ninth street.

Annual Reception.

The members of the W. C. T. U. are arranging for the annual reception to be held in the rooms on Madison avenue, Wednesday afternoon, June 10, at 3:30 o'clock. There will be an attractive literary and musical programme.

Gift of Library.

A member of the Forward Movement Club of the Y. M. C. A. has presented that organization with a missionary library. The present is quite an addition to the club and will greatly assist in the work of the society.

THE CONDITION OF SCHOOL FINANCES

Statement of Board of Education Committee Showing Expenditures.

THE YEARLY ESTIMATE

EXPENSES HAVE BEEN INCREASED SOMEWHAT THIS YEAR.

Detailed Report—What Has Been Done During the Past Year and What Is Needed—Amount of Expenses This Year $89,745.62.

The finance committee of the Board of Education has made this report:

Board of Education,

Gentlemen:—The committee on finance respectfully submit the itemized statement of the amount of money estimated to be necessary for the current expenses of and for repairing and furnishing the public schools of this district for the ensuing school year commencing July 1, 1903.

It will be seen by the statement, that there is an increase in expenditures of $2,556.25 this year. The total expenditure last year was $87,189.37, and this year it is $89,745.62. On some of the items it has been reduced, but the increase exceeds the reductions the amount stated.

Taking such items where changes have been made it would be as follows: The salary account is increased $1,845, due to the natural increase each year of $25 each to those teachers who are on the permanent list, and entitled to it under the rules of the board, and the apportionment for new teachers being $1,700. The janitors account has been increased $600 over last year, due to the employment of two new janitors, and an apportionment of $180 for any increase that the board might deem it wise to make.

The lighting account has been increased $125, and the figure fixed last year, $175, will be insufficient to meet the increase of expenses, should the board decide to wire the Irving Assembly Hall and place fixtures on the ceiling. It has been suggested that the board rent this hall for educational purposes, thus deriving an income from it that will soon pay for the improvement. The insurance account is increased $200, which is necessary to meet the premiums falling due in October. When the division of insurance into three parts, (making a certain amount come due each year), was made some three or more years since, this division was the larger of the three.

The furniture account has been put at $1,200, an increase of $550. It is necessary that one new set of furniture be placed in the Franklin School, two sets in the Washington School, and two extra sets not yet assigned, besides four new teachers desks, and new assembly hall settees to fill out where the seating capacity is inadequate. The incidental account has been reduced $200 this year making it $800. This seems a safe figure to allow for this account. The repair account has been increased $500. Last year it was $4,000 and will be absorbed by the end of the present school year. It is necessary that the Franklin and Bryant schools should be thoroughly looked at on the outside, pointing up and painting them three coats of the best lead and oil paint. The class rooms of the Bryant also the cloak rooms, should be prepared for and decorated with oil color and lead. The assembly room at the Irving School needs to be decorated this year. This with the wiring of the assembly room, and the ordinary repairs made each year will use up the appropriation.

The interest account on indebtedness will be reduced $205. The water service account has been increased $100, owing to the installation of drinking fountains at the Irving School, also two new basins for use of pupils, one at the Irving and one at the Bryant. The rental account has been increased $210. Last year only an estimate of $300 was allowed for the Epworth House, the board thinking that it could be rented for that amount, but $500 was the lowest sum that the trustees would consent to.

Bank interest for notes discounted has been reduced $50. Perhaps it would be well to leave it at last year's figure, $400 which would not change the total materially. The fuel account has been reduced $100, this will allow but a small margin at the prevailing prices of coal; but if prices are reduced the margin will be ample. The tuition account appears this year separate and distinct. Last year it was put into the incidental account. This is for the payment of tuition fees, of pupils attending out-side districts, and too far removed to attend the schools nearest these districts.

The Whittier betterment account has been liquidated, by the payment of the note held by bank. This account was part of the indebtedness incurred some six years ago to transform the old Seventh-Day Baptist Church into class rooms. The balance was taken from our general fund account. The committee would recommend that the board adopt the itemized statement as made up, and request the Board of School Estimate to fix and determine the sum of $64,000, to be raised by the city, for the aforesaid purposes, which, with the $25,700 estimated receipts from the State tax, and tuition fees, will amount to $89,745.62. The committee is pleased to state that only two notes of the board are now outstanding, amounting to the sum of $5,015.78, chargeable as follows: General fund $4,624.60, and Martin act account, $391.18. The balance with the Custodian of School Moneys on the 31st day of March, 1903, is $21,109.60.

Last year at this time, outstanding notes were $16,450.75, and cash balance with the Custodian of School Moneys, $22,927.53. The fixed indebtedness to April 1, 1903, is: Bonds, $36,000; mortgage, $21,000; making a total of $57,000. There is only $1,000 to pay on account of Lincoln mortgage, due April 6th of this month, when all of the bond account for this school year will have been paid.

The committee hopes to liquidate the two outstanding notes amounting to $5,015.78, before the close of the present school year, July 1, 1903, and begin the new year without any floating indebtedness, which will be the first time since the year 1897.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) L. N. Lovell,
C. F. Abbott,
E. M. Cave,
Committee on finance.

RAISING FUNDS FOR THE BAND CONCERTS

Bandmaster Benjamin LaVere at Work Obtaining Subscriptions.

FEW OPEN AIR CONCERTS

ONLY FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS NEEDED FOR THE PURPOSE.

Citizens Donate One Hundred and Thirty Dollars—Good Musicians to be Obtained—A Band of Fifteen is Contemplated.

Benjamin LeVere, who has been making an active canvass for funds to defray the expense of conducting open air concerts in this city during the summer months reports that he has recently secured $5 each from the following people: W. B. Wadsworth, John Bushnell, Miss W. Tyler, J. Frank Hubbard and George H. Frost. The amount on hand to date is $130.

Although $500 is needed from the people here to secure the talent promised by Mr. LeVere he is confident of securing it before July 8 when the first of the concerts will be held. Mr. LeVere has been soliciting contributions for one a week and the manner in which his requests have been responded to give encouragement. Any person desiring to assist may send a contribution to Mr. LeVere, Bank place, or to the office of The Daily Press.

Mr. LeVere has arranged with several musicians to appear in this city at some of his concerts. Among those who have consented to come here are Alfred C. Sweet, a clever cornet soloist; Edward Nuek, a well-known baritone soloist; Gus Edwards, one of the soloists of the Edison Record Company and Charles Egany, a zelephone player.

At the concert fifteen men will compose the band and instead of holding the concerts on Friday evenings the time has been changed to Wednesday evenings.

Settled Amicably.

The case of Brown against the Equitable Life Insurance Company has been satisfactorily settled out of court. William DeMeza was the counsel for the plaintiffs. The case was to have been tried in Justice Mosher's court.

CITY FAIRLY FREE FROM WINGED PESTS

Mosquito Problem Investigated by Board of Health Meeting Yesterday.

IS AVOIDING TROUBLE

CONDITIONS OF FISH MARKETS AND BAKERIES REPORTED.

Excellent Health Conditions Generally Prevail—The Milk Supply Guarded—Few Cases of Contagious Disease in City.

The mosquito problem as it affects Plainfield was reported upon yesterday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health.

During the month a thoroughly investigation has been made into the problem. Through the kindness of Prof. John B. Smith, State entomologist, the natural waters about Plainfield and the rain barrels and cesspools within the city limits have been investigated with the following results: That from the mosquito standpoint Plainfield is, in itself, a clean city. The natural water surroundings are not especially dangerous, and except when mosquitoes come from the salt marshes along the coast, the city should be tolerably free from all those species which are bred within the limits of the city. This latter specie is bred principally in rain barrels.

The mosquitoes now flying in Plainfield come principally from the salt marshes along the coast; Plainfield is not responsible for them nor can they in any way be avoided. This special invasion of the last few weeks is due to the abnormal climatic conditions.

Rain barrels and cesspools cause most of the trouble in Plainfield. One rain barrel was discovered on Cottage place which was alive with wrigglers that would in a few days have developed into a small army of mosquitoes. With the rain barrels and cesspools out of the way, the number of mosquitoes in Plainfield would be greatly diminished and there would be little difficulty with them. Cesspools should be protected by wire mosquito netting and better by a double thickness, because some mosquitoes are very persistent when it comes to a matter of laying eggs. Rain barrels should be protected in the same way and the larger barrels of hogshead size should be supplied with two or three gold fishes.

One more set of places which needs attention are the sewer catch basins. It has been found that these are prolific breeding places and a round should be made of all such basins once every two weeks and the contents of the basin oiled so as to kill whatever may be breeding there. Because of the danger lurking in contaminated shellfish a thorough inspection was made of all the fish markets. Especial attention was paid to the cleanliness of the market, the methods of cleaning and storing the fish, and to the places where the fish, clams and oysters were bought. The majority of the markets were found in fairly good condition but a few were in great need of attention.

While the enforcement of the State law in regard to bakeries does not come within the province of the Board of Health, the bread is widely distributed about Plainfield and can be produced under such very unwholesome conditions that it is well the Board should know the exact condition of each bakery. In order that this information could be obtained an inspection was made on the evenings of May 15 and 19. Some of the bakeries were in poor condition and required attention. The majority needed whitewashing. Notices were served in the several cases where the plumbing did not conform to the ordinances of the board.

The work of issuing the milk permits is nearly completed. Notices have been served on those whose permits were refused because of the unsanitary condition of their dairies, prohibiting them from selling milk in Plainfield. Those who received the permits are fast complying with the ordinances of the Board of Health. Thirty-five dairies were visited during the month, all but one of which were found in good condition. This one will show improvement soon or sell his milk elsewhere.

On account of having no sterilizer for a part of the month, but few samples of milk, fifteen in all, were analyzed, two of which were poor; unless these two show immediate improvement, the permits of the dealers

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Grace Lilian Russell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ingraham Russell and Henry Bennett Machen, of New York. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Netherwood, on Tuesday, June 9 at 4:30 o'clock. It will be witnessed only by relatives and most intimate friends of the bride and groom. Charles Hudson Machen, brother of the groom, will act as best man and Miss Marjory Dorothy Russell, the bride's sister, will be the maid-of-honor.

BEATS CHANGED.

Customary Shifting of Patrolmen Makes Some Changes—Those Effected by Order.

The periodical shakeup in the police department went into effect last evening, and the officers who have been patroling beats in the West End find themselves treading the flags up in the winding walks of Netherwood, and a few who have been doing night duty find themselves working while the sun shines.

James Totten and Charles Flynn, who have been doing day work, have been placed on night beats in the business district while "Nick" Myers, who has been on day duty along Park avenue, has been shifted to night work. Moses Quass, who has been a night man, will now do day work, while John Huff has been placed on the Boulevard in place of Matthew Vanderweg. George Lunger, who has been in the West End, has been stationed in Netherwood and Arthur McGinley has been moved to the West End.

LOVING CUP.

Residents of Asbury Park Appreciate Railroad's Naming Ferryboat for Their City.

The residents of Asbury Park have arranged to present a loving cup for the New Jersey Central's new steamboat, "The Asbury Park," which will soon go in commission. The cup cost $600 and is twenty-two inches high, mounted on an ebony base and inclosed in a plate glass case. On one side is engraved a picture of the steamboat, with this inscription: "Presented to the Central Railroad of New Jersey by the Citizens of Asbury Park, June 1, 1903."

ANNUAL RECEPTION.

Graduates of North Plainfield High School to be Entertained by Alumni Association.

The annual reception of the graduating class of the North Plainfield High School will be held in the Park Avenue Hotel Friday evening, June 19. The place was decided upon at the last meeting of the Alumni Association. It was at first planned to hold the reception in the chapel of the school but as it would necessitate the removal of the seats and desks the use of the room was denied the association by the Board of Education.

Applications Approved.

These building applications have been approved by T. O. Doane, inspector of buildings: Application of A. W. Vars, of Dunellen, June 2, for a frame dwelling to be erected on Webster place; Tallamy & Bro., masons, and Titsworth, carpenter. Application, filed June 1, for dwelling on North avenue opposite the water tower by Michael Shal; S. P. Hoffman, builder. Howard Rinn has been granted permission to erect a barn on the premises at 314 Berkman street and Joseph Sully has received a permit to build an addition to his store at 824 George street.

Improving Streets.

The street committee in the borough is directing the work of repaving many of the thoroughfares of that section of the town. Belmont avenue, which has been macadamized, was finished last evening, and as soon as the money is in the hands of the proper persons work will be commenced on the macadamizing of Walnut avenue.

To the Navy.

Frederick T. VanAuken, who recently passed successfully the preliminary examinations for entrance to the United States Navy Academy at Annapolis, has gone to Annapolis, where he will enter a school to further prepare himself for admission to the academy.

Amicable Settlement.

The claim of Miss Catherine Alberts for injuries sustained in the Westfield disaster, have been satisfactorily settled by Claims Agent John K. Large, of the New Jersey Central. This case was originally in the hands of Lawyer Welsh, of New York.

DEAD WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN WOODS

Belief That She Was Foully Murdered and Hidden Away in Bushes.

CORONER VIEWS BODY

THE SKULL IS DENTED IN AND THE BODY DECOMPOSED.

No Clue to Her Identity—Thomas Brantingham and Thomas Bohl of South Plainfield Make Grewsome Discovery.

Behind a clump of bushes in what is known as Hogan's Woods near South Plainfield, Thomas Bohl, night yardmaster of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Co., last night, discovered the remains of a woman with an indenture in the skull which appears to have been inflicted with a blunt instrument. There are indications that the woman was foully murdered and the body was taken to the secluded spot in the woods where it has laid unnoticed for three months. The discovery was made while Bohl and a friend named Thomas Brantingham, a butcher, were out in the woods gathering ferns, last evening at 8 o'clock. Corner Hubbard, of Middlesex County, was notified and shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, viewed the remains. Up to noon time they were still at the spot where they were discovered.

The remains are evidently those of a woman about forty-five years of age and very tall. Her hair was evidently brown streaked with gray. She lies in a twisted position, partly on her side and partly on her face. Her arm was twisted about in a most peculiar position. Her hair lay about on the ground in tangled masses.

POLICE NEWS.

Changes Planned in Arrangements at Headquarters—Working on Alarms.

The new Gamewell system of police alarm, it is expected, to be in operation within three weeks. Other changes in the police department will be inaugurated at the same time. New steel cages at the city court will take the place of the present wooden cells. The Chief's office will be moved up stairs over his present quarters, which will be occupied by the Gamewell switching board. The room directly over the Chief's present office will be occupied by patrolmen, several of whom will be present at the station night and day. Besides the sleeping rooms there will be a reading room for the use of the police.

WEDDED SECRETLY.

Vernon Waters Became Husband of Miss Bessie Ross Last September—Surprise to Friends.

The marriage of Miss Bessie Ross, of Bound Brook, to Vernon Waters, of East Third street, son of J. Erwin Waters, has been announced. The ceremony was performed last September at Cranford by the rector of the Episcopal Church. The announcement was very much of a surprise to the friends of the couple. Mrs. Waters, who is employed at Woodhull & Martin's store, has been living at Bound Brook, and Mr. Waters at his home in this city. Mrs. Waters is the daughter of a wealthy farmer living on the Watchung mountain.

MISS COX ENGAGED.

The police of Plainfield and vicinity have been notified of the loss of a horse and wagon taken yesterday afternoon from John J. Hicks, of Weston. When he returned from his shopping in the store he found that horse and carriage had vanished.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Layayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

READY REFERENCES FOR THE LOCAL BARGAIN SEEKERS.

If you need stationery examine the superior stock kept by A. M. Harper, of Park avenue. He has all the latest shades and the prices are reasonable for the excellent quality.

The proprietor of the Boston Fur and Cloak store on West Front street is showing a very attractive line of summer gowns, separate skirts, silk coats, etc., at low prices.

There is nothing more refreshing these days than a drink of L. W. Randolph's famous soda. He uses only the purest fruit syrups and his ice cream is noted for its excellence.

There is something still left to live for as long as you can buy soda at the fountain of A. M. Nagle, of West Front street. Nagle's is one of the best appointed drug stores in town.

Poor meat is an insult to a man's stomach. There can be no disturbance to the organs of digestion when you buy your meats of J. W. VanSickel, of North avenue. He has them always of the best and freshest at the most reasonable rates.

Jerry Foss, of North avenue, has closed a contract with the Fishery Company, of Tacklafa lake, Long Branch, N. J., for a daily supply of fresh fish during the summer. If you want your seafood fresh, see Foss. Good goods, right prices, prompt delivery.

It is a common saying that if you cannot get what you want elsewhere you can surely find it at Putnam & DeGraw's. This firm's stock comprises everything to be found in a first-class dry goods store. A handsome line of summer goods are now being shown.

That headache may come from defective eyes. Silbert Brothers, of Somerset street, have facilities for remedying defective eyesight by means of glasses properly fitted. A pair of glasses not properly fitted to the nose is worse than a glass ground inaccurately. Silbert Brothers fit them properly.

Strawberries, the largest and best in the city are to be found at the grocery store of R. W. Barnes, of Park avenue. Everything for supper, breakfast and dinner are to be found at that store. Vegetables are received fresh every morning and the person that trades there will wear the "smile that won't come off."

WEST POINT EXCURSION.

Being Arranged by Jersey Central for June 6.

The New Jersey Central will run an excursion up the Hudson to West Point, June 6, on the steamer St. Johns. The scenery throughout the trip is grand and an outing at this time of the year will be delightful as well as beneficial.

After leaving the commercial section of the river you see Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive and the Palisades, while further along there is Anthony's Nose, the Crow's Nest and West Point.

The visit to the grounds and buildings of the Military Academy at West Point is both interesting and instructive as this is the place the generals are trained and on whom the safety of this beloved country often depends. This will be a first-class family excursion, no intoxicating liquors being offered for sale on the steamer.

There will be music on the steamer and the restaurant will be in charge of a first-class caterer. The train leaves Plainfield station at 8:03 a. m. Round trip tickets, $1. Don't forget this trip. 5 28 td

THEATRICAL.

The attendance at the Manhattan Theatre, where "The Earl of Pawtucket" is running, continues to be large with seats still selling heavily for a month in advance. Miss Marion Giroux assumes the role of Harriet Fordyce. Miss Giroux is the young woman who will be remembered as the originator of the role of Mrs. Smith in "Why Smith Left Home" and Mrs. Goadsby in "The Climbers." Mr. D'Orsay continues as the most striking and amusing figure in this play, but he, by no means, monopolizes attention, for his support is admirable in all parts. "The Earl of Pawtucket" promises to make a record among comedies for summer popularity.

Coney Island, long the Mecca almost exclusively, of the summer fakir, shows surprising transformation this year, thanks to the civic spirit of some of its best citizens and the vigilance of a reform administration. Foremost among the Island's legitimate amusements this year and emphasizing to a marked degree the wholesome character of the resort's regeneration is the presence there, now at Sea Beach Palace, of Frank C. Bostock, the animal king, with his amazing congress of familiar and strange beasts and zoological interests. First, perhaps, of the magnets of these assemblies is Captain Bonavita, the lion tamer and his twenty-seven lions. To the layman the daring of Bonavita simply baffles comprehension. Bonavita's daring, while matchless in its spectacular attractiveness, has an equally awe inspiring rival in the performance of Mme. Morelli, who enters a cage of leopards, the boldest and most treacherous of the feline family. Herman Weedon, a slight youth, engages the courage and ferocity of a strangely mixed group of wild beasts, including Goldie, a tiger who never enters the arena without showing fight. c

Doing the Right Thing.

The trouble begins with a tickling in the throat and a nagging little cough. Soreness in the chest follows and the patient wonders if he is going to have an all winter cold. Probably, if he does the wrong thing or nothing. Certainly not if he uses Perry Davis' Painkiller, the staunch old remedy that cures a cold in twenty-four hours. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis.'

THE RIVER IS FALLING

Kansas City, Mo., Has Blue Sky Overhead.

HOPE THAT ALL DANGER IS PAST

Many Bodies Seen Floating Down Stream—Fifty Refugees Brought In by Boatmen—Some Still Imprisoned by the Waters.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—Blue sky was visible above Kansas City, the rains have ended, and the sun was visible for the first time in a week. For this and other reasons it is thought that the great dangers of the flood are past.

The waters of the Kaw river have fallen eight inches and are steadily declining at the rate of about one-half inch an hour. In the Missouri the high stage is still maintained, but this is due to the rise which has been coming down the Missouri proper and has been able to offset the fall in the Kaw. It is the water of the latter stream, however, that has caused all the damage in this city and in Kansas City, Kan., and with it at a normal stage business in Kansas City soon will resume usual conditions.

This city by a narrow margin has escaped a serious shortage in food, has faced the peril of fire, utterly helpless to avert its consequences; has suffered millions of dollars of damage to property and sustained a loss in life that in all probability never will be accurately measured, and now it is commencing to believe in the promise of better things.

The situation shows improvement on almost every side. The waters are falling, the waterworks will resume operations, the gas has been turned into the mains once more, and there is no immediate danger of a serious shortage of food. The city has cared for her own and is abundantly able to do so still, but there is not sufficient food on hand to permit the relief committee and the municipal officers to feel easy over the outlook. Provisions from outside will be cordially welcomed, and, while there is no dire necessity, there is urgent need.

Two men lost their lives in the attempt to save others. Joseph L. Keenan was drowned while endeavoring to rescue some people from the Adams House in Union avenue, and Edward Brooks lost his life in Liberty street, where his skiff was overturned by an eddy while he was endeavoring to get another man out of a building. A number of bodies were seen floating down the stream, but are believed to be those of people drowned farther up the Kaw, probably at North Topeka.

Fully fifty people were brought to the Twelfth street viaduct during the day by the boatmen. None of them had been in great danger, but had remained in buildings until weary of the confinement and had then signaled for assistance, which was given as rapidly as possible. Many people are still in the warehouse and office building and will remain there until the flood shall subside. They are entirely safe and fairly comfortable.

GOVERNMENT WILL SEND HELP.

Root Issues Order to Help Kansas City Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—General Gillespie, chief of engineers, telegraphed Major Casey, at St. Louis, asking if a snag boat could be sent from St. Louis to Kansas City for the relief of the flood sufferers. Major Casey replied as follows:

"Bridges blocked by debris. Steamboat navigation suspended on the Missouri. Coal very difficult to procure. It may be impracticable for snag boat to make Kansas City within three weeks."

Adjutant General Corbin telegraphed the commander of the department of the Platte that Secretary Root approved the course of Colonel Miner in issuing rations to the sufferers at Kansas City, Kan., and directing that he ascertain the condition of the people in the stricken district and do all in his power to save life and property.

Flood Outlook at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—Thirty feet, the danger point, was reached and passed by the flood that is coming down the Mississippi river. The river continues to rise rapidly, and a point considerably higher than thirty-four feet, which Weather Forecaster Bowie had predicted would be reached by tomorrow or Friday, will be an accomplished fact. The crest of the flood from the Kansas and Missouri rivers is yet to come, and when it shall reach here and be increased by high water in the Mississippi some loss of life is feared, and destruction to property must ensue.

The Situation at Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 3.—The flood situation in Topeka may be briefly summarized thus: Known dead, forty-eight; the river has fallen three feet and is now receding at the rate of two inches an hour; distress is great among the refugees; Governor Bailey has issued a proclamation calling for help for flood sufferers of the state; fifty deputy sheriffs armed with Winchesters go to North Topeka to protect property, with orders to shoot looters whenever they are caught stealing.

Storm Strikes Chile.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 3.—A great storm has passed over Valparaiso. Four vessels foundered in the bay, the esplanade was destroyed and great damage was done to the floating docks. There are some fears regarding the safety of the Pacific Steam Navigation company's steamer Arequipa, which during a lull in the storm left port to pass the gale outside the harbor and has not since been heard of.

MAY STOP MINE WORK

United Mine Workers Want Recognition of Officers.

ON THE BOARD OF CONCILIATION.

By the Operators Failing This a General Suspension of Mining Work May Ensue In the Anthracite Region.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 3.—Another dark strike cloud has loomed up on the horizon of the anthracite coal region. The executive boards of the United Mine Workers, in session here, indorsed the selection of their three district presidents on the board of conciliation authorized by the strike commission, and if these members are not recognized by the operators the executive boards will contemplate calling a convention of mine workers to declare a general suspension of work until their members are given recognition.

The district presidents, as a result of the meeting, issued the following statement on the dispute:

"At a joint meeting of the executive boards of the anthracite region here the members selected to represent the mine workers of each district on the conciliation board reported that the representatives of the operators refused to recognize them or the mine workers' credentials or accept them as members of the conciliation board. They reported that the operators objected on the ground that the mine workers' representatives were appointed by their organization as it exists in each district. The award of the commission relative to the manner of selecting the members of the conciliation board provides as follows:

"'That is to say, if there shall be a division of the whole region into three districts, in each of which there shall exist an organization representing a majority of the mine workers of each district, one member of said boards of conciliation shall be appointed by each of said organizations and three other persons shall be appointed by the operators, the operators in each of said districts appointing one person.'

"The district boards are still of the opinion that they appointed their representatives as provided for by the section of the award and voted unanimously to reaffirm their former action. The district officers have been exceedingly anxious to have the conciliation board form and meet for the purpose of adjusting many grievances which have accumulated and to this end have been bending their energies. The officers have advised where grievances arose that the men would not strike and where strikes occurred ordered them back to work pending a decision by the conciliation board, which they hoped would soon be formed in accordance with the commission's award.

"Two questions were under consideration by the meeting. One was to make application to the national president of the mine workers to issue an order for a general suspension of work throughout the whole anthracite region, to continue until the operators agree to adjust existing grievances and live up to the award of the anthracite coal strike commission. The second is that a delegate convention be called to consider the advisability of taking the above action."

Another meeting will be held today to decide as to whether a suspension of work shall be ordered.

A district officer when asked if the objections of the operators could not be removed if the mine workers selected their representatives on the board by a majority vote of miners replied that it was not likely such a step would be taken. If the operators demanded that, he said, the miners had as much right to ask that the company representatives be selected by a vote of the stockholders.

"Will the miners quit work if they are called out?" was asked.

"Yes; every man will come out. The 30,000 men in the Schuylkill region whom we ordered back to work will not hesitate to come out again, and there are acute grievances in every region which will cause a suspension if such a step is decided upon. The district officers have counseled the miners to remain at work pending the settlement of the trouble by the conciliation board, but if this board cannot be organized there is nothing else for them to do but quit."

Eight Hour Day In Arizona.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., June 3.—The eight hour law passed by the last legislature has gone into effect in this territory. Mine owners and operators in Yavapai county adopted ten days ago the scale of wages which they are willing to pay for eight hours' work. The scale is a higher rate per hour than has previously been paid on the basis of the ten hour day, but it is not acceptable to a large number of miners. Several properties are reported to have closed down, and there are rumors that others will close.

Failure of Ames & Co.

TORONTO, June 3.—A. E. Ames & Co., one of the leading firms of bankers and brokers in Canada, closed their doors. Their failure was due to heavy declines in Canadian securities, which have been extensively dealt in on New York and Boston exchanges as well as on the exchanges here and at Montreal. It is believed that the assets of the company will fully offset their liabilities.

Roumania Wants Greek Oil.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The state department has been informed that Roumania is making earnest efforts to obtain the government contract for the supply of petroleum in Greece, which now comes in a large part from the United States.

Plainfield, N. J., June 3, 1903.

The New York Herald has this to say relative to one of our municipal departments: "One of the best local boards of health in New Jersey is the one in Plainfield. It is thoroughly up to date, being equipped with chemical and bacteriological laboratories. The health inspector, Mr. Thurlow, is an intelligent, energetic and efficient officer, and is doing excellent work. The Board maintains a vigilant supervision over the milk and other food supplies. The milk dealers who uniformly serve a good article are given a certificate to that effect, and when they fail to maintain the standard this is withdrawn. The plan might be serviceably adopted by other local boards of health." The statement needs no comment except that it equally applies to all other departments of the city government.

Success to Woodhull & Martin! The opening of the firm's handsome department store today is a noteworthy event in the history of local mercantile life. There are few department stores in the State to compare with this huge structure. In fact there is none, excepting in Newark. The reliability of the concern is so thoroughly established in this community as well as its suburbs that comment on that score is unnecessary. Not only Messrs. Woodhull & Martin but the entire community is to be congratulated on the enterprise. Plainfield is proud of this fine mart of retail trade.

Secretary of State Dickinson proposes to place the new voting machine in districts where false counts are suspected. To this end he has invited suggestions from the Senators and Assemblymen. In doing so he pays a tribute to the legislators' honesty, which in the majority of cases may be deserved. But would it not be better to invite suggestions from disinterested citizens, those not having political irons in the fire?

Thanks to the United States Supreme Court, we are gradually finding out where we are at. By a vote of five to four it has been decided that the Constitution did not follow the flag into Hawaii—at least not until the islands were recognized as a territory. Sometime ago that august body decided that the Constitution did follow the flag into the Philippines. It's hard to keep track of that Constitution.

Rheumatism may be cured by the sting of bees according to a German physician, who declares that his remedy is beyond the experimental stage. He says that one patient of his was stung by bees exactly 6,952 times and was completely cured. Bees' whacks may be an excellent remedy, but when administered in allopathic doses the patient must be a funny spectacle—to all except himself.

"Shot Down in Riot; One Negro Killed and Three Dying at Pittsburg;" "Poisoned by a Negro," New Orleans despatch; "Negro Shoots His Foreman," Washington, D. C., despatch; "No Salute Because a Negro Spoke," despatch from Richmond, Va. These headlines appearing in a single edition of the New York Sun are an interesting comment on the race question.

Because she was asked her age, a Morristown woman became very indignant in court the other day. She is suing a youth of twenty-eight for breach of promise and it turns out that she has seen sixty-eight summers. If courts continue to meddle with their personal affairs this way, women won't have any rights at all after a while.

The courageous remarks of the pastor of the South Street Presbyterian Church, Morristown, in scoring Sunday golf playing are timely. He declared that the Morristown club in voting for Sunday play not only decided to do wrong but lowered the moral tone of the town. His stand should be applauded.

In Hoboken the other day a man got $300 damages in court because a trolley car killed his dog. It is not long since Chief Justice Gummere decided that the value of a child's life under similar conditions was only worth one dollar to the parents. This is ammunition for the sage of East Aurora.

According to State Entomologist Smith the drought has dried up most of the swamps and pools of the State and the mosquito crop will be reduced one-half. Now there you have an instance in which a crop failure will not produce a decline in stocks.

A New York divine, who figured prominently as a reformer some time ago, is credited with having said that there are 10,000 men in this country as fit to be President as Mr. Roosevelt. It would be interesting to learn how he compiled his statistics.

A Metropolitan paper draws attention to the able line of mayors in a number of New Jersey cities, but does you know it doesn't mention Plainfield. We can "point with pride" to our mayors and ask no odds from any city in the State.

The terrible disaster at Topeka, Des Moines and Kansas City where hundreds of lives were lost can be more fully appreciated here since the affliction visited upon Plainfield by the Westfield wreck.

Over in New Brunswick, a newspaper man kept his wedding a secret since January. He gives as his reason that "it was nobody's business." Surely he has not been at newspaper work very long.

A. C. Halstead, Jr., of New York, Takes Miss Catherine Parkinson As His Bride.

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Miss Catherine Parkinson, of Lee place, daughter of T. H. Parkinson to Albert C. Halstead, Jr., of West New Brighton, N. Y., the ceremony taking place Saturday noon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Carl, of Lee place. Rev. E. A. Staffler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Roselle, officiated.

The bride was gowned in white satin and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor, Miss Jessie Halstead, wore a similar gown and carried red roses. The best man, Albert Zimmerman, of Elizabeth, was also the organist. Mr. and Mrs. Halstead will reside in New York City.

UNIQUE AFFAIR.

The Church People in Mt. Horeb to Raise Funds for Good Roads.

It has remained for Mt. Horeb to have the most novel strawberry festival of the season. Thursday evening an entertainment and festival will be held at the home of George Neuse, a leading member of the Mt. Horeb M. E. Church. The festival is to be given by the good people of the church for the benefit of good roads in Warren township. John Carney, of Lincoln place, North Plainfield, will appear as one of the entertainers.

—The members of the local fire department appeared in their new straw hats yesterday for the first time. The hats are the same in appearance as those worn by the members of the New York fire department.

—Do not procrastinate but buy your strawberries now and preserve and can them while they are plentiful. This is the height of the strawberry season, when the Colburn berry can be had at its best. Neuman Brothers have all kinds of berries for table and preserving

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

The Literary Circle held the final meeting of the season last evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. N. J. Sproul. Rev. Mr. Earp, of Plainfield, gave an interesting address to the members on "The United States From a German Standpoint." Mr. Earp is an excellent speaker and his talk was much enjoyed. HOSIERY MILLS JOIN

Fully Eight Thousand Now In Idle Army.

FIFTY-EIGHT FIRMS HAVE CONCEDED

The Fifty-five Hour Week to the United Workers at Philadelphia's Great Textile and Hosiery Mills.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3. — The strike of the textile workers of Philadelphia for a fifty-five hour week spread to the hosiery mills, tying up the textile industry tighter than it has been since the great suspension was inaugurated. Fully 8,000 persons joined the already large army of idle workers. Most of these were women and children employed in the hosiery mills in the Kensington district.

This class of workers are unorganized, but they decided to join the ranks of the unionists in other branches of the textile trade when they saw the magnitude of the movement for shorter week. It is probable that most of the women and children will be organized into unions, and efforts will be made to bring out the workers in other hosiery plants.

It was given out by the executive board of the textile workers that ten additional firms had agreed to give their employees the fifty-five hour week. This makes fifty-eight firms that have conceded the demands. It is estimated that upward of 20,000 persons are now working under the conditions demanded by the unions of the thirty-nine branches of the textile industries affected by the strike. The leaders of the strikers express confidence that the workers will win their fight and point to the fact that firms are each day agreeing to the demands of the union.

On the other hand, the manufacturers who have not acceded to the union's request—and among them are some of the largest mill owners in the industry—feel confident that the men cannot win. They declare they will close down their establishments indefinitely before submitting to the union.

Postal Clerk Removed.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger has removed Svend Schibsby of Kansas City, a railway postal clerk, on the charge of violating the postal laws. Schibsby is charged with leading a movement of railway postal clerks to secure payment for traveling expenses, a claim that never has been recognized by the government and which would involve payment of about $1,500,000 annually for the 800 odd clerks in the country. The case has been investigated by Alexander Grant, the assistant general superintendent of the railway mail service. Schibsby stated that his arrangements were made in good faith and that they were not made until after he had notified the chief clerk of his division of his intention to resign from the service.

The Post Office Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The investigation of affairs at the post office department is proceeding as rapidly as possible, and the investigating officials hope to close their inquiries by Aug. 1. Postmaster General Payne said that all the salient points of the investigation probably would be disposed of by the end of this month, but that the rest of the work might continue for a considerable time. The only development announced at the department was the promulgation of the letter of former First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, who enters a denial of the Tulloch charges.

Block Cutters' Strike Ends.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., June 3.—The block cutters' strike, which was inaugurated March 18 and was followed May 8 by the manufacturers locking out the table cutters, thus affecting the 10,000 glove workers in Fulton county, was settled as a result of the intervention of Messrs. M. A. Marks and Samuel B. Donnelly of the National Civic federation, New York. A conference between these representatives and those of the Glove Manufacturing association and the several unions interested resulted in the making of mutual concessions, neither side claiming a victory.

Rear Admiral Rivet Dined.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Rear Admiral Rivet, commander in chief of the north Atlantic squadron of the French navy, was a guest of honor at a dinner given by Ambassador Jusserand at the French embassy last night. Ambassador Jusserand proposed the health of President Roosevelt and Secretary Root proposed the health of President Loubet of France. Admiral Rivet responded to the toast, "The American Navy," Admiral Dewey responding to the toast, "The French Navy."

Queen Helena Receives Meyer.

ROME, June 3.—Queen Helena received in private audience the United States ambassador, Mrs. Meyer and their two daughters, whom her majesty had expressed a special desire to see. Queen Helena conversed in a most kindly manner, saying many complimentary things about America and Americans, whom, she said, she always received with great pleasure.

Lacour Ordered Under Arrest.

LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

NOVELTIES IN LIGHTING.

Artistic Ways of Softening Electric Light Glare—Floral Effects.

More than half of the beauty of a room consists in its artistic lighting. The hard light of gas or electric globes has done more than a little to spoil otherwise artistic effects.

When first electric light was introduced it was unwelcome on account of its harsh white glare. Now, however, manufacturers have invented new and soft tones in glass which allow a mellow pleasant light to filter through, and the greatest ingenuity has been devoted to designing bulb holders.

PRETTY LIGHT BRACKETS.

The illustration shows two of the most recent. One is a bunch of flowers and is done in green bronze and tinted glass. The other is an artistic hall lantern of ruby glass and wrought iron. Muffled glass is toned in every color and may be bought in the most attractive opalescent tints, in the soft gray green of ancient vitrified glass, or it will show the strange glint of mica.

Even the humblest gas jet or electric light bulb may be made soft and beautiful by the addition of a crape paper flower which will give dainty tints to the light which it veils.

Just now the approved fixture for a hall is a polished iron lantern of Flemish shape, its panels filled with green or amber muffled glass, the whole hanging from an arm fixed in the wall. Old flat bottomed Venetian lanterns, as well as empire torches, are also used on stairways.

For the table elaborate flower pieces in glass or silver are made. The light shed through the flowers reflects the exact shade of the petals. When the floral centerpiece is not adopted electric candles with floral shades of muffled glass often take their place.

BEATRICE MILLER.

THE SUMMER PIAZZA.

Beautify It and Make the Home Attractive For the Heated Term.

No matter how small the piazza is it can be made into a delightful little nook for warm evenings so that when the man of the family comes home he will find a cool spot in which to sit and doze or enjoy his paper.

One family I know has transformed the rather wide piazza into an ideal summer living room. The house is part wood and part stone and the lower half—what would be the railing of the veranda—is of stone. On the top of this has been placed a long, narrow row of boxing painted a dull green and filled with flowers of the hardy variety—geraniums, heliotrope, nasturtiums, etc.. The spaces between the pillars are fitted with shades of split bamboo, which may be raised and lowered at will. This is very convenient in case of rain, and it keeps the piazza always partially shady. A rug or two cover the floor, and wicker chairs painted green or red are scattered here and there. There are a couple of rustic tables bearing books and magazines and two or three lamps hung for safety on wrought iron brackets.

If in a mosquito district it would be well to inclose the veranda with screens and to have a screen door. These screens may be partially covered by climbing vines.

If wicker furniture is not desired the plain wood mission furniture may be used.

A hammock, a tea table and a lot of linen covered pillows are necessities.

If a piazza is fitted up in this fashion its uses are without number. At any rate, the rest of the house will be pretty sure to be deserted in its favor.

HELEN CLIFTON.

Cape Pelerines.

Some of the cape pelerines have long tabs. These are bordered with mull ruffles and are also decorated with the pretty diamonds and the other shaped medallions and much lace, always white. Chenille embroidery is also employed to ornament some of the long tabs and the shoulder part. Some have beautiful jet fringes and others velvet grapes and cherries. One has much latitude in choice.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

This was done, and Mr. Everett resumed: "I presume, Col. Franklin, that you remember that about a year ago the safe of John T. Wright was entered by one of his clerks named Morris and some of its contents abstracted?"

"Yes."

"And that Morris is now in China?"

"Yes."

"By the way, do you know that he is in China?"

"I was not thinking. I meant that he had left this part of the country."

"Then you have not learned that he is in China?"

"No; I may have heard it, but I do not recall it."

"Have you not within the last month received a letter from China?"

"I have not."

"I hope you will reconsider that answer, colonel; for I have in my possession an affidavit from the letter carrier who delivered your mail, in which he swears that he delivered to you a letter bearing the postmark of China, which attracted his attention on account of its rarity."

"I shall admit nothing."

"Did you not receive a letter from Tom Morris in China, telling you that he had stolen the agreement from Wright and handed it to your clerk Hillsman, to give to you?"

"I did not."

"Did you not make such a statement to Hillsman in the presence of Irving Warde, the city editor of the Gazette?"

"I decline to answer."

"On what ground?"

"That the answer might be prejudicial to me."

"Oh, then, I will not press it. Did you, or did you not, pay Tom Morris to steal that agreement from Wright's safe?"

"I demand the protection of the court from this brutal examination," said Franklin, aggressively. "I am not on trial, and——"

"If it please the court, I will ask no questions that are not justified by the testimony in my possession. The witness has not replied to my last question."

"No!" thundered Franklin.

"Did Mr. Wright notify you a few days before he was murdered that he desired to have all his property placed back in his name?"

"No."

"Is this your watch?" said Mr. Everett, quickly, handing to the witness the unidentified watch which had been pawned by Herbert Wright on the day of the murder.

Franklin changed countenance perceptibly, but answered promptly: "It is not."

"Is this your diamond pin?" handing him the pin that had never been identified.

"It is not."

"On the day that Mr. Wright was murdered, were you in the Bayou Woods at all?"

"No."

"You were out there the next day?"

"Yes."

"Did you see anyone that day with arctics on?"

"I did not?"

"Did you wear a pair of them yourself?"

"I did not."

"When was the last time you saw John T. Wright alive?"

"Let me see. I think it was the day before he was killed."

"Were you or were you not present when Wright was killed?"

"I suppose as the court offers no objection, I shall have to answer that question. I was not present."

"Is this your pistol?" asked Mr. Everett, handing him the weapon with which it was supposed Wright had been killed.

"It is not."

"Did you have possession of it at any time?"

"I did not."

"I have only one more question to ask," said Mr. Everett, in a most impressive manner, while an intense, silent expectancy pervaded the court room. "The witness has the legal right to decline to answer it."

"Well, what is it?" asked Franklin, turning slightly pale.

"Did you murder John T. Wright?"

Franklin sprang impetuously from his seat, crying furiously: "This passes all the bounds of tolerance, and I shall hold you to account for it——"

Here the court, amid the wildest kind of excitement, said: "The question is not proper;" but the utterance of the judge was like a reproof to a storm at sea.

Men and women arose from their seats, so intense was the feeling. It was a time when pistols were precariously prevalent, and there was an indefinable dread that they might be used. Amid it all the voice of Mr. Everett, singularly clear and ringing, could be heard:

"May it please your Honor, the witness announces that he will hold me to account for the charge implied in my question. I am entirely willing that he should do so. Herbert Wright's defense is that the murderer of John T. Wright is James Franklin, and——"

Here the lawyer paused for a moment, and fearlessly regarded the blanched face of Franklin as he concluded:

"And I shall prove it."

CHAPTER XV.

Mr. Everett's startling announcement terminated the morning session of the court. A scene more dramatic and thrilling had never been witnessed in that room and during the recess for dinner the excitement communicated itself over the entire city. Franklin was credited with being a man of nerve, and many thought he would attack Lawyer Everett when court had adjourned; and at one time when they were thrown accidentally together in the crowd, it looked as if a collision were inevitable. But Franklin, if he thought of it at all, put the inclination aside, and no trouble occurred. It is possible that he was too much concerned about the damaging facts brought out against him and with speculations as to the proof held in reserve by Everett to squander his time in personal altercation. During the recess he rushed from place to place, putting a number of agencies to work to bring his forces together. He wanted Hillsman. There was work for Old Tom and his comrade. He needed Merivale. But defeat confronted him at every step. He seemed to be absolutely deserted, for nowhere were his accomplices to be found; and when the recess was over he felt that he had accomplished nothing.

"Mr. Everett," said Warde, as they were going together toward the courthouse, "you have a great dramatic instinct. The most skilled French playwright could not have arranged a more startling climax than you did this morning in court."

"Perhaps there is an art in this kind of thing as well as playwrighting. I have always endeavored in a case like this to give it color, to make sharply defined points, to make it unfold itself, to give it 'go.'"

"But wasn't it a little risky to introduce your climax in the first act, as it were?"

"Not in this case, which goes from climax to climax. Even you will be startled when I get through with the testimony. I have a little surprise which I have kept in store for you particularly."

"I thought I knew this case inside out."

"Wait and see if you do."

Reliable Wins at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Reliable, running in the colors of W. C. Whitney, won the Carlton stakes of $5,000 at Gravesend. The son of Watercress—Arnette was second choice in the betting. Tommy Burns, his rider, rode an excellent race, avoiding the early pace and bringing his mount home a winner by two lengths. Fire Eater, the pace maker to the stretch, lasted long enough to beat the favorite, River Pirate, for the place. The time, 1:40 flat, is within three-fifths of a second of the track record made by Commando in 1901.

Esherin Wins In a Gallop.

CINCINNATI, June 3.—The Latonia Oaks was decided over a heavy track and resulted in an easy victory for John F. Schorr's filly Esherin. Esherin was favorite in the betting at 3 to 5 and was the only horse played in the race by the big bettors. After the first half the race was just a gallop for her. Jockey Hyams was thrown at the post in the third race and received a fracture of the shoulder. He was on Senor, who was left at the post.

Prospect Park Opens.

BALTIMORE, June 3.—The spring meeting of the Prospect Park Racing association opened yesterday afternoon. Three thousand persons attended. Two favorites and one second choice carried off the prizes. Talpa Wins Mile Handicap.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Talpa, at 12 to 1, won the mile handicap for three-year-olds and upward at Hawthorne, with The Forum, 9 to 1, second and McChesney, 5 to 1, third, a head in front of Lucien Appleby, the favorite. The time was 1:43 2-5. Talpa was next to the longest shot in the race and won by two and a half lengths.

FOUL TIPS.

At the fair of the North Plainfield Orescents Saturday, $20 was realized. The proceeds will go towards the purchase of new suits for the baseball nine.

Cox will probably continue to play at short for Alis until June 13, when he may join another team. If he is obliged to go, it is likely that Worthly, a crack shortstop from Brooklyn, will take his place.

The fans are pleased that Richardson is to occupy first base for Alis. He is considered one of the strongest men in this position in the Metropolitan district. Besides he is exceptionally strong at the bat.

The line-up of Alis baseball team for next Saturday's game with the Pearsall A. C., will probably be as follows: Hope, p; Barnes, c; Richardson, 1b; Flynn, 2b; Cox, ss; Heminger, 3b; Lederer, lf; George Dupee, cf; William Schoonmaker, rf.

INQUEST IN SHOOTING CASE

CORONER'S JURY INVESTIGATING WILLIE JAMES' DEADLY ACT.

Testimony Taken at Mt. Bethel This Morning—Proceedings in Somerset Hotel This Afternoon.

An inquest into the death of little Theressa Watson, who was shot a week ago Monday by William James, is being held this afternoon at the Somerset Hotel. This morning the members of the jury, consisting of six North Plainfield citizens went to Mt. Bethel where the shooting occurred and secured several points of value.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the members of the jury again assembled in the parlors of the Somerset Hotel where the testimony of witnesses, the physicians and others is being heard. It is probable that the inquest will be a short one.

The jury which was sworn in a week ago today by Coroner Fisher, of Bound Brook, comprises: Frank Whitley, foreman; Hiram Flanders, David Sharp, Augustus Sutterlein, Albert DeCamp and Phillip Currin. Dr. Buchanan, Dr. Endicott and Dr. Pittis, will probably be called to testify regarding the operation and autopsy.

A VERITABLE PARK OF PRETTY HOMES

So Says Mr. Huntsman in Describing the Beauties of Plainfield.

AIR AND WATER PURE

FEW PLACES OF GREATER WEALTH PER CAPITA.

People Love Town So Much That They Take No Chances on Other Places, Dying Only When Necessary.

In the current number of the Suburbanite, issued by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, R. F. R. Huntsman, of East Front street, gives a description of this city. The contribution, entitled "The attractions of Plainfield," is happily illustrated by scenes on the Hyde estate, the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club's course, Central avenue, the gardens of L. V. F. Randolph's estate and the interior of a home. Mr. Huntsman says:

"People who used to hang on a strap night and morning in New York now like to live in Plainfield. Gradually their arms again assume human proportions, and they remind one less of our Simian ancestors, who also hung upon elevated affairs.

"One plain reason for being a Plainfielder is the facility of railroad transportation, and the comfort of it. The oldest inhabitant cannot recall a day when he had to stand in a New Jersey Central Railroad car while he was whirled to or from business. There is a seat for everyone, and sometimes two, and the more exclusive have reserved easy chairs in club cars at an extra cost of a few cents per day. There are also special women's cars, where timid femininity may seek extraordinary seclusion. The running time—and it is not a myth—is from forty to forty-five minutes on the express trains, which have no intermediate stops between New York and Plainfield.

"With such commuting comforts has come a comfortable community. Forty minutes from heat and noise and metropolitan furore is here a peaceful town of pretty homes, cozy clubs, homely comforts and society which is not all fuss and feathers.

"The later John Taylor Johnston, for many years the President of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, selected Plainfield as the most beautiful town on his road, and built there a stately mansion which still is today one of the handsomest country seats in New Jersey. The grounds reach from East Front street, which is the old Post Road from New York to Philadelphia, to the summit of Watchung Mountains, and are indeed a veritable park. Mr. Johnston's friends and their friends' friends have transformed the Plainfield of early days, until now it is known along the road as the 'Nabob Town.' Probably there are few cities in the country of greater wealth per capita.

"The multiplicity of handsome country seats is most noticeable even to the casual visitor, but there are also hundreds of less pretentious dwellings set among the winding roadways and broad avenues of this great garden of green and bloom. The wealthy Plainfielders could not make the city beautiful for themselves alone if they wished, which they certainly do not, for nowhere are there less evidences of snobbishness. The beauty of the place is enjoyed by all who live there, and the pure dry air makes it also most healthful.

"Underneath the city is a broad, swiftly flowing subterranean river of purest water. This water supplies not only Plainfield, but all nearby towns; but here it is freshest and clearest and nearer to its natural state.

"With electric lights, gas, water, good police service and fire protection, unlimited telephone service at $30 per year, and miles upon miles of macadamized roads and driveways, the convenience of living in the 'country' compares well with living in the city of New York. People live long in Plainfield. They love the town so much that they fear to take chances upon any other abiding place, and die only when it is absolutely necessary."

Remains Here.

The remains of the late Charles Blume arrived in Plainfield from California, this morning. The funeral will be held at 29 Grandview avenue tomorrow evening.

JAMES BOY GUILTY OF GROSS CARELESSNESS

Coroner's Jury Renders Verdict After Hearing Many Witnesses.

LAD GOES BACK TO JAIL

JUDGE SCHENCK MAY SEND HIM TO REFORM SCHOOL.

Verdict Causes Little Surprise—Inquest in Boyce's Hotel Lasts Three Hours—The Witnesses Heard.

After twenty minutes' deliberation after the inquest held yesterday by Coroner Fisher, of Somerset County, for the purpose of placing responsibility for the death of little Theressa Watson, who was shot by Willie James, on Monday, May 25, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental shooting caused by the gross carelessness of the James boy. The lad will be held in custody on the charge of criminal carelessness pending the action of Judge Schenck, of Somerville. He will probably send the boy to the Reform School. The verdict handed in caused little surprise as the testimony seemed to show that the lad did not deliberately aim the gun at the girl.

The inquest was held in the parlor of the Somerset Hotel at the corner of Somerset street and Lincoln place. Coroner Fisher and Detective George R. Totten were present with the boy. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who attended the child and who performed the autopsy, said that the little girl's wound did not show any powder marks and that her death was due to shock brought about by the shooting. The bullet, found by Dr. Endicott, who assited at the autopsy, was exhibited to the jurors. It was badly dented. He said that the same bullet which had entered the abdomen of the child caused a wound in the girl's thumb.

Willie James, the boy who did the shooting, appeared much confused when testifying. It seemed that he was telling an entirely different story than he told to Prosecutor Griggs, of Somerset County, only a few hours before. The lad declard that Theressa Watson stole the gun, with which she was subsequently shot, from Mrs. Baldwin's parlor, while he took the bullets from the kitchen. He said that he took the Watson girl and his sister Ethel and brother Orville, for a short walk Saturday morning and that they journeyed further than they thought they had so they continued on to Mrs. Baldwin's house. The gun went off, he said, when he was holding it towards the ground. He was allowed to show the jurors in what position he held the weapon when Theressa was shot. According to his demonstration the bullet struck the ground first and then rebounded upward. The girl was in the act of putting on her shoe when the gun exploded.

James Watson, aged seventeen years, the brother of the little girl who was shot, told how he found the children while his brother, Charles Watson, aged twelve years, testified to discovering the children on the roadway. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Sachs said the children were harbored at her home and she dressed the girl's injuries. Her son, William G. Sachs, testified to having driven the children to this city. James Loughlin, proprietor of the Mt. Bethel Hotel, told of having had a talk with the boy on the way to this city while Mrs. Emma H. Baldwin, of Liberty Corner, related the story of the visit of the children to her house.

Eight years old Ethel James related, in a confused manner, her story of the trip. She said that her brother had quarreled with the little girl because she could not walk fast enough. The jury was composed of Frank Whiteley, foreman; Hiram Flanders, David Sharp, Augustus Sutterlein, Albert DeCamp and Phillip Currin.

TOO MUCH BITTERS FOR PAT

COURT ORDERS INQUIRY INTO STREET SWEEPER'S CONDITION.

News in Police Court—"A Family Fight"—Costly to be Rude to Officer.

Family troubles between the Busses and Johnsons of South Second street were aired in the city court this morning. Mary Johnson charged Mrs. George Buss and her daughter, Freda, with maltreating and annoying herself and members of her family. Judge Runyon gave both parties good advice and suspended sentence.

It took Patrick Kearns just ten minutes yesterday to transform himself from a perfectly sober condition into a sadly bemuddled and helpless state of intoxication. Pat is very popular with his friends and "touches" them periodically and systematically for the price of a "speak lightly." His Honor thought his record so remarkable as to require an examination by the city physician.

John E. Settler, colored, took a ride on his bicycle last evening and failed to light his glim. He also "sassed" the cop and paid $2 for the privilege this morning. Isadore Hayman was fined $3 for peddling without a license.

The Ridgway, Pa., Advocate, says of the Ridgway Machine Tool Company which began the first practical working of its new plant recently: "The Company has secured some very fine talent for the heads of its work, and most of them are already in charge of their new positions. Lewis Morgan, who comes from Plainfield, N. J., is the superintendent of the works; Daniel Miller, from the same place, is foundry foreman; and James Bell, also from Plainfield, is head machinist. F. B. Cockburn, the designer and chief draftsman, who likewise comes from Plainfield, will reach Ridgway in a few days and begin the duties of his new position. These men have all been employed for years by one of the leading machine tool manufacturing companies of the country, and are all thoroughly trained in the business." The company is now erecting large steel and brick buildings.

POPULAR COUPLE AT HYMEN'S ALTAR

Miss Ada C. Nash Marries Albert L. Wilson at Home in Prospect Avenue.

FRIENDS THRONG HOUSE

AFTER HONEYMOON IN NEW ENGLAND STATES TO RESIDE HERE.

Bride a Popular Young Woman—A Daughter of Justice Vincent W. Nash—Groom An Employe of C. R. R. of N. J.

Friends and relatives thronged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent W. Nash, in Prospect avenue, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ada C. Nash to Albert L. Wilson, of Elmwood place, which was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. Church.

The bride was gowned in white silk and carried a shower bouquet. She was attended by Miss Annie Kelly, as bridesmaid; Miss Anna L. Warnock, as flower girl and LeRoy Leland, a nephew of the bride as page. The flower girl was dressed in white, trimmed with pink ribbons and she carried a basket of roses. The best man was Frank Quass, of this city.

In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, the decorations consisting of roses, palms and smilax, were greatly admired. After the couple had been made one, congratulations and best wishes were extended and a social time followed, during which an elaborate supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left their friends later in the evening for a wedding tour through the New England States. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping in this city.

The bride received a complete set of dinner dishes from the clerks at Woodhull & Martin's store and a handsome vase from the firm. The gift of the bride to the bridesmaid was an emerald ring and to the flower girl a gold bracelet.

The bride was handsomely remembered with pretty wedding gifts by relatives and friends, including her friends at Woodhull & Martin's store, where she was engaged for some time as a saleswoman. Mrs. Wilson's father is Past Grand Master Workman of the Ancient Order United Workman and has been a Justice of the Peace for many years. The groom like the bride has a host of friends. He is now in the employ of the New Jersey Central.

The couple was given a royal send-off when they left town. The coach carrying them to the railroad station was appropriately decorated, while the occupants did not escape a shower of rice.

There were guests present at the wedding from Brooklyn, Newark, Jersey City, Cold Spring, N. Y., Jamaica and Lyndhurst, L. I., and this city.

The pupils will be assisted by several soloists and by Miss Jessie M. Utter at the organ and Miss Mabel Maxson at the piano. Chas. L. Lewis will have charge of the music.

BRILLIANT WORK AT PUPIL RECITAL

Those Under Instruction of E. Arthur Janke Give Clever Performance.

CLASSICAL RENDITIONS

PUPILS OF MISS CAHOONE PARTICIPATE IN ENJOYABLE RECITAL.

Names of Pupils Appearing on Programme—Mr. Janke to Devote More Time to Work in New York—Less Time Here.

The piano recitals by the pupils of E. Arthur Janke at his residence, 203 West Ninth street, Tuesday afternoon and evening and last evening, attracted a large number of friends and the parents of the pupils. The work of the pupils, who have received such care and training, was refreshing to the audience. The selections were all classical and were rendered in a brilliant manner. Three pupils of Miss Florence Cahoone, a graduate pupil of Mr. Janke, took part in the recitals and their work reflected the same care and thorough instruction received by Miss Cahoone.

Mr. Janke will limit his class of pupils in piano instruction for next season, as he will have to devote more time to professional students of music in New York. Richard Burmeister, the well-known piano virtuosa, who has left this country to resident permanently in Germany has given Mr. Janke charge of a number of his former pppils.

The pupils taking part in the three recitals were Miss Louise Andrews, Miss Ruth Berry, Miss Gladys Biglow, Miss Lucie Budlong, Miss Florence Cahoone, Miss Edith Cairns, Miss Maysie Day, Miss Jeane Douglas, Miss Beatrice Hedges, Miss Blanche Heideloff, Miss Alverda Holland, Miss Ida Lie, Miss Jeanie Millar, Miss Catherine Quinn, Miss Marguerite Serrell, Miss Leonora Sloane, Miss Ruth Shupp, Miss Queena Tillotson, Miss Priscilla VanWyck, Miss Evelyn Wells, Miss Rosa Woltmann and Robert Phillips, Effingham Pinto, Charles Titsworth, George Endicott, Howard Ladd, Kenneth Runyon, Roy Titsworth, Wilbur Tovell and Felix Janke.

LEGALITY QUESTIONED.

The State Bar Association Doubts Constitutionality of Rules for Admission.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 4—A motion was made before the Supreme Court yesterday to have declared as unconstitutional the act providing certain conditions under which admission to the bar can be gained. The suit is brought at the instance of the State Bar Association.

Today the board of examiners appointed by the Court, will sit to receive applications from would-be lawyers. The question of whether the rules of the Court for the selection of its own officers, or the legislative enactment, which apparently has for its object the circumvention of those rules in certain cases, will govern, will immediately come up.

To decide it the board will turn to the Supreme Court.

THE WOMAN MAY HAVE KILLED HERSELF

Authorties Obtain Clues by Examining Clothing on Dead One's Body.

SMALL VIAL IN BODICE

BELIEF THAT BOTTLE ORIGINALLY CONTAINED POISON.

Think Her Name Was Smith—Though Possibly it May Have Been Randolph—Investigation Going On.

A clew to the identity of the remains of the woman found in the woods near South Plainfield has been found and Coroner John V. Hubbard, of Middlesex County, was in this city and Westfield this morning working up the case. The woman is believed to have been a Smith as the initials on four black bordered handkerchiefs and on an underskirt were "A. S." and on the shirt band of a petticoat was written with a pen and ink "A. Smith."

The remains were removed to New Brunswick yesterday afternoon and the clothing was searched. Inside the corset was a pair of scissors, about four inches in length, while in her bodice was found a small vial on the label of which was the name of a Westfield druggist and the letters, seen through a microscope seem to indicate that the bottle contained poison. Coroner Hubbard is endeavoring to find out who purchased the bottle.

There was also a letter found on the body but the rain and weather has left it almost a blank excepting for the name on the bottom which is impossible to read except through a glass. The name appears to be "Smith." The dress was black and on the body was a black tucked waist trimmed with little black buttons.

Prosecutor John S. Voorhees, of Middlesex County, is of the opinion that the woman either became exhausted and went to the place to die or that she committed suicide by taking poison.

Investigation among the people who live in that vicinity revealed the fact that late in February a woman, answering the description of the dead woman, called at the house of Mrs. O'Keefe near the spot where the body was found about sunset and had some supper for which she paid fifteen cents. She acted as if demented and said that she was on her way to Westfield. Mrs. O'Keefe says that the woman who visited her had two handkerchiefs with black borders. She talked in an irrational manner at times.

A correspondent from Washingtonville states that a person answering the description of the dead woman has been missing from that place for three months. Her name was Mrs. Daniel Randolph. She eloped with a hired man after moving to Rahway and since the latter part of February has not been heard from.

PROSPEROUS SOCIETY.

Benevolent Band Closes Its Season Under Very Favorable Conditions.

The Benevolent Band, of King's Daughters, held its final meeting for the season, yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Sprague Martin, in Hillside avenue, when reports were received and the year's business was concluded. It was stated that at the recent lawn fete given at Mrs. Martin's home the sum of $155 was cleared. The Band has pledged $200 this year toward the City Union King's Daughters' nurse, and this sum will be raised with little trouble. All reports showed the Band to be in a flourishing condition financially and otherwise.

SOCIETY PERFORMERS.

An Act Not on the Programme, But Quite Amusing.

A number of society people in attendance at the Welsh Bros. show last evening gave a circus performance of their own which was received with much enthusiasm. The party occupied benches in front of the band. Twice during the performance the seats collapsed under the unwonted pressure and deposited the occupants with much emphasis upon the ground, the "act" causing loud and long-continued applause. The victims were mostly members of the Hillside Golf Club.

Miss Elizabeth Roeder, of Milltown, N. J., was a visitor in this city yesterday.

After leaving the commercial section of the river you see Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive and the Palisades, while further along there is Anthony's Nose, the Crow's Nest and West Point.

The visit to the grounds and buildings of the Military Academy at West Point is both interesting and instructive as this is the place the generals are trained and on whom the safety of this beloved country often depends. This will be a first-class family excursion, no intoxicating liquors being offered for sale on the steamer.

There will be music on the steamer and the restaurant will be in charge of a first-class caterer. The train leaves Plainfield station at 8:02 a. m. Round trip tickets, $1. Don't forget this trip. —5 28 td

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

New Jersey Democrats are apparently not seeing eye to eye in reference to the candidates for the presidential nomination. They don't seem to harmonize. For instance, Farmer Orator Martine is declaring that neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Cleveland will do for a nominee, while Allan McDermott is saying that Cleveland is the best-equipped man in the party for the nomination, and is the first choice of the Democrats of New Jersey. The probabilities are that Mr. Martine better voices the sentiment of the majority of the New Jersey Democrats.—Elizabeth Journal.

It is the idea of Secretary of State Dickinson to place the first installment of the new voting machines in districts where they can do the most good—that is to say, in voting precincts that have not been above suspicion in the past in regard to crookedness. The Secretary has invited sugestions by Senators and Assemblymen. The introduction of the machine in eighty-one voting precincts at the next State election will be only preliminary to the general use of the machines throughout the State. In all probability the total cost will be borne by the State treasury.—Trenton True American.

The newspapers of New Jersey have been giving expression to a jubilant chorus over the arrest of a man in this city on the charge of having given false information to a newspaper. It will prove a wholesome lesson to the "smart Alecks" who think it great sport to "load" newspaper reporters with fake stories. This mean offence is punishable in New Jersey with a $500 fine or two years in prison. Some people think the law might properly be extended to include negligent and sensational reporters, who give their papers false or half false stories because they are too lazy or too indifferent to secure the facts, or else palm off inventions in place of the truth.—New York Herald.

Among the rifle experts who are gathered today at Sea Girt to compete for places on the all-America team to contest for the Palma trophy at Bisley, England, on July 11, there are two in whom there is local interest. One is our present fellow citizen, Captain William B. Martin, and the other Chaplain J. Madison Hare, a former resident. Both have achieved great honors in puncturing the black of the target, and there is great expectancy that at least one of them will be the Jerseyman who secures a place on the team. In the competition are entered probably the best shots in the United States, representing the regular army, the navy and marine corps, and the National Guard. There is extraordinary interest in the event this week for the reason that it is the first time the regular army, navy and National Guard have been brought into close competition. The match for the Palma trophy will be an international event; different Nations will be represented by teams. The trophy has been successively won by American, Canadian and English riflemen.—Elizabeth Journal.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

One of the most interesting cases in veterinary surgery seen in this city in some time is that of the fire horse, Jim, which was injured in the accident on Park avenue recently. The wound, which was nearly fifteen inches in length has been healed partly by what is known as "first intension." Almost eleven inches has thus been healed which, in a horse is remarkable. The wound which was an ugly one to heal was sewed together by Dr. Lewis Pocock, in whose hospital the horse is confined and so well has the gash healed that the horse will be ready for duty again inside of a month. Veterinarians who have seen the wound say that it is a remarkable thing that it has healed so rapidly.

The Home News, New Brunswick yesterday published the following dispatch from Asbury Park:

"Thomas W. Morrison, formerly editor of the Plainfield Evening News, astonished the Ministers' Association, which met at St. Paul's Methodist church, Ocean Grove, yesterday, by his wonderful disclosures regarding a discovery he had made concerning the composition of electricity. He contended that electricity was composed of nothing but oxygen and that his discovery explains life itself.

"Mr. Morrison repeated his lecture Tuesday evening at the Methodist Temple, Asbury Park. The local papers give extended space to his remarkable discoveries. He has been investigating electrical subjects for some years. Years ago Mr. Morrison made a fortune out of sewing machine patents. Later he went into the newspaper business. For the last few years, however, he has been calmly enjoying on a competence the autumn of his eventful career. He lives at the Imperial Hotel."

THEATRICAL.

The long run of George Ade's "The Sultan of Sulu" will end at Wallack's Theatre on June 13 and on Saturday, June 27 the complete production will be transferred to Manhattan Beach where it will open the summer season and remain for two weeks. "The Sultan of Sulu," despite the fact that it has been there about six months already, could easily have run through the summer at Wallack's. The theatre management contemplate such extensive alterations in the house that it had to be turned over to the contractors not later than June 15.

At Proctor's Newark a splendid show has been scheduled. The headliner will be Edward Lang and Company in the comic opera travesty, "Princess Florah." Loney Haskell will appear in a brand new monologue. J. K. Hutchinson and Rolinda Bainbridge will present Edmund Day's latest playlet, "Raising the Wind." Others on the bill will be Hohannon and Corey, "novelty illustrated singing act; the Three Westons, musical comedians in "The Messenger Boy" and fifteen other star specialists.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. Coolbaugh, Milo Center, N. Y.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and, continuing their use all the pain left me."

NO HOSTILE FEELING

To Chamberlain's Proposal For Imperial Zollverein.

MUST BE WARM COLONIAL SUPPORT

Australian Reports Are Not Conclusive, as the Nature of Colonial Secretary's Proposals Are Not Fully Known.

LONDON, June 4.—In reply to a correspondent who inquired regarding the alleged hostile feeling in the colonies toward Mr. Chamberlain's imperial zollverein proposals the colonial secretary has written the following letter:

"I need hardly point out to you that if colonial opinion were indeed hostile or even apathetic there would not be the slightest possibility of carrying through so great a reform, and I should feel justified in abandoning the struggle if I were not warmly supported by the colonies. I do not, however, accept the reports and articles on Australian opinion as in any way conclusive, and I shall certainly be much interested to know what is the final judgment as far as public opinion can be tested when the nature of my proposals becomes known."

The expected meeting of the cabinet has not yet been held, but the cue of the ministers appears to be to earnestly repudiate any intention of appealing to the country in the near future. Walter Long, president of the local government board, speaking at Epworth, took this view and declared that the government would take its own time and not allow its hands to be forced by the Opposition. He also protested against the great problem being smothered at its birth by a flood of declamation.

Among other speeches on the same subject was one by Sir Charles Dilke at a dinner of the Gloucester Liberal club. He said the government had shrunk from taxing cotton, the greatest export of the United States, but intended to put a duty on food stuffs on which the population of Great Britain subsisted. The government, continued Sir Charles, had risked forfeiting one of the greatest safeguards in the event of a general war if the latter interfered with the trade of the United States, because the American fleet would be certain to protect the rights of her citizens who would be feeding Great Britain while the latter fought.

It is already clear that Mr. Chamberlain will have an uphill fight against all the more important labor organizations in the country. All the trades union leaders have spoken strongly against his scheme, while the fact that the corporative congress, representing 2,000,000 of the best class of workers, also opposes any form of protection is considered very significant. It is probably in view of these indications that the ministers and the Unionist party generally are counseling a policy of caution and deliberation before committing themselves to any definite pronouncement.

Shot During Riot, Is Dead.

PITTSBURG, June 4.—"Sandy" Garrett, colored, who was shot during the riot in the West Liberty borough on Sunday, died at the South Side hospital last night. Thirty-three warrants charging riot have been sworn out against supposed participants in the riot. Attorney Haymaker declares no guilty man, white or black, shall go unpunished. Four arrests have been made.

IMPRISONED AND WITHOUT FOOD.

Victims of the Flood of Waters at North Topeka—A Negro Looter Meets His Death While Pillaging.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 4.—The rescuing party sent from here to Topeka, composed of seventy-five men with steam launches and rowboats, returned, and their places will be taken by other volunteers. The St. Joseph men rescued 200 school children from the Grant school, imprisoned there since Friday. The children were in a half starved condition.

The rescuers shot and killed a negro caught in the act of looting deserted houses. They brought back with them the names of thirty identified dead.

The flood condition here remains unchanged. The river has fallen one-tenth of a foot and now remains stationary. A relief fund of $8,000 has been raised here for the flood sufferers at Topeka and Kansas City, and several car loads of clothing and provisions already have been sent. Trains loaded with steam launches and men have also been sent to Kansas City, where assistance is being given in the work of rescue.

Fierce Fires in the Catskills.

CATSKILL, N. Y., June 4.—The fire wardens on the mountain top have called out every available man in Haines Falls and Tannersville to fight the destructive forest fire which broke out on the mountain side immediately back of Elka park. The fire is raging fiercely, and there are fears for the safety of the many fine summer cottages in the park owned by a colony of New Yorkers. The tinderlike condition of the woods and underbrush greatly hampers the fire fighters battling in the stifling smoke and dust and not infrequently suffering for lack of water to quench their thirst.

Hull Has Serious Fire.

OTTAWA, June 4.—A fire last night destroyed twenty-eight houses in the suburbs of the city of Hull, opposite this city. A stiff wind was blowing at the time, and a serious conflagration was threatened. Mindful of the disaster of 1901, this city was at once called upon for aid, but by the time the first engine from Ottawa reached the scene the fire was under control. The buildings destroyed were small dwellings owned by mill workers. The loss is estimated at between $35,000 and $40,000, with no insurance. One hundred homeless people are being cared for by the city.

The Threatened Strike.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 4.—At the session of the three anthracite boards of the United Mine Workers there was little done outside of outlining plans as to what course was best to pursue. They have decided to hold a joint convention of miners at Pottsville on June 15 for the purpose of determining whether or not a general suspension of work shall be declared. They were in session nearly all day, but no statement was made by them outside of the bare announcement of the decision to hold a joint convention.

Forrest Held at Ballston.

BALLSTON, N. Y., June 4.—Postmaster Frank Jones received orders late from the post office department to hold M. M. Forrest, arrested in connection with postal investigation, for the arrival of an inspector to identify him and prefer charges. Forrest waived arraignment and was committed pending the arrival of an inspector from the Jersey City office.

Soldiers Sent to Kansas City.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 4.—Two companies of infantry have been sent to Kansas City, Kan. The government has sent a large amount of tents and other government supplies, and it was deemed expedient to send the troops to guard this property as well as to preserve order. Mayor Gilbert of Kansas City, Kan., asked for the troops.

Bricklayers Return to Work.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

GEM OF THE WEST.

President Roosevelt Welcomed to Illinois.

DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL HALL.

Fifty Thousand People In Lincoln Park Listen to His Excellency and Ten Thousand Greet Him at Joliet.

FREEPORT, Ill., June 4.—President Roosevelt and party reached here from Dubuque and immediately afterward were driven to the site of the Lincoln-Douglas debate in 1858, where a monument commemorating the event was unveiled in the presence of many thousands from Freeport and vicinity.

The feature of the visit of President Roosevelt to Rockford was the dedication of Memorial hall, a $60,000 structure consecrated to the soldiers and sailors of Winnebago county.

Fifty thousand people greeted President Roosevelt at Aurora, Ill. He was first driven to Senator Hopkins' home, where luncheon was served. Then he was escorted to Lincoln park, where he made a short speech to 15,000 people. The day was a general holiday there, and all business was suspended. After a stay of two hours he left for Joliet.

Ten thousand people joined in welcome to President Roosevelt to Joliet. When his train first came in sight whistles of the great steel and iron mills were opened wide, and thousands of employees gathered at the gates to join in the greeting. The president and his party entered carriages with the city officials, and the parade was made through the principal streets. Thousands of school children lined the walks. The route was profusely decorated with flags. At the Central school a stop was made, and a brief speech was addressed to an audience of more than 5,000 people.

The president discussed labor questions and gave his ideas on the modern industrial system. When the president finished his address he entered his carriage, and the horses were driven on a gallop to the train.

At the depot the old soldiers were lined up as guard of honor. The president delayed long enough to make a speech to the veterans. He said they were always entitled to a place of honor in American affairs. In the crowd was a number of Spanish-American war veterans, and the president had a special word for these. Amid the plaudits of the great throng the president's train pulled out.

President Roosevelt put in about the busiest day of his trip from a speech-making standpoint. He made his first speech at Freeport and spoke nine times during the day. Eight of his speeches were made in the open air and several of them in rain storms. The hardest rain encountered was at Pontiac, where he dedicated a soldiers and sailors' monument. The downpour was so heavy when his train arrived that it seemed inadvisable for him to venture out.

"I will leave it to you, Mr. Mayor," he said to that official. "If you say go we will go."

The mayor decided that the president should go, and, wearing a rain coat, he braved the elements.

The most interesting feature of the day occurred at Dwight. The mayor of this place is a Democrat. In introducing the president he said:

"I consider you, Mr. President, the ideal American citizen. I am in favor of the course you have pursued and will support you for re-election."

The president, responding to the introduction, said:

"I am pleased by the kind words the mayor has said to me. Perhaps I prize them especially, Mr. Mayor, coming from one who is not of my party, but the whole thing is, my friends, if we are all good Americans. That is enough platform for all of us to stand on. I prize more than I can say such words as have been uttered by the mayor, and, I assure you, I shall do my best to try to deserve them."

The president also assisted in the opening of a new hotel at Dwight. A wire was run from the hotel to the rear platform of his car, and by pressing a button he started the machinery in the building.

Size Poisons Fish at Malone.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 4.—The burning of a large sulphite pulp and paper mill last week at Malone, N. Y., allowed a large quantity of size, which contains caustic soda, to escape into the Salmon river, and this has killed all the fish in the river below for miles. Dead trout, suckers, eels and other fish are found as far as Westville, eight miles below the pulp mill.

Leo Will Not Receive Loubet.

PARIS, June 4.—It has been intimated unofficially that should President Loubet visit Rome the pope will be unable to receive him not on account of the relations between France and the holy see, but in accordance with Pope Leo's settled policy of not receiving the heads of Catholic states who visit the Quirinal.

Wireless Conference at Berlin.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Brigadier General A. W. Greely, chief signal officer of the army, has been designated a delegate on the part of the United States to the international preliminary conference to formulate regulations concerning the use of wireless telegraphy which will be held at Berlin Aug. 4, 1903.

Four Die on Flying Eagle.

Talk about race suicide—tut, tut! Just notice the number of marriages and births every day in this city.

Fables are turned at last. In New York an automobile was reduced to scrap iron by a collision with a rapid transit train.

The Board of Health in its investigation of the mosquito problem finds that few of those pesty little creatures are bred here. Surely not. Their ill breeding shows that.

Last month was the dryest May ever recorded in this city. During the entire month there was only 0.84 inches of rainfall. On Thursday, May 28, 0.47 inches fell within half an hour.

Can a woman keep a secret? Here is testimony from a high quarter: "Mrs. Shaw lets out secrets; wife of the secretary lays bare the inner workings of politics as they affect her husband." Frailty, they name ——.

Hoist the black flag! The other day a New York chauffeur knocked down and killed a blind musician well-known in the city streets. And he hadn't even the grace, or possibly the the time, to stop and inquire if his victim was hurt.

The history of the Heffernan murder at Ardsley-on-Hudson reads like the opening chapters of a detective story by Anna Katherine Green. Perhaps in its denouement it will maintain its similarity and the person last suspected prove to be the real criminal.

In Philadelphia the authorities burned a pile of slot machines worth thousands of dollars and made the event one for jubilation. If they could only destroy the Quay machine they might save millions of dollars and the whole Nation would join in the rejoicing.

It is reported that a member of the Common Council will introduce an ordinance at the next meeting of that body prohibiting riding on bicycles or in automobiles within the city limits on Sundays. Don't consider this seriously. There is a slight difference between Sunday golf and bicycling in the eyes of the public.

Some fruit growers in various parts of the State complain of the robins. One suggests that they be given the right to kill the birds. The defeat of the bill prohibiting the wanton destruction of pigeons was sufficient to arouse the indignation of right minded people. The man who would have the audacity to introduce a measure in the Legislature to permit the killing of robins would surely rue the day.

Are there not enough wealthy men in this city willing to contribute to the free band concert fund? It is proposed to revive the plan of holding concerts in the City Park during the summer months and already a neat sum has been subscribed. To carry out the worthy scheme about $500 is yet needed. These concerts will provided entertainment for rich and poor alike. When Bandmaster LaVere gave a series of musical festivals in the Park two years ago large crowds gathered to listen to the band. The attendance in each instance proved conclusively that the people found pleasure in such affairs. Mr. LaVere is endeavoring to raise by subscription the amount necessary to cover the expense. Why not make a donation?

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America is in session at Asbury Park. One of its most important tasks will be a revision of the liturgy. The organization of this Church, of which President Theodore Roosevelt is a distinguished member, consists of a General Synod, the four particular synods of New York, Albany, New Brunswick and Chicago and twenty-four classes. There are now 652 individual churches in the denomination and 717 ministers. The present statistics show that there are 61,775 families in the faith and 134,672 pupils in its Sunday-schools. As far back as 1628 the Reformed Church was firmly established in this country. Since then it has grown slowly but steadily and is doing a great work in spreading the Gospel.

Can any city in the State boast of such safeguards to the public health as this municipality proudly claims. The protection insured here by the rigid requirements enforced by the Board of Health has incited the admiration of newspapers and people throughout New Jersey and the reputation extends to New York. This is largely responsible for the increasing population of desirable people. There is hardly a branch of municipal work so important as this, and the local authorities fortunately realize it.

The action of the Board of Education in taking steps to prevent any spread of contagious disease in the schools is the most recent move in the right direction. The Board has decreed that in the future all books used by the pupils must be disinfected twice during the school year. Furthermore, it has ordered that all door knobs, desks, pencils and pen-holders in the schools must be cleansed once a week. To some this may seem on first thought a needless precaution, but a little reflection will bring conviction that when the life and health of so many school children are at stake every effort should be made to prevent disease spreading.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

Tonight will be a gala occasion for the members of the Methodist Church. The mortgage document which has been recently paid off will be publicly burned. There will be special music and many of the former pastors of the church will be present. The principal address of congregation will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Halleran, presiding elder of this district.

If sufficient backing, financial or otherwise, can be secured, the plans of the baseball team for a real old fashioned Fourth of July will be carried out. The plans embrace a circus, baseball games, and all the attractions of a county fair.

NEW MARKET.

The voting held yesterday afternoon to decide whether or not the New Market, South Plainfield and East Bound Brook voting districts shall be lighted by electricity, resulted in a sort of a dead lock. There were, in all, 64 votes cast. Of this thirty were for an appropriation of $250. These votes were balanced, however, by thirty, which were in favor of no appropriation. One vote was cast for $216 and two for $200. It is the general impression that $200 will be the sum set aside for the purpose, as there were no votes against that amount. $250 is the amount that was asked for originally.

The public schools will close next week, earlier than usual as there was no spring vacation.

A large crowd from here attended the circus at Plainfield, last evening.

Rowing on the lake is proving quite a popular means of diversion.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 7—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Modern lessons from the Rechabites—Jer. xxxv, 1-6, 18, 19. (Temperance.)

The Rechabites were a section of the Henites, a Midianitish tribe, who, with the Israelites, had come into Canaan. The real founder of the tribe was Jonadab, a son or descendant of Rechab. They were worshipers of Jehovah, though not Israelites, and the worship of Baal was very offensive to them. To guard them against apostacy and to insure the preservation of their peculiar tribal life Jonadab bound them to abstemiousness and to a nomadic life. They were "to drink no wine," neither were they to build house nor sow seed nor plant vineyard, nor have any, but all your days ye shall dwell in tents." The Rechabites were faithful to the demands of their founder for two centuries and a half. The invasion of Nebuchadnezzar drove them into Jerusalem, where they still resisted the temptations to break their vows. It is claimed that about 60,000 of their descendants still remain. They live near Mecca, in the mountain country northeast of Medina, and still adhere to the old rules of their tribe.

1. The Rechabites teach total abstinence. They did not take a vow to drink but moderately, but to totally abstain from wine. It was an absolute command and embraced every member of the tribe. "Our father commanded us, saying, Ye shall drink no wine, neither ye nor your sons, forever." Under the conditions of life in their day this was their only safe attitude toward intoxicating drinks. Any other course would have been dangerous. They would have been in danger of succumbing to enervating forms of life about them. In total abstinence from strong drink lies our only safety today. If the first glass is never taken, the second cannot be, but if the first is no one can predict the result.

2. The Rechabites teach the possibility of total abstinence. Many people believe that abstinence is impossible. Surrounded on all sides by temptations, their claim is that they cannot refuse to drink. Many honestly believe this, although they would personally prefer not to touch intoxicating drinks. But all temptations by the power of God can be overcome. Look at the Rechabites. They had been surrounded by the general debauchery of Jerusalem and yet were untouched, and when they were brought face to face with temptation under peculiar circumstances they courageously replied, "We will drink no wine." What they did bluntly Daniel under somewhat similar circumstances did more suavely, yet neither suffered for the stand taken. Nor would we today if we kindly, but firmly, declined all invitations to drink wine or other intoxicating drinks. The world honors and admires the man who has convictions and stands by them rather than the one who weakly gives in to its temptations against his convictions.

3. The Rechabites teach the value of total abstinence. The Rechabites lived as they did to preserve their tribal character and to prolong their lives, "that ye may live many days in the land where ye are strangers." For national preservation and a long and happy life they took and kept the Rechabite vows, and they were amply repaid. Intemperance is one of our national sins, and for the nation's welfare the American people need to become more abstemious. And nothing today does more to assure happiness, health and longevity to the individual than temperance in all things. God also blessed the Rechabites for their faithfulness to the rules of their fathers, and in so doing He placed the stamp of His approval upon temperance. That He has stamped intemperance with His disapproval is evidenced by the evils that result from it. Let us therefore follow the example of the Rechabites. Let us decide to totally abstain from intoxicating drinks, and when the tempter says, "Drink ye wine," let us like them courageously reply, "We will drink no wine."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 7, "Keep the Vision of Christ Clear"—Text, Acts vii, 55, 56; xxvii, 25.

What is seen depends as much on the one looking as upon the object viewed. It is less a matter of eyesight than of insight. Some are capable of seeing only the outer shell of a thing, while others look far beyond the husk and view all the inner meaning and power wrapped up in the kernel. One reads only words and never reaches the depth of thought which words are adapted to reveal. One looks on a picture and sees only a beautiful scene and the skill with which the colors are laid on the canvas, while another standing by is all unconscious of the technique and is absorbed in the passionate life, the tragedy of existence, which throbs through every brush stroke and cries out for recognition by some human heart struggling upward into light and freedom.

Here lies the measureless difference between the two groups of men given in the pictures of the texts. Stephen in the council saw what his listeners could not see. He was the soberest reasoner of all the company. His penetration was the most discerning. He recognized the trend and significance of all Israelitish history from Moses to Jesus of Nazareth. He clearly saw the real spirit of his listeners and judges was in nature the same as that which had in all previous ages led their fathers to oppose and persecute the preachers of soul purity and righteousness. As clearly also he saw the infinite superiority and worth of the gospel of Christ above all their pretensions and outward show and knew by a spirit quickened certainty, like open sight, that the truth should triumph. He saw God and His glory. He saw Jesus the one only true Man, established with power at the right hand of God. It was a moment of ecstasy, of divine uplift, of heavenly insight. It was a momentary glimpse only, but it was enough. It was the instant for which all his previous life had made preparation. He had for years reasoned and believed; he now saw.

The worth of life lies largely in the power we acquire to see the invisible which lies all around us striving for recognition through the visible forms of existence. The real lies not on the surface, but is revealed through all the qualities of the visible. It speaks ever in language of marvelous richness. To catch the meaning we must learn the code. No literary taste or scientific attainment, no wealth or beauty or physical grace can master the secret. If the richest gift of human existence is ever obtained, it will come by the power of spirit insight. The vision of the Christ is beyond all other values and stands alone in worth for our striving. It is not an empty dream, not a fanatical fantasy, a rhapsody of an unbalanced brain. It is an ideal flashed with sun clear certainty on the deepest soul nature, transforming the one receiving it into its own likeness. It is the revelation of the divine nature which reveals the possibilities open to human nature of heavenly transformation.

Once seen, if only for an instant, this sight suffices for the artist soul of the Christian. Ever after the task is to put into thought and feeling and will, into look, speech and act, all that the soul saw of the Christ when the heavens were opened and God's glory shone out.

Seek the vision. Expect to see God. Look for Christ. Then study to speak and show Him to all men. Be saved by Him, then save others to Him.

No Matter How Small.

We must see that our seeds, no matter how small and hard, have plenty of good soil to nourish them and abundance of God's sunshine of love as they begin to show their first tiny leaves above the earth, and, if the stems are weak and limp, a strong staff to lean upon or twine about, and every encouragement to make the most of their small possibilities. Even untruthful hearts have been purified and strengthened by divine love and a clear knowledge of the besetting sin to be conquered, so we can always keep up our courage and go on with the good fight of faith.—Evangelist.

Be Cheerful.

Rejoice! Be glad! Be cheerful, of a merry countenance, of a smiling face. Be of good courage, never somber, sad or gloomy. Bubble up and run over with joy. Let it well up from a great heart of love like a reservoir of God, from which you and every one else can draw inexhaustible supplies. Make everybody happy; be full of exultant joy. Your business is to bless. Your mission is to bind up the broken hearted, to lift up the fallen, to inspire and encourage the despondent and fainting, to make every one to be glad and to rejoice.—King's Messenger.

He Is All Powerful.

We must learn to take our faults humbly as proofs of our weakness and use them to increase our trust in God and our mistrust of self. Neither must we be discouraged at our own wretchedness or give way to the thought that we cannot do or bear any special thing. Our duty is, while confessing that of ourselves it is impossible, to remember that God is all powerful.—Jean Nicolas Grou.

Trust Him.

Trust Him for a way when there is no way, for light when there is no light, for all things when you have nothing, for joy when there is only sorrow, for life when you are in the midst of death. Thus you will find at last that faith is not only righteousness, but life and joy and peace.—T. T. Munger, D. D.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION.

Hanna, Conant and Jenks Have Preliminary Conferences.

LONDON, June 4.—The members of the United States international exchange commission (Messrs. H. H. Hanna, Charles A. Conant and Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks) have had several conferences with members of the government this week, though the formal sittings of the commission, designated by the foreign office, will not begin until next week. Sir E. N. Satow, the British minister to China, came to town especially to meet the American delegates and discuss with them informally the feasibility of establishing a uniform currency in China and give them the benefit of his oriental experience.

Much interest is evinced in the work of the commission by the government, the bankers and the large foreign merchants. It is expected that the commission will continue its proceedings for a fortnight in London and then proceed to Paris. The government has received notice of the acceptance by the government of the Straits Settlements of the scheme recommended by the commission.

The plan is so far only a preliminary one. It provides for the adoption of a new distinctive coin to replace at par the existing currency, but the time and method of raising these coins to a gold parity have not yet been settled. The commission will discuss the possibility of harmonizing the policy of the Straits Settlements with that of the local currency of the United States, the Philippines and Mexico.

Gainesville Food Supply Is Low.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 4.—The death list from Monday's tornado has passed the 100 mark. The situation has at no time been exaggerated. At the temporary commissary great crowds of starving people were gathered at daybreak. They held orders signed by subcommittees on relief who had been through the desolated district. To each was issued provisions according to his needs. In nearly every instance the order was for rations for one person for one week. As some families have several members, this issue will last for one day. The supply at the commissary, unless replenished, will soon be exhausted.

Farno Done to Death by Mafia.

NEW YORK, June 4.—The police say the killing of Farno was a Mafia affair. Two men are under arrest, and the arrest of the third is expected at any moment. According to the police, Farno was a squealer and saved himself a term in Sing Sing by aiding in sending three others there for murder. He has paid the penalty. The first visit of the three men to the factory, it is supposed, was to ascertain if the watchman there was really the right man. Having ascertained that he worked all night, they returned in the morning and served him with the fate which, the police say, he undoubtedly feared.

Topeka's Call For Help.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—Mayor Weaver issued the following appeal to the public: "To the People of Philadelphia—The permanent relief committee of the city of Philadelphia earnestly requests subscriptions for the flood sufferers in Kansas. The mayor of Topeka has made a call for financial assistance, and Philadelphia has never been slow to respond to a call to aid the distressed and afflicted not only in our own country, but of other lands. This is a call to assist our afflicted brethren of a sister state. Subscriptions may be sent to Drexel & Co. or to the mayor, chairman of the committee."

No Rain For Forty-eight Days.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 4.—For forty-eight consecutive days no rain has fallen in this section except one day about a week ago, when rain fell gently for ten minutes. The drought has reached a serious stage. Some farmers are turning their cattle into their meadows, as the pastures are dried up and withered. The strawberry crop will be next to nothing, and blueberries will be a minus quantity. Potatoes in some towns have sprouted a little and then dried down. The hay crop will be damaged at least 60 per cent. Grain of all kinds is suffering.

Rations For Gainesville Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary Root has directed that an officer be sent from Fort McPherson to Gainesville and that sufficient quantities of rations be furnished the storm sufferers to prevent loss of life. It is not the purpose of the war department to do more than furnish temporary relief, and supplies as requested by Representative Tate will not be furnished.

Business Section Destroyed.

RICHMOND, Va., June 4.—A large portion of the business section of North Emporia (Belfield) was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire originated in the building occupied by Messrs. J. E. Mayes, H. W. Lamb, the Cato Collier company and others and swept Main street from the storehouse of W. R. Cato to the building of E. A. Bartley & Bro.; loss, about $30,000.

Amnesty to Strikers.

HAVANA, June 4.—The senate by a vote of 10 to 8 passed the bill granting amnesty to everybody arrested in connection with the fatal disturbances which arose out of the strike of cigar makers last November.

Success of Business Women's Luncheon Clubs

SOME years ago Edward Everett Hale, talking one day to a lady belonging to the Clio club of Chicago, remarked that a midday luncheon place ought to be started for girls in business whose means are small.

The Clio club talked and thought the matter over, finally elaborating a working scheme. Three features had equally to be considered—good food, cheapness, cleanliness. An enterprise in club form was settled on, members of the lunch organization paying 25 cents a month. This entitled them to club privileges. Next it was settled that no dish should cost more than 5 cents, while many articles could be given at a cent apiece—say a good slice or two of bread and butter. Close calculation was made, and it was found that a good cup of coffee or tea with real cream could be furnished at 3 cents. The name chosen for the organization was the Noonday Rest club. Tastefully furnished reception rooms, with library, piano and music, were added presently, also a room in which any member who felt ill might lie down.

From the beginning the enterprise proved that it filled a need of the new woman. The menu soon became famous for its excellence. The dishes were homemade. Gradually specialists, all women, were secured for the different departments. One woman made pies, particularly mince, which the girls pronounced "perfectly splendid." She was hired to make all the pastry except the tarts, which were the specialty of an elderly lady, who quickly won fame on the strength of them. There were homemade cookies and salads that could not have been equaled at any high priced restaurant, for no matter how much they cost the atmosphere of the girls' club and the spotlessly clean women cooks would have been lacking to the most expensive viands of a professional restaurant.

There were also days for special dainties. One day in the week was

RECEPTION ROOM OF CHICAGO LUNCH CLUB

"hot gingerbread day," and on that occasion the rooms were crowded. There was also a particular dish made with cheese which appealed marvelously to delicate palates. At each luncheon there was a choice of three kinds of meat, tender and steaming hot; also three vegetables. Slabs of pie, tarts and a dish of vegetables cost each 3 cents. An average meal cost 10 to 13 cents, while a "gorgeous spread" was had for 17 cents. It is on record that once a girl tried to eat all she could buy for a quarter and, though a maiden of healthy appetite, failed. Moreover, meals were served on spotless linen tablecloths and white china.

Members were permitted to bring guests on payment of 5 cents admission for each. Any outside woman might also get luncheon by paying the five cent fee. The condition for regular membership was that the applicant should be a business woman.

Of course one would naturally say there could be no profit at such prices and the enterprise was after all a charitable one. Not so; not at all. In six months, employees being paid good wages, there was a profit in bank to the credit of the establishment of $4,000. It does not seem possible, yet such is the fact. The explanation of the accruing profit is that in this unique establishment waiters are dispensed with. Each girl is her own waiter. The food is divided into portions and placed ready upon hot steam tables. The eater takes a plate and puts upon it what food she wants. A clerk makes note of its price upon a paper which she gives to the luncher. As she goes to her seat at the table the luncher passes a stand where knives, forks, spoons and napkins are ready. She helps herself to these, then sits and eats the food to which she has helped herself.

The plan of the Chicago women's restaurant is here detailed somewhat, because from it have sprung various similar admirable clubs in other cities. And in every city in which the plan has been tried it has been an instantaneous success. There are now two such luncheon clubs in New York, with a loud cry for half a dozen more.

It has been said that women have begged to be permitted to eat at men's restaurants and have been refused. Now the tables are turned. Business men of refinement begin to knock at the doors of the girls' lunch places, craving admission, which unfortunately must so far usually be denied them.

MARY EDITH LAY.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER HENNEDY.

Copyrights, 1903, by A. S. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

They had some difficulty in making their way through the dense crowd to their places within the railing. When the court resumed its sitting, Mr. Everett said he had no further questions to ask the witness Franklin, and he would turn him over to the state. The prosecuting attorney waived cross-examination for he was in some perplexity as to what he wanted to learn. Nothing that Franklin had said had invalidated his case, and if he were guilty the prosecutor did not care to assist him at the expense of an innocent man.

Irving Warde was accordingly put on the witness stand. He told his story well; how he had traced the footprints in the snow that cold morning in December, how his interest in the case—which was known to Franklin—had been attended with personal danger, and an attempt had been made to murder him at Peter's Rest; how he had obtained the agreement from Hillsman and what Franklin had said to Hillsman about Morris; how he had himself made a copy of the agreement at Mr. Everett's house when Franklin was announced, and all that happened with reference thereto. He also gave a detailed account of the demands made upon him for the paper which Hillsman had given him to read.

"Was anyone present when the demand was made?" asked Mr. Everett.

"Yes, sir; the eastern capitalist, Frederick Merivale, was present; but whether he gave any attention to the conversation I could not say."

Lawyer Everett smiled inscrutably at this, but made no comment.

A large number of minor witnesses were then examined. A letter carrier told how he had delivered to Franklin in person a letter bearing the China postmark. Otto Orthaldsden, a little Swiss jeweler, whose shop boasted many odd dainties in the jewelry line and who had a partiality for articles of European make, took the witness stand. He proved to be a very methodical man, for he brought one of his books with him. He examined the unidentified watch, which was of Swiss make, and said he had sold it to Col. James Franklin. Then he produced his book, showing the date of sale of every watch, with its number, make and the name of the person to whom it was sold. A reference to his book showed that he had disposed of No. 9,999 of this particular make to Franklin. The cost of the watch was here also and the date of the payment. The unidentified pin was then shown to him, which he recognized. It, too, had its peculiarities of design and special make, and his professional eye at once located it. He declared that he had sold this pin, or one exactly like it, to Franklin.

John Hauptmann, dealer in boots and shoes, testified that he had secured a small consignment of arctics, the only shipment of the particular kind he thought in the city. He had made only three sales of this kind of overshoe at the time of Wright's murder; one was to the mayor; the second was to the chancellor, and the third was to Frank Hillsman. He sold these three persons all their shoes, and as they wore different numbers he had sold them different sized arctics.

Mrs. Herbert Wright and Mrs. Anderson next testified to the disappearance of the old pistol, and the substitution of the new one with which Wright was supposed to have been killed. Mrs. Anderson also told of the visit of the man in the red flannel shirt.

The jailer and the doctor who had attended Herbert Wright testified to the attempt made to poison the accused, and their suspicions that the man in the red flannel shirt had manipulated it.

Then, to the surprise of many persons, Old Tom, whose real name was Bob Hathaway, was introduced, and he made a clean breast of all his workings in the case. He admitted having been a party to the trap set for Irving Warde, for which job he and his partner were to get a handsome sum conditional on the success of a certain scheme. He confessed that Franklin had hired him for this purpose. He had also dogged Warde's steps on several occasions for Franklin.

His companion, Dick Padgett, confirmed his story in all the essential details.

Finally the man in the red flannel shirt was put upon the witness stand, but this time he had on a blue flannel shirt. He was a very crooked looking customer, but he told a remarkably straight tale. He had done a great deal of "work" for the colonel. The day Herbert Wright was put in jail the colonel had given him the pistol which was in evidence, and had told him to go to Wright's house and substitute it for the old rusty affair which had belonged to the prisoner. The colonel had learned from Mr. Warde that Mrs. Wright was on a visit to her husband and had sent him to make the substitution in her absence. As he was coming out, however, he had been hailed by a lady living near by—Mrs. Anderson—whose testimony he confirmed. Later the colonel had employed him to go to the jail and get one of the prisoners to slip a white powder into Wright's food. He had paid a negro whose name he did not know, to do this. He did not know positively that the powder was poison, but suspected that it was. The flannel-shirt man admitted very naively that he was a general bird-of-prey, who did all such odd jobs and chores as this for the requisite cash. Col. Franklin had been a particularly valuable client of his and had always paid him well; but when at last he had been cornered the colonel had thrown him overboard along with his friends, Padgett and Hathaway. A contemptuous scowl enriched the deepening gloom of Franklin's face as he listened to all this testimony, but he did not open his lips. Just how these men were caught and made to tell what they knew was revealed further on in the trial.

Frank Hillsman now took the stand and told the following story:

"Several months ago when Mr. Wright's safe was robbed, and before the news was out, I met Tom Morris at the N. & L. depot. He was just preparing to leave on the outgoing train. Seeing me, he came up quickly and said:

"'I've got a paper here for the colonel, but I've been called away suddenly and will not have time to see him. I wish you would give it to him and say that I will write about it. It is of the greatest importance that he should get it.'

"I didn't see the colonel that day, and the next morning I was mildly surprised that Morris had been doing the light-fingered act. This caused me to reflect, and I made up my mind to look at the paper he had handed me, which I had supposed was some legal document. I found that it was an old agreement between Wright and Franklin, and that on its back were the words 'John T. Wright's copy, etc.' Putting nose and chin together, I concluded that Morris had stolen this paper from his employer, and that Franklin was aware of it. I have always had a fondness for old documents, curious subjects and occult information generally, and, as this paper evidently did not belong to Franklin, I saw no harm in keeping it awhile. It was possible, if it were of value to anyone, that a reward would be offered for it, and I would naturally get something for finding it. A few weeks after this I picked up from the floor of the office a letter minus an envelope. I examined the contents, of course, to see to whom it belonged, and as the contents were rather surprising, I kept the letter for my collection of curios in crookedness. I have it here."

The witness paused and had the following letter read:

"New York, May 10th, 18—.

"Colonel Franklin: Send me money to Yokohama through some one in New York. I leave for the west to-day and expect to sail for Japan from San Francisco. I have enough money left to get me to Yokohama. Suppose you got the paper all right.

"Yours respectfully,
"THOMAS MORRIS."

When this letter had been read and the hum of interest incident thereto had subsided, Hillsman resumed his story: "Whether Col. Franklin sent him the money I cannot say; but I heard no more of that agreement until two days before Mr. Wright's death. Mr. Wright was in the office that afternoon and I heard him tell Franklin to come to his place in the morning and fix up matters in accordance with the terms of the agreement. I heard him say that he was going hunting in the afternoon of that or the following day, and he wanted to settle the business in the morning. Well, the next morning, of the fatal day—it was snowing, I remember—the colonel left the office after looking over the mail. He borrowed my arctics, I remember, too, and he did not return to the office any more that day. I remember it all very well, for it was the day Mr. Wright was murdered, and that event created a great impression upon me. I didn't see the colonel again until the next afternoon. He was sick then, complained of having a terrible headache. One thing about the colonel struck me as strange—he kept his hat on whenever anyone came in to see him, but in spite of this I discovered that he had been hit on the head. I put it up that he had been on a secluded bum, had got whacked over the head some way, and naturally did not want anybody to find it out. He actually bought himself a wig, with which he managed to conceal the wound when he had to appear in court, he was so squeamish about it."

The witness at this point was shown a pair of arctics, which he declared were his. These were then compared with the sketches and figures made by Irving Warde, which had already been placed in evidence, and were found to tally therewith, thus establishing the fair inference that the man who wore those rubbers on the morning of the murder was the man who made those tracks which had been studied so sedulously by Irving Warde.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Stand Pat won the feature of the card over a heavy track at the fair grounds. Scorpio, the favorite, showed the way to the sixteenth pole, where his heavy impost told against him, and he gave way to Stand Pat, who came with a rush from third place and won by a length. E. S. Gardner gave the ring a severe scorching when his filly, Atlas, won the opening event. The filly was backed from 10 to 1 to 2 to 1 and won very easily.

The winner turned up in the 15 to 1 shot Adjudaumo.

STOLEN BASES.

The City League games for Saturday afternoon are Y. M. C. A. against St. Mary on St. Mary's field, and Safe Works against Hope on Hope Commons.

The Alis Club has been incorporated with these members as trustees: George A. Sledin, Frederick Pope, Chauncey Burt, Roy T. Phillips and Arthur H. Dundon.

The Association games for Saturday afternoon are Orange F. C. against Reform Club on the former's grounds, and Clinton Avenue against Cuban Giants on Clinton Avenue grounds.

A three-game series has been arranged between Westfield and Scotch Plains. The first and second games to be played at Westfield, June 13 and July 18, and the third at Scotch Plains, August 8.

The game at Westfield, Saturday, will be against Roselle. Roselle has not lost a game so far this season and made a reputation, last Saturday, by defeating Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. in a ten-inning game, 5 to 3.

The Alis Club has found just the right man for second base in Flynn, formerly of the Brightons. He is clever and sure to become popular. A feature of Saturday afternoon's game was the double play in which he assisted.

The well-known Pearsall Athletic Club team, of Jersey City, will meet Alis on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, instead of the Madison A. C. The latter team is crippled at present and will be unable to come to this city.

Hope, the new pitcher for Alis, has already become popular. He is a quiet, retiring player and is in the game from start to finish. The injury sustained to his eye last Saturday morning at Westfield affected his playing somewhat in the afternoon.

The Alis Club has arranged to play two games on July 4 with the Scotch Plains. As Scotch Plains has one of the best teams in this section of the State, being fully as strong as Westfield, exciting contests may be looked for. In all these teams will play five games during the season.

GOLF.

Plans are being formed for an elaborate celebration at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on July 4. There will be golf and tennis all day. Day, Jr., Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Elliot T. Barrows and W. S. Tyler.

At a meeting held on Tuesday these new members were elected:

Died From Blood Poisoning.

As a result of blood poisoning caused by imperfect healing of a wound from an operation performed at the Newark Hospital recently, Annanias Smallwood, colored, aged 24 years, died yesterday morning at his home on Somerset street. The man had only resided here for six weeks, having come to Plainfield when he was discharged from the hospital. The funeral took place this morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. E. E. Jackson officiated. The interment was in the M. E. Cemetery.

But Not Forgotten.

Though he was buried as an "unknown dead" the grave of the much-charred victim of the Westfield wreck is not forgotten. Ever since the interment some one has tenderly placed on the mound in Hillside Cemetery a bunch of flowers regularly once a week. The identity of the sympathetic one is veiled in mystery, but many have been touched by the Christian act.

SCORE, SIX TO THREE

MANY ENTHUSIASTS SEE CONTEST ON HOPE COMMON.

Ettlinger and Taylor Make Three-base Hits—The Visitors Win Applause by Double Play—Armstrong Puts Up Good Game.

A big crowd witnessed the mid-week baseball game on Hope Common yesterday afternoon between the All-Plainfield team and the West End A. C., of New York. The game was a fine one, despite the fact that the locals failed to win. The visitors were victorious by a score of 6 to 3, though they had to work hard to do so. The playing of Fred. Armstrong, of the borough, on the home team, was a feature. The locals scored two runs in the first inning and one in the second. After that they drew blanks. In the first inning Enright got a base on balls and reached home on two passed balls by McQuade. Moore went out on a foul fly to the catcher and Lederer followed with a clean hit to right field and went to third on an error and came home on a passed ball. In the second inning Bolan hit to centre for a single and came home on a passed ball. That ended the runs for the home team.

The West End's scored one run in the first inning. White reached first on Dupee's error, stole second and went to third on Smith's sacrifice and came home on Ettlinger's long fly to left field. The visitors did not score again until the sixth inning, when Schmidt went out on a fly to Keene, White reached first on Doyle's error. Smith then reached first on base on balls, and both were sent home by Ettlinger's three bagger to centre field. He tried to make a home run but was cut off at the plate by Taylor's fine throw from deep centre. In the seventh inning the New Yorkers scored three runs. Brown reached first on Taylor's muff of a fly, stole second. Yaegar was given a base on balls and both men came home on Worrell's two bagger to centre field. Worrell reached third on Keene's error and came home on White's single.

Then Sprinkle the Streets.

As Plainfield has the highest license fee of any city in the State, it will be remarkable if the saloon keepers do not protest against the action of the Common Council in making an appropriation for sprinkling the streets. This will be sure to rob the liquor men of one of the natural thirst producers to which they are entitled when they pay $750 per year for the privilege of washing the dust out of the throats of the public.—Newark Evening News.

FRANKLIN MURPHY IN SENATORIAL TOGA

Governor's Ambition to Succeed United States Senator John Kean.

MEANS FACTIONAL WAR

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN INCLUDES EDWARD C. STOKES FOR GOVERNOR.

Fight to be Made in This County As Well As in Other Parts of State to Capture Legislators—The Men Behind the Scenes.

Trenton, June 5—Nobody has heard Governor Franklin Murphy say he is or will be a candidate for the United States Senatorship, to succeed John Kean, but men who are credited with knowing the inner mysteries of the State administration are firm in the belief that the first open clash between the State leaders in the Republican party will come over the Senatorial fight, and that things are shaping for a contest in the Republican ranks in which the various interests, that have been apparently harmonious, but really discordant for many months, will be arrayed in battle trim, without further attempt at disguise or dissembling.

Senator Kean's term does not expire until 1905, and his successor will be chosen by the Legislature elected next year. He is a candidate for re-election. Governor Murphy's successor is also to be chosen in 1904. As that happens to be Presidential year the Republican leaders are basing high hopes of continued Republican success in the State upon the idea that Roosevelt's re-election is assured. So confident are they on this score that the only question being discussed by State politicians and State House statesmen is that of candidates for the two offices to be filled at and subsequent to next year's election.

Rumors have been afloat for weeks that a combination of party leaders has been or was being effected through the State in the interests of the Governor's Senatorial boom and against Kean. Foremost in this combination, it has been alleged, are prominent officials, financiers and others in Newark who, since the beginning of the Murphy administration, have come to be known to other parts of the State and at the capitol as "the Essex crowd."

It is said with some shadow of authority that there has already been a lining up of Essex leaders for a preliminary skirmish against Kean, and it is commonly accepted that such men as Senator Dryden, Thomas N. McCarter, Elisha B. Gaddis and others who are considered to have weight and influence in Essex affairs will be with the Governor in the fight. What the leaning of the Republican county machine in Essex would be under such conditions is not clear.

In Union County, the home of Kean, the friends of his political arch enemy, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, are planning another campaign against him for this fall, in which they hope to capture the organization and Assembly delegation and to retrieve the disaster which met their efforts to beat the Senator in the primaries of last year. Senators are to be elected this fall in Burlington, Middlesex, Passaic, Cape May, Hunterdon and Sussex Counties, and the fight against Kean, to be effective, would have to be carried into these county campaigns this year, as the Senators elected then will have a vote in the selection of his successor.

A part of the plan to down Kean is said to be the nomination of a South Jerseyman by acclamation in the Gubernatorial convention next year. The only South Jerseyman who has been mentioned for the nomination is Stokes. By making North Jersey unanimous for Stokes, or nearly so, it is alleged, the Murphy combination plan is to win South Jersey support and enthusiasm for the Governor's boom for Senator.

ALL WANT TO PRACTICE LAW

DRAKE AND HUFF AMONG THE FIFTY-FOUR EXAMINED.

Applicants Affected by Last Winter's Act Take Examination Conditionally.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 5—Eighty applicants for admission to the bar examinations presented themselves to the examiners yesterday, among them N. Douglas Drake and Fred. J. Huff, of Plainfield. Fifty-four were on the list for the attorneys' examination and twenty-six attorneys desired to become counsellors.

Pending a decision by the Supreme Court in the proceedings started Tuesday to have last winter's act regulating bar admissions declared unconstitutional, a ruling has been made that the applicants who are affected by last winter's act be allowed to take the examinations conditionally.

If the court decides the act to be unconstitutional these applicants, even though they pass a successful examination, may not receive sheepskins. Inasmuch as there are not over twenty-five students at present affected, it is thought likely the court will stretch a point and admit those who pass, even though they have not the required academic education.

IDENTITY OF BODY CLEARLY ESTABLISHED

Dead Woman Found in the Woods Proves to be Mrs. Alice Smith.

SHE WANDERED AWAY

HER IDENTITY WAS ESTABLISHED BY CORONER HUBBARD, OF MIDDLESEX.

Demented Woman Mother-in-Law of Arthur Mullen, of Westfield—Arrangements for the Funeral.

The remains of the woman found in the bushes near South Plainfield Tuesday night by Thomas Bohl, have been identified as being those of Mrs. Alice Smith, of Westfield, aged sixty years. In a demented condition she wandered away from her home in Westfield, where she lived with her son-in-law, Arthur Mullen, last January. The identity was firmly established yesterday by Coroner John V. Hubbard, of New Brunswick, who found a small bottle on the woman's person.

The theories of murder and suicide held by the Prosecutor of Middlesex County, have been entirely removed by the identification of the body as the peculiar indenture on the skull evidently the result of decomposition nad not inflicted with a blunt instrument as was thought to have been the case at first.

When the remains were taken to New Brunswick and the clothing searched several articles, including a bottle was found, as stated exclusively in The Daily Press yesterday. Coroner Hubbard took the bottle to Westfield and spent the entire day trying to fathom the mystery. Late in the afternoon he found the physician who gave the woman the prescription and who filled it. It was Dr. S. A. Keith and he remembered the bottle and told the coroner that the woman obtained the medicine for rheumatism.

The coroner was taken to the home of her son-in-law, Arthur Mullen, on Clinton avenue and he was convinced that the woman was his mother-in-law. He told Mr. Hubbard that his mother-in-law went away suddenly in the latter part of January and, although he has been searhing for her ever since he had been unable to discover any clue. Mullen, who is a carpenter in Westfield, was has taken charge of the remains and the funeral will be held Saturday morning from his residence in Westfield at 11 o'clock. The interment will be in Springfield, N. J.

Mullen says that when his mother-in-law went away five months ago she left behind a note saying that she was going to South Plainfield to see her niece who formerly lived there. Nothing further had been heard of her although people living in the vicinity of where the body was found remember seeing the woman walking along that part of the road. It is supposed that the woman, after her long walk, became exhausted and went to the place to lie down for the night and she froze to death.

CALLS HIM A LINCOLN.

New York Press' Political Correspondent Refers to Swackhamer.

In today's New York Press, "Freeholder," the New Jersey political writer has this to say:

"'Who is to be the Democratic candidate for Governor?' was asked of Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Somerset, the Lincoln of the Jersey Democracy. 'I have not observed,' returned the wise member from North Plainfield, 'special mention of any one for Governor as yet.' Surely if the hope of Somerset has not 'observed' he must have heard his own name ringing among the echoes that followed the booming of a score of worthy Democrats."

No Picnic in Smoke.

VEILED HEAVENS CAUSED BY SMOKE

Forest Fires Responsible for the Gloomy Conditions Now Prevailing.

NO SIGNS OF RELIEF

FIRES IN VARIOUS PARTS OF NEW JERSEY AND ELSEWHERE.

The Drought Indirectly Cause of Trouble—Rain Will be Welcomed—Pall Over Plainfield—Sun Red.

A "yellow day" everywhere yesterday and today, like the famous day of 1881, lay over New York and New Jersey, the strange conditions leading to endless speculations, more or less accurate, as to the cause. The sun round, like a copper moon, cast a glare that made the eyes blink and smart. The smoke in the air was so thick as to cause suffering mortals to gasp and choke and feel as though they "didn't care whether school kept or not."

The whole trouble, as everyone knows, came from forest fires. The slow northerly and northwesterly winds blew the smoke steadily from New York State and New England and numerous fires in New Jersey thickened the pall that hung over Plainfield.

The drought is indirectly responsible for the whole trouble, causing the fires, once ignited, to burn like kerosene. There is little sign of relief, a stiff breeze or a good rain, the only weather conditions that could help matters, being "conspicuous by their absence."

In New Jersey, reports from Red Bank state that the forests at Pine Brook and Colt's Neck and the pine woods, south of Eatontown are ablaze. A fire is raging also along the Ridgeway branch of the Central Railroad, between Lakehurst and Lakewood. From Warren County, Dover and Vineland there come similar reports. Over in Pennsylvania the forests in the Lehigh Gap are afire.

BODY THAT OF HENRY GAMS

MAN FOUND COLD IN DEATH HAS BEEN RECOGNIZED.

Without a Dollar or Known Relative Gams Eked Out Existence.

The body found yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, in the shed in the rear of the house on the corner of West Front street and Grant avenue, has been identified as that of Henry Gams, a German laborer. He was employed at odd jobs about town as a hostler and porter and occasionally did work for "Billy" Lee, of Scotch Plains.

Gams had no established home, and had taken shelter in the shed for the night. He did not have a dollar in the world, and left no relatives. Death come probably from heart failure.

The dead man was forty-five years old. The body was taken to the city morgue, in charge of Undertaker Cole.

Hurring Home to Stricken Father, When Death Overtakes Him.

ACCIDENT ON SANTA FE

PLAINFIELDER AWAY FOR MONTHS ON BUSINESS.

As Machinist of Scott's Printing Press Works, Engaged in Setting Up Machines in Mexico City—Leaves a Family.

Killed in the Kansas City railroad wreck, while journeying from Mexico City to the bedside of his sick father, was the sad ending to the life of William L. Newmiller, of 33 Vine street, this city. Last week Newmiller received a telegram telling him that his father, Peter Newmiller, had suffered a stroke of paralysis and was in a very critical state. He immediately wound up his affairs in Mexico City and left for home Saturday night. On the evening of June 3, he telegraphed to his wife in Plainfield that he would be delayed by the flood. Then came the news of his death.

He was born near Mt. Bethel, N. J., and had been a life-long resident of Plainfield. He was about thirty-five years of age and leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter. He was a member of Greenbrook Council, R. A. His father has been too seriously ill to be informed as yet of the son's death.

Mr. Newmiller was one of eight persons killed and seven injured in a collission between two passenger trains on the Santa Fe road at Stillwell, Kan., twevle miles south of Kansas City, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

DUNELLEN METHODISTS BURN THE MORTGAGE

Destroy Satisfied Obligation in Presence of a Large Congregation.

DR. HALLERON THERE

SING "PRAISE GOD FROM WHOM ALL BLESSINGS FLOW."

Many Clergymen Take Part in Service—Celebration to Mark Wiping Out of Debt of $3,000—Pastor's Wife Lights Match.

Dunellen, June 5—A service of unusual interest to the members was held at the Methodist Episcopal Church, last evening, when the mortgage on the church property was burned to the great delight of the congregation. Prior to a year ago there was a mortgage of $3,000 on the church property and about eleven months ago Mrs. Alice Newton, of this place, left a legacy of $500 to the church with the understanding that within a year the balance, $2,500 should be raised. The year was up on May 1 and after much earnest effort the necessary amount was raised and last evening was the time set for the burning of the mortgage.

Rev. Dr. Halleron, presiding elder, was in charge, and there were a number other clergymen present who took part in the service. Dr. Halleron was the first speaker and he was followed by Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, Rev. E. S. Jamison, the latter a former pastor; Rev. John McMurray, who spoke for the neighboring churches; Rev. N. J. Sproul, representing the Presbyterian Church; Rev. L. E. Livermore, of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, and Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the New Market Baptist Church. All spoke congratulatory words.

After these remarks, Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the church, took charge and called to the alter the Board of Trustees, representatives of the Ladies' Aid Society and Rev. E. S. Jamison and Dr. Halleron. The mortgage was placed on a silver salver. A candle was then lighted and Mrs. Doolittle was the first one to touch the paper with the flame. The candle and salver were then passed among the officials, until each one had a part in the destruction of the mortgage. As the paper passed away in smoke and ashes, the entire congregation arose and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Originally the mortgage, which was dated in 1876, was $5,000. Later it was reduced to $3,000 and last evening to ashes. Although the church has a small membership, the success in liquidating to debt on the property was the cause for great rejoicing last evening.

Being Arranged by Jersey Central for June 6.

The New Jersey Central will run an excursion up the Hudson to West Point, June 6, on the steamer St. Johns. The scenery throughout the trip is grand and an outing at this time of the year will be delightful as well as beneficial.

After leaving the commercial section of the river you see Grant's Tomb, Riverside Drive and the Palisades, while further along there is Anthony's Nose, the Crow's Nest and West Point.

The visit to the grounds and buildings of the Military Academy at West Point is both interesting and instructive as this is the place the generals are trained and on whom the safety of this beloved country often depends. Let us give you a timely pointer. This is the month of weddings and you are having your trouble selecting appropriate wedding gifts. Make your choice from the almost unlimited assortment at J. W. Gavett's store on West Front street. Salad and ice cream sets, orchid vases and jardinieres are among the few novelties that can be suggested.

Since taking possession of their new store on East Front street, Woodhull & Martin have received no end of congratulations, not only from Plainfield people but from many points about the country. It is the unanimous opinion of everyone that the store is one of the most complete in the State and that while other stores are larger, few are any better.

"The Man Who Laughs" is the title of a novel by Victor Hugo. It is also an accurate description of the fisherman who uses tackle bought of Harry Dreier, of West Front street. He laughs and his friends laugh with him, because he always lands the fish. For convenience or pleasure, Imperial is the bicycle to ride. Dreier has them, also tires and sundries. When you muzzle your bow-wow, and it is high time now, buy the muzzle of Dreier if you care for your canine's comfort.

Rogers & Co.'s seafood market, at 232 West Second street, will be continued under the same management as at present. This is the announcement made by C. V. Kronimus, the manager, who states that no change of ownership has taken place. The report of the sale of the market at auction last Monday was correct, however. The purchaser, C. J. Johnson, of New York, found it impossible owing to the pressure of other business to devote the necessary time to maintain the present good standing of the market. Consequently the management will continue as heretofore.

THEATRICAL.

Fun, melody and breeziness, three of the distinctive qualities of the latest Casino success, "The Runaways," serve to make that play the strongest kind of a drawing card. It is a matter of fact that "The Runaways" is playing to hundreds of dollars more a night than any of the play's extremely successful predecessors. The new song hits of the play, "Hiawatha," "The Maiden and the Jay," "A Kiss for Each Day in the Week," "Strolling," "The Land I Love," "Pretty Maid Adelaide," "Tra-La-La-La," "In Swell Society" and "One Hundreds Years from Now," are meeting with tremendous success.

The success of the Wm. G. Stewart Opera Company was assured after the opening night, last Monday evening at the Grand Opera House, New York, both artistically and financially, and it is safe to say that the Stewart Company will run well into the fall season, which opens early in September. Messrs. Springer and Stewart showed wisdom in selecting the beautiful Japanese musical comedy, "The Geisha." It was the intention of the management to play "The Geisha" but one week, but since the opening the piece has made such a hit, and the demands for seats are so great, that it was decided to continue "The Geisha" another week.

The Difference Between the Ordinary Shoulder and Our "CONCAVE" Shoulder

Our new "Concave" shoulder is the very perfection of tailoring. It is a shoulder with the broad, high effect modeled and tailored right into it, and not built out with wadding and padding. The ordinary padded shoulder will never look right nor hold its shape. Our "Concave" shoulder will keep its shape and form as long as the coat lasts. We have put our "Concave" Shoulder into all of our

THE FOREST FIRES.

Adirondack Woods Seem Beyond Control.

SMOKY AIR OBSCURES THE SUN.

Ashes Fall In Places Many Miles Distant From the Flames, Which Are the Fiercest Ever Known.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., June 5.—In spite of the efforts of hundreds of men throughout the Adirondacks the forest fires are spreading. The most serious fires are now reported to be in the vicinity of Long lake east toward Newcomb lake and Mount Marcy. Farther south fires are raging along the Cedar river and at Indian lake.

Every available man is being pressed into service. It is reported that Robert Pruyn of Albany, whose preserve lies in toward Newcomb lake, has a large force of men, sent in from Albany to North creek by special train, working to protect his property, which lies directly in the path of the fire. The woods are so dry and vegetation so backward that ordinary methods of stopping forest fires are futile.

The Adirondack club has over 50,000 acres of heavily timbered land. Robert Pruyn's holdings are about 11,000 acres.

Although these fires are fully forty miles from Glens Falls, a heavy cloud of smoke has hung over the town, and there has been a constant shower of fine ashes, while a smell of burning wood was plainly discernible.

At Weavertown, in the northwest part of Warren county, the smoke was so thick all day that objects a hundred yards distant could not be seen.

At Lake George the ashes fell like a heavy snowfall. A dense smoke has settled over the lake, obscuring the view. The boats on the lake are running slowly to avoid accidents. Cars of the Hudson Valley railroad on the Warrensburg branch are also operated at slow speed.

Fires are reported at Silver Bay, at Hague and also in the mountains on the east side of the lake toward Lake Champlain.

According to the records kept by Professor C. L. Williams, there have been but three-tenths of an inch of rainfall in Glens Falls since April 10. The normal precipitation for this period should have been several inches.

The farmers are struggling nobly against the adverse conditions. A long ride through the country discloses many plowed fields, but in very few has anything green shown its head above the baked and dusty surface. Time and time again the fields have been planted in the hope that the rain could not long be delayed. Each time has brought disappointment. It is now nearly haying time, but the grass in the meadows is only a few inches high.

A telegram from Lake Placid says that several lumber camps at South Meadows, near Cascade lake; a big boarding house in Rogers Bros.' logging camp, about five miles from Lake Placid, and the barns of the Cascade Lake House were burned. All the guests have left the Cascade Lake House and gone to Westport and Lake Placid.

One hundred men, armed with shovels, rakes and axes, have left for Loon lake, where forest fires have started in the heavily timbered tracts owned by the International Paper company.

The Stony Wold Sanitarium For Consumptives at Lake Kushaque is threatened with destruction.

President David Wilcox and Third Vice President Abel I. Culver of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, who made a trip of inspection over the Chateaugay division, are doing all in their power to aid in checking the flames.

The moon was almost wholly obscured at Saratoga, N. Y., by the smoke and ashes driven by the wind from the innumerable Adirondack forest fires, which are raging with unabated fury. Hundreds of men have been sent to the front to fight the fires, but they are almost powerless, as the fires appear to have got far beyond control.

The heaviest fires are reported near Indian lake, North creek, Blue Mountain lake, Catlin lake, Cedar river, Glen lake, Long lake and other sections in that region. Several fires are in progress on the Greenfield mountains.

The General Grant cottage on the summit of Mount McGregor was reported in danger.

A smoky condition of the atmosphere at Middletown, N. Y., and the surrounding country has obscured the sun, alarming many in the farming sections.

Dense clouds of smoke from forest fires now raging near Tannersville and Haines' Falls in the Catskill mountains have filled the streets of Kingston, N. Y., all day, completely hiding the mountains and foothills from view. At times it was difficult to see four blocks away. Reports are that the fires are the fiercest ever known. Many rumors of the destruction of summer homes of wealthy New Yorkers at Elka Park, Tannersville and Haines' Falls cannot be verified.

A dense smoke filled the air at Gloversville, N. Y., completely obscuring the sun. Forest fires which have been smoldering north of this city for two weeks have broken out afresh, and as there is no water at hand there is no way of fighting the flames, which are doing much damage to timber land.

Ashes fell all day at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., and the smoke from the forest fires is so dense that the western portion of the town is obscured. Flames have broken out afresh on Grafton mountain, where they have raged for the last few days, after having been extinguished last week. All the mountainous districts in nearly every direction have fires of more or less severity. Owing to the drought in this section all timber lands are very dry and burn like tinder. The flames roll with alarming rapidity from one point to another and send up huge clouds of smoke and fine ashes, which could be seen whirling through the air at any hour yesterday. The property loss is confined to the burned timber.

All day heavy smoke caused by forest fires in the Catskills, sixty miles away, filled the atmosphere at Fishkill Landing and for many miles in the Hudson River valley. On the streets of Newburg, N. Y., people choked, and on the river navigation was hindered.

Advices received from all parts of Vermont show that the territory suffering from forest fires is even larger than before reported. The largest fire reported is one in Danby, where it is said that 2,000 acres of timber land owned by S. L. Griffith, Vermont's lumber king, has been burned over and is sweeping over still larger tracts. Reports of large fires in Essex county, in the extreme northeast corner of the state, are received. Miles of territory have been burned over, and fires are reported on all sides of Island Pond, the largest village in the county.

There is no sign of rain, and the ground is the driest ever known. Many farmers have been forced to turn their dairy stock into their meadows, and not over half a hay crop seems possible at present. Farmers are selling off their live stock, as there is little promise of sufficient feed to winter near the usual amount of stock. Crops that had come up have been nearly destroyed by Frost. The price of milk has advanced in some places. In Burlington hay is selling for $20 a ton.

On Long Island the fire in the vicinity of Brentwood spread east and swept the west side of Lake Ronkonkoma. Two buildings were destroyed. To the westward the flames consumed an unoccupied factory. Many other buildings in danger were saved.

FORESTS ABLAZE IN CANADA.

Canadian and Nova Scotian Woods Are Full of Fire.

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 5.—Reports from all the province indicate that brush and forest fires are rushing through the woods and that whole villages and communities are in the path of the general conflagration. At Picadilly, in Kings county, two elderly women, Mrs. John Linden and Miss Susan Teakles, were burned to death by the onrushing fire as they were endeavoring to liberate cattle in a field.

Extensive forest fires are burning in all parts of Nova Scotia, and hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of timber is being destroyed. The rainfall during last month was the lightest for May ever known.

Forest fire has cut off the road between Hubbard's Cove and Chester and burned the railway contractor's camp at East river, forcing the Italian workmen to flee to Hubbard's Cove.

Fierce Fires Near Ballston, N. Y.

BALLSTON, N. Y., June 5.—Forest fires are burning in the mountains northwest of here, in the pine, spruce and white birch tract between Lake Desolation and Mount Pleasant, in the towns of Day, Edinburg and Greenfield. The atmosphere is filled with a dense resinous smoke, obscuring the sun, and burned leaves are falling in the streets.

Vigorous Fight In Vermont.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 5.—A thousand men have been fighting forest fires in Vermont, but many acres of valuable timber land have been burned over, and there is little prospect that the fires can be checked until rain falls. The Woodbury Granite company has closed its works and put its full force of 350 men into the woods to fight fire.

Chamberlain's Trade Scheme.

LONDON, June 5.—Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Lord Spencer, Lord Ripon, Lord Tweedmouth and other Liberal leaders all vigorously denounce Mr. Chamberlain's imperial zollverein proposals as merely veiled protection. Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Lord Ripon contend that they would be a fruitful cause of disputes between the mother country and the colonies and of conflict with foreign countries. Lord Spencer says the country ought to press the government to get the nation's opinion without delay on the details of the scheme.

Nine Dead In Santa Fe Wreck.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—Nine people were killed and seven injured in a collision between two Santa Fe trains at Stilwell, Kan. The wreck was caused by a collision between a Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe passenger train, which met head on. The trains were running over the Missouri Pacific tracks owing to the flooded condition of the Santa Fe tracks. Both trains were in charge of pilots, and it is said that one of the pilots misread his orders, causing the accident.

Harriman's Generosity.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 5.—Assemblyman Bedell in a speech before the Orange county board of supervisors at Goshen declared that E. H. Harriman through his own generosity made up a deficit of $30,000 which the Orange County Road Construction company lost during the last year in building state roads.

Kaiser and Czar Will Meet.

BERLIN, June 5.—The German emperor and the czar of Russia will visit Vienna simultaneously at the beginning of September. The czar will then continue his journey to Rome by way of Triest.

King and Queen Will Go to Dublin.

LONDON, June 5.—It is officially announced that King Edward and Queen Alexandra will arrive in Dublin July 21 on their visit to Ireland.

Plainfield, N. J., June 5, 1903.

Judging from the dispatches from Washington some of those men in the postoffice department are of a rather bad stamp.

A New York magistrate has barred the use of the word "cop" from his court room. It will take more than the rulings of a police court judge, however, to consign the appelative to oblivion.

Now's the time for the Fourth of July "orator" to begin preparing his "extemporaneous remarks." Blow the dust off the volumes containing speeches of the Nation's fathers and get to work.

A New York man has been hiccoughing for eight days and a Connecticut man last week had a laughing fit which lasted more than a week. What a card the pair would make in a side show!

An Oregon man the other day paid a five cent debt of forty years standing which, with interest, amounted to seventy-five cents. He says he "can now rest easy in his mind about it." We know just how he feels.

The people of Elizabeth are anxious to have the Liberty Bell train stopped there on its way to Boston to allow the school children to view it. This Sunday baseball business leads one to believe that Elizabeth has seen too much liberty.

The Holland Society, of New York, in which several Plainfielders figure, is quietly raising funds to erect a statue of William the Silent. Just because politicians are contributing liberally don't think they have been forced to pay "hush money."

A manufacturing concern in Belleville has offered its employes the opportunity of becoming preferred stockholders and proposes to allow them to buy the shares on the instalment plan. There'll be no room for any talk of "capital versus labor" in that quarter.

The City Union of King's Daughters announces that the baby camp on the mountain will be opened Saturday, June 20. This particular undertaking of the Union is most praiseworthy. Through its operation poor little babies and their careworn mothers, during the summer days, find relief from the heat of the city in the cool breezes at the camp. The more fortunate of Plainfield's population in many instances do not realize the great benefits of this institution for when the thermometer begins to jump away they go to enjoy the delights of a vacation. It is a splendid work and should receive substantial support, financially and otherwise, from the people of this city.

Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, of St. Michael's Church, New York, is mentioned as a possible successor to the late Rt. Rev. Dr. Starkey as bishop of the diocese of Newark. Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Church, was formerly one of Dr. Peter's assistants and the New York clergyman has been heard in this city. The Newark diocese holds an adjourned convention on Tuesday, June 16, but it is possible that it may adjourn without making a selection. Difference in Churchmanship is the cause of the difficulty. Those belonging to what is commonly known as the Catholic or high church party desires what may be called a ritualistic bishop, while those affiliated with what is termed the low church wing oppose such a selection. Rev. Dr. Peters is viewed as a low Churchman though the service in St. Michael's is quite elaborate.

Lurid literature, or rather reading matter, is responsible for the apparent lack of moral sense in the make-up of Willie James, whom a Coroner's jury has adjudged guilty of gross carelessness in the handling of a weapon. As a result of his recklessness the life of a little girl has been blotted out and the boy is now confined in the Somerset County Jail to await a final disposition of his case. At the inquest he frankly admitted that he was a reader of the "dime novel." Such being the case it is easy to understand how his mind gradually became poisoned, especially when his tender age is considered. Gradually, no doubt, the foolish fiction completly fascinated him and within him grew a desire to imitate the characters there portrayed. The harm done by this class of cheap reading stuff is almost incalculable. It is safe to say that a large proportion of the criminals within and without prison walls, today feasted on this type of stories in their youthful days. It is to be regretted that some legal steps have not been taken to prevent children from spending the days, which should be devoted to a better purpose, reading the "dime novel."

CROWD EATS STRAWBERRIES

MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH PEOPLE HOLD FESTIVAL.

Under Auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society—Affair Successful—Committees in Charge.

A strawberry and ice cream festival and sale of candy was held last evening at the Monroe Avenue Church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. This was the annual affair and like all previous ones was successful. The church was thronged though out the evening and sociability reigned supreme. As an extra attraction there was an informal programme of music. The church was tastily decorated with flowers and daisies.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. I. T. LaRue, Mrs. Fred Wenzel, Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mrs. Theodore VanPelt, Mrs. Nicholas Brouard, Mrs. Ira E. VanArsdale, Miss Mary Brouwer, Mrs. J. W. Daub and Miss Anna Stafford. Those at the candy table were Miss Mae Brouwer and Miss Lulu Randolph and those in charge of ice cream and strawberries Miss May Pound, Miss Beulah Cline, Miss Olla Cline and Miss Sue Pound.

SAYS SHE OWNS NETHERWOOD

MRS. ROCKFELLOW PUTS FORWARD A MODEST CLAIM TO HOTEL.

Also Includes Netherwood Residences—Will Employ Counsel—A Millionaire in Imagination.

Mrs. Bertha Rockfellow, of 195 North avenue, doesn't pretend to own the earth, but she does lay claim to a large portion of it lying within the Netherwood district. She modestly asserts that she is sole possessor of the Netherwood Hotel, and that she also owns several fine Netherwood residences, and threatens to employ counsel with a view to evicting their occupants, provided her "rights" are not acknowledged.

According to her story the hotel and residences were owned several years ago by a Cuban physician, Dr. Jose Galarraga, who, she asserts, deeded the property over to her and her sister, Mrs. W. O. Thomas, wife of a Kansas City clergyman. She intends to fight the claim to a finish, she says. It is said that the woman is the victim of an hallucination.

PUPILS GIVE A MUSICALE

AFFAIR UNDER AUSPICES OF HIGH SCHOOL CLASS.

Some Good Solo Work—Entertainment for Relatives and Friends of the Pupils.

The musicale given by the class of '03 of the Plainfield High School in the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, last evening, attracted an audience that completely filled the edifice. Those present included pupils of the Public Schools and their parents and friends and all were appreciative of the programme presented under the direction of Chas. L. Lewis. Miss Jessie Utter was at the organ and Miss Mabel Maxson at the piano. The soloists were Mrs. Thomas McDonald, soprano; Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano; Miss Mary Collier, alto.

A large chorus from the High School sang several well-known selections, including "Damascus-Triumphal March," Costa; "The Red Cross Knight," Callcott; "The Lost Chord," Sullivan. These numbers were followed with two selections by the Mandolin Club from the High School, winning much applause.

The second half of the progamme was devoted to the rendition of the cantata "Ruth," by the school. In this connection special mention is due Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Miss Cornelia Miller, Miss Mary Collier and Charles L. Lewis, who took the solo parts. Their work was of a high order, especially the trios and duos by the sopranos and alto.

The ushers were George Babcock, Charles Titsworth, Albert Beers, Arthur Conant, Lucius Koons, Harold Brown, Alden Moore, Edwin Daniel, Cyril Brown and Ralph Eckert.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot-owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

HARD WORKING WOMEN.

Life of Ladies Who Make a Profession of Society.

This summer's Newport season is expected to make a record as the gayest, busiest, most crowded, of any since the place became the favorite resort of our republican aristocracy. For several years the Newport season has been commencing earlier and continuing later. Year by year our society ladies show less inclination to spend the summer in Europe except as a spot to hide away and rest in for the next winter social season. Now it has come about, too, that the fashionables in foreign lands, notably England, are stealing away from their set at home and are really coming to Newport for our summer season. This adds to Newport's gayeties and its crowd. Again, last winter Mrs. William Astor, social arbiter, let down the bars and allowed 150 more individuals to skip over into the paddock of first society; then she instantly put them up again. All these new people will flock to Newport. The old town, which was erstwhile chosen for a place of summer rest and restoration by the sea, will merely witness a continuation of last winter's social circus in intensified form.

Last winter was the heaviest social season ever known in New York and Washington. The quite up to date fashionable woman not uncommonly went to a lecture in the morning and in the afternoon to a tea, where she swallowed peanut sandwiches and other concoctions the most unholy that could pass into human stomach; after that out to dinner of half a score of courses and more iniquitous concoctions, then away to the opera till midnight. "After the opera's over, then we retire to the ball," to dance and again stuff till after the sons and daughters of toil have taken their places on the treadmill. Does daylight look in disgusted on the revelry, the wan faces, the withered flowers? Draw the curtains closer, turn the electric lights higher, shut out the day beams, and on with the dance! Let not the whirl stop!

It is no exaggeration to say that the life society women lead in New York and in the national capital during the season is much like that. What do they do it for? I don't know. Nobody knows. To the less happy it would look as if this feverish, incessant spinning round were to enable them to forget. But what can fortune's favorites have on their minds that they wish to forget?

The strain of such a life is harder than that of the washerwoman. Last winter it broke down several who started in determined to do or die. One of these was Mrs. Roosevelt, the amiable, hospitable wife of our president. She was obliged to retire temporarily from the field ere the welcome coming of Lent gave surcease from entertaining and receiving. One of her most efficient aids, Mrs. Knox, wife of the attorney general, also dropped before the season closed, a victim to her desire to keep up with her duties in the world of society.

In New York city it was the same, only more so. Numbers of the society leaders were knocked out prematurely. Some retired quietly to their country homes, others sailed to Europe to this or that spa to drink nauseous waters and live on plain food until such time as they could once more piece together their shattered nerves. Others still went for a cruise upon their yachts or to Florida or California or the Carolinas—anywhere to get away from turning night into day and the digestion inside out.

It is said the only leading society woman able to endure a social season without wincing is the oldest of them all, Mrs. William Astor, the Mrs. Astor, a lady now almost seventy years of age. With serene, secure mind she starts in at the beginning of the season, takes the lead in the social pace and keeps it to the end, royal and strong.

"I am well because I take good care of myself," she is said to have remarked. "This is true of every one, no matter what she does. Perhaps I am more prudent and temperate in my manner of living than others who complain. Nerves? I do not know that I have any."

If the present and future Newport seasons are to be a continuation of winter dissipations, merely shifted to a new scene, when will our poor millionaire ladies get any rest? On the whole, seeing what awaits young femininity in high life, it is well that American college girls are now taking strenuous training in golf, basket ball and, it is said, even football. They will need to be Sandows, every one, if this thing continues; but, again, a rank outsider may be permitted to ask. What is it all for?

KATE SHARP.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

"The day I quitted the employ of Col. Franklin I devoted to celebrating," said Hillsman, resuming his testimony. "I know that I had the agreement I have referred to in my pocket when I met Irving Warde at the restaurant; and I remember saying something to him about it, but I couldn't swear I gave it to him, as I do not recall everything that passed; and when I looked for the paper the next day it was gone. Col. Franklin has never since that day made any demand on me for it, and in fact I have seen very little of him."

Hillsman was then questioned regarding the attempted poisoning of Herbert Wright. He said: "I was responsible partly for the publication in the Journal. Col. Franklin told me that Herbert Wright had tried to commit suicide, and he gave me the details that afterward appeared in the Journal. He said an effort was being made to hush it up, and he thought I had better give the facts to the paper under a pledge of secrecy as to the source of its information. Under no circumstances was I to give the story to Irving Warde. So about midnight I met Jim Holcombe, the city editor of the Journal, and told him the colonel's fairy story."

The cross-examination which followed did not shake the testimony, but brought out some amusing and curious facts concerning the variegated talents and tastes of the witness. Finally he was dismissed.

Uncle Dick Norris, the old huntsman, gave in some testimony which was pertinent. "I recollect the day John T. Wright was killed very well," he said.

"Did you see him that afternoon?" asked Mr. Everett.

"Yes, sir."

"Where was it?"

"I saw him pass my house."

"Was he alone?"

"No, sir; Col. Jeems Franklin was with him; but Col. Jeems just seemed to be out for the exercise and didn't have any gun with him."

"Did you see anything more of them that day?"

"I saw Col. Jeems come back by himself an hour or so afterward, but I never saw Mr. Wright come back at all."

"You are positive that Col. Franklin was in the Bayou Woods with John T. Wright the day when the latter was killed?"

"Yes, sir, I am positive."

The prosecuting attorney asked him whether he had seen Herbert Wright that day, and he replied that he had not.

At this point the defense called George B. Fenton. The name rang out over the expectant crowd, and Franklin looked a trifle uneasy, as if he wondered what information the ex-detective had secured.

There was a movement along that part of the crowd which was standing up as the witness made his way toward the stand; and when the spectators looked in that direction they beheld the flushed face, the carefully parted blond whiskers, the dull spectacled eyes and the dressy form of—

Frederick Merivale, the capitalist.

CHAPTER XVI.

For a few minutes the people in the court room failed to catch the significance of the situation. Col. Franklin wondered blankly what his friend Merivale was doing on the witness stand, and what he would tell for or against him. The big cotton men who were present in large numbers were full of speculation as to what Merivale, whom they had carried through such an elongated course of heavy dinners and costly wines, could possibly have to tell in this case. Fenton's friends thought that a mistake had been made and that his testimony had been postponed; for there was actually no resemblance between this blond New Yorker, with his scant hair, his near-sightedness, his hectic color, his light beard, and the sturdy Fenton, with his plentiful dark hair and his cool, penetrating glance. But the first answer of the witness shook the crowd like an unexpected explosion; and Irving Warde was among those who were most astonished.

"THERE WAS ACTUALLY NO RESEMBLANCE BETWEEN THIS BLOND NEW YORKER AND THE STURDY FENTON."

"What is your name?" asked Mr. Everett, with undisguised satisfaction in his voice.

"George B. Fenton."

"Mr. Fenton, you were formerly connected with our police force in the capacity of a detective?"

"I was."

"I will ask you to give the jury a minute account of your connection with this case, and the results of your investigations."

The silence in the room was profound; the astonishment was giving place to an intense interest. Fenton's voice reached even the hallway beyond the wide doors. The crowd lost not one syllable of his story.

"Very well, sir. My connection with the case began when I received the pawn tickets found on the person of Herbert Wright, the prisoner at the bar. When I discovered that young Wright had pawned a number of articles which had been taken from the body of his father, I was strongly confident that he was the murderer. It seemed to me impossible to evade the conclusive evidence of guilt. But when I went to Wright's house to look for his pistol I accidentally discovered that it had been taken away and a very pretty revolver with an empty barrel had been placed in its stead. I thought the case over this way: This pistol thus substituted tells the story of the crime. It announces its responsibility for the murder of John T. Wright. Its presence here is intended to implicate Herbert Wright in the crime and to shield the real murderer. I became at once satisfied that we of the police force had been way off the track, and I proceeded to a thorough investigation of the case. As soon as I was employed by Mr. Everett I took steps to find out the source of all the startling things that had happened to those of us who had manifested an undue interest in the crime. Herbert Wright had narrowly escaped death from poisoning; Irving Warde had come near being assassinated, and I had been dropped from the police force. My own case being the simplest I sought to unravel it first. The first substantial discovery I made was that Pat Kernigan was a stockholder in the Shelby County Real Estate & Investment company. Then a letter of inquiry to a friend in Denver showed that he was also a stockholder in the Diamond Mining company. Consequently he was a man whom James Franklin would be likely to control. In order to satisfy myself I went to Kernigan. He's a politician, as everybody knows, and likes to keep on good terms with all men, and he told me quietly that Col. Franklin had requested my dismissal and the appointment of my successor, and that he was under such obligation to the colonel that he could not refuse to use what little influence he had with the mayor. I then went to Col. Franklin and asked him why he had requested Kernigan to bring about my dismissal. Well, by playing one against the other I secured the information I desired—namely, that Col. Franklin was at the bottom of my dismissal, and that it was all on account of my distasteful activity in the Wright case. From that time on Col Franklin played a very important part in all my considerations; and every effort of mine was directed toward unmaking him.

"There was plenty of hard work of a pretty character to do. For instance, I went to every shoe store in the city in search of a pair of arctics of a particularly broad and square-toed make, but only at Hauptmann's could I find them. Having settled this point I had no trouble in ascertaining that a pair of these arctics had gone to the office of Col. Franklin. Then I took that unidentified watch and went from jewelry store to jewelry store until at last I was fortunate enough to find the man who had sold it. Again I ran across Col. Franklin as the purchaser. The unidentified diamond pin was also traced to him.

Lady Strathmore at Fair Grounds.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—The June handicap was the feature at the fair grounds. Lady Strathmore, T. P. Hayes' five-year-old mare, won the stake for Pourquoi Pas, with Privateer third. Jack Young, the favorite, got away in front, but gave way to Pourquoi Pas at the quarter, who led to the lead into the stretch, with Lady Strathmore second, coming from fifth place. Near the middle of the stretch she overtook Pourquoi Pas and beat her to the wire by about half a length.

Jockey Bullman Injured.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Jockey Bullman sustained injuries at Sheepshead Bay that will keep him out of the saddle for a week or so. When entering the stall of his trotting horse Ravenna he was attacked by the animal and severely bitten about the chest and shoulder. Bullman's injuries might have resulted fatally had not one of the stable hands come to his rescue with an iron bar, with which the horse was beaten off.

Heno an Easy Winner.

NEW YORK, June 5. — Heno, running in the colors of W. S. Fanshawe, galloped home an easy winner in the Standard stakes at Gravesend. The three-year-old and favorite, Africander, had no excuses. He was beaten on his merits.

Lace Smugglers Held at Boston.

BOSTON, June 5.—The recent arrest of Geno Bianco and the holding of Michael Freda as a witness in the alleged smuggling cases here are proving to be even of more importance than it was at first thought to be. Bianco was interpreter on the Dominion liner Vancouver and is said to have been caught leaving the shop last Saturday with laces valued at more than $2,500. Special Treasury Officer O'Neil investigated the case and found that the parcel was to be delivered to Michael Freda, a banker in North Square, this city. Freda was called before United States Commissioner Fiske and formally arrested on a charge of smuggling. The officials say that smuggling valuable laces has been going on at this port from steamers coming here from Naples for a long time.

P. H. S. BATTALION EXHIBITION DRILL

Annual Competition for Company and Individual Prizes Held.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

OFFICERS AND PRIVATES DO CREDITALE WORK.

Winners Announced—Capt. G. F. Edwards as Judge—Sketch of Battalion and Present Roster of Officers.

The final drill of the Plainfield High School Cadets was held this morning on Stillman Field. The work was in charge of Commandant James D. Macnab and Major Alden E. Moore. Captain George F. Edwarsd, 2nd Regiment, N. G. N. J., acted as judge of the competitions.

Company C, Captain Ralph S. Lane won the banner for proficiency in company drilling. The company secured 18½ points out of a possible 20. Co. A, Acting Captain Arthur F. Conant was second with 16½ points and Co. B, Captain Michael T. Moynihan next with 14 points.

The individual drill with arms narrowed down to First Sergeant Harold C. Fenno, Co. C; Sergeant Stuart Freeman, Co. C, and Private Louis Bock, Co. A. The winner will be decided upon by the judges and will be awarded a gold medal at the school commencement exercises on June 18.

The following men received 100 per cent. medals for attendance at drills and officers' meetings: First Sergeant Charles Fisher Neagle, Co. B; Co. Quartermaster Sergeant Harold Alexander Brownell, Co. C; Co. Quartermaster Sergeant Ralph Ross Eckert, Co. B; Cadet Leroy Runyon Adams, Co. A; Cadet Jerome Grant Cline, Co. B; Cadet Joseph Henry Jones, Co. B; Cadet Robert Lawrence Kyte, Co. C; Cadet Edward Mosher, Co. C; Cadet John Locke Platt, Co. B; Cadet Frank Rimmer, Co. C; Cadet Milton Wilcox St. John, Co. B.

The Plainfield High School Cadet Battalion held its annual exhibition and prize drill this morning on Stillman Field.

Bronze 100 per cent. medals were awarded to fifteen students for faithfulness in drill during the year.

Announcement of the successful competitor in individual drill and award of the gold medal offered by James D. Macnab will be made at commencement time.

The reviewing officer was Capt. Geo. F. Edwards, former commandant of the battalion.

The past year of the battalion has been the most successful year since its organization. Three companies were oragnized in September and regular drills have been held weekly in connection with the High School work. At the beginning of the year these companies were commanded by Captain Fred T. VanAuken, Co. A; Captain Alden E. Moore, Co. B and Captain Ralph S. Lane, Co. C. Early in October a special uniformed company was formed and Captain Moore was placed in command. Thenceforth this company was known as Co. B.

It consisted of about thirty men. At the beginning of the year a new uniform was adopted by the commissioned officers. This uniform was modeled after the regular army uniform for New Jersey infantry and only differed from it in the insignia on the collar of the blouse. Shoulder straps were also adopted for the commissioned officers.

In November, an exhibition of military camp life was given by the members of the battalion in Franklin Hall. The entertainment represented a typical day in camp and included the various drills which go to make up such a day. The affair was highly successful.

During the last three months of the year, numerous changes were made among the officers of the battalion. The death of Major E. Douglas Murphy, Jr., on May 5 was a severe blow to the battalion, as he had been most active in the promotion of some of the greatest improvements in the organization of that year. At his death, Captain Frederic T. VanAuken, of Co. A was appointed major, but he was obliged to leave the High School and enter an Annapolis preparatory school so that on June 6 Captain Alden E. Moore, of Co. B, was appointed major. These promotions caused numerous changes in the other officers of the battalion and for this reason the drilling of the past month has been somewhat crippled.

The roster of the company officers follows:

First Lieutenant Arthur F. Conant, acting captain; Adjutant George L. Babcock, acting first lieutenant; Second Lieutenant Vincent B. Miner; First Sergeant Harry G. Thompson, Second Sergeant Charles N. Doolittle, Third Sergeant Howard H. Craig, Fourth Sergeant Charles Elliott, Quartermaster Sergeant Edwin L. Weseman; Corporals Charles P. Titsworth, Leslie Slocum, Samuel Rogart, H. G. Lapsley and thirty-five privates.

Company B, Captain Michael T. Moynihan, Quartermaster Lucius T. Koons, acting first lieutenant, First Sergeant Charles F. Neagle, Second Sergeant Frank Lock, Third Sergeant Harold E. Lavell, Fourth Sergeant Edwin Daniels, Quartermaster Sergeant Ralph R. Eckert; Corporals P. O. Meyer, J. W. Gavett, G. M. Rittenhouse, J. Loizeaux and twenty-nine privates

Company C, Captain Ralph S. Lane, First Lieutenant VanWyck Brooks, Second Lieutenant Albetr D. Beers, First Sergeant Harold C. Fenno, Second Sergeant Albert F. Yaeger, Fourth Sergeant Percy M. Brown, Third Sergeant S. F. Freeman, Quartermaster Sergeant Harold Brownell; Corporals P. Leichtentritt, H. Flanders, H. Rottberg and thirty-six privates.

Alden Moore is major at present and Lucius T. Koons, quartermaster; George L. Babcock, adjutant; J. L. Sheppard, sergeant major, and Munro Long, quartermaster sergeant. These are the staff officers in connection with J. D. Macnab, commandant.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A large hoot owl was captured after a struggle by George Saums, who lives in the mountains near the Watchung springs and is now on exhibition in Powers', in Somerset street. Saums was walking in the woods on his way home from work yesterday noon when he heard a loud noise in the bushes. He started in the direction of the noises and soon came upon the owl in fierce combat with three crows. When Saums approached the bird it turned on him.

Saums carried a large stick which he used to advantage. He did not succeed in hitting the owl until after it had clawed his face and arms and tore his clothing. He finally struck the owl on one wing and then threw himself on the struggling owl. He succeeded in binding the bird and then brought it to town.

It is said the owl measures four feet and a half inch from tip to tip of its wings and when it stands erect, it is almost two feet in heighth.

SUN WAS OBSCURED

By Smoke and Ashes From Fires In Two States.

SEEMED TO THREATEN A STORM.

Haze Hangs Over the City Like a Pall. While the Adirondacks, Catskills and Pennsylvania Hills Crackle With Heat.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Smoke and ashes from forest fires in this and neighboring states obscured the sun as though by some heavy yellowish mist, and a pungent odor of burning wood permeated the air.

The haze hung over the river and harbor, somewhat impeding traffic, and the trolley and elevated road service was delayed.

New Yorkers awoke to sniff the air suspiciously and to look up in wonderment at the thick haze that had crept in the night upon the city. It was different from the mists that come up from the sea and was not unlike the drift of vapor that floats away from a great factory fire.

So the wise ones said. "Forest fires." At this the incredulous scoffed, for New York, as far as present memories run, has never before smelled the smoke of forest fires.

But the Adirondacks, the Catskills and the mountains of Pennsylvania are crackling with the heat of burning timber, and Long Island, too, has its conflagrations.

Weather Forecaster Emery said the peculiar conditions were the result of a combination of slight mist, dust arising from the overheated earth and, most of all, the smoke drifting down from the mountain fires. He said there was no sign of rain in the phenomenon.

At first many people thought a storm was coming; but, though the dawn was brown and foreboding, there was no taste of moisture in the air. It had almost a sting such as the people of Martinique got when Pelee was in eruption. Vistas became dim, veiled by an opaleacent curtain. Many people complained that their eyes were affected by the peculiar conditions of the atmosphere.

On this, the drought's forty-ninth day, the outlook for rain is not encouraging.

BOROUGH TAX RATE TO SOAR HIGHER

Board of Education Wants Amount Due on Back Taxes Yet Unpaid.

COUNCIL IN DILEMMA

CORPORATION COUNSEL REED SAYS SUM MUST BE PAID.

Board Entitled to Full Amount for Last Five Years—Written Opinion of Counsel to be Submitted at Next Meeting of the Council.

At the Borough Council meeting last evening a communication was received from John Valiant, chairman of the finance committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education, asking that the Council pay to the School Board the amount of $2,450.31. This amount is alleged to be due on back taxes which have been running from 1898 to 1902, and which the present school law, it is claimed, says can be collected from the Borough Council, whether the borough authorities have collected the amounts appropriated at past elections or not. An argument followed the reading of the communication by Councilman Nichols, who offered a resolution that the matter be laid upon the table until a written opinion is received from Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed.

The attention of the school trustees has recently been called to the fact, through the passage of the new school law, that the body is entitled to the full amounts appropriated at elections for school purposes for the past five years and consequently last month a request was sent to the Council, for the back money. It was urged that the amount be paid by July 1. Corporation Counsel Reed gave a verbal opinion to the effect that there was no way of getting out of paying the bill as the law distinctly says that it can be collected.

In speaking of the matter at the Council meeting last evening Mayor Smalley said that coming as it did at the present time it came rather hard on the borough. He said: "While the Councilmen have been practicing economy, this places them in a bad light as the odium falls on them. Some will say 'we have an extravagant Council.'" He declared that probably it will be necessary to levy an extra assessment on the tax payers which will mean a raise in the tax rate.

The discussion lasted some time. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the bill must be paid. The written opinion of the corporation counsel will be received at the next meeting, when it is probable that some definite action will be taken in the matter.

Music and Games—One Prize Was Awarded—Refreshments Were Served.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational Church enjoyed a social last evening at the home of Miss Jenkins in West Seventh street. The affair was given under the auspices of the social committee, of which Miss Woodcock is chairman, and the missionary committee, of which Miss Emily Winant is chairman. Sometime ago small silk bags were distributed among the members for the reception of the two cents a week dues. These were collected last evening and $14 was realized for missionary purposes.

During the evening there was an informal musical programme in which Miss Gertrude Yale, of Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson, rendered two piano solos. The Endeavorers also played two interesting games, one in which funny pictures, cut into pieces, were distributed, for the purpose of having the guests arrange them in their right order. The other was called "The bean game." All received the same number of beans and a scheme was invented whereby they could be won from one another. The one having the greatest number of beans at the end of a half hour, received a prize. Phillip Suffren won the prize. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

CALISTHENICS AND SONG PLEASE PARENTS

Pupils of Randolph-Cooley School in Exhibition of Year's Work Yesterday.

CLOSE OF SCHOOL YEAR

STUDENTS WHO APPEARED IN COSTTME AT RECENT JAPANESE FETE.

School Beautifully Decorated—The Principal Received Tea Set—Fourth Year of School Completed—Other Exercises Held.

The closing of the school year at the Randolph - Cooley - Collegiate School was the occasion of a celebration in the form of an entertainment and reception by the pupils. In the morning the kindergarten pupils exhibited exercises, games and manual work practised during the last half-year. There were twenty-three pupils taking part under the Misses Burt and Morgan.

The school was charmingly decorated for the afternoon event given by the academic and elementary pupils. A programme of songs and calesthenic drills interested the parents and friends, the general excellence of the performance revealing the conscientious work of the instructors, Miss Julia J. Ketcham and Mrs. Charles Hazeltine. These children participated in the exercises: Fanny Snow Knowlton, Helen Hood and J. C. Bartlett. Specimens of the children's work covered the walls, and pleased the parents. A silver tea set, presented to the principal, Miss Marion Randolph by the teachers was greatly admired. Congratulations were bestowed upon Miss Ena Browne, who has completed her preparatory course and will enter Wellesley College in the fall. The former principal, Mrs. Mason Partick, of Washington, was among the guests in attendance.

The school year just completed was the fourth in its history. Since its incipiency, the school has grown in number of pupils from 60 to 150. The school prepares girls for college, and provides a general course for those not intending to pursue their studies further. There is an elementary course for boys and girls. Miss Grace W. Cooley, the former principal, resigned last fall and was married.

The work next fall will be continued by Miss Emelyn B. Hartridge, of Savannah, with Miss Randolph and Miss Mary A. Mellick as associates.

The accompanying illustration pictures the pupils of the school who took part in the recent Japanese Fete and sale, the exercises, costumes and school decorations being appropriate to the occasion. In the rear, the pupils from left to right are the Misses Margaret Lowe, Lillian King, Dorothy Burt, Rosa Waltmann, Anne Waldo and Bessie Campbell. The three seated are Misses Ellen Burt, Eleanor Waring and Margaret Carman. In front from left to right are these girls: Helen Batchelor, Caroline Martin, Marion Smith and Evelyn Wells.

A CONTRACT DISPUTE.

Jury Returns Verdict for Plaintiff After Deliberating Two Hours—Thomsen vs. Kane.

An important contract case in which Peter C. Thomsen was plaintiff and Alexander and Mary Kane were defendants was given a jury trial in Justice Hand's court yesterday. After two hours' deliberation, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff sued for the recovery of money which he claimed was due him for building operations on the house of the defendants. The defendants filed an offset, stating that they had bought up a claim upon Thomsen owned by Ivins & Company and had offered to pay the balance. The offer was refused, the plaintiff accepted a check from the defendants, who urged that by so doing he barred himself from the right of recovery. Eleven witnesses appeared, six for the plaintiff. The jury, through John Manley, foreman, announced a verdict for the plaintiff. William A. Coddington represented the defendant and Louis A. Clement, the plaintiff.

BOROUGH WANTS USE OF DISPOSAL PLANT

North Plainfield Council Appoints Committee to Confer on Subject.

NO SEPARATE SYSTEM

THE CITIZENS' SEWAGE COMMISSION MAKES ITS REPORT.

Routine Work of Borough Fathers—Report of Collector—Appropriation to Fire Department for Independence Day Work.

The Borough Citizens' Sewage Commission in its final report submitted to the North Plainfield Council last evening recommended that an arrangement be made with this city to use the local sewer beds. It suggested that a committee be appointed by the mayor to confer with a committee of the Plainfield Common Council for the purpose of ascertaining what arrangements can be made with this end in view.

The commission believes that some sort of a sewer is necessary in certain portions of the borough. It recommends that piping be laid and the grade be changed where necessary. It was stated in the report that the arrangement suggested would be much more satisfactory than installing a separate disposal plant or of running a pipe to tidewater. The report closed by saying that the piping laid for connection with the Plainfield beds could be used at some future date should Plainfield, Dunellen and North Plainfield decide to run a sewer to tidewater.

Under the request of the commission, which is composed of Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Assessor Elston M. French, Captain William C. Smith and David T. Kenny, Mayor Smalley discharged it and appointed the present street committee, composed of James F. Arnold, chairman; Robert Clark and Morris VanArsdale, a committee to confer with a committee of the City Council as recommended. Their report will probably be made at the next meeting of the Council. A unanimous vote of thanks was extended the Sewage Commission.

All the members of the Council were present excepting M. C. Van Arsdale. A petition was received from George Nelson, C. Frank French and others asking that certain parts of Somerset place be laid with flagstone sidewalks. The Board of Health, in a recommendation to the Council, requested that a storm sewer be laid in the western part of the town running from Sycamore and Mercer avenues to Green brook. The matter has been attended to by the committee on sewers.

William Mowrey was appointed a special marshal by the Mayor. The street committee reported that $10 has been received from property owners on Walnut street as a nucleus to a fund with which to start macadamizing that thoroughfare. On motion of Councilman Clark, of the fire, water and lamps committee, $75 was appropriated for extra services of the fire department on July 4. On motion of Councilman Clark, it was decided to lay storm sewers on Jackson avenue from Watchung avenue to Somerset street and on Mercer avenue to Green brook. The committee composed of Councilmen Clark, Lee and VanArsdale, which was appointed by Mayor Smalley to confer with a committee from the City Board of Trade to discuss consolidation, did not make a report. On motion of Councilman Clark, W. B. Bennett, who has served in the North Plainfield fire department for a term of seven years, was placed on the list of exempt firemen.

Collector George F. Brown's report showed that the receipts for the past month amounted to $15,394.99 and the disbursements were $1,755.36, making a balance on hand of $13,559.63. James F. Arnold's report, as chairman of the street committee, stated that the expenditures amounted to $301.75 added to which is $203.70 for stone for macadamizing Belmont avenue. Claims amounting to about $3,120 were ordered paid. Councilman Lee, as chairman of the police committee, reported that during the past month $7 had been collected from fines and that eleven arrests had been made.

An ordinance was introduced and passed on its first reading enlarging the district over which the borough will have jurisdiction over property owners who do not lay flag stone sidewalks in front of their houses. The

I can hardly express my satisfaction with the machine, and thoroughly agree with you that the first time you use it you like it, but the more you use it the better you like it. I did not believe it possibly could do what you claimed, but thought it must have some good points, or you could not venture to send one on free trial. The free trial is a splendid idea, as I never should have been induced by any amount of advertisements to invest my money to find out if it was a good machine. I stood amazed as I lifted the articles from the washer on my first trial, articles that as I put them in were so soiled that I exclaimed: "Oh, yes, they'll come out clean and white—?" But they certainly did! I have three little ones and plenty of washing, and pretty much soiled generally, but my only regret is that I did not have the washer years ago, and thus have saved myself very much. Thanking you for being the means of robbing washday of its terrors, I am,

Hamburg Belle Wins Criterion.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Criterion stakes for two-year-olds, the feature of the card at Gravesend, was won in a gallop by Hamburg Belle. The Hamburg—Isiac filly was a hot favorite, never once giving her backers occasion for alarm. She broke in front and opened a gap and, steadily increasing her lead to the finish, won pulled up by five lengths. Sambo, Hamburg Belle and Jim Kelly were the winning favorites.

Bodies Recovered at Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 6.—The dead in the Topeka flood now number seventy-eight. A boatman reported that seven bodies had been found near the north end of Harrison street. The body of a man named Edwards was picked up by a party near Soldier creek. Other bodies found were those of Mrs. Nellie Watson, Mrs. Minnie Prayers and George McDonald. These were caught in the wreckage. Without doubt some of the bodies never will be recovered. The water has now receded over six feet and is going down an inch every hour. Generous responses are being made to the appeals for aid. From all over the country telegrams are coming authorizing the officers here to draw on various organizations for funds.

Flooded Lands Reoccupied.

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—At dark the water had receded from one-tenth of the flooded area, and the uncovered district was promptly reoccupied. The territory reclaimed included the Union depot, which suffered $25,000 damage, and a portion of the railroad yards. The recession of the flood has caused a lively demand for unskilled laborers to repair railroads, clean out buildings and carry away rubbish. Two bodies were found under a railroad coach in the west bottoms. They were those of a Greek railroad laborer and a negro cook. The verified death list now contains ten persons.

Nicaragua Rebellion Crushed.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Minister Merry reports to the state department by mail the suppression of the rebellion in Nicaragua. He says that the rebellion lasted two months, the government being unable during that time to approach the rebels, who possessed the only steamers on Lake Nicaragua and held the islands in the lake. Finally the government had some boats carried by rail over to the lake and made short work of the insurrection.

Miss Vanderhoff Wins at Golf.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The semi-finals in the Women's Championship Metropolitan Golf association tournament were played at Dongan hills, Staten Island. Mrs. Charles T. Stout, Apawamis, who as Miss Genevieve Hecker became national golf champion, was defeated by Miss Louise Vanderhoff, Ardsley, in a slow, close match that held a big gallery spellbound on the last half.

TWO MORE ARRESTS

McGregor and Upton Charged With Conspiracy.

TO DEFRAUD THE GOVERNMENT.

The Complaint Sets Forth That They Obtained Money Illegally From a Contractor For Leather Mail Pouches.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—As a result of the sweeping investigation of affairs at the post office department Thomas W. McGregor, a clerk in charge of the supplies for the rural free delivery service, and C. Elsworth Upton of Baltimore, one of McGregor's assistants, were arrested on the charge of conspiracy with Charles E. Smith of Baltimore to defraud the government in the purchase of the leather pouches furnished the rural carriers throughout the country. Their cases make seven arrests in all since the investigation began. Other arrests are expected later.

The story of the arrests is best told in the following official statement given out by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow:

"Thomas McGregor and C. Elsworth Upton were arrested upon warrants sworn out in Baltimore by Inspectors J. D. Sullivan and R. D. Simmons charged with conspiracy with Charles E. Smith and others to defraud the United States government in the purchase of pouches from C. E. Smith of Baltimore. The complaint sets forth that McGregor and Upton agreed with Smith to obtain for him orders for many thousands of leather pouches such as are used by rural letter carriers. The price agreed upon was 90 cents per pouch. The actual value was less than 50 cents. Smith was to pay to them the difference between 90 and 50 cents per pouch. It is stated at the department that the actual number of pouches which were purchased exceeded 20,000, for which the government paid 90 cents each, or $18,000 in all. Smith received and retained of this for his own use $10,000. The remaining $8,000 was paid to McGregor and Upton. The government could have bought the entire number of pouches from the manufacturers for $8,000."

TRUE BILL AGAINST MACHEN.

Former Postal Superintendent Is Indicted by Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The grand jury has reported an indictment against August W. Machen, former superintendent of the free delivery service of the post office department, who was arrested several days ago charged with sharing profits on government contracts for letter box fasteners. The indictment was brought for violation of section 5,501 of the revised statutes, the penalty for violation of which is a "fine of not more than three times the amount asked or accepted or received and by imprisonment not more than three years."

The amount which the indictment states he received illegally is $18,987.79. Mr. Machen was in court with his attorneys when the grand jury reported and immediately gave bond in the sum of $20,000 for his appearance in court. His sureties were O. G. Staples, David Moore, F. M. Criswell and Emanuel Speich of this city. The trial will occur in October.

By securing an indictment against Machen before the day set for his preliminary hearing before Commissioner Taylor the government has scored a victory in that it has avoided the necessity of showing its hand at a preliminary hearing. The proceedings before the commissioner now will be abandoned.

Hostile to the Czar.

ROME, June 6.—In the chamber of deputies Signor Morgari, the Socialist leader, stated that if the czar came to Italy the Socialists would not abstain from hostile demonstrations, as in the case of visits from other sovereigns, as the latter were constitutional monarchs, while the czar had not yet granted a constitution to the people of Russia. Minister Bacceili replied he was certain that the chamber agreed with him that they should not fail in their duties of courtesy and hospitality, no matter to what party they might belong.

THE CZAR'S ANSWER

Russian Government Issues Official Statement.

REGARDING KISHINEFF MASSACRE.

Denouncing the Perpetrators and Comparing Them to American Lynchers—Peasant Hatred For the Jews the Chief Trouble.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Last week the Christian Herald cabled to the Russian imperial government the following:

"To His Majesty, Emperor of Russia, St. Petersburg:

"In the interests of justice and humanity we ask your majesty to cause an official report of the Kishineff affair to be cabled to us for publication.

"THE CHRISTIAN HERALD."

To this request the following reply, sent by the czar's direction, has been received by cable:

"St. Petersburg, June 4.

"The Christian Herald, New York:

"Russia's agricultural and laboring population is ill-at ease living the common life with Jewish inhabitants of widely developed commercial instinct; hence there is constant antagonism, the material differences in racial and religious character coming to the verge of frenzy at the least possible occasion.

"The strained relations existing between the Russians and Jews of Bessarabia were made worse by the fact of finding in an outlying village a murdered Christian boy. The murder was attributed by the population to the Jewish ritual habits. Official denials of the ritual murder were not given credit by the peasants, who attributed other murders of Christians in the towns of Kieff and Kishineff likewise to the Jews.

"On Easter day in the market place of Kishineff the workers, while holiday making, saw the Jewish proprietor of a carousing machine strike a Christian woman, who fell to the ground, letting go her infant baby. This incident was the immediate cause of an outburst. The workers began breaking windows and pulling down Jewish stores as a sign of protest. The police, who always leave much to be desired in provincial towns, failed to make efficacious intervention, and many thousands of the mass of onlookers and holiday makers approved the riot and hindered the policemen's actions.

"After demonstrators became plunderers, the outbreak lasting from 5 in the afternoon to 10 in the evening and leaving nine Jewish bodies on the place. Night brought the disturbances to an end.

"What goes far to prove the momentous character of the outbreak in letting loose the popular passions with the strength of natural forces is that on Monday morning the Jews, wishing to intimidate and inflict punishment on the Christian workers, began assembling on the market place in groups armed with sticks and other weapons. The Jews, being the more numerous, had the best of it in the two first encounters, and a Christian was seen to fall, receiving a bullet wound. This called forth the popular passion in all its abject force and abomination, the Russian peasants when driven to frenzy and excited by race and religious hatred and under the influence of alcohol being worse than the Americans who lynch negroes.

"Unfortunately the governor of Bessarabia did not make his appearance in person on Easter Sunday, and on Monday he gave over the command to military men, which he had no right to do, as he in consequence laid the police aside and, on the other hand, left the military forces without actual guidance. Troops can take towns by assault, but cannot carry out police duties without special instructions.

"In the end, the town having been divided into districts, with a special military command in each, the disturbances ceased on Monday evening. By this time the minister of the interior had ordered by wire the proclamation of martial law and (an unprecedented fact) had sent the director of the police department to investigate as to the responsibilities of the local officials. In consequence the governor, the chief of the police and some other officials were dismissed outright. Many hundreds of rioters are in prison, and hard work in the Siberian mines awaits them. The minister of the interior has issued a circular to governors all over Russia authorizing them to make immediate use of firearms in cases of anti-Jewish disturbances. The Russian government is the first to disapprove of such horrid acts of violence, but it cannot, in compliance with the requests of a radical and revolutionary press, give the Jews new rights of citizenship, as this would be sure to drive the Russian population to new excesses against the Jews, who are hated by the peasants with such extraordinary force.

Strike at Armour Plant.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Dissatisfied with the wage scale, 300 men belonging to a loading gang of Armour & Co.'s plant in the stockyards have gone on strike. A wage scale was agreed on last week and the men worked until Thursday, when they expressed dissatisfaction at the agreement. It is said that efforts will be made by the officers of the Packing Trades' council to persuade the men to return to work and fulfill their part of the agreement.

Cleveland Gives Topeka $1,000.

CLEVELAND, O., June 6.—The Topeka relief committee of the Cleveland chamber of commerce wired Treasurer Bonebrake at Topeka to draw for $1,000 as a starter on the fund which will be raised in this city. It is believed that a large sum will be contributed by the people here.

ROOSEVELT IS HOME

Capital Gives Returned Traveler a Hearty Welcome.

RECORD JOURNEY FOR A PRESIDENT

Covering Fourteen Thousand Miles by Rail and Several Hundred In Stagecoaches, Carriages and on Horseback.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Roosevelt has arrived in Washington from his memorable trip of over two months throughout the west. He was given a hearty reception by the people of the capital, who lined the sidewalks as his carriage, escorted by the battalion of high school cadets, was driven to the White House. The president cordially responded to the greetings given him and repeatedly stood up in his carriage and waved his hat and bowed his acknowledgements. He looked the picture of health.

There was a large gathering of officials at the Pennsylvania railroad station when the president arrived. They included Secretaries Root, Hitchcock and Cortelyou and Postmaster General Payne, District Commissioners West, MacFarland and Biddle, Captain W. S. Cowles, the president's brother-in-law, and Colonel Symons, the superintendent of public buildings and grounds. Drawn up in line were Commander in Chief Kimball of the department of the Potomac of the Grand Army of the Republic and a detachment of Spanish War Veterans under command of Colonel Hodgson.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the train bearing the president and his party rolled into the station. There was a shout of welcome as President Roosevelt made his appearance on the platform, and it continued while the president was in or about the station. The president spent a very few minutes in exchanging greetings with the assembled officials. He talked longer with Postmaster General Payne than any of the others, the latter throwing his arms about the president and apparently whispering to him.

The president, accompanied by Captain Cowles in full uniform, then entered a carriage and, with his party, which, besides the officials at the station, included Attorney General Knox, Secretary Wilson and Senator Fairbanks of Indiana, were escorted by the battalion of high school cadets along Pennsylvania avenue to the White House grounds.

At the entrance to the White House grounds the cadets halted, and the president and his party passed them in review. The avenue was lined with people, and the applause which greeted the president on every hand was outspoken and cordial. The fire engines of the city were stationed at the intersecting streets on the avenue, and the tolling of their bells added to the welcome to the president.

While the review of the cadets was taking place a large crowd of people repaired to the rear of the White House, where the Marine band gave a concert in honor of the arrival home of the chief executive. They expected that the president would appear for a moment to acknowledge the greeting home that had been given to him, and in this they were not disappointed. The band played "The Star Spangled Banner" and then as the president appeared on the portico struck up "Hail to the Chief!"

The president said:

"My friends and neighbors, I thank you very, very much for coming here to greet me this afternoon, and I have appreciated more than I can say the welcome back home that I have received today. I have been absent over two months, and I have traveled many miles. During that time one thing has struck me, and that is the substantialness of the American people. One can travel from ocean to ocean and from Canada to the gulf and always be at home among one's fellow Americans. I thank you again, my friends, and now I am going in to my own folks."

The trip just completed has been in some respects the most remarkable a president ever took. Mr. Roosevelt and his party traveled over 14,000 miles on railroads and several hundred miles in stagecoaches and carriages, but not an accident marred their journey. Not five minutes' delay was occasioned during the whole trip on account of train conditions, and the schedule adopted by Secretary Loeb before the party left Washington was carried out with military precision. Rarely was the train late in reaching its destination, notwithstanding that it passed through the flooded district in Iowa. The health of the president and his party, too, was remarkable.

During the sixty-five days that the president spent on the road he made 265 speeches, and had it not been for Secretary Loeb's firmness he would have made nearly double that number. From the day the president left Washington requests began to pour in for changes in his programme and for additional addresses, but Secretary Loeb in most every case said "No."

One of the remarkable features of the trip was the nonpartisan spirit displayed in the reception of the president everywhere. Democratic as well as Republican mayors united in extending him a welcoming hand, while at Springfield, Ill., former Vice President Stevenson rode in the carriage with the president.

Plainfield, N. J., June 6, 1903.

A minister in Trenton has informed his congregation that he does not mind crying babies. Now, there is just a bare possibility that he is not married.

Surely "unmerciful disaster follows fast and follows faster" these days of flood and fire, drought and tornadoes. Misfortunes multiply, and the end is not yet in sight.

Vice Chancellor Pitney has said that "no one ever knows what a sheriff is going to do." The opinion of the man on the gallows is important in this connection.

An exchange advises people desirous of escaping typhoid fever to boil the water and milk. A better precaution is found in an efficient Board of Health, such for instance as this city possesses.

Dr. Harper and his collegues retire while Professor Bailey, of Yale, explains that the increase in suicidal cases is due to higher education. Truly, from Chicago University never came such talk as this.

There's weeping and wailing over in The Home News office, in New Brunswick, and it's all because that city can't keep pace with Plainfield. Here is the lamentation: "The license fee in Plainfield is $700 a year. This is just three times the tax in New Brunswick. This fact may help to explain why Plainfield has progressed as a residence town for New York business men and New Brunswick has not. Plainfield has nothing approaching the natural beauties of the Raritan Valley, but it has been more enterprising in developing what resources it has. If the Raritan river went through Plainfield instead of New Brunswick the town would probably be three times its size now. One has only to take a stranger to drive along the banks of the Raritan to charm the beholder with the beautiful location of this old town. Our slowness in getting well paved and well lighted streets held us back for years, but we have made great strides in the last few years. And with a fine record for health, good sewerage system, plenty of trains and an average tax rate New Brunswick ought to attract several thousand home makers in the next ten years."

Steps should be taken at once by the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League's managers to investigate the charges of professionalism made against individual teams. It is time that the League declare itself in this respect. In its membership there is but one club, against which accusations of hiring players has not been made. In some instances it is claimed that money is given outright while in others it is charged that the players have been given positions of profit. If the league intends to remain an amateur association, it should place itself squarely in this matter. From what can be learned the majority of local enthusiasts oppose professionalism, and as they are the ones leading the material support need should be paid to their protests. It is generally believed that professional teams will not be a profitable investment in this city and that is what the league is coming to if any players receive pecuniary reward for their services. Love for the National game should be a sufficient inducement to the managers of the league to put a stop to it. A league meeting is scheduled for Monday evening. Then is the time to take action. The sooner the better.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

A cylinder head on a big freight engine blew out yesterday afternoon, just as the train came to the Prospect avenue crossing and led many people to think, from the noise, that a wreck had occurred. The detached part struck the wooden planking of the crossing and smashed it. The engine jumped several inches from the track and if the engine had been under a greater steam a bad wreck would probably have occurred.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The old historic Baptist Cemetery is sadly in need of some attention. Several years ago the trustees of the church spent several hundred dollars in cleaning up the plots, weeding out the walks, etc., but as the many different plots are owned by individuals it is hardly the trustees' place to keep the place in condition. Some action should be taken among the owners so that a competent care taker could be engaged to keep the place presentable at least.

The usual services will be held tomorrow, at the Baptist Church: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching service, 10:45; at the close of the sermon the regular monthly observance of the Lord's Supper will be held; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; followed at 7:45 by the evening sermon.

Excelsior Hall never looked prettier than it did during the two days, fair of the Public Library. The prettily trimmed booths together with a generous use of evergreens and "Old Glory" about the hall made the place a perfect Eden and was commented upon by all.

In addition to the drought which has now exceeded the usual period of dry weather by many days, the farmers have their troubles with their hired help. It is almost impossible, some of them say, to employ a reliable and competent man to labor on the farm. This is mainly because the various public works and manufactories require and are able to employ the best men.

THIERS' STOMATINE.

A Plainfielder Has a Wonderful Cure for Irritated Mouth and Throat.

In "Stomatine," Dr. Charles R. Thiers, of Grove street, has a wonderful preparaion that not only relieves an irritated condition of the mouth and throat, but has an enviable curative record. For years this preparation has been a great source of comfort to those who have used it and as a test of its efficiency. Dr. Thiers has received many offers from various parts of the county to purchase the formula and others to organize a company to place the preparation in the market. These offers have been refused because of the value of the article.

A testimonal to the healing properties of "Stomatine," is given by a well-known Plainfield woman. She was severely troubled with a sore mouth and for many weeks she was detained at a New York hospital for treatment. Having used "Stomatine" before, it occurred to her that the preparation would effect a cure. In a short time after using it the soreness disappeared entirely and has not returned. So well pleased were the physicians and nurses in the hospital that additional bottles were secured and prescribed for other patients with the same success.

By the Commitee on Jail Inspection.

Elizabeth, N. J., May 11th, 1903.

To the Honorable Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen: Your Committee on Jail Inspection submit herewith their annual report for the fiscal year ending April 30th, 1903—together with a carefully prepared report of the Warden, giving in detail the receipts and expenditures for the year, and interesting statistics of the prisoners incarcerated in the jail, from May 1st, 1902 to March 12th, 1903.

From the report, you will observe that the cost of maintaining our jail for the past year, including provisions, salaries, etc., was $4,402.11.

The average cost per prisoner per day including everything was $27.86 cents.

The high average rate per prisoner per day is due to an expenditure of $459.75 for vaccinations.

In accordance to the law governing jails, the management of the jail was transferred to the Sheriff on March 13th, 1903, and the warden's statistics give the records from May 1st, 1902, until March 12th, 1903 only, but the expenditures cover sundry bills of account assumed by the committee and purchased during the period of the Sheriff's management.

During the year the prisoners were daily employed about the county buildings doing the necessary janitor work, attending furnace, storing coal, etc.

It affords your Committee great pleasure to state that the Union County jail is recognized as a model institution of its kind, being highly recommended by the State Charities Aid Association, and complimented by the Grand Jury of our Court.

At our meeting in May 11th, 1903, we appointed Dr. Alonzo Pettit as jail physician for the ensuing year, at the usual compensation, $250, said amount to cover all services needed to jail during the year.

Signed. W. A. Westphal, John F. Wahl, Joseph McCandless, Committee.

In connection with the above report I would state that the general health of the prisoners has been good during the year.

Dr. Bunting has been prompt in attendance, and in every way satisfactory.

With many thanks to the Committee for their co-operation with me in the discharge of my duties, and with especial thanks to Mr. J. F. Hubbard, the Director, for his advice and assistance in all matters pertaining to the general good management of the County Jail, I am yours

Most respectfully.

Charles W. Dodd, Warden.

On motion of Freeholder Westphal the foregoing two reports were read and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Farrell.

Resolved, That the County Collector be and he is hereby authorized to transfer from the miscellaneous account to the court account the sum of $2,858.90, and to the coroner's account the sum of $196.01, and to the repairs to county road account the sum of $372.15, and from the incidental account to the public building account the sum of $3,695.71.

Freeholder King moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

Freeholder King moved to adjourn sine die which was so ordered, and Director pro tem. Farrell declared the Board adjourned sine die.

S. Rusling Ryno, Clerk.

LABOR IN DIAMOND MINES.

One Hundred Thousand Japanese Coolies For Transvaal.

JOHANNESBURG, June 6.—The Land Daily Mail asserts that an agent representing a Japanese syndicate is negotiating for the introduction of 100,000 Japanese laborers for the mines.

Replying to an anti-Asiatic deputation, High Commissioner Lord Milner reviewed the whole question and said he was convinced that it was impossible to get sufficient African labor. He did not want Asiatics to take the bread out of the mouths of the whites, but he did not see why they should not employ indentured laborers temporarily under a control which would insure their return to their own country. They might be wanted in large numbers both for the mines and for public works.

All this, however, was conditional on the governments concerned granting permission for their introduction. He was certain that the home government would not consent if it believed that the mass of the European population was opposed to it.

MISSISSIPPI LEVEE BREAKS.

Incloses Farming Section Many Miles In Extent.

LOUISIANA, Mo., June 6.—The Sny levee broke just below this city, and the Mississippi is now falling here at the rate of six inches per hour on account of the break. The Sny is the most important levee on the north end of the river and is seventy miles long. In some places it is twenty-eight feet high and eighty feet across at the base. It incloses a fertile farming section from three to seven miles wide containing more than 100,000 acres.

There are several towns within the district, the population of which is probably 10,000. Many of them remain, and loss of life is certain. This district has not been overflowed since 1888, and the damage will run into the millions. The break occurred at a point used by the railroad as a roadbed. It was unexpected until just before the break occurred. When seen a rush was made to repair it, but forty yards went out, and a torrent poured through.

Charged With Manslaughter.

BOSTON, June 6.—When Joseph Curry and his wife were called for a hearing on a charge of assault and battery upon Miss Margaret T. Padden the clerk of the court announced that owing to the death of Miss Padden the charge had been changed to that of manslaughter. Miss Padden was at one time the personal attendant of Princess Louise at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, when the Marquis of Lorne was governor general of Canada, 1878 to 1883. An album found in the house has the following inscription, "Margaret Padden, from the Marquis of Lorne, Christmas, 1879." Miss Padden kept a lodging house in this city. The police charge Curry and his wife, who were lodgers, with having thrown Miss Padden downstairs.

Prayers For Rain on the Oranges.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., June 6.—Aroused over the continued long spell of drought and fearful lest the Orange mountains will soon take fire, clergymen of this place will on Sunday offer prayers in their various churches for the much needed rain. The farmers have become greatly alarmed at the condition of their crops and fear they will be ruined. This is especially true of the garden and truck farmers. They are also in constant dread of the Orange mountains catching fire and burning them out.

Forest Homes May Burn.

RED BANK, N. J., June 6.—The pine woods between Pine Brook and Cott's Neck, seven miles west of here, are on fire and burning fiercely. The pine woods south of Eatontown are also on fire, and as there are several small settlements scattered throughout that belt of woodland there is great fear lest the flames reach the houses.

"Muck" Blazing For Fifteen Miles.

SANDY HILL, N. Y., June 6.—The "muck," famous for producing potatoes, is ablaze along the valley from Fort Edward to Whitehall, a distance of fifteen or twenty miles. Farmers are fighting the ground fires with hose, taking water from the canal. Crops will be an utter failure unless rain comes within a few days.

Smoke and Ashes at Geneva.

GENEVA, N. Y., June 6.—The atmosphere in this locality is filled with smoke and atoms of ashes, evidently the result of the great forest fires in northern New York. The smell of burning wood is easily detected. The sun has been obscured for two days, and artificial light is used in stores and other business places.

Vermont Fires Abating.

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 6. — Reports from different points about the state show that the forest fires are pretty well under control. The fire on Worcester mountain has been subdued. It is estimated that 3,500 acres of timber land have been burned over there, and a half million feet of logs that had been cut were burned.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.
FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

A good deal of minor information was incidentally picked up, which has been found to fit in the case. I paid a visit to Uncle Dick Norris, and again crossed the trail of Franklin, learning that he had been in the Bayou woods on the day of the murder. In the meanwhile I studied at odd times the lives and careers of Old Tom, Bob Padgett and the red flannel shirt man, and learned that all of them were in communication with the man whose presence seemed to pervade the case from end to end.

"Having gathered a great deal of evidence here and done all that could be done for the time, it was decided that I should go to Colorado and find out the actual facts about the mining tract. I made my way to the mine adjoining the Wright tract, and there I found a horde of miners waiting hungrily for the signal to begin work in the new field. A great stony wedge which marked one of the boundaries of the tract had, by some upheaval centuries ago, been thrust straight across the vein of gold. This doubly rich vein, it had been found, extended into the Wright tract. Old gold hunters told me that it was probably the most valuable piece of land in the state, and that it would make its owners fabulously rich.

"It was my good fortune while I was loafing about the mine to become acquainted with Mr. Frederick Merivale, the chief stockholder in it. He had come out from New York some time before, when the report reached him that his vein had run up against a stone wall, and that the jig was up. The object of his journey was to make a thorough investigation, locate the severed thread of gold, and purchase the land that confined it. A very casual examination convinced him that just over the wall of stone lay the biggest bonanza in the state. The next thing was to get hold of it. It was registered in the name of the Diamond Mining company, of which Franklin was apparently the president and chief stockholder. Well, Merivale wrote to Franklin and asked if he wanted to sell. He did not get an answer for some time. Franklin was evidently investigating through other sources to see what was up. Finally came the answer, which I have here and will read:

"'I would be willing to sell providing you can meet my price. The tract referred to being now the most promising gold land in the west, I do not propose to part with it for a song.'

"Several letters passed between them, and finally Merivale made a proposition that they should open the mine as joint owners. He would put in all the necessary appliances, which he had near at hand; would stand all the expenses, take all the risks, and give Franklin half net of the gold output the first year. After that they were to share expenses and profits together. A letter to this effect is also in my possession.

"Finally there came a hitch in the transactions. Wright had learned something of the value of his tract through Moses Dennison, formerly of this part of the country, but who had moved to Colorado years before, and who had purchased this very tract for Mr. Wright. Mr. Dennison rather plumed himself in his sagacity in having picked out such a big thing 20 years before, and he wrote to Wright in a very enthusiastic manner. Merivale got wind of the fact through Dennison that Wright claimed the ownership, and he wrote to Franklin to know whether he could give a clear title. By various misrepresentations, which the letters in my possession set forth, Franklin managed to get considerable sums out of Merivale, and with the money thus obtained the work of thievery and assassination was carried on.

"I found Merivale to be a very good sort of a fellow, and straight as that kind of man generally is. He was tricky and cold-blooded when it came to the manipulation of stocks. He didn't care where he hit provided he had his own way, and he was not the kind of man to stop and shed any tears over the corpses cast along the shores of finance by the flood of speculation; but he wasn't a thief, a murderer or an assassin, nor knowingly a partner of one. He received me very cordially, and when I had got fairly acquainted with him I gave him an inkling of my business, and then I began to stuff him full of my suspicions and surmises regarding Franklin. I satisfied him that Franklin had been using his money for criminal projects, carried out to secure unlawful possession of the property. I persuaded him that Franklin was deceiving him in a most indefensible manner, and that he was doing himself an injustice in furthering his schemes.

"I then made a proposition to Merivale. I told him that I would alter my appearance and go back to Nilus, taking his name; and that by pretending to sympathize with all of Franklin's schemes I should get into his confidence and worm from him the truth. In return for this privilege, I promised Merivale that I would use all the influence I had, reinforced by Mr. Everett, to induce the real owners of the mine to consent to the proposition he had made to Franklin. He studied over it for a while. I could see that he rather enjoyed the idea. It would be a rare joke and a rare revenge, but I could see that he hesitated. Doubtless he was a little apprehensive as to what use I would make of his name; so I told him that he could write to Mr. Everett, and that gentleman would stand for my doing nothing that would bring discredit on his name. At last he consented, and at my suggestion he wrote a letter to Col. Franklin stating that he would be in Nilus in a short time. He then made arrangements to depart for San Francisco, where he had some interests demanding his attention. Before I left, he placed in my possession all of Col. Franklin's letters to him, as well as copies of his letters to Franklin.

"In order to personate Merivale, a transformation was necessary. I had my hair cut as close as if it had been shaved, and I then purchased a blond wig, which I mutilated and trimmed so that when put on I appeared to be growing bald rapidly. Then I had my beard trimmed and parted, and in this shape I blondined it. With a red dye I brightened my cheeks, and with a pair of cloudy spectacles I dulled my eyes. And so, armed with Franklin's letters and Merivale's name, I came to Nilus as an eastern capitalist and took the best room in the best hotel. Before I relate what happened in Nilus, I will first read the letters that passed between Merivale and Franklin."

CHAPTER XVII.

From Merivale to Franklin:

"I have just learned from Mr. Moses Dennison that there is another claimant to the land about which we have been in correspondence. Of course I expect to have all titles thoroughly examined by my attorneys before I close any bargain with you. What does Dennison mean? What sort of interest has John T. Wright in the land? Answer at once."

To this Franklin replied:

"I cannot learn from Wright the grounds upon which he bases his claim to ownership, unless there is some flaw in the title of which he has taken advantage; or else some miscarriage in the payment of taxes resulting in a sale of the land, of which I know nothing. It is possible that Wright may have some lien upon the land. I will investigate, and if I find that it can be wiped out for a reasonable sum of money, would you be willing to supply the cash?"

To this Mr. Merivale wrote in reply:

"Of course I would. Wipe out the defect at once, whatever it is, no matter what it costs. I am willing to advance any sum necessary, with the understanding that it is to be repaid from the receipts of the mine. Write me at your earliest convenience the exact nature of the defects, and let me know the amount of money you need."

Franklin to Merivale:

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of the Week's Trade.

NEW YORK, June 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The elements provided the only unfavorable developments of the week, and, while they may not prove far reaching in their effect, the first result is seen in greater conservatism. Floods damaged property and delayed traffic in the southwest, a tornado wrecked a southern manufacturing center, excessive rains retarded planting and otherwise injured crops at many western points, while, on the other hand, serious misfortune has come to hay, vegetables and fruit at the east through drought, and great timber tracts have been devastated by fire. While all of these disasters will exert only a local influence, the combined reduction in purchasing power must to an appreciable extent diminish the distribution of merchandise. It is somewhat doubtful whether any material loss of the great staple crops will follow, as it has become almost an axiom that excessive moisture never produces a great famine.

The week opened with a further large addition to the army of the unemployed, but many plants have since resumed, and settlements of other disputes will take effect on Monday. Dispatches regarding trade conditions at the leading cities are generally encouraging.

Railway earnings in May were 12.7 per cent larger than last year and 25.4 per cent greater than in 1901. Bank exchanges for the week at New York were 19.4 per cent larger than last year, and at other leading cities the increase averaged 4 per cent. Comparison with 1901 is not instructive, owing to the difference in a number of business days.

There is still an inclination to defer the placing of contracts for iron and steel. The United States Steel corporation has bought 165,000 tons of pig iron, chiefly for delivery during the third quarter, but the recent readjustment of quotations has not stimulated general activity in the industry.

Textile industries show no material improvement. Lowell mills resumed, but were only able to secure about a third of their employees the first week, while a considerable part of the Philadelphia mill capacity is idle.

Transvaal Reciprocity.

JOHANNESBURG, June 6.—The details are published of the Bloemfontein customs convention, signed March 24, under which the representatives of the Transvaal, the Orange River Colony, Cape Colony, Natal and Rhodesia agreed to accord a 10 per cent preference in favor of Great Britain and reciprocating colonies. The duties in many cases are reduced by half, but are increased in the case of high proof spirits. A long free list includes agricultural implements and machinery, books and leather. There is a special list, mainly consisting of machinery and material for railway, street car and telegraph construction, on which the duty is 2½ per cent ad valorem if the articles are manufactured outside of the United Kingdom. This is the only mention of preferential treatment of imports from the mother country.

Japan and Brazil at St. Louis.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Mr. Wilson, secretary of legation at Tokyo, has notified the secretary of state that the Japanese diet has appropriated 800,000 yen for the St. Louis exposition. Minister Thompson cabled that the president of Brazil has asked congress to provide $600,000 for the St. Louis exposition and that the appropriation probably will be made.

Farmers Planting Millet.

BLAIRSTOWN, N. J., June 6.—Fearing a failure of the hay crop, farmers in Warren and Sussex counties are planting millet and fodder corn. It is now forty-eight days since rain has fallen in this section, and many farmers have not yet broken ground for planting.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The Young Ladies' Guild of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, will hold a strawberry festival Wednesday, June 10, from 4 o'clock to 9.

At the semi-annual meeting of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church last night, Pastor Jackson rebuked the dancers and many who had broken the pledge promised to renew it.

Daniel O'Day, vice president of the Standard Oil Company, has given $10,000 to the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton, and a plot of ground 350x300 feet at the summer resort "Deal" has been purchased on which a church will be built. The $10,000 just paid for the land.

Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey, will administer the Apostolic rite of confirmation at the Church of the Holy Cross tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and at Grace church in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. He will make an address at each service. There will be special music.

These officers were elected by the First Methodist Episcopal Church Epworth League last night: President, George A. Horne; first vice president, William Symons; second vice president, Miss Margaret Cory; third vice president, Miss Gertrude Snodgrass; fourth vice president, Harry Gee; secretary, William Pike; treasurer, Dr. F. W. French. The League will send a delegate to the international convention at Detroit in July.

At a meeting of the Congregational Church, this week, there was a discussion regarding the adoption of an amendment providing for the use of individual communion cups. After a debate of the question it was decided to lay the amendment on the table for the present and take no action in the matter until a later date. The congregation amended the constitution making the Board of Trustees a continuous body and giving the trustees power to fill vacancies.

An entertainment will be given in the parish house of Grace Episcopal church on Tuesday evening of next week, under the auspices of the Girls' Friendly Society. Among those who have consented to take part are Miss Glenn, Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano solos; Miss Hyatt, violin solos, and Miss Dove, piano solos. The second part of the programme will consist of a sleight-of-hand perrormance, in which Mr. Mosher and, Mr. Rankin will take part.

Stephen Cahoone will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. Orchestra will play and accompany singing. Miss Mildred Till, of the Rock Concert Company, will sing. She has already been heard at concerts in this city and also at religious meetings, including the services in connection with the anniversary exercises of the Y. M. C. A. at the First Presbyterian church. The late D. L. Moody was so pleased with the singing of Miss Till that he tried to get her to sing for him in connection with his Gospel work in New York city, but she was then on a concert tour in Indiana.

—List of cream at Tier's for tomorrow are vanilla, strawberry, chocolate, orange ice, pineapple ice, raspberry ice, strawberry crush, bisque, banana and French vanilla.

—W. G. Besler, general manager and vice president of the New Jersey Central and wife, of North Plainfield, will leave this afternoon in a private car for Reading, Pa., where they will attend a wedding.

PECULIAR REAL ESTATE DEAL

TO ERECT BUILDING ON PLOT HELD BY THIRTY DAYS LEASE.

Miss Lincoln for Second Time Proposes to Build, Where She Can be Ousted Quickly.

Miss Annie Lincoln, a local florist, yesterday signed a thirty-days' lease with the Central Railroad of New Jersey for a plot of ground fifteen by forty on Park avenue, near the North Avenue station. She will erect a brick building to be used as a florist store and dwelling. The plot of ground at present stands vacant and many people think it is a part of the station grounds. The property adjoins the store in which the office of Justice of the Peace V. W. Nash, Sr., is located. It is understood that an application will be made in Inspector T. O. Doane's office for a permit to erect the building.

Twelve years ago Miss Lincoln erected the wooden building in which her store is located on Park avenue under a short term lease and as that agreement is about to expire she has decided to erect another building which will be better adapted to her needs as a florist. The company reserves a right to cancel the contract within thirty days.

CHILDREN RUN DOWN.

Escape Serious Injury by Coachman's Presence of Mind.

James and Ethel Wilson, aged 4 and 7 years, respectively, were run over last evening at the corner of East Fourth street and Watchung avenue by a team of horses attached to a stylish carriage. They were saved from injury by the presence of mind of the driver.

The children are those of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, of 238 East Fourth street. They were in charge of their sister Annette, aged 10 years and while she was trying to save them from being run over by a trolley car her charges were knocked down by the horse. Annette was the first victim of the local traction company when the road was put in operation here. She was knocked down and her head cut open. The children were driven home in George P. Mellick's carriage.

Lost Their Sympathy.

Now, when the daughter of the house ran away with the strolling musician, the neighbors were full of tender sympathy with the family.

They called in a body to express this fact.

All would have gone well if the old man had not cherished the idea that he was a natural born wit and that the flashes of his genius in that line could illuminate the darkest abyss of gloom that ever was heard of.

"Yes," he said, "I am deeply touched by this evidence of feeling on the part of you, my neighbors. Not that I objected to my daughter getting married. I expected her to do that some day. But I think all of you will bear witness that I have ever cautioned her not to piccolo man."

At this the neighbors retired to the roadway and stoned the house, then sent a joint message of congratulation to the runaway daughter.—Chicago Tribune.

Engraving Glass with Gelatine.

A singular property of gelatine, when spread upon glass, has lately been experimented with by the French chemist, Cailletet. When a thick layer of strong glue, that has been allowed to dry upon a glass surface, is detached, it carries off scales of glass and leaves designs resembling those of frost on a window-pane. Polished marble and quartz are similarly attacked. With glue containing six per cent. of alum M. Cailletet produced five designs, resembling moss in texture. Hyposulphite of soda and nitrate and chlorate of potash, added to the glue, produce analogous effects. The glue while drying exerts a powerful mechanical strain.—Youth's Companion.

Souvenirs of Great Novelists.

The Victor Hugo museum on Place des Vosges, Paris, will be opened when President Loubet returns from Algeria. A French clerk who gets $36 a month, returning from Hugo's funeral, saw in a crockery shop a cheap plate with Hugo's photograph printed on it. He bought it, and that plate was the nucleus of the Hugo museum, which contains 500 relics of the great writer. The collection is made up of plates, soap, perfumery, saucers, bottles, tobacco pouches, charms, etc., all souvenirs of Victor Hugo contributed by the common people.

Fish Farming in China.

The Chinese are great at fish farming, and one of their little dodges for hatching young fish is most ingenious. Taking a fresh egg, they suck the contents through a tiny hole, and refill the egg with the tiny eggs of the fish they want to hatch. The hole is then sealed up, and the egg placed under a setting hen. In a very few days the fish ova are so far advanced that one has only to break the shell into moderately warm water, and the little fish spring to life at once.—Cleveland Leader.

HILLSIDE.

Lovers of golf belonging to local organizations found two attractions at the Park Golf Club and but one at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. ANOTHER HANDSOME STORE

J. A. SMITH AND BRO. TO OPEN A LARGE ESTABLISHMENT.

Description of One of the Largest and Finest Grocery Stores in the County.

J. A. Smith & Brothers' handsome new grocery store will be opened to the public tomorrow. Without exception it is the most complete store of the kind in this vicinity and well calculated for the increasing trade which the firm enjoys. The house is located at 151 and 153 West Front street and the place has been completely remodelled. There are three large show windows and on the right as you enter there is the imported and domestic bottle goods and fancy groceries. An innovation is an electric coffee grinder. Adjoining that department is one devoted to imported and domestic crackers. Then comes the space devoted exclusively to butter and eggs and back of that are the well-equipped offices, provided with two telephones.

On the left the space is devoted to general groceries and in the extreme rear is a refrigerator for fruits and vegetables. Another unique feature is a self-measuring kerosene oil device. In the rear there is a three-story storehouse. On the first floor there is the receiving and shipping department. On the second floor will be kept the stock of sugar, flour and cereals and the third will be used for storing soap, starch and general merchandise. All three floors are connected with an elevator. The basement is large, well lighted and airy and is used for storing potatoes, and surplus stock. The general arrangement of decoration is pleasing and attractive.

HELP IT ALONG.

Chance to Contribute to Charity Work of Unquestionable Benefit.

A cool trolley ride through shady lanes and green fields, when the day is hot and tired nature needs restoring, is a delight to anyone. How much more pleasure and benefit will it bring to weary mothers and to little children, who cannot go without financial assistance.

All are asked to contribute to a fund for this purpose in charge of Mrs. S. R. Struthers, superintendent of the Relief Association, 544 West Front street. Even a very small offering will help in giving happiness to some poor child or carewdrn mother.

DIME NOVELS' EFFECT.

Borough Lad Runs Away, But Returns After Short While.

Charles Beerman, Jr., thirteen, smokes cigarettes and reads yellow back "literature." Under the influence of some other bad boys, Saturday, he ran away from home to join a tramping expedition and caused his parents and the police of the borough and city much trouble as a result. He returned this morning with the statement that he had tried unsuccessfully to board a freight train that would take him far from Plainfield. The lad is the son of one of the managers of Applegate's meat market, and lives at 21 Chatham street.

Another Phase of Prosperity.

According to a notice sent to the local coal dealers some time ago by the line agents, it is expected that on or about June 15 the price of coal will be advanced from $6 to $6.25 per ton. The advance thereafter will be at the rate of twenty-five cents a month.

ALIS WON.

A large crowd witnessed the game between the Alis Club and Pearsall A. C., of Jersey City, on Crescent Oval, in which the home team was victorious by a score of 11 to 8. The feature of the game was the heavy batting of both sides, Alis secured twelve and Pearsall fourteen hits. Other attractions were the work of Hope, who had seven assists and struck out six men; the outfield work of Dupee, Lederer and Schoonmaker, who had a number of difficult flies; the general sharp playing of the Alis infield, as well as the playing of Barnes. Flynn led in batting with three hits. There were many inexcusable errors, but altogether the game was an interesting exhibition throughout.

SMILING JIMMY'S WORK.

Westfield, June 8—The Roselle baseball team was no match for the Westfield nine Saurday, and the locals won the contest by a score of 21 to 0. "Smiling Jimmy" Montross pitched a strong game, striking out eleven men. At no stage of the game were the visitors in it.

BACCHUS' WORSHIPPERS FACE JUDGE RUNYON

Over-Indulgence in Liquor Brings Business to City Court.

PAT KEARNS REJOICING

HIS HONOR DECIDES TO RELEASE HIM ON PROBATION.

Has Heart-to-Heart Talk With the Judge, Who Hold Up the Padded Cell As a Warning—Pat Investigated His Own Case.

Over-indulgence in wet goods brought about the downfall of a half dozen unfortunates who paid sums of varying size by way of retribution in the city cours this morning.

Patrick Kearns had another heart-to-heart talk with His Honor Judge Runyon. He spent yesterday trying to find out from his friends whether or not the report of his lack of mental balance was correct and announced the result of his investigations to the court, some of his inquiries having elicited favorable replies and others not. The judge decided to release him on probation, holding up the padded cell as a warning against another offense. Pat was much obliged.

Harry Donelly's too faithful attendance at the bar Saturday evening cost him $5. Joseph Trainor thought he would be a "bold, bad man" also, and his attempt to be a sport brought him behind the bars, after he had spent a large portion of his Saturday evening in front of them. He was duly penitent and was given one more chance He took the pledge for two years with a promise of no mercy if he broke it. The case against George Sweeney who also worshipped at the shrine of the god Bacchus was postponed.

Michael White and Thomas Kennedy went on a bat up the boulevard Saturday night and became decidedly argumentative. They gave vent to their pugnacious spirit by beating a colored man over the brains, and reluctantly parted with sums of $20 and $10 respectively this morning in consequence. David Ramazotti, who chooses Sunday instead of Saturday as a week day, added $3 to the State treasury for keeping his store open on Saturday.

Queen Esther.

The boys' and girls' choruses which are such delightful incidents of the banquet that Queen Esther gives to King Ahasverus are sure to delight the ear and eye. The production of the cantata is modelled upon the one produced by Prof. W. S. Weeden, of New York. Queen Esther will be produced under the direction of Charles L. Lewis in Vincent Chapel, Thursday evening.

TAKES HIS MAN AFTER FIGHT

DETECTIVE TOTTON KNIFED WHILE CAPTURING RUBERTS.

The Prisoner Wanted on Charge of Murderous Assanit — Held for Grand Jury.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 8—In a desperate "rough house" battle this morning in the "gravel pit" Detective Totten, of Somerville, captured John Ruberto, who murderously assaulted his aged father and mother on April 30 last, and then made his escape.

Detective Totten was disguised as a tramp and was about Bound Brook all last night looking for his man, who had come from Staten Island, to see a girl, who is stopping with a friend in the "pit."

When Detective Totten entered the house Ruberto's friends pounced on him and he was obliged to club his way to the man he wanted. In the scrap the lamp was overturned and Totten was knifed in the back, but the wound was only slight. He laid hands on Ruberto and brought him to Somerville, where Justice Sutphen held him in $1,700 bail for the Grand Jury. He is a desperate character and it is believed other charges will be made against him.

TROLLEY LINE TO METUCHEN PROMISED

Thomas F. Walsh Says Necessary Rights of Way Have Been Secured.

STONE BALLASTED ROAD

HOPE TO HAVE LINE COMPLETED BEFORE END OF SUMMER.

Edward H. Radel, Secretary of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company Talks on Scheme —The Work to be Rushed.

Before the close of the coming summer trolley cars may be running direct between this city and Metuchen. This is the statement made yesterday to a Daily Press reporter by Edward H. Radel, secretary of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company.

During the Winter and Spring the company has been quietly at work securing rights of way between Plainfield and Metuchen with a view to running an trolley road between the two places. Manager Thomas F. Walsh made the announcement a few days ago that the rights of way had been secured from property owners along the proposed route and within a few weeks the work will be started on the road. It will be rushed through to completion.

A thousand tons of steel rails have arrived at the company's store yards at New Brunswick for the new road and the wire and ties are the only things that are now delaying the commencement of the work. These will arrive in a few days. Mr. Radel, declared to the reporter that the road would not pass through any of the roads leading from this city to Metuchen but that it route is over private property through which rights of way have been secured by the company. The road will be stone ballasted, as is the road between Bound Brook and New Brunswick. Extra heavy rails will be laid so as to insure the best possible speed.

The connection with the local line will probably be at the Watchung avenue terminus. This will be a junction with the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Railway lines. No arrangement has been made so far, however, and if, in the event of the impossibility of securing certain concessions from the local line the trolley company may enter the town through New Market and Dunellen. The line, when completed, will make a trolley road from this city to Perth Amboy and Boynton Beach and other Staten Island Sound summer resorts.

The line, as it is proposed at present, will connect directly with the New Brunswick road at Metuchen, which extends through that town as far as Pompton. Provided an arrangement can be secured with the local lines, the cars will connect with the Arlington avenue line at Park avenue. It is said that the right of way has been secured as far as the point where the local tracks leave Park avenue for the cemetery.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Justice Stackhouse, of Camden, is in a quandary. Another magistrate ordered that a dog be shot and the police detailed left the canine satisfied that he had performed his duty. A few days later the animal was found running about the streets, utterly oblivious that he was "a dead one." 'Squire Stackhouse decreed that the dog must be killed, but its owner raised the point that the animal is legally dead. There's the rub.

The exhibition of a search-light in Plainfield during the past few nights has attracted considerable attention. It was at first believed to be located in New York harbor or at Perth Amboy, but investigation proved that it was at the Rushmore Dynamo Works in South avenue. The concern has a new search-light under test and the employes were waiting for a real dark night to make a thorough test. The light is a powerful one and when in use, not only lighted up the sky, but many of the resident sections of the city. In the vicinity of the circus, Wednesday night, the surroundings were as light as day.

A colored Methodist exhorter was getting in some good work the other evening just north of Fourth street. He woke the echoes for several blocks in his earnest efforts to instil the doctrine, painting the terrors that attend the downward path in a way to chill the heart of the backslider. His constant repetition of a few stock phrases, calculated to rob the devil of his due, awoke loud and fervent responses from about a score of the faithful who hung on his words as though chained to the spot. It was a reminder on a small scale of the old camp meeting days. All that lacked was the appropriate surroundings including the proverbial and stimulating hogshead.

MISSOURI HAS RISEN

Causes Fears For Many Imprisoned at Black Walnut.

HIGH WATER HAS BARRED ESCAPE

Many Efforts at Rescue Have Failed. Entire Valley Is Under Water, and Many Homes Have Been Washed Away.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—Like a mill race the swollen Mississippi is surging past St. Louis with a stage of 36.9 feet, making a rise of one and a half feet in the last six hours. The government forecast is that the rise will continue rapid until after midnight, and then for the next two days the stage will creep up slowly, probably reach thirty-two feet and begin to recede.

No word was received from the 200 people imprisoned on a lowland at Black Walnut, twenty-five miles northwest from St. Louis, and in peril of their lives from the rising waters of the Missouri river. Word has been received that the rescue must be effected immediately. The river has spread out around the island with a swift current, and although every effort has been made to reach them nothing has yet been accomplished, and there is no means of communicating with them. The Spread Eagle, moored at Alton, Ill., above St. Louis, was hurriedly manned and started for the imperiled colony, but was forced to turn back at the Bellefontaine bridge. A private yacht here at St. Louis was manned by a company of policemen and started for Black Walnut, as the craft sat low enough in the water to pass all bridges, but the swift current had to be reckoned with. All steam was turned on, but the boat made no headway against the current, and after vainly stemming the flood for several hours without making a hundred yards the yacht returned to shore and the venture was abandoned.

Black Walnut is located in a broad and fertile valley of the Missouri, and the land surrounding it is said to be the richest wheat land in the state. Aside from loss of life the property loss will be very heavy, as the entire valley is under water and homes have been washed away, farms depleted and stock drowned.

MADISON LEVEE BREAK.

One Hundred Yards Wide and Water Covers Three Villages.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—The break in the great Madison county levee, which gave way, has widened, and the water is rushing through a gap a hundred yards wide, covering 20,000 acres of fertile farm land and three villages—Oldenburg, Mitchell and West Granite. About 500 persons have been driven from their homes by the flood. The roar of the water as it pours through the break can be heard a mile and a half. The break is only a mile from the head of this great bulwark, which was regarded as the principal barrier between the river and all the east cities, including East St. Louis.

Martial law has been proclaimed in East St. Louis. Men with guns are patrolling the levee and have orders to shoot down thieves and levee breakers.

Word was received that the village of West Alton is now completely inundated, and the Missouri river appears to be shifting its channel to the principal streets of the village. The current apparently is very strong and increasing in strength, and it is feared that many houses may be floating toward the gulf.

Kansas Citizens at Work.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., June 8.—All day gangs of men were at work clearing away the debris of the flood, and there will be quite a general resumption on all lines of business. The packing plants will start up immediately, and all will be in full blast before the week ends. Both the Missouri and the Kaw rivers have fallen fully three feet during the past twenty-four hours and have made it possible for a dozen more railroads to make use of the Union depot.

Runaway Car Fatal to Three.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 8.—One man has been killed and two persons fatally and several others badly injured in a runaway car accident on the Alum Rock Park Electric railway. Deputy Assessor Edwin F. Goodrich of this city was killed outright. Alice Myers, aged twenty-four years, and Willie Baker, aged eleven, the latter the son of Professor Baker of the San Jose Normal school, are perhaps fatally injured.

Across the "Pond" In Fifteen Footer.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 8.—Howard Blackburn, who had previously made two voyages across the Atlantic alone in small dories, started in his fifteen-foot dory America in a third attempt to cross the ocean, with Havre as his objective point. His intention is to return via Gibraltar, Western islands, Porto Rico and Cuba and exhibit his boat at the St. Louis exposition.

Topeka Victims Found.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 8.—The body of Forest Kutz, a schoolteacher, has been found in the debris left by the flood. It developed that several fertile farms near North Topeka have been entirely ruined. The swift current washed away much of the good soil and in its place has left a thick, hard layer of sand, rendering the ground useless. The water is falling rapidly.

SHIPS IN COLLISION.

One Hundred Perish In French Marine Disaster.

LIBAN SANK ALMOST IMMEDIATELY

A Mass of Human Beings Clinging to the Vessel Was Killed by the Explosion of the Steamer's Boilers.

MARSEILLES, June 8.—A terrible shipping disaster occurred a little distance from this port when two passenger steamers, the Insulaire and the Liban, both belonging to the Fraissenet Steamship company of Marseilles, came into collision. The Liban sank, and over 100 of her passengers and crew perished.

The steamer Liban left Marseilles on her regular passenger trip to Bastia, Corsica, and was run down and sunk by the Insulaire off the Maire islands. The collision was witnessed from the pilot boat Blechamp, which was about two miles distant, and it immediately repaired to the spot to render assistance.

The force of the collision cut a wide rent in the Liban's side, and she was already making water rapidly. Her captain saw their only chance was to run the steamer aground before she sank in deep water, and the Liban was headed full speed for the shore, but within seventeen minutes of the collision and while still some distance from shallow water the fore part of the steamer plunged beneath the waves, and a few minutes later she had entirely disappeared.

In the meantime the Blechamp, the steamer Balkan, also belonging to the Fraissenet company, and other vessels had drawn near the sinking ship and were making strenuous efforts to rescue those on board. The Blechamp picked up forty persons, many of whom were at the point of exhaustion and were only revived by the attentions they received on board. The Balkan also rescued thirty-seven passengers, and up to the present it is known that in addition to the passengers seventeen of the crew were also saved.

The crew of the steamer Balkan describe the scene just before the Liban disappeared as a terrible one. As the vessel was sinking she was inclined to such an angle that her masts struck the water, causing an eddy which made the work of rescue most difficult. A mass of human beings were clinging to the foundering vessel and uttered despairing cries as she went down. At the same time the boilers exploded and produced a horrifying spectacle. For a few moments the victims were seen struggling in the sea, then the waves closed over them, and all was silent. Of about 200 passengers who were aboard the Liban it is feared that at least half were drowned.

The Balkan launched three boats, and the other succoring vessels did all possible to save the victims in the short time that elapsed between the time of the collision and the sinking of the Liban.

Thirty bodies have been recovered so far.

The list of the passengers on board the Liban has not yet been issued, but it is believed that over 240 embarked at this port. The collision was due to the following circumstances: The Liban was putting out to sea just as the steamer Insulaire was making for the harbor. Maire island, which lies off the entrance to the port, hid the vessels from each other until it was too late to avoid a collision.

Militia Will Prevent Lynching.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 8.—A message from St. Francis says Chauncey Dewey and his cowboys, under arrest for the alleged murder of the Berry family last week, are yet safe. The settlers have formed a quasi military organization, it is understood, and are outspoken in their determination that Dewey and his men shall not escape. A military company from Osborne is now on its way to St. Francis. More than fifty miles of the distance will have to be covered by an overland march, however, and it will be tomorrow before they can reach there. The sheriff of Cheyenne county thinks he can protect the men until the arrival of the militia.

Chamberlain and the Workingmen.

LONDON, June 8.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has written a long letter in reply to a workingman who drew his attention to the denunciation of his proposals by the trades union leaders. In this letter Mr. Chamberlain says he attaches no importance to these criticisms because the trades union leaders are almost all strong Radical partisans. He is confident that in this matter the workingmen will think for themselves and not be dictated to by the trades union leaders.

Pole Seekers Heard From.

CHRISTIANSAND, Norway, June 8.—The Ziegler north pole expedition arrived here on board the Danish steamer Helig Olav and proceeded directly for Trondjheim via Christiania. The explorers, who sailed from New York May 27 on board the Helig Olav, will meet Anthony Fiala at Trondjheim. He has charge of the expedition, which will sail immediately on the steam whaler America on its arctic cruise.

Will Carry the Hod Again Today.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 8.—The hod carriers' strike has been settled, the men agreeing to accept the contractors' proposition of 10 per cent advance. The men will return to work today. The plasterers' demands remain to be adjusted, and it now looks as if a satisfactory settlement will take place in a few days, when building operations will be resumed in the Wyoming valley.

Plainfield, N. J., June 8, 1903.

A despatch from Poughkeepsie says that a minister there has been killed by gas. Usually it is the congregations that suffer.

A Boston girl in short dresses was secretly married to a street car conductor recently, and now the enraged parents are seeking the man with an eye to making trouble. "Step lively, please."

Referring again to the subject of professionalism in the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League, is there any time like the present to stop the practice if it really exists. Should the League managers at their meeting this evening find that this class of players has invaded the ranks of the amateur ball tossers, it is a duty they owe the public as well as themselves to take summary action. In a timely editorial, the Harper's Weekly asks: "Why should amateurs imitate professionals?" Incidently it says: "In the days of thirty years ago, perhaps even later, very few, if any, of the young men of the country played baseball or ran or vaulted or leaped for money. Manners have changed. It is largely to the inroads of professionalism that we owe the change, and it has not been for the better. In England the amateur still rules, and his spirit is still manifest. A defeat in his game is not an event in his life, any more than the stubbing of his toe. Defeat in sport is only important to those who make their living by sport, for defeat impairs the market value of those who suffer by it."

Favors Granting Franchise.

Editor Daily Press:—

The little you published of what I said to the Common Council Monday evening regarding the introduction of a competing telephone into this city has caused so much comment, and given rise to so many inquiries that I feel it is but justice to myself to ask you to publish a brief outline of my views on the subject. My experience with the telephone dates from its earliest inception, and I have seen the Bell telephone interests grow from nothing to one million five hundred thousand subscribers since the summer of 1877. I have seen the so-called independent telephone interests increase from practically nothing in 1893 to one million five hundred thousand subscribers in 1903, the bulk of which are in the western, southern and western middle States, or in other words, it is estimated that the independent company subscribers considerably exceed the Bell Telephone Company subscribers in those sections, while the service given by them is of necessity more acceptable or they would be unable to hold their own against the older company, backed by immense resources and influences, so easily obtainable where funds are available. Prior to the expiration of the Bell patents it was the companies contention that telephone wires could not be successfully used underground. Immediately after the expiration of that patent, and the adverse opinions regarding the McDonnough extension patents, they availed themselves of the only means of keeping competition out of the large and medium sized cities by an unexampled conversion to the belief that there was nothing so good for telephone service as the putting wires under ground. To the initiated it was simply the most efficient means of making it expensive and troublesome for competitors to gain a foot-hold, by securing a franchise and putting their wires underground in the heart of any city.

The initiated expense to competitors was thus largely increased, while the cry was raised by well meaning dupes of the old company, that the streets can never be restored to their original condition if again disturbed. In the nearer Boston, "the home of the Bell telephone," the greater the difficulties the competiting companies have to encounter. My experience has shown that the cost of construction maintenance and operating justify the belief that the old company could pay a fair dividend to the stock holder at one half the present rates on single and business lines and from twelve to fifteen dollars per year on party line house service.

I believe a competing company could be formed or locally organized who could do this if the city would furnish it underground facilitites within present underground limits; the city could well afford to do this for the sake of immense saving such a reduction in rates would produce especially if they were to take into consideration the increased facilities afforded would be subscribers at this rate whose actual necessities might be confined to, say two hundred calls per year, but who are now unable to enjoy the benefit of that to which they are entitled by virtue of the expiration of the patents under which the old company enjoyed the exclusive control of the business for seventeen prosperous years.

The present number of telephones subscribers in this city comprises only the names of the most prosperous of our citizens with the exception, perhaps of the physicians and trades people. With many of the former the subject is a matter of indifference. With the latter increased facilities, invariably lead to increased results at present with subscribers they reach but a small portion of the purchasing class of our citizens, with the addition of one or two, or even three hundred per cent. increase in the number of people with convenient facilities for communicating with these merchants and others, it is safe to say that men of wide experience and fore sight would hesitate before publicly claiming any considerable disadvantage from such increased possibilities. Should there, however, be those who conscientiously believe and express themselves to contrary, it is only fair to advise them to content themselves with what they now have, and let their less satisfied and less fortunate neighbors have a telephone at a low price with which they can reach others similarly equipped in cases of sickness, necessity or convenience.

So far as the city is concerned every house holder having a telephone is an added safe guard in cases of fire, burglary or accident. There is little doubt but that those who take the present service for the sake of long distance connections will remain with the present company, but those who do not, will have nothing to lose and considerable to gain should the present company ultimately succeed in getting a foot hold in New York and other near by cities. In view of the contract under which the Bell telephone and the Western Union Telephone Companies arranged the present long distance rates it is safe to predict much better rates when once the competiting companies obtain a reasonable foot hold.

I differ with the first speaker on Monday evening last, when he claimed that the telephone was a luxury while electric lights were a necessity there being two excellent substitutes for the latter, gas or oil, and absolutely none for the former, in fact it is only public utility for which there cannot be found a fairly good substitute, for which reason I earnestly beg the Common Council to grant a properly drawn franchise to the first reputable competing telephone company, who will agree not to sell out to the old or any other company, except they agree not to increase the rate above fifteen dollars per year with a three hundred call limit after five years from date of the franchise. For the first five years I would not object to a twenty dollar rate for home service, with business rates proportionate.

Respectfully yours,
F. E. Kinsman.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

The Twentieth Century Club, a colored aggregation of ball players from New Brunswick, came here on Saturday afternoon, with the idea that they could play ball. They went home somewhat later wondering what had happened. The trouble was the Dunellen A. C. The locals simply outclassed the county seaters and won in a gallop. The final score was 26 to 0, and would have been greater if the locals had cared to exert themselves. As it was they played horse with their opponents. Eighteen of the runs were secured in the first two innings. Ettinger pitched only a few innings and then "Billy" Giles went in. He was as much an engima as his predecessor. Ettinger got two home runs, Brown six hits and all the rest of the team got two or three apiece. The only enjoyment the spectators got from the game was the excellent batting of the locals. The ludicrous efforts of the colored men to play ball and "Mayor Bill" Smith's impromptu performance, as umpire.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bodine, of Dunellen avenue, returned home on Saturday from Los Angeles, where they have been attending a convention. The trip out was very enjoyable but the climate of California did not agree with either and Mrs. Bodine has been unwell for several days. Owing to the floods in the west the trip east was very tedious and at times dangerous. The train sometimes travelled with the water half covering the wheels. Mr. Bodine brought back some specimens of California fruit which his friends are now enjoying.

The Watchung A. C. journeyed to Cranford on Saturday afternoon and played the team from that place. They were defeated in an interesting game by a score of 14 to 5.

A dance was held in Apgar's Hall on Saturday evening, under the auspices of the ball club. A large number were in attendance.

Albert and Charles Doolittle attended the ball game between Yale and Princeton, at Princeton, Saturday.

There was but a small attendance at services in the local churches yesterday owing to the rain.

The adjourned meeting of the Borough Council will start this evening at 8 o'clock.

Children's day will be celebrated in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning.

Herbert Richardson, of Stamford, spent Sunday at the home of James Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop, entertained out-of-town friends last evening.

Louis Tinsman is improving from the effects of a broken collar bone.

Charles Boice, of Morristown, spent Sunday at his home in this place.

The Banjo Club will hold special practice this evening.

NEW MARKET.

Miss Irene Day's music scholars will give a musicale at her home this evening. A musicale was given last year and proved very successful and this year's affair will be the same. A number of invitations have been sent out.

Miss Kate Coriell was hostess at an enjoyable meeting of the G. E. Club on Saturday evening. The evening was spent in the usual way and refreshments were served.

Children's day will not be celebrated in the First Baptist Church this year.

Quite a large party from here went to Riverside Park on Saturday evening.

Calvin Blue is still quite ill at his home.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The locals shut the Garwood A. C. out in their game on Saturday afternoon. Only one error was made by the locals, Brogan having a passed ball on the third strike charged up against him.

Umpire, Hand; Scorer, Lyons.

There seems to be a hitch between Managers Johnston and Denman over the question of umpires for Saturday's game at Westfield. Manager Johnston wants the game played under the two umpire system, while Manager Denman says only one umpire and he will furnish that. The fans are not pleased with the arrangement as proposed and fail to see why Westfield insists on their umpire deciding all plays.

It is felt that something should be done with the gutters along Park avenue. The stone and dirt left by the water company, where the main was laid, still lays in the gutters, completely blocking them. Yesterday's rain water stood in pools and in some places ran over on the sidewalks, as there was no way for it to run off.

The women of the Baptist Church are anticipating a large attendance at the lawn fete to be held Wednesday afternoon and evening on the lawn of Chas. H. Vincent, of the borough.

A number from Westfield were at the game Saturday afternoon getting a line on the locals who are to meet their team at Wesfield on Saturday afternoon.

Several of the followers of Isaak Walton spent yesterday fishing at the Passaic River. Only fair luck and a thorough wetting was the result of the trip.

A number from town journeyed to Elizabeth Sunday afternoon to see the reopening of the Sunday ball games. No game was played on account of the rain.

Willie Stanbery, who has been detained at home suffering from an attack of scarlet fever, has recovered and is able to be around again.

John Wade, who has been taking a course of study at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., has returned to his home for the summer vacation.

"Modern Lessons from the Rechabites," was the topic of the weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held last night in the church parlor.

Mrs. Augusta Middledith and son, of Truell Court, Plainfield, were the guest, yesterday, of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. N. Flanders.

John E. Flannery, of Plainfield, was the guest yesterday of his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston.

A number of the school children enjoyed a day's outing Saturday, near the Tower on the mountains.

Rev. G. M. Shott led the Rescue meeting held in Plainfield yesterday afternoon.

ROOSEVELT AT CHURCH.

Grace Memorial Reformed Church Dedicated.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The handsome new home of the Grace Memorial Reformed church, which President Roosevelt attends, was dedicated with appropriate exercises. The president, with his family, attended the services. The Rev. J. M. Schick, the pastor, read the article of consecration, and the Rev. E. R. Eschbach, D. D., of Frederick, Md., preached the dedication sermon.

President Roosevelt occupied one of the two bishop's chairs which he presented to the church. He was introduced by the Rev. Mr. Schick and spoke as follows:

"I shall ask your attention to three lines of the dedication canticle: 'Serve the Lord with gladness. Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise. Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart, who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity nor sworn deceitfully.'

"Three better lines could surely not be brought into any dedication service of a church, and it is a happy thing that we should have repeated them this morning. This church is consecrated to the service of the Lord, and we can serve him by the way in which we serve our fellow men. This church is consecrated to service and duty. It was written of old that 'By their fruits ye shall know them,' and we can show the faith that is in us; we can show the sincerity of our devotion by the fruits we bring forth. The man who is not a tender and considerate husband, a loving and wise father, is not serving the Lord when he goes to church. So with the women; so with all who come here."

LOUBET AND THE VATICAN.

Holy See Has Prevented Catholic Rulers Visiting Quirinal.

ROME, June 8.—The official announcement of King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Paris and President Loubet's return visit, although foreseen, has produced considerable impression at the Vatican, as President Loubet will be the first ruler of a Catholic country to visit Rome officially since the fall of the temporal power. By the exercise of all kinds of pressure the holy see has prevented Catholic rulers from visiting the Quirinal.

President Loubet will be the first to break this rule, and the question how the Vatican will treat him, especially in view of the present situation in France regarding the religious orders, is keenly discussed.

There are two currents of feeling at the Vatican. The uncompromising element insists that the president shall be refused admittance to the Vatican, while the conciliatory section wishes to find a way to arrange the matter, arguing that the prohibition to come to Rome is only for Catholic sovereigns and not for presidents of republics, who, although ruling Catholic countries, may themselves be non-Catholic.

The visit of the king of Italy to Paris is considered as a great success for the French ambassador at Rome, to whose diplomatic ability it is principally due.

Edward at Hospital Sunday Service.

LONDON, June 8.—King Edward testified anew his interest in the welfare of the hospitals by attending a "hospital Sunday service" at St. Paul's cathedral, this being the first occasion on which the English monarch has visited the cathedral for any purpose except the thanksgiving service on the occasion of the coronation last year. It is intended to inaugurate a week of special effort in the collection of funds on behalf of the London hospitals. Accompanied by Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria, his majesty drove in an open carriage in semistate to the cathedral. The streets were densely crowded, and the king received a great ovation. The Prince and Princess of Wales and several other members of the royal family, together with the lord mayor and corporation of London, many peers and members of the house of commons, were also present at the service.

Textile Workers' Statement.

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—The working committee of the Central Textile union, composed of one delegate from each union on strike, met at headquarters to consider the situation. After a long session the committee in conjunction with the executive board of the textile workers issued a long statement to the public giving reasons for the strike of over 75,000 men, women and children. The statement says that the strike was ordered for sanitary reasons; that it was necessary because the health of the men, women and children were at stake. The statement called attention to the fact that children were compelled to work ten and three-quarters hours a day in the mills from Monday to Friday and six and one-quarter hours on Saturday.

Celebrated Italy's National Day.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Constitution day, the anniversary of the signing of the Italian constitution, was appropriately celebrated at the Italian embassy by a reception which Signor Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, and the ambassadoress tendered to members of the Italian societies in Washington. Over 400 Italians were received. The ambassador in a felicitous speech emphasized the importance of observing the national days of the mother country and urged on his countrymen an appreciation of the hospitality of the country of their adoption.

Weather Probabilities.

HENRY VAN DYKE.

New York's Great Preacher on "The Battle of Life."

PRINCETON, N. J., June 8.—The Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, professor of Princeton university, preached the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class yesterday morning in Alexander hall. Dr. Van Dyke's theme was "The Battle of Life" and his text Romans xii, 21, "Overcome evil with good."

He stated that the phrase "battle of life" was an ancient expression, but that it had been displaced by the modern phrases "strenuous life" and "simple life." After defining these phrases the preacher discussed the evils prevalent in the world and urged the graduates to gather their forces together to fight them at every turn and to do it with all their might.

"Intemperance," he said, "is the type of all evils because so many others grow out of it. The way to attack it is to make sober life beautiful and full of interest. Teach your boys how to work, how to read and study, you fathers, before you send them to college if you want to guard them against the temptations of strong drink and the many shames and sorrows that go with it. You reformers, provide men with recreations that will not harm them if you want to take away the power of the gilded saloons."

After appealing to the class to play their part in the warfare against vice and crime he said, "My prayer for Princeton is that she may be as high as a mountain, lifted up into the realms of knowledge, faith and love, and my prayer for you is that you may receive from Christ not only the watchword of this nobler life, but also the power to fulfill it."

CLOUDBURST RUINS TOWNS.

Pacolet and Clifton Inundated and Many Lives Lost.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 8.—By a cloudburst, followed by a tornado, ruin has been worked upon a great portion of what is known as the Clifton mill belt of this state. The storm, which occurred at an early hour Saturday, is believed to have destroyed at least $4,000,000 worth of property and to have cost scores of lives. Railroad tracks have been washed away so that it is impossible to get complete news of the disaster.

Two of the Pacolet mills and a large part of the town have been swept away. They belong to Victor H. Montgomery, who is also the owner of the New Holland mills, near Gainesville, Ga., which were also wrecked by a tornado which swept over that part of the south last Monday.

Clifton, which has been one of the most prosperous of the smaller cities of South Carolina, has been partially destroyed. It has a population of about 5,000, almost entirely depending upon the cotton mills for support. Word has just been received from there that hundreds of persons are homeless and hungry. Three great cotton mills have been wrecked.

Greatest of these three, the Converse Cotton mill, with 51,000 spindles, has been swept awaay.

ROOSEVELT WILL GO THE LIMIT

Post Office Scandals Must Be Thoroughly Sifted.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Roosevelt became an important factor in the cleansing of the post office department when he had exhibited to him by Postmaster General Payne evidence gathered recently in the post office department.

President Roosevelt's attitude toward the post office scandal, now that he knows all, may be thus summed up:

The entire department must be investigated from top to bottom. Those guilty of criminal acts must be prosecuted and suffer the penalty. Those guilty of bad methods or irregularity in the government service must be dismissed. If big heads need hitting, hit them. No friends, no favors, no party. Go to the very limit, even if the final steps reach those in high authority, be they members even of the president's official household.

Montana Murderer Escapes.

ANACONDA, Mont., June 8.—A jail break has just taken place at Glasgow, Mont. William Hardee, a condemned murderer awaiting execution, killed Charles William, his death watch, with a Winchester rifle, which he secured from the jail kitchen. He and the only other prisoner in the jail then took the keys and escaped. Both men are well armed. They swam the Missouri river and are now surrounded in a bend of that stream by a big posse. Hardee is expected to fight to the death, as he has no hope, the supreme court having refused him a new trial.

Loubet's Visit to London.

LONDON, June 8.—President Loubet will arrive in London July 6 on his return visit to King Edward. He will remain in London three days, leaving on his return to Paris July 9. The president of the French republic will reside at St. James' palace as the king's guest. King Edward has received a telegram from the king of Italy regretting his inability to pay his visit to the English court during the summer and promising to come to London with Queen Helena in November.

Veteran Dies at Oswego.

OSWEGO, N. Y., June 8.—Captain Alfred Moran, commander of Post O'Bryan, G. A. R., is dead here. He was born in Virginia and fought for the Union, his three brothers serving in the armies of the Confederacy.

Lost Control While Coasting.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 8.—James W. Hill, fifty-six years old, lost control of his bicycle while coasting down Cliff street and in a fall from his wheel received injuries from which he died in a few minutes.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FOR THE CLEVER WOMAN.

Some Ways In Which She Can Improve Her Wardrobe.

The economically minded woman is being helped by the manufacturers and shopkeepers. She may purchase at a comparatively small cost handsome robes, which she can put together herself. There are also any number of pretty hat shapes that only require a bow or a bunch of flowers for trimming.

Some of last year's garments can be renovated at a small cost. Plain bell sleeves are no longer popular, so these may be gathered or plaited at the back into a wide cuff of some fancy material or silk covered with lace or embroidered galloon. This cuff may be run off into a pointed tab at the back where some soft, full lace or plisse chiffon may be added. Skirts frayed at the edge may be renovated by a band of velvet or silk with tabs or straps of the material standing upright or set in groups. This is really a pretty finish and is admirable for linen skirts which show stains or other signs of wear and tear and also for figured cottons, as plain colored goods may be used for the border.

The silk cashmere or crape skirt which fits closely around the hips has a trick of growing glossy or shiny there, and this defect may be concealed by simulating a yoke with braid.

The illustration shows a smart stole of white chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THIN MATERIALS.

Voiles of Fine, Silky Makes—Chiffons and Muslins.

Voiles of fine silky make are called by other names, such as chiffon voile, eolienne silk crape, etc. They are really very similar fabrics and lend themselves readily to drapery. They are mostly manufactured in pale shades, rose pink and pale green being the most popular in Paris, though a very light biscuit and pale blue are much in evidence.

Hand painted chiffons and muslins are a great feature of the gala day frocks, and these gowns for the greater part are arranged with a fichu of wonderful lace and embroidery. The skirts and frills are very full.

Pompadour sashes and pompadour ribbon are in vogue and are charming for the debutante either for day or for evening wear.

Hats are quite simple. Milliners are using the best shapes of all periods, and, as usual, the apparently simple lines taken from the old masters make the most successful headgear. A great many black and white chip, cream and black leghorn and lace hats are seen.

WHITE MULL WAIST.

The useful and practical hat is composed of all kinds of straw, biscuit and black, scarlet and white and navy being the favorites.

The plain, orthodox tailor made gown is making a bold bid for popularity and will have its own following, but the average woman loves elaboration, and the modern tailor frock has suited her so well that she will be loath to accept the plainer garment.

MYSTERY OF THE BAYOU WOODS

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

"A good many years ago the Colorado tract was sold to a stock company in which I was the principal stockholder. As you know, the land had for a long time been considered practically worthless. I had almost entirely lost sight of it and long considered it a hopelessly worthless investment. I put my shares of stock away and never looked at them carefully until a few months ago, when I discovered that a considerable proportion of them had been lost, or, as I now suspect, deliberately abstracted. Enough are missing to place me in a minority, and I suspect that Wright, or some one behind him, had engineered a scheme for the purpose of freezing me out; and I strongly suspect that the hand of some Colorado mining speculator is in it. If you will back me up I may be able to buy up some of the innocent stockholders and possibly—with what I already have—get a majority of the existing stock. If I only had the services of some good detectives and some money to collect evidence, I could easily defeat the damnable scheme which has been organized against me."

Merivale replied as follows:

"I am perfectly willing to spend money to get possession of the new land, but if you do not own a majority of the stock I do not see what is to be gained by any further correspondence on the subject. Unless, therefore, you choose to make me a definite proposition showing me how we may get a clear title to the land, I decline to bargain with you any further."

Franklin then made a proposition as follows:

"To get a half interest in the land by purchasing it from other stockholders will cost you somewhere between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000. If you are willing to help me recover the stock stolen from me, which can be done for say $100,000 at the outside, I will share it jointly with you. By a liberal expenditure we can obtain practically complete possession. It seems to me that it is to your interest to ally yourself with me. It may be necessary to do some fighting in the courts, and to meet the conspirators at every point will require money. If you will agree to let me draw on you to the extent of $100,000, as occasion requires, I, on my part, will agree to this: That within six months we shall have exclusive possession, or if I fail by that time you can have the equivalent of the $100,000 advanced out of my stock."

Merivale replied promptly:

"I would like to close this business up as soon as possible. My mining resources are all lying idle, and I am losing money every day thereby. I cannot wait six months. Make it three months and state your agreement in writing, and I will see you about it."

Franklin then wrote:

"I accept your amendment, and hereby obligate myself within three months to secure possession of the tract in ——— county, Colorado, for you and myself jointly, or, on failure to do so, to remunerate you out of my stock on condition that you will honor my drafts to the extent of $100,000."

Merivale answered laconically:

"It is a go. Draw away."

This letter from Franklin to Merivale may be interesting:

"Send check for $1,000 to Thomas Morris, Yokohama, Japan. This is for stock purchased through him. Charge the amount to my account."

Just before Fenton left Colorado for Nilus he induced Merivale to write this letter to Franklin:

"It seems to me that if your stock was stolen from you, the proper way would be to steal it back. Can't you find anyone with nerve enough down your way to do it? The three months having expired, I shall come to Nilus to settle matters at issue between us. If by the time I get there you have, by hook or crook, got possession of the stock, all right. If not, I must have the $100,000 worth of stock."

CHAPTER XVIII.

The flutter that followed the reading of these letters subsided into absolute quiet as the detective cleared his throat, and, at the instigation of Mr. Everett, continued his testimony:

"Franklin's letters were of course ingenious misrepresentations, designed to secure money, with which he hoped to be able to suppress all the testimony against his ownership. I had no trouble in satisfying Merivale that the statements contained in the letters were almost entirely false. I came back to Nilus resolved to play a bold game with Franklin. He, I knew, did not want to see much of Merivale just then, so he had my coming made as public as possible and hinted that I had come to invest money. This of course took me off his hands a great deal, but I managed to see him considerably. In my conversations with him I was impatient over the delay, but he had all sorts of gaudy excuses to offer. After worrying him right smart I said to him one day: 'Franklin, do you know I have found you out?'

"'What do you mean?' asked he, turning a bit pale.

"'You have deceived me from the start in this matter,' said I, 'and by so doing you have lost my assistance, if you had let me entirely into your confidence from the first, we would have been operating those mines together by this time; but by your cursed dilatory policy, your scruples of fear or conscience, you allowed things to drag along, and all the while the millions were slipping between our fingers. You are entirely too squeamish to suit me!'

"He smiled at the idea of being squeamish, as if I did not know him.

"'I have picked up,' I continued, 'some of the threads of the case, and you might as well tell me the whole truth and let us work together.'

"He was skittish of me at first, and wanted to learn how much I knew, so I startled him with a few facts, and then he frankly admitted that he had been scheming to get possession of the agreement. To test me he asked my advice as to the best way to get possession. I replied that there was only one way, and that was to take it.

"'How would you take it?' said he.

"'In the good old way,' replied I. 'Pay some handy ruffian to do it for you.'

"He smiled and said: 'That is what I shall do if I do not succeed in getting it from the person who now has it.'

"I pretended to have handled several little difficulties like this and intimated that if we were out west it would not be difficult to get rid of such an obstacle as a human life. I persuaded him that I was willing to commit any crime, even murder, in order to secure my object; and emboldened by finding me a congenial spirit, he grew more confidential. He told me that he had hired Morris to steal the agreement from Wright's safe. I wormed from him all the details of his association with Old Tom, Bob Padgett and him of the red flannel shirt. I also managed to become acquainted with them and learned how and where to find them when I wanted them. I convinced Franklin that I was such a cold-blooded scoundrel that he took me completely into his affections and made me his confidante. He was charmed with my affable villainy, and he spoke with a good deal of pride of his scheme to shut the mouth of Herbert Wright and his little arrangement for the removal of Irving Warde. One day I told him that I had the ingenious theory that he made away with John T. Wright. He looked scared at that and changed the subject. I tried to appeal to his pride in his criminal achievements, but on this one subject—while he never made any positive denial—he was entirely uncommunicative. The intimate association I had with him leads me to believe that there is no sort of cowardly crime which James Franklin would not commit provided his personal safety was assured.

"The Sioux!"

In the pioneer days of the Northwest their coming brought terror to the hearts of the settlers. We expect to bring pleasure to our readers by announcing that within a short time we shall begin the publication of a new serial story in which these red warriors figure, entitled:

"A Daughter of the Sioux"

It is a sufficient guarantee of its quality for us to say that it is written by that prince of American fiction writers,

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

The story deals with conditions in the Northwest following the days of the Custer massacre. It is full of that spirited kind of action that General King puts into his stories of the American army, and through it runs a fascinating and unusual love story. It is the best story that has been offered in newspaper form for years

GRAND PRIX DE PARIS.

W. K. Vanderbilt's Alpha Gets the Fourth Place.

PARIS, June 8.—The Grand Prix de Paris of 200,000 francs, distance about one mile and seven furlongs, was run at Longchamps yesterday afternoon in the presence of an immense concourse and won by Edmond Blanc's Quo Vadis, while his Caius and Vinicius were respectively second and third. W. K. Vanderbilt's Alpha came in fourth.

Seldom if ever has the Grand Prix attracted a larger and more fashionable assemblage to the Longchamps race course than it did. Favored by cool though sunny weather, the crowd began gathering early in the day, and by noon many thousands were spread over the immense area within the race course and passed the tedium of waiting by holding picnics on the greensward, while still larger numbers lunched under the trees in the Bois de Boulogne surrounding the course. The fashionable visitors began arriving in large numbers, and the inclosures and grand stand soon presented a brilliant appearance, being filled to their utmost capacity by a gathering of all that Paris contains of social celebrities. Among the many Americans present were Consul General Gowdy and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt. English spectators also were seen in greater numbers than for many years, this fact being attributed to the fact of King Edward's recent visit and the consequent renewal of cordial relations between the two countries, although the absence of English horses in the race for the Grand Prix was much remarked.

Shortly before the cracks paraded for the chief event the president of the republic, Mme. Loubet and their suit arrived in open landaus, with blue liveried outriders and escorted by cuirassiers. There was a rush to see them, and cheers were raised as they drove into the paddock, where the committee of the Jockey club received and escorted the party to the presidential stand, in which the members of the diplomatic corps and several ministers were assembled.

Cup Yachts Race Today.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The racing yachts Reliance and Constitution lay at their moorings in Sandy Hook bay in readiness for the races off Sandy Hook today, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Constitution had left the Erie basin early, and the Reliance was towed down through the Narrows, accompanied by her tender, the Sunbeam. On the way she was saluted by passing craft. The Columbia is in dry dock at Bay Ridge, and her crew was at work cleaning her underbody. She will leave the dry dock in time to sail in the race today.

Our Jockey Wins Austrian Derby.

VIENNA, June 8. — The American Jockey Charley Van Dusen won with ease the Austrian Derby of 100,000 kronen, riding the favorite, Berevoelgy, owned by M. Blaskovitz, a wealthy Hungarian.

Experiment With New Metal.

BERLIN, June 8.—At a session of the chemical congress Professor W. Markwald of Berlin showed the electro chemical and physical section a smudge of dark powder on a piece of paper, which was the first time that any of those eminent scientists had seen the metal polonium, discovered by Professor and Mme. Curie of Paris. Professor Markwald proceeded to give a marvelous exhibition of the powers of his speck of polonium. It intercepted a strong current of electricity passing through the air from the generator to the receiver, the air ceasing to be a conductor for the flashes. The room was then darkened, and pieces of barium, platinum and zinc blende placed near the polonium glowed with a bright greenish light. The assemblage of chemists were thrilled with astonishment. It appeared to be a miracle.

Iron Workers Come to America.

VIENNA, June 8.—There is a wholesale emigration of miners and workmen in the iron districts of Austria to the United States in consequence of the unprecedented stagnation of the iron industry. Hundreds of men have been discharged since the beginning of the year, and the mines and iron works are operating on short time. Wages have fallen 50 per cent, and in many instances the men are earning less than 50 cents a day, and their families are suffering severely. There is faint hope of any immediate improvement in the situation, and whole colonies of workingmen are leaving the country for America.

Turkish Troops Destroy Rebels.

SALONIKA, June 8. — A band of Bulgarian revolutionaries was destroyed by Turkish troops on Saturday at Cradobar, near this city. Fifteen Bulgarians were killed. Another insurgent band has been annihilated on the railway line near Ristovatz, Servia, after a six hours' fight. Surprise is expressed that the band was able to approach so near the town. The insurgents last Wednesday killed ten Greek villagers while the latter were in church at Selova, near Monastir.

Czar Authorizes Polish.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 8.—The czar in an autograph letter authorizes instruction in the Catholic religion to be given in the Polish language in all the middle class schools of Poland. Such instruction has hitherto been limited to six schools and had to be given in the Russian tongue.

British Protest to Venezuela.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, June 8.—The British minister at Caracas, H. G. O. Bax-Ironside, has presented a protest to the Venezuelan foreign office against the recent suppression of custom houses at the ports on the Orinoco and gulf of Paria.

SPORTING NEWS.

BUNCHED HITS.

"Smiling Jimmie" Montross pitched a great game Saturday at Westfield, letting only one of Roselle's men reach third. He struck out eleven men and allowed five hits.

It is possible that the Alls Club will meet the Pearsall A. C., of Jersey City, on Crescent Oval later in the season. The Pearsall management was not satisfied with last Saturday's contest and it is understood that another game is desired.

GOLF.

The Musconetcong Valley Golf Club has just been organized at Hackettstown. A fifty-acre tract on the Wagner farm at that place has been leased by the club and will be put in condition at once for use.

There was a mixed foursome for two cups at the Westfield Golf Club Saturday afternoon. The cups were offered by the club and the winners were Miss Gertrude Noe and W. J. Bogert, Jr.

Owing to the fact that a team match was played with Hackensack and several members took part in the New Jersey State Golf Association tournament at Baltusrol, Saturday, accounted for the small number of scores posted for the weekly competition at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on that day.

TENNIS.

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening at Marconnier chapel.

Rev. C. Peterson, of Arlington, N. J., preached his first sermon yesterday at the Swedish-Lutheran Church.

The trustees of the Congregational Church are anxious to have more replies to their letters sent out some time ago with references to the pledges for the new year.

The Plainfield Juvenile Hebrew Auxiliary Society realized $25 as profit from a recent entertainment. The money will go toward the erection of the proposed new synagogue.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed Church a strawberry and ice cream festival will be held in the lecture room of the church, Thursday evening.

Commencing next Sunday the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed Church, will meet in the morning at 9:30 o'clock. The morning preaching service will begin at 10:45 and the evening service at 7:45.

A tentative vote in regard to whether individual communion cups should be used at the Crescent Avenue Church was taken yesterday and resulted 235 in favor of individual cups and 83 opposed. The vote was taken merely to ascertain the general seniment of the congregation.

Children's Day services were held at the East Third Street Chapel yesterday afternoon. The programme opened with an instrumental trio, Mr. Conger, piano, and Mr. Hand and R. W. Barnes, violin. There was Scripture reading by Percy Cannon. In the evening O. B. Leonard conducted the meeting and Miss Matilda Till sang two solos.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, pastor emeritus of Grace Church, who has been quite ill with an acute attack of indigestion, is much improved.

—Another effort is being made by the citizens of Westfield to secure the abolition of the grade crossings at that place. It is understood that the officials of the New Jersey Central have signified a willingness to meet the representatives of the borough and talk the matter over.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There is a lesson for parents and teachers in the story of the ten-year-old boy who shot and killed his little girl playmate over in New Jersey.

The weird tales of bandits and outlaws that are printed in cheap form for sale to small boys are moral poison, and should be inexorably banned. It is impossible to over-estimate the evil effect of these fictions in perverting and degrading the child's ideals of life and conduct.

It is astonishing to read in the Herald this morning that when this child of ten was taken prisoner to the county jail at Somerville he was locked up with tramps and thieves. We have high respect for "Jersey justice," but in the selection of keepers for its jails it is evident that New Jersey shows lamentable lack of judgment.—New York Herald.

BAN NOW PLACED ON PROFESSIONALISM

Plainfield Amateur Baseball League Takes a Decided Stand.

NO MONEY FOR PLAYERS

THE TEAM MANAGERS EQUALLY DIVIDED ON THE QUESTION.

President Casts Deciding Vote on Resolution Offered by the Manager of the Y. M. C. A. Team —Resident Players.

After much discussion, the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League at its regular weekly meeting last evening decided to retain its status of last year, continuing as a purely amateur organization. Professionalism received a knock-out blow through the deciding vote cast by Judge William N. Runyon, president of the league.

Public opinion had taken such a position in the matter that the league resolved that it was time to take final action. Within the membership of the organization recently there has been increased talk favorable to adopting tactics similar to those of managers who run teams solely for pecuniary gain. It has puzzled the organization's managers just how to check this tendency.

At the meeting last night, John Steiner, manager of the Young Men's Christian Association team, took the initiative. A resolution offered by him called for the disqualification of any players receiving pecuniary reward for his services. Moreover it barred any one who has not been a bona fide resident of this city for at least three months.

When the roll was called Manager Ned Gaston, of the Safe Works team, lent his support to the resolution as offered. John Cose, manager of the Hope Chapel Young Men's Association nine, registered his vote in the negative as did also Manager Shannon, of St. Mary's. Judge Runyon, as president, cast the deciding vote, and the resolution became operative.

In arranging for umpires for next Saturday's games, Charles Creedon, of Raritan, was selected to officiate at the Hope-Y. M. C. A. contest, on Hope Common. At the same time Charles Mumford will act as umpire at the Safe Works-St. Mary's match.

Manager Steiner registered the names of Herbert Cathcart and Alfred Egan in place of John Kuhns and Frederick VanAuken. Under the rules of the league the new men will not be allowed to play until the expiration of two weeks.

PASSED SAFELY THROUGH FLOOD.

Party of Plainfielders Had Many Exciting Adventures Out West.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Shotwell, of Fairview avenue, who in company with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue, returned Saturday from California, passed through many escapes on their journey East that were almost literally "hair-breadth." The train following theirs into Kansas City was the one on which L. Newmiller, of Vine street, met his death.

While passing down the Missouri river further west, the tracks were washed away half an hour after they had passed over them. At another time their train was waiting to cross a bridge which broke down in front of them under the weight of a construction train. The party saw several churches and school houses, and large numbers of houses and trees floating down the stream, many of them with occupants clinging to them.

Mr. Shotwell represented the First Presbyterian church in the General Assembly at San Francisco.

Mr. Ball's Funeral.

Funeral services for A. M. Ball, who died yesterday at his home, 1 Myrtle avenue, will take place from his late residence tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational Church, will officiate. The burial will be at Buffalo, N. Y.

RAISING FUNDS FOR TABLET

THEATRICALS IN AID OF WASHINGTON ROCK MEMORIAL.

Amount Now in Treasury $250—Colonial Tea Netted $73—More Needed.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, has consented to arrange theatricals to raise money for the Washington Rock monument fund. It is planned to give a performance sometime in the fall. In all probability an historical subject will be chosen as a title for the play.

The affair will be given under the auspices of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of which Mrs. Florence Howe Hall is regent.

The tea given April 17 last netted the chapter $73. The money has been placed in the fund for the monument at Washington Rock. The fund now amounts to $250.

Nothing has been decided upon so far as to what kind of a monument to erect at the rock. Some have suggested that a huge bowlder be placed upon the rock, surmounted by a memorial tablet.

RANDOLPH HEAD OF 'CHANGE

FORMER MAYOR CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF CONSOLIDATED STOCK EXCHANGE.

One Time President of the Atlantic Trust Company Receives High Honor.

At the annual meeting of the Consolidated Stock Exchange brokers yesterday, the regular ticket was chosen. The new president, L. V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, was unanimously re-elected president.

Mr. Randolph was formerly mayor of this city and for several years was president of the Atlantic Trust Company. He also holds the responsible position of an executor of the Samuel J. Tilden estate.

His election to the presidency of the Consolidated is a source of congratulation not only to the incumbent, but the exchange as well.

HIGH OR LOW.

Difference in Churchmanship May Result in Deadlock Over Bishopric.

East Orange, June 9—From all appearances it is likely that there will be a dead-lock again at the adjourned convention of the diocese of Newark, which meets in West Orange Tuesday, June 16. The purpose of the session is to elect a successor to the late Bishop Starkey. The dead prelate was what is termed a high churchman, and the clerical delegates favor one of his time as a successor, while the lay delegates desire a low churchman. The names most prominently mentioned are Rev. Dr. George McClellan Fiske, of Providence, R. I., a high churchman, and Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, of Orange, N. J., a low churchman.

Among other names discussed are the Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, who is a low churchman; the Rev. Dr. Charles Wheeler Colt, of St. Luke's Church, Baltimore, a high churchman; the Rev. Dr. Jacob A. Regester, of St. Paul's Church, Buffalo, also a high churchman, and the Rev. Dr. Albert W. Arundel, of Pittsburg, who is a broad churchman.

Big Celebration.

The one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Monmouth will be appropriately celebrated at Freehold, Saturday, June 27. The battle was fought June 28, 1778, but as the anniversary falls on Sunday this year, the celebration will be held the day previous. The State has appropriated $3,500 for a military display and there will be a parade. One of the landmarks, the Tennent Church at Tennent, is still standing in a good state of preservation.

Case Postponed.

The case instituted by Catherine Pavilard, of Warren township, against Albert Sutterlein, on a serious charge, which was to have been heard yesterday before Justice Cooper, at Warrenville, has been postponed for a week. Wm. G. DeMeza represents the defendant and the attorney of Warren township is conducting the case for the complainant.

Board Meeting.

A special meeting of the Borough Board of Education will be held Monday evening for the purpose of drawing up warrants for teachers salaries and paying such other claims as may come up at that time for settlement. This is the final meeting before commencement.

CONSTABLE MANLEY A MILLIONAIRE?

Wealth For Plainfielder If He Can Prove His Startling Claim.

VALUABLE EQUITY HIS.

LANDS ARE IN THE HEART OF LONG ISLAND CITY.

Lived Years in Ignorance of Fortune Awaiting Him—Counsel Engaged to Prosecute Claim —The Story in Detail.

In the heart of Long Island City, there is a tract of land one and one-half miles long by one-half mile deep over which a citizen of Plainfield has a claim which, if allowed, will make him a wealthy man and possibly a millionaire. John Manley, the constable, of Park avenue, is the lucky individual, who has been living for eighteen years in blissful ignornace of the fortune which might have been his almost for the asking. It is a romance in real life that reads much like a chapter from a novel, with the hero a faithful, hard-working public official.

Within the past month, Mr. Manley was considerably startled to receive an offer from the Pennsylvania Railroad to buy out cernin portions of his equity on land adjoining the tracks of the Long Island Railroad. This offer set Mr. Manley to thinking and the results of his investigations are included in what follows.

Garrett V. Manley, father of John Manley, died in 1880, the owner of two tracts of land, one a small island in Newtown Creek and the other in Long Island City, fronting for about a mile and a half on Jackson avenue, the city's busiest thoroughfare. The property at present extends from Thompson avenue seven blocks to Newtown Creek and from Jackson avenue to the Long Island Railroad tracks in the rear.

This property was foreclosed in 1885 by James Thompson, a Wall street broker, and through an oversight or error of some sort the name of John Manley was omitted from the list of heirs. Consequently, Mr. Manley has an equity on the property which in validates all previous transfers, although he cannot claim to own it outright. The Pennsylvania Railroad desires a portion of the tract as a site for their depot, which they intend to make the largest passenger terminal in the world. The present property holders cannot sell out to the railroad until Mr. Manley receives his equity, enabling them to give the railroad a clear title. There are 586 property owners in the tract.

Mr. Manley has already received an offer from the railroad of over half a million dollars for the transfer of his right of equity, and has refused it. He has placed his case in the hands of Attorney V. W. Nash, Jr.

Mr. Manley has been a resident of Plainfield for about five years having moved here from New Brunswick. Previous to that time he lived on his father's estate on Long Island, until the time when the mortgage was foreclosed. He is a member of several lodges, and has been actively interested in church work and in the Rescue Mission. He is constable of the Second ward and popular for his faithfulness in office and his genial social qualities.

A MUSICALE.

The Pupils of Miss Irene Day Give Enjoyable Affair at Her Home.

Miss Irene Day's pupils gave a musicale at her home in New Market last night. The parlors were tastefully decorated. The twenty-five odd pupils all had a part in the exercises. The renditions of the Misses May and Louise Arden were well received. Miss Grace and Nellie Squier rendered several duets exceptionally well. In addition to the programme, Mrs. R. L. Giddes rendered several vocal solos which were heartily applauded. At the conclusion of the programme a repast was served. Dancing was also enjoyed until a late hour.

ST. MARY'S T. A. B. SOCIETY OFFERS RELIEF FOR FLOOD VICTIMS.

Organization Prosperous—An Excursion Planned—Officers Chosen.

Aid for the sufferers from flood and fire in the South and West to the extent of $25 was voted last evening by the Total Abstinence Benevolent Society at their rooms in T. A. B. Hall. The committee to attend to the disposition of the money consists of M. R. Flynn, A. T. Lynch and George McCluskey.

The treasurer announced a prosperous financial condition of the society, all the property being free of incumbrances and the treasury containing a surplus of $1,200. A. T. Lynch, chairman of the building committee, reported little alteration in the original plans. The entertainment committee, Clinton Shannon, chairman, advised an excursion for the benefit of the society and were empowered to act on the matter. The excursion will probably be to Atlantic Highlands in July.

These officers were chosen: President, Michael O'Keefe; vice president, Patrick J. Miller; recording secretary, Richard Birmingham; financial secretary, Clarence Walden; treasurer, John C. Carney.

The room was decorated especially for the occasion and a sumptuous repast was served by Charles Jensen, proprietor of the hotel. Those were present: Henry Haurand, captain of the club; Matthias Menzenbach, Louis Van Dyke, Edward Sebring, William Mills, Christian Steckle, Chas. Keller, Dennis Baglin, William Krausse and Joseph Blatz.

Mr. Schaeffer was married to Miss Otilia Heinold, of Grove street, on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Schaeffer will reside in North Plainfield where the groom is employed.

Lawyer Receives a Large Fee Before Distribution of Melick Estates.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Burnswick, June 9—Judge Schenck, yesterday in approving of the accounts of John C. Morris as administrator of the estates of John L. Melick and his brother, Henry C. Melick, allowed Lawyer Alan H. Strong $2,000 as counsel fee. This is one of the largest fees ever allowed in the local courts. The commissions of the administrator amounted to $2,505.69 on one estate, and $586.23 on the other. There are seventy heirs, among whom the balance of the estates, $39,992.80, is to be divided.

Exceptions filed last November were withdrawn and the accountings approved after being re-drawn.

GOODS DESTROYED.

Mr. Garretson has been appointed to the position of accountant of the four mills of the Atlas Cement Company and his residence will be at Allentown.

AIM TO PRESERVE HOME OF MASONRY

Building Once Occupied by Trenton Lodge, No. 5, F. and A. M.

AS A MASONIC MUSEUM

GREAT MEN OF NATION HAVE SAT WITHIN ITS WALLS.

Major Anderson, of Civil War Fame, Made a Mason There—Lodge Never Missed Single Communication Since 1787—Its History.

If the proposition which the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of New Jersey now has under consideration is adopted the first home of Masonry in this part of the country will be purchased and preserved.

The building is located in Trenton, a block away from the State capitol. It is a relic of early Masonry in this country, and the proposition to buy and preserve it is interesting Masons outside of New Jersey, as well as those within the State.

The first Masonic temple in the State of New Jersey is now a dwelling and store, but it has scarcely changed at all in appearance since it was built, about 1797. It is splendidly preserved for an old building, and, with a little renovation, could be made a solid and substantial structure. This building was the first home of Trenton Lodge No. 5, F. and A. M., and from it sprang the Masonry of five great States, namely, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Trenton Lodge has not missed a communication or lodge meeting since 1787. During the Morgan troubles, when Masonry was under the ban to some extent, and when it was looked upon as inimical to the interests of the country, this old lodge went ahead and held its sessions regularly in the old temple on Front street. Most of the lodges in America at that time suspended their meetings until things quieted down.

This old Masonic home was used until a few years before the outbreak of the Civil War. Governors of States, United States Senators and members of Congress have sat within its walls. It was there that Major Anderson, of Civil War fame, was made a member of the Masonic order. He presented to the lodge the desks that were used at its meetings in this old building, and which are now divided among the members of No. 5 as relics.

Trenton Lodge No. 5, while in the old building, granted to Trenton Masons who settled in Cincinnati, the first charter for Nova Caesarea Lodge, in what was then the Northwest Territory of the United States. The granting of this charter was really the beginning of Masonry in that Territory north of the Ohio River, between the Pennsylvania line and the Mississippi River, where it now flourishes. The famous Indiana Lodge No. 1, of Vincennes, Ind., received its start at the close of the second war with England, from Trenton Lodge No. 5.

The movement on the part of Masons to purchase this historic building was started at the last session of the grand lodge of New Jersey, held in Trenton about a month ago and which was attended by members of Anchor Lodge, No. 144, and Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, both of Plainfield. The matter was championed by Francis B. Lee, of that city. Most Worshipful Grand Master W. Holt Apgar, of the Grand Lodge, discussed the matter at some length in his annual report, and strongly urged the Grand Lodge to cooperate with Trenton Lodge in securing possession of the building and preserving it. The matter was referred to Messrs. Lee and Apgar, and they will report to the grand body at its next meeting on the advisability of proceeding with the project. They are both heartily in favor of the plan, and if their recommendation is adopted the property will pass into the possession of the Masons of the State. Trenton Lodge No. 5 has a mortgage interest in the property, and no great sum of money would be needed to buy the place, notwithstanding that it is centrally located and occupies a valuable piece of ground.

If the proposition to secure possession of the historic Masonic building in Trenton is favorably acted upon by the grand lodge it will be made the repository for relics of early Masonry in this State.

Writ Issued.

A writ of attachment has been issued in favor of Attorney L. A. Clement against the Scarsdale Publishing Company.

PROTECTION TO THE PUBLIC

STATE NURSES ASSOCIATION SPONSER FOR GOOD LAW.

Trained Nurses to be Registered in County Clerk's Office—Examinations Required in Certain Cases.

Trained nurses in this city desiring to continue in their engagement must register their names at the County Clerk's office in Elizabeth, on or before July 3. This is in accordance with the law passed at the last session of the Legislature at the request of the New Jersey State Nurses' Association.

Those complying with this requirement need not undergo a State examination as to their fitness. Anyone failing to register, in accordance with the law will, after that time be required to submit to an examination, graduated before or after the law became inoperative. The statute is regarded as a good one in that it will serve to protect the nurses and aid greatly in insuring qualified attendants in sick rooms. There are now about 300 members in the New Jersey State Association.

LARGE CROP OF CANDIDATES

STOKES MOST PROMINENTLY MENTIONED FOR GOVERNOR.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler's Name Drawn Into the Discussion.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 9—Several Republican Gubernatorial booms were sprung during the yachting trip up the Hudson of Senator John F. Dryden's party on the yacht Taurus the other day. The outing and all proceedings were of an informal nature, and it was hard to tell whether the booms were intended to be taken seriously or not. Whether they were, depended upon the feelings of the politicians aboard toward the individuals boomed. The name most frequently mentioned during the day for Governor was Chancery Clerk Edward C. Stokes, and most of those aboard seemed to consider that serious, whether the others were or not.

Somebody tried to start a boom for Congressman Charles N. Fowler, and he didn't take the trouble to contradict or suppress it. Neither did William M. Johnson or State Treasurer Frank S. Briggs, when their names were mentioned in the same connection, although it was asserted by South Jerseymen in the party that Briggs was too much of a Stokes man to get into the race himself.

Although Governor Murphy was conspicuous in the party, his alleged aspirations for Senator Kean's seat in the upper House of Congress were not talked of aloud, and Kean received good wishes and pledges of support for his own reelection with as little concern or show of worry as though there had been no suggestion of anybody to oppose him.

TO OLD NASSAU.

Plainfield Boys to Undergo Princeton's Entrance Examination.

The annual entrance examinations to Princeton University will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the New York Law School, in New York City. Albert D. Beers and G. Archibald Brakeley, of the class of 1903, Plainfield High School, will take the examination. Jose Tweedy '04 will take the preliminary examinations. William Schoonmaker and Dudley H. Barrows, Leal's School, '03, will also undergo the examinations.

Queen Esther.

Music written especially for this cantata by the celebrated song writer, Will L. Thompson, and interpolated with striking effect, will be introduced at the performance Thursday night for the first time here. "I'm King O'er the Land and the Sea" is finely calculated to reveal the beauty and depth of Raymond McGee's voice, and the prayer of Queen Esther is of simple and touching beauty. The well known choruses have been taken up with enthusiasm and a fine performance is assured.

John J. Praed, a tailor, purchased today from Collector Frank H. Smith the building on Park avenue, owned by the latter. Mr. Praed has for some time occupied the first floor of the building.

Mr. Newmiller's Funeral.

The funeral services of the late William Newmiller, who perished in a railroad wreck at Kansas City, June 4, will be held tomorrow afternoon at Warren Chapel at 2:30 o'clock.

MISTAKE IN SEEDS CAUSES TROUBLE

Farmers Fight Because One Sold Other Mustard Seeds for Oats.

DREAMS OF HARVEST

CLIMAX TO TAKE PLACE IN A JUSTICE'S COURT.

Farmer Kane Wakes Up to Find He Has Been Deceived — Pounces on Farmer Ayres—Latter He Brings Action is Tort.

During the drought Joseph T. Kane, a Warrenville farmer, planted some seed in a large ten acre lot on his farm. He thought that the seed was oats and he planted it plentifully. Three weeks ago there was a slight fall of rain and in a day or two there appeared an abundance of little green shoots.

Farmer Kane rubbed his hands with glee for he thought that he would have a larger and healthier harvest of ripe oats than his neighbors. He watched the little stalks as they grew. Saturday afternoon the field was a beautiful green seemingly of wavy oats. After the rain storm that night the farmer awoke the next morning to look out at the oat field, to find to his astonishment, that the field was yellow. His oat crop was a mere dream. The good farmer's eye quickly discerned mustard plants, almost ready to seed.

It is recorded that farmer Joe tore his hair with vexation. He sought out one Jonathan Ayres, who sold him the seed. Joseph, in righteous wrath "jumped all over" his neighbor. The result is that a suit has been brought before Justice W. E. Mattison, of the borough, between Joseph T. Kane, plaintiff, and Jonathan Ayres, defendant, in tort. Their troubles will be aired in court Monday afternoon.

TO MOVE PLANT.

Unless the Men Return to Work the Shipyard Will be Closed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 9—Citizens are alarmed by the prospect of the closing of the Crescent shipyards. On Saturday the president of the company declared that if there were any more labor troubles the yards would be abandoned and all the work transferred to other plants of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

The yards opened yesterday, after a week's shut down, but the carpenters, drillers and tappers refused to work. About two hundred men are out.

As there is nothing of any size on the ways, and all the boats in the water can be easily towed, the men now fear that Mr. Chase meant what he said.

The funeral will be held from her residence at 24 Lombardy street, Newark, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

THEATRICAL.

There is no let down either in the quantity or quality of the shows given at Keith's popular playhouse, in this, what is ordinarily considered the "off season," theatrically, which means that there is no curtailment in expense, a thing unknown at Keith's. This fact is worthy of special notice, and so also is the fact that so-called "headliners" are not catered to, for the reason that it is the "whole show," rather than a few special acts, that people go to see.

Just to show how busy they can be at times, Messrs. Sam. S. and Lee Shubert yesterday signed to star one comedian for a term of ten years and engaged a dozen prominent players to support the companies to be headed by Miss Fay Templeton and Miss Paula Edwardes next season. The star who was signed for ten years was Jefferson De Angelis, who has headed one of the companies of E. R. Reynolds for several seasons, playing the star roles in "The Royal Rogue," and "The Emerald Isle."

In John P. Powers' drug store window on Somerset street sits a large hoot owl which was caught after a struggle in the Watchung mountains. The owl is symbolic of watchfulness. The bird has never slept since it has been in captivity. It is always wide awake. The same is true of the proprietor of the store. When it is cold he has hot drinks at his soda fountain and when it is hot he has the best sodas in the city. Stop in and see the owl and get a glass of soda.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

"Shiner" Cook, of Newton, is now serving his 183d term in the Morris County Jail. He makes his boasts that he has been arrested oftener than any other man in the world. Cook is about sixty years of age and his arrests have been due entirely to tarrying at the flowing bowl too long.

A bull and a goat in deadly combat caused much excitement and hilarity not long ago on a field not far from this city. The bull belonged to the Hon. Silas Dewey Drake, mayor of Lincoln, and George Scribner professes to be proprietor of the goat. The fight was bitter and bloody and lasted half an hour, the goat winning out in a canter at the finish. The bull shot the William about fifteen feet in the atmosphere at one stage of the game, but Bill bucked up and had his antagonist "groggy" on the next round. About one hundred people witnessed the encounter, no one of them seeming especially anxious for the job of separating the contestants.

John Clapp Whiting, a former resident of this city, and now in charge of the Claremont Congregational Church of the Bronx, New York, will be ordained to the ministry Monday, June 15, at the Trinity Congregational Church, Washington avenue and 175 street, New York. The examination will take place at 4:30 in the afternoon, and the ordination service at 8 o'clock in the evening. Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational Church of this city, will have a part in the ordination service, and a number of the leading Congregational clergymen of New York and Brooklyn will be present.

Mr. Whiting is well known in Plainfield, having lived here for a number of years, and being a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the class of '93. He afterwards went to Amherst College and to Union Theological Seminary.

A GREAT TRUTH.

How It Has Spread From Home to Home in Plainfield.

In every part of Plainfield; in the homes of the wealthy, in the humble abode of the man of toil; 'tis now a well-known fact—a great truth—that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought more comfort to backache sufferers and cured more sick kidneys than any medicine of modern times.

Mr. Jos. VanAredale, carpenter and contractor, living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

FIRES ARE QUENCHED

Rain and Plenty of It In New England.

FIFTY DAYS OF DROUGHT ENDED.

Dry Season Just Ended Is the Largest and Most Severe Experienced In a Great Many Years.

BOSTON, June 9.—Rain, and plenty of it, has ended the fifty days' drought in northern and southern New England and quenched most of the forest fires which have turned vast areas into blackened wastes.

Fitful showers came to different and widely separated localities during the afternoon, and at the setting of the sun the indications were not especially promising for rain. But with nightfall the wind swung around into the easterly section of the compass, bringing in a "sea turn" and a heavy rain which drenched the entire New England coast line.

The storm is traveling inward and before daylight is likely to bring relief to entire New England. The drought just ended has been the longest and most severe for a great many years.

Temperatures during the last fifty days have ranged from frost to midsummer torridness, and damage has accompanied each extreme, frost having killed early vegetables and the hot weather parched meadow and brush lands until it was tinder fuel for fires, which sprung up on every hand.

Many Diplomatic Changes.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The following appointments and transfers in the diplomatic and consular service are announced: Peter Augustus Jay, Rhode Island, from third secretary of embassy at Paris to be second secretary of legation at Constantinople; Philip M. Brown, Massachusetts, from second secretary of legation at Constantinople to be secretary of legation to Guatemala and Honduras; James G. Bailey, Kentucky, from secretary for Guatemala and Honduras to a similar post for Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador. This transfer was made to remove Mr. Bailey from Guatemala City and all connection with the tragic Fitzgerald-Hunter episode. Louis Einstein, New York, appointed to be third secretary of embassy at Paris. He is the son of David Einstein of New York and is an author of some note. George B. Anderson, now consul at Prescott, Canada, transferred to be consul at Durango, Mexico.

Postal Service In Flooded Districts.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The railway postal lines between Greenville and Columbia, S. C., and between Greenville and Charleston were broken again by the high waters. The service also is broken between Hamlet and Atlanta, Ga. There is no postal communication between Monroe and Clinton. Representative Johnson of the Spartanburg (S. C.) district was at the post office department and said that 10,000 people in his section of the state had been thrown out of employment by the washing away of factories and mills. He said that he succeeded in getting out of Spartanburg by walking and riding a mule for several miles to a point where the trains could run.

Hit Kaiser With a Bouquet.

BERLIN, June 9. — While Emperor William was driving to the hall in which a singing competition was to take place a lady admirer threw a bouquet into the imperial carriage. The bouquet struck the emperor's helmet and was so forcibly thrown that the empress, who was sitting beside Emperor William, jumped up, frightened. The thoughtless enthusiast was arrested, given a severe lecture and then discharged. The Frankfurt people had been warned previously not to throw flowers into the imperial carriage.

To Probe Alaskan Affairs.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Senator Dillingham of Vermont has been in Washington the past few days arranging the details of a visit to be made to Alaska by the senate committee on territories, of which he is chairman. The committee will leave Washington about the 20th inst. and probably will be absent six weeks. The purpose of the visit is to make a general investigation into affairs in the territory with a view to making recommendations for legislation.

Canadian Crops Have Suffered.

Montreal, June 9.—Crop reports throughout the Dominion indicate record crops in half the area, average crops in about one-third the area and poor crops in one-tenth of the whole. The Montreal district suffers most. Rain is now falling in many districts. The early season is the redeeming feature in places where crops are backward. Favorable weather would now undo much of the damage even in the worst districts.

Foreign Residents Are Destitute.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 9.—The British representative in Haiti reports that the foreign residents in Port au Prince, the capital of Haiti, are in a state of destitution. The governor of Jamaica in consequence issued an official warning to British subjects against proceeding to the Haitien republic under present conditions.

Harty Will Go to Rome.

ROME, June 9.—The Vatican expects Archbishop Harty to come to Rome to be consecrated, thereby increasing his prestige among the Filipinos.

Weather Probabilities.

Showers; cooler; fresh south to west winds.

LANDS RECLAIMED.

Situation at Kansas City Is Improving Fast.

RAILROADS AND FACTORIES RESUME

Condition Still Bad, but Much Work Is Now Being Pushed, and All Laborers Obtainable Are Put to Work.

KANSAS CITY, June 9.—All the laborers obtainable were put at work in the region lately submerged. The railroads have reclaimed only a small part of their yards. Water was shut off from the city owing to accidents to the pumps, but the aqueduct bridge across the Kansas river will be completed today, when there will be an abundant supply of pure water. The Western Union has stretched a cable across the Kansas river, thus closing an important gap in telegraphic communication. The Missouri Pacific has begun to repair the Kansas river bridge, and trains will cross late this week.

Many factories have resumed work, and others will soon start. The Armour packing house was unable to begin killing, repairs being still incomplete.

The Santa Fe, Frisco, Missouri, Kansas and Texas and Rock Island roads are using the Union depot. The Rock Island is operating to Chicago by way of boat to Kansas City, Kan., and the Missouri Pacific to St. Joseph. The Alton's route to Chicago is over the Missouri Pacific tracks to St. Louis.

The St. Joseph and Grand Island, Union Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Burlington and Milwaukee lines are operating by boat to Randolph and thence north by railroad. The Wabash lines are not operating out of Kansas City.

THE FLOODED LANDS.

Summary of Devastation Now Accurately Known.

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—So great an extent of territory is covered by the flood, so constantly changing are the conditions as the water creeps higher and renders the situation the more chaotic and unreliable, that statistics of the devastation and loss of life and property cannot be obtained. It is certain, however, that over 200,000 acres of rich farming lands are under water.

All of Venice and the greater part of Madison and Granite City are under water.

Twenty-five thousand people are rendered homeless.

Freight traffic is completely paralyzed and passenger traffic practically so.

The shipping and manufacturing district of East St. Louis for three miles along the river front is under from two to eight feet of water.

Hundreds and probably thousands of head of stock have been drowned.

East St. Louis is threatened with complete inundation. St. Louis is flooded only along the water front.

The entire property loss is estimated at $3,000,000.

Victims of Gale Drift Ashore.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., June 9.—The steamer Home, which was sent to search for the sealing schooner Dominion, lost amid the ice floes with a crew of twenty-eight men, reports having seen no sign of the missing ship. They may be among the floes in Belle Isle strait, where the steamer cannot reach them; otherwise the crew must have perished. The bodies of two French fishermen drifted ashore in a dory at Placentia bay, victims of the recent gale on the Grand banks.

Health of the Pope.

ROME, June 9.—The pope's health continues satisfactory. Since the time his holiness was archbishop of Perugia he has been occasionally troubled with hemorrhoids, especially after a period of fatigue. This is the case now. Fortunately the reappearance of the trouble was accompanied by hemorrhage, thus obviating the necessity of an operation. The pope has experienced much relief and may be said to be at the present time entirely well.

No Change in Textile Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—The second week of the strike of the textile workers of Philadelphia opened with no gain in advantage for either side. There were no developments in the struggle, each side waiting for the other to make a move. Two small firms, one a hosiery concern and the other a knitting establishment, agreed to the demands of the strikers for a fifty-five hour week, and these plants will resume operations today.

FIGUIG BOMBARDED.

French Artillery Punish Rebel Zenaga Tribesmen.

NATIVE MOSQUE WAS DESTROYED.

Moorish Guns Were Not Effective. Melinite Shells Demolished Many Buildings—Women and Children Were Protected.

BENI-OUNIF, Algeria, June 9.—The French artillery opened a preliminary fire at 5:30 o'clock in the morning on Figuig, the stronghold of the rebellious Zenaga tribesmen who recently attacked and tried to ambush Governor General Jonnart and his escort, of whom thirteen were seriously injured.

The actual bombardment began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted until 11 a. m., when a great destruction of houses had been wrought, the mosque destroyed and, it is believed, a great number of natives killed.

General O'Connor commands the punitive expedition, consisting of 4,000 men of the foreign legion and a strong force of artillery armed with guns firing melinite shells. General O'Connor's plan was to advance on Figuig in three columns and post his artillery on commanding hills surrounding the rebels' stronghold.

The French troops occupied Juive hill and another eminence, both strategic positions, by a surprise movement. The ramparts of the town were then 1,200 meters distant and, like the houses which were half a mile behind them, were built of compressed earth. From these hills the artillery made excellent practice, the melinite shells making a big breach in the ramparts and, destroying a multitude of houses the inhabitants of which had fled at the first shots. Finally the fire was concentrated on the mosque, which was much venerated, and the edifice was blown to pieces.

The destruction of the mosque is expected to have a great moral effect. The Moors concealed in the palm groves replied with artillery to the French bombardment, but without effect. The French guns were then withdrawn to Djennanned-dar, where General O'Connor is awaiting offers of submission.

All the women and children left the town before the action. The French fired a few shells at distant parts of the oasis in order to impress the Moors with the power and range of the French guns. Throughout the engagement there was no loss on the French side.

The French artillery fired 600 shells at the town. The Spahis (native cavalry), the Chasseurs d'Afrique and the troops of the foreign legion were posted during the bombardment at points surrounding the town, but the infantry did not fire a single shot.

At half past 3 an envoy from the ameer of Figuig arrived at this place.

General O'Connor has received congratulations from the commander of the Nineteenth army corps on the skill with which he conducted the operations. The French troops have returned to their encampment. No decision has been taken regarding future operations. It is possible if the Figuig tribesmen do not come to terms other villages in the oasis will be bombarded. General O'Connor has issued a general order congratulating the troops on the manner in which they acquitted themselves.

Big Wheat Firm Goes Under.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—The suspension of Eppinger & Co., the big wheat dealers and shippers, was the talk of the commercial world. The first important development was the filing of a suit in replevin by the Nevada National bank of San Francisco against the Pacific Coast Warehouse company, which is the corporation name of Eppinger & Co.'s warehouse business, to recover grain in the Port Costa warehouses represented by hypothecated receipts. The outcome of the case will be watched with interest, as there are disquieting rumors in circulation regarding the quantity of grain actually on hand.

Edward Honors New York Architect.

LONDON, June 9.—In order to associate himself with the American nation and President Roosevelt in the recent partial remodeling of the White House King Edward has awarded the royal gold medal for the promotion of architecture to C. F. McKim, the New York architect who designed the work. The presentation of the medal is fixed for June 22. On the following day a dinner will be given in honor of Mr. McKim at the Royal Institute of British Architects, the invited guests including Ambassador Choate.

New York Girl Killed in Paris.

PARIS, June 9.—Constance, the young daughter of Archibald Gracie of New York, was killed in an elevator accident at the Hotel de la Tremoille. Mr. Gracie is a relative of President Roosevelt. Miss Gracie attempted to enter a descending freight elevator and was crushed between it and the shaft. Her body will be taken to New York.

Earthquake Shock in Ecuador.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 9.—A shock of earthquake was felt at six minutes past 6 o'clock last night at Alausi, a town between Guayaquil and Quito, and was followed by a slight fall of ashes, which, it is believed, was thrown out by the Sangai volcano, situated on the plateau of Ecuador.

Shot Wife and Self in Camp.

FARMINGTON, Me., June 9.—A murder and suicide have occurred at Blakeslee's Sporting Camp, in the wilderness fifteen miles northeast of this town. Albert Teague, care taker of the camp, shot his wife during a quarrel and then shot himself dead.

There is the true fraternal spirit in Pythianism. The action of the local Knights in journeying far to decorate the grave of a dead brother touches a tender chord.

The lesson on the evils of strong drink can best be learned in the average police court. The batch of cases in the local police court on Monday mornings has a moral.

Ann Arbor college girls have abolished the corset. They claim that their system of gymnasium training gives them smaller waists and broader shoulders. Corset does.

J. A. Smith & Brother's handsomely appointed and finely stocked grocery store is a credit to Plainfield. This progressive firm opened the doors of its new establishment this morning. May success be theirs in the future as it has been in the past.

Another escapade is recorded in North Plainfield, in which the "hero" is said to be a reader of the dime novel. Trashy novels, whether by "Old Sleuth" or Count Tolstoi, pollute the mind, and give to youth dangerously false impressions of life.

A bride and groom were thrown from their carriage and severely injured the other day because their friends insisted upon throwing rice at them. Some day perhaps people will learn the foolishness of this time-worn nuisance, and think up something new.

The Plainfield Amateur Baseball League has acted wisely in stripping its membership of professionalism. Manager John Steiner's resolution adopted at the League meeting last night has the proper ring. Only local players should be allowed to engage in the games and none of these should receive money for his services. This was the gist of the resolution offered. Now rid the league of ineligable players!

Plainfield will welcome the promised trolley connection with Metuchen. Not only will it afford direct connection with the Pennsylvania system at Metuchen, but will be of inestimable value in developing Park avenue's extension as a residental thoroughfare. Beyond a doubt handsome homes would have been scattered along that beautiful highway, had there been proper facilities to transport the residents to this city. It is stated by one of the promoters of the scheme that the right of way has been secured over private property. This being the case, let the work begin. There's money in it.

These Plainfielders are a nervy lot. Without taking into consideration the duty of the authorities with reference to Sunday sports, they themselves decide whether or not they shall play Sunday golf. It appears that if the majority of the Hillside Club had favored a continuance of Sabbath playing the games would have been played. It is not the happy lot of the people of Elizabeth to be so independent of the prosecutor and the chief of police.—Elizabeth Evening Times.

Better brush up in geography, brother. Plainfield's chief of police has no jurisdiction in this matter. The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club's course is in Middlesex County. Incidently, get at the facts. It requires a two-thirds, not a majority vote to amend the club's constitution.

The Railroad Employe devotes much space to a complimentary notice of the great changes wrought in the Central Railroad of New Jersey within the last twelve months, and lays particular stress on the achievements of Vice President and General Manager W. G. Besler, of this city, and General Superintendent C. W. Huntington. Plainfielders well understand its position when it says, "we prefer not to refer to the Warren administration for it brings up unpleasant memories." It says: "The record of Mr. Huntington's administration is a clean and open one," and then pays this tribute to Mr. Besler:

"In the face of a chaos brought about by the conditions," (referring to conditions prior to his advent, "W. G. Besler was sent by President George F. Baer, of the Reading, who early in 1902 had been chosen as president of the New Jersey Central to assume the helm of the affairs of that company and never before in the history of railroading had a man been confronted with a more serious or complex situation, and never before had an official been selected who was better fitted to untangle a well near hopeless web than Mr. Besler.

"Mr. Besler assumed charge of the operating department in April, 1902. His reputation as an official who stood well with his men had preceded him from the Reading, where he had been successively superindentent and general superintendent, and his advent to the Central was hailed with joy by all classes of employes, and from the day he assumed his office a better feeling became apparent, which was further augmented in the following month when he appointed C. W. Huntington, general superintendent, with headquarters at Jersey City, in direct charge of the detailed operations of the company."

Lighting in Piscataway.

Editor Daily Press:—

The recent election for lighting districts was entirely harmonious in East Bound Brook, Lincoln and South Plainfield, the two former voting in favor without a dissenting voice and the latter recording only one vote against. But in the sleepy village of New Market it was otherwise, all sorts of rumors and exaggerated statements were made but the scheme of one or two did not materialize until election day when it became evident that the purpose was to defeat any appropriation.

One nomination was made of a gentleman who was known to be in favor of the improvement. The opposition showed its hand when they put in the field two candidates, one of whom had openly expressed himself as opposed to the system. It is reasonable to assume the other is of the same opinion, being advocated by the parties who did their level best to defeat the project. They even went so far as to deceive voters, known to be in favor by distributing tickets with all appropriations marked off.

It is significant that on the night of election one of the commissioners, known to be opposed to the scheme, stated that they, meaning himself and associates, could work or control the member in favor, evidently meaning to place themselves as "the power" to decide where to place the lights, irrespective of any opinion, or wish of the member who pledged himself to support a lighting district.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

An employe at Levering & Garrigues' factory had a miraculous escape from injury while at work last Friday. He was bending over oiling some belting that run down into a small bricked in hole. In some way his shirt caught in the belting and he was carried into the hole. With great presence of mind he grasped tightly to the wheel and so was able to make the turn in safety. The wheel carried him around twice before the machinery could be stopped. If he had not held tightly to the wheel there would have not been enough room for his body to pass through and he would have been crushed to death. As it is he is congratulating himself on his good fortune in getting off with only a badly lacerated arm.

PRAISE FOR PARSON JACKSON

THE COLORED BAPTIST JOURNAL ENDORSES HIS STAND.

It Condemns the Modern Dance As Unholy Practice—Other Pastors Should Take Same Stand.

Speaking editorially of the stand taken by Rev. E. E. Jackson, in an article against dancing published in its columns, The Baptist Trumpet says:

"This paper has the right ring. Every minister of Jesus Christ should stand ready to condemn the modern dance. Dr. Jackson speaks wisely in his description of the ills which flow from this unholy practice. If the doctrine advanced by Dr. Jackson in this article was more generally advocated by our pastors we would have less dancing by professing Christians. There is nothing in dancing as it is conducted by modern society to develope ones spiritual or moral life. Hence we agree with you Brother Jackson — dancing should be condemned by all Christians."

FOG STOPS THE RACE.

Sip Defenders' Contest Today and Tomorrow.

NEW YORK, June 9.—A thick bank of fog which shut down while the Reliance, Constitution and Columbia were preparing to leave Sandy Hook for the race course prevented the anticipated test of the new boat in strong wind and rough water, under which conditions she has not yet proved herself. The race was declared off by mutual consent of the owners.

A moderate easterly sea and a fifteen knot southeast wind afforded just the conditions desired to try the seagoing qualities and heavy weather abilities of the new boat. All three boats had their sails up, and the regatta committee's yacht and two passenger boats with yachting enthusiasts had gone off to the starting line at Sandy Hook lightship when the fog rolled in so thick as to make the racing of so expensive craft extremely dangerous. After waiting until noon, the fog failing to lift, the attempt was given up and sails were lowered.

There will be races today and tomorrow, but the regatta committee announced that none would be sailed in place of the one called off. Since the Glen Cove races the Columbia has been equipped with two steering wheels. The other boats already have them.

Magistrate Gets Manhasset Stakes.

NEW YORK, June 9.—August Belmont's Magistrate, with Minder in the saddle, won the Manhasset stakes for two-year-olds at Gravesend. The big son of Hastings—Lady Margaret now stands undefeated, and is claimed by some horsemen to be one of the best two-year-olds seen this year. The Belmont colt was second to leave the barrier, but before they had gone a quarter of a mile he was in front, and Minder had only to sit still to win easily by three lengths. Luxembourg was second and Andrew Mack, an added starter, third.

Reservation Wins Derby.

DETROIT, Mich., June 9.—Reservation, owned by George Hendri, the Detroit millionaire, won the International Derby at Grosse Pointe in the presence of 5,000 people. Reservation was behind for six furlongs, then gradually worked his way to the front. Lurahlighter was always a contender and raced Claude, the favorite, into submission in the first half, then came again at the end. Fore and Aft, second choice, looked a winner for half of the way, then tired. Only two favorites won. The racing was excellent.

Savable Wins by a Nose.

CHICAGO, June 9.—John A. Drake's Savable, at present the favorite in the future books in the American Derby, gave McChesney a beating at Harlem in one of the most falsely run races of the year. Savable had only a nose to spare over the Harlem National handicap winner at the wire, and in one more jump McChesney would have won. The defeat of McChesney was due to poor racing luck.

Light Opera a Winner.

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—Four St. Louis Derby candidates were in the fourth race at the fair grounds. The Darden pair, Monsieur Beaucaire and Sioux Chief, were installed as favorites at 11 to 10 and were heavily played, but the winner turned up in Louis Lemp's Light Opera. Monsieur Beaucaire was kept back until too late.

Kid Carter Knocks Out Butler.

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—Kid Carter, the Brooklyn fighter, knocked out Joe Butler of this city in the first round at the National Athletic club. The fight was to have gone six rounds.

King of Yap's Fortune.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The collier Justin has arrived at Cavite, Philippine Islands, from a cruise to Guam and the island of Yap of the Pelew group. The object of the Justin's visit to Yap was to land an American lawyer, who is engaged in looking after the interests of the American heirs of the late King O'Keefe, who is said to have acquired a large fortune while ruling over the nation of Yap.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Lorne Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:-

SMART MATERIALS.

Laces Very Popular—Voiles the Most Widely Used Dress Fabrics.

Laces of every description from the finest blond makes to the coarsest makes of crochet and guipure adorn practically every model from the boating serge or linen to the gorgeous costumes for smart festivities.

In materials the choice is wide, but there is no doubt that the best frocks

in Paris are made of supple materials that lend themselves admirably to tuckings, gaugings and beautiful stitchery such as fastidious women demand.

Voiles of every make and shade have been a feature of the early spring and are still popular. For the smart street toilet Paris is still faithful to the big spots, two of her favorite mixtures being brown and gray and brown, red cream and red.

The kilted and plaited skirts are much worn in the coarser makes of voile and hopsacking. They just clear the ground at the back with that becoming tilt which is so distinctively French. In all such cases the boleros are very short and show either a wide belt of colored leather or a draped band of taffeta with a full blouse underneath.

The waist in the illustration is of china silk of two shades.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FANCY EFFECTS.

Pompadour Designs In Parasols Carriage and Evening Coats.

Pompadour designs are plainly visible in parasols. All the best have very long handles, and some of the prettiest have covers of plain pale blue silk or satin with beautifully hand painted flowers and insertion. Graduated stripes and large spots in satin on check silk ground are in favor. Sometimes these match the gown in color; sometimes they are a glaring contrast.

Carriage and evening coats and indeed dust wraps are very graceful.

FANCY WAIST AND SKIRT.

We still adhere to many characteristics of the Japanese kimono, especially where trimming is concerned. The most sumptuous carriage wraps are composed of beautiful accordion plaited chiffons, kilted gauzes and jeweled embroideries, generally showing a capuchin effect.

For hot days and less dressy occasions there are attractive little sack coats of net or lace with fichu-like drapings. The empire shape has by no means left us and is still met with in carriage wraps, tea gowns and evening frocks.

Delicately colored linens, pale blue, green or mauve, embroidered in white are charming, also a real biscuit is exceedingly dainty treated in harmony.

The waist in the cut is of fancy lace trimmed with bands of black taffeta. The skirt is of the same black taffeta.

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

"One of the hardest jobs I undertook was to win over the three ruffians whom Franklin had employed so often to our side of the case, or rather to induce them to tell the truth. I suggested to Mr. Everett that he should call upon the mayor and tell him plainly that by the action in dismissing me from the force and giving Peter's Rest immunity he had played into the hands of the real murderer of John T. Wright by preventing the arrest of three very suspicious characters who were doubtless implicated in the murder. I also suggested that he should hint to the mayor that this sort of thing if continued would not look very well when brought out in court. Mr. Everett adopted my suggestion and carried it out so well that on the day upon which this trial was begun these three men were all quietly arrested by the mayor's orders and taken to jail, where the jailer was told to place them in separate cells and allow no one to see them except such persons as he should designate. The jailer was given to understand that they were witnesses in a very important case and that it was imperative that they should not be allowed to communicate with each other. I knew that the first thing these rascals would do would be to try to send word to Franklin. Permission was secured for me to visit them, and I did so, casually as it were. I was strolling in the corridor, and each of them recognized me and called to me. Each of them separately asked me to tell Franklin of his arrest so that he could get out—for they never doubted their chief's ability to free them. They did not know what they had been arrested for. I let them infer that I would give their messages to Franklin and then left, satisfied that they had no communication with each other. The next day I returned, and again conversed with them separately. I told them that Franklin was displeased with them for some reason—in short, that he washed his hands of them entirely and said that they might get out as best they could. I told Tom and his partner that I thought the charge against them was two-fold, the attempted murder of Irving Warde, and participation in the murder of John T. Wright; and that I thought Franklin saw in their arrest a way to have his crimes shoved off on them, and that he would deny all association with them. I told the red flannel shirt man that it had been discovered that he had placed in young Wright's house the pistol with which the older Wright was killed; and that there was a strong case of circumstantial evidence against him as the suspected murderer. I told him also that Franklin washed his hands of the case, and was very well pleased to have the crime fastened on him. I even intimated that the colonel would probably be the attorney to prosecute them. I assumed considerable indignation over the way they had been treated by their associate and leader in crime, and told them that I had lost all confidence in Franklin, and would never again undertake any transaction with him. Each asked my advice as to what he should do, and I told them that the truth was not so bad as the case suspected against them; I advised them to tell the truth and in this way to get even with the man who had so shamefully deserted them. I told Old Tom and his pal that I had no idea Irving Warde would try to prosecute them if they made a clean breast of it; and I easily persuaded the other rascal that the truth was his safest course. I believe that is all of my story."

Fenton's testimony was the sensation of the trial, and it furnished for many days to come the material for instructive editorials in the press of the city. The cotton magnates looked a little foolish when they found that they had been spending their money on a detective instead of a great capitalist, but they soon put aside their crestfallen air in the admiration they felt for a man who could do such clever work as Fenton had accomplished. Some of the officers who had been unwittingly lending themselves to the concealment of a great crime kept very quiet for a while, and a timid moral lesson was drawn from the revelations concerning bossism in politics.

In the general excitement people forgot to watch the countenance of Franklin, upon which a deathly pallor had settled. But the keen eyes were full of fire. It was the supreme moment of his life when, the gaze of the court room being attracted toward him, he faced it with diabolical fury.

At this stage of the proceedings those dispassionate individuals who liked to analyze testimony expressed the opinion that while it had been well established that Franklin was a very handy, all-round scoundrel, it had not been proved that Herbert Wright was innocent of his father's murder; or rather, there were a number of apparently damning circumstances connecting Wright with the crime which had not been explained. It was true it had been shown very conclusively that Franklin had conceived a gigantic scheme of robbery with incidental murder and other crimes for the purpose of getting his hands on a great fortune. His various denials had been amply disproved, so no attempt had been made to account for the fact that Herbert Wright had pawned the evidences of his guilt the very day of his father's murder. How came he by those articles? Unless he could give a reasonable explanation of that the case against him was hardly impaired by the fact that Franklin was a villain.

Before concluding his evidence with the statement of Herbert Wright, Mr. Everett introduced a gunsmith who testified that he sold Col. Franklin such a pistol as that which was in evidence. He was then asked to compare the ball taken from Wright's brain and say whether it was the proper size, and he replied in the affirmative.

The prisoner at the bar now took the stand amid a dead silence. He was pale, but self-possessed. He spoke clearly and to the point:

"The Sioux!"

In the pioneer days of the Northwest their coming brought terror to the hearts of the settlers. We expect to bring pleasure to our readers by announcing that within a short time we shall begin the publication of a new serial story in which these red warriors figure, entitled:

"A Daughter of the Sioux"

It is a sufficient guarantee of its quality for us to say that it is written by that prince of American fiction writers,

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

The story deals with conditions in the Northwest following the days of the Custer massacre. It is full of that spirited kind of action that General King puts into his stories of the American army, and through it runs a fascinating and unusual love story. It is the best story that has been offered in newspaper form for years

BULGARIA AND TURKEY.

Arming Rapprochement the Only Hope For Macedonia.

SOFIA, June 9.—At an immense open air meeting held here Michailovski, the president of the Macedonian committee, declared that the only hope for Macedonia was a direct rapprochement between Bulgaria and Turkey. The Macedonian committee had too long been regarded by the world as the tool of Russia, who could stop the Turkish atrocities in a single day if she wished. He advised his hearers to support Bulgaria in exhausting every means for a pacific solution of the Macedonian question.

The meeting adopted resolutions in favor of an appeal to the Bulgarian government for a diplomatic solution and a recourse to arms as a last resort.

Refugees now arriving at Kostendil and Dubnitza say it is absolutely impossible for Christians to exist in Macedonia any longer.

PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME.

Oyster Bay Residents Will Celebrate His Arrival.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 9.—The board of trade is making arrangements for a reception to President Roosevelt on a grand scale when he comes to his summer home. The main feature will be the singing of patriotic songs by school children.

About 100 business men and summer residents here are members of the board. Sheriff Johnson of Nassau county has obtained from the navy department an old cannon that was used in the civil war. This is to be mounted in front of the town clerk's office, and it may be unveiled at the time of the reception.

Near the end of the month there will be a three days' celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of the village of Oyster Bay.

Hanna-McCormick Wedding.

CLEVELAND, O., June 9.—Many of those who will attend and participate in the marriage of Miss Ruth Hanna and Joseph Medill McCormick tomorrow at noon are already in the city. Last night Miss Hanna and Mr. McCormick were dined at the Union club by Mrs. L. C. Hanna, an aunt of the bride. Similar entertainments will be given today by the Hanna family and relatives. A number of beautiful presents have already been received, that of the president being an after dinner gold coffee set.

Shipyard Strike, Two Thousand Out.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The machinists in the yards of the Townsend-Downey Shipbuilding company have gone on strike and in doing so completed a general strike of the machinists in all the shipyards of the firms belonging to the New York Metal Trades association in Greater New York, New Jersey and on Staten Island. Practically all of the local shipbuilding companies are members of the Metal Trades association, and the strike involves some 2,000 machinists or more.

Vatican and Philippines.

ROME, June 9.—The reports from the Spanish friars in the Philippine Islands and from the former Spanish bishops there regarding the Philippine clergy are so unsatisfactory that the Vatican has decided not to appoint two native priests to the bishoprics of Cebu and Samar. One bishopric will be left under the present administrator, and the other candidate proposed by Archbishop Guidi will be appointed as vicar general. The action in both cases is in the nature of an experiment.

Gibbons Visits French Cruiser.

BALTIMORE, June 9.—Cardinal Gibbons, accompanied by the Rev. Father William A. Fletcher, rector of the cathedral, visited the French cruiser Tage. They were received at South street wharf by Admiral Rivet and Captain Amolot and aid and proceeded with them to aboard the cruiser. Here the cardinal was received as a prince of the church. The United States flag was displayed from the mast of the Tage, and seventeen guns were fired in his honor.

Michigan Central Seamen Strike.

DETROIT, Mich., June 9.—Seamen employed on the Michigan Central car ferries struck yesterday afternoon in order to enforce their demands for a wage increase of $20 a month. For a short time it looked as if the Michigan Central would be seriously handicapped, but within a short time the strikers were replaced by nonunion men, and the river schedule was resumed with comparatively no loss of time.

Baltimore May Want Bread.

BALTIMORE, June 9. — In consequence of the refusal of the proprietors of the large bakeries in Baltimore to grant the demands made recently by the journeymen bakers' union a general strike was begun, and it is estimated that about 212 men are idle. While the large bakeries affected were able to supply most of their customers with bread, no attempt was made to bake any cake or pastry.

Gloucester Schooner Ashore.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 9.—A dispatch received by John Pew & Sons from Grosse Isle, Magdalene island, states that the Gloucester fishing schooner Orinoco is ashore on a sand bar on the north side of Magdalene island. The schooner is in imminent danger.

Showers Arresting Forest Fires.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 9.—It is reported from Newcomb, North Creek and other places in the Adirondacks that the showers have arrested the progress of the forest fires, but that threatening smoldering embers still exist in densely wooded sections.

SPORTING NEWS.

BETWEEN THE INNINGS.

The St. Mary's team will play at Westfield July 4th in the afternoon.

An important meeting of the Association baseball league will be held at Reform Hall this evening. All the managers of the teams are urged to be present.

Hope, who occupies the box for the Alis Club, pitched last Sunday for the Brooklyn Field Club in a game of baseball against the Metropolitan team, of New York. The Brooklyns won by a score of 4 to 2 and Hope gave his opponents only two hits.

If there is any earth tremor felt on the edges of Union County next Saturday it will result from the exhuberance of rooters for the Scotch Plains and Westfield teams. For the past two seasons it has been a case of "you dare not," and "who'se afraid," between these towns and not a drop of blood in sight. The first of a three-game series will be played at Westfield Saturday and there isn't a ball crank in the county but what well knows it will be a battle first to finish.

GOLF.

There was a little change in the standing for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club, last Saturday, although T. U. Dudley, Jr., still leads with five points. Ralph W. WHIST.

The whist match for the Metropolitan challenge trophy between the Knickerbocker Whist Club, holders, and the Newark Bay Boat Club, challengers, last week, resulted in a victory for the Knickerbocker's by a final score of 12 to 9. The challengers made a good fight but were beaten out on the last four deals.

There will be a meeting of the New Jersey State Whist Association tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the rooms of the Acquackanonk Club at Passaic. The New Jersey trophy will be played for and this will be the last contest for the trophy until the annual congress next fall. There will also be a pair contest, in which the winning pairs will receive prizes.

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, who has been extended a call to the pastorate of the Crescent Avenue Church, returned to Asbury Park, yesterday, where the General Synod of the Reformed Church is in session. The fact that he was a delegate to the Synod made it easy and possible for him to visit Plainfield.

REUNION OF P.H.S. CLASS '84

SCHOOLMATES GATHER AFTER BEING APART FOR YEARS.

Fourteen Members of the Class Attend An Enjoyable Affair.

The second reunion of the class of '84 of the Plainfield High School was held last evening at the home of one of the members, Miss Ida L. Spicer in West Fifth street, a strange coincidence being that there were originally fourteen members of the class, two have since died and one member could not be present. All the others happened to be in or near Plainfield at this time. Even Prof. F. J. Miller, now professor of Latin in the Chicago University, but the teacher of the class of '84, happened to be visiting in this city.

During the evening the members sang songs from the old class books. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Alice Holmes-Faxon and Miss Isabelle Clem. There was much merriment in the reading of the class constitution and the class prophecy of each member was recalled. Perhaps, one of the more pleasant features was the exchange of experiences, for the class had not met before since January 31, 1884. The colors, pink and lavender, were in evidence through pink roses and heliotrope. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

The members present were Mrs. Alice Holmes-Faxon, of Fitchburg, Mass., Mrs. Madge Sutphen-Lockwood, of Newburg, N. Y.; Mrs. Edith Esty-Forster, of Plainfield; Miss Isabelle Clem, of Brooklyn; Miss S. Lena Bass, Miss Florence Clark, Miss Kate Hazen, Miss Carrie Hazen, Miss Ida L. Spicer, Miss Florence Stevens and William O. Hubbard, all local members of the class, and Miss E. E. Niles, teacher in the High School; Miss Bass, Mrs. William O. Hubbard, both of Plainfield, and Prof. F. J. Miller, of Chicago.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

All those who favor primary reform in this State will be glad to know that Attorney-General McCarter has been invited to defend the law passed by the late Legislature, the constitutionality of which has been attacked by the Democrats of Hoboken, and that he has accepted the invitation. It would have been unfortunate, as the News has said, if the proceedings begun in the Supreme Court by Congressman Allan L. McDermott, in an effort to break the law, should have been allowed to go by default. There appears to be some question between Mr. McDermott and Mr. McCarter as to the time when the later was requested to participate in the litigation by the former, but that is a minor consideration that may be overlooked.

It is to be regretted that the attorney-general was not sooner appraised of the fact that he would be expected to make the principal argument in favor of the law, but it is to be hoped that his lack of preparation will not necessitate long delay. If the law is upheld, there is a general desire on the part of those who believe in true primary reform to give it a full test in the fall in order that its weak points may be discovered in time for amendment by the next Legislature. It has been charged that the assailants of the law desire simply to be rid of it because it threatens machine rule. There is the same objection to the act on the part of some Republican bosses, but they have been more politic in their attitude, even if no friendlier in spirit.

The truth is that the measure was supported by both Republicans and Democrats when it was before the Legislature, and it is, in principle, in accordance with the desires of the better element of both parties. The appearance of a Democrat on one side, and a Republican on the other, in the court proceedings, is not an evidence that the law is a partisan measure or that it can be made such. Had it not been for the attitude assured by Governor Murphy, the local leaders of the Republican party would have succeeded in defeating the bill that was drafted by distinguished members of their own party, and it is to be doubted if it would have been possible to pass the measure without the help of the Democrats. The present legal contest can therefore be said to be a battle between the machine men of both parties and the opponents of ring rule in the two political organizations.—Newark Evening News.

SEMINARY GIRLS IN AMATEUR THEATRICALS

Miss Louise Saunders Scores a Hit As a Playwright at Local Institution.

A FINE PERFORMANCE

"THE GRIM TRUTH" EXCELLENT AS A CURTAIN RAISER.

Charles Reade's "Nance Oldfield" Well Received—Cast of Amateurs—Large Attendance at Delightful Affair.

Had the little farce been a familiar one and the author a familiar name in literature, the audience which listened to "The Grim Truth" at the Plainfield Seminary, last night would have been delighted, for the actors played their parts most commendably. But the fact that the "curtain raiser" was written by Miss Louise Saunders, one of the pupils of the Seminary, gave an added interest and charm to the youthful performance.

Miss Saunders, the daughter of Former Mayor and Mrs. William L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue, had prepared the farce in the course of regular study at the school when the class in English literature wove the circumstances of a true incident into a little drama, Miss Saunder's production being selected for last night's performance.

The parts of Phyllis Baugh and Charlotte Mather, medical students at Philadelphia, was admirably taken by the Misses Helen King and Helen Stevens. The loss of money from their room made them suspicious of Pearl, a colored domestic, employed by their landlady, Mrs. Nyber. Miss Janet Close acted the heavy and injured landlady to perfection and Miss Josephine LaTourette as Pearl was delightful.

The devices of the students to frighten Pearl into confession by leaving a skeleton in their room was the hinge on which the "curtain raiser" turned and made an effective "motif" for the little play, which was full of happy hits and bright allusions. As the curtain fell, the cries for the author were responded to by the announcement that the author was preparing for the next performance.

Then followed "Nance Oldfield," a comedy in one act by Charles Reade, period London, 1706. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Anne Oldfield, a famous London actress of Drury Lane Theatre, Louise Saunders; Susan Oldfield, Anne's cousin, Marion Hall; Nathan Oldworthy, an attorney from Coventry, Edith Burt; Alexander Oldworthy, his son, Margaret Mead; Robert, footman at Mrs. Oldfield's, Louise Booth.

The play was a revelation, for the author of the first piece was forgotten in the actress of the second. Was this a school girl making her debut before a large audience. The comprehension of the part, the study of situations, the ease of manner, farcial expression, mobility of tone and self-forgetfulness were beyond belief. The difficult part of lowering her art to disillusionize her lover in obedience to the father's request was most successfully done, and her capture of father and son were as sure as her capture of the audience. The characters of Nathan Oldworthy, Alexander, his son and Robert, the footman were difficult ones for school girls to take, but Miss Burt, the teacher in elocution, managed most successfully the chest tones and vehement manner of a conceited attorney and irate parent; Miss Mead, as Alexander Oldworthy, played her part well as lover and versifier and Miss Booth as Robert, the footman deserved praise.

With the curtain fall came calls for the deferred applause of the author, and Miss Saunder clad in a classic costume, with her arms full of flowers, bowed her acknowledgements. All of the performers received many gifts of flowers.

Miss Francis E. Kenyon, the instructor in literature, who trained the young women for their parts, deserves great credit for her painstaking efforts and great success. The appropriate setting for the two plays was arranged by her. The performance concluded with a dance for the young people.

—People realize that this is the time to can and preserve strawberries when they see the great display at Neuman Brothers. 12,00 quarts of berries were on display this morning and included in this are several hundred quarts of the famous Colburn berry.

WELL VARIED PROGRAMME

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY OF GRACE CHURCH ENTERTAIN.

Affair in Parish House Marks Close of Season—To Resume in Fall.

A charming entertainment given by members of the Girls' Friendly Society of Grace Episcopal Church attracted a large audience to the church parish house last evening. Musical selections, recitations and sleight-of-hand performances composed a varied programme, all the numbers being liberally applauded.

Soprano solos by Miss Katherine Glenn won for the singer many well deserved compliments, and Roxana Love performed on the piano with an expressive intonation and excellent technique. Miss Cornelia Miller's soprano solos were beautifully sung, and Miss Cornelia Hyatt's performance on the violin won for her rounds of applause. Miss Lotta Lowe gave a pleasing recitation, and Arthur Mosher and James Rankin puzzled the audience by some clever sleight-of-hand tricks. The accompanists were Mrs. W. A. Freeman, Miss Emma Hyatt and Miss Lillian Glenn. The committee in charge were the Misses Emma L. Adams, R. Richardson, Dora Bennett, Louise Egan and E. B. Little. The society will resume active work September 29.

PLAINFIELD ASKED TO AID STRICKEN PEOPLE

Kansas City Business Men Communicate With Mayor Olin L. Jenkins.

TEXT OF THE APPEAL

THOUSANDS HOMELESS IN FLOOD SWEPT DISTRICT.

Want to Rebuild Armourdale—Institutions to Which Contributions May be Sent—The Signers to the Appeal.

The Armourdale Flood Association, of Kansas City, Kansas, has communicated with Mayor Olin L. Jenkins appealing to Plainfielders for assistance in supplying the people of the flooded district with food and material and financial contributions.

This is the text of the letter received by His Honor:

"Armourdale, the South side of Kansas City, Kansas, has met with an appalling disaster. The Kaw river has overflown its banks and swept away the town. Sixteen thousand people are homeless. They have lost their furniture, clothing and everything. Their houses have been carried off or totally wrecked. The good citizens of the town have been able to care for the refugees temporarily, but the effort to keep them here and provide homes from them is a perplexing problem. To do this will overtax us and we appeal to you for help.

"Money raised from this source will be expended for their relief by giving them material to build their own houses. Three thousand families must be helped to homes in this way, so that they will be better able to help themselves, when the great rush of rebuilding the city is going on.

"Contributions should be sent at once to the Armourdale State Bank of Commerce, The Kansas State Bank or the Home State Bank. This movement is made by the Armourdale Flood Association for Rebuilding Homes, which has been organized by the business and professional men of the town."

The appeal is signed by Jacob L. Klein, postmaster, president; J. B. Hipple, publisher of the Kansas Press, and O. Q. Claflin, E. S. Merrill, Dr. C. G. Pinkard, Fred Meyn, J. P. Clark, Dr. Z. Nason, S. S. Kirby, James Lillis and W. H. McHale.

KNOCKED DOWN.

George Wyckoff Injured While Attempting to Dodge Rigs—Not Seriously Hurt.

While attempting to dodge between two rigs at the corner of Park and North avenues last evening about 6 o'clock, George Wyckoff, of Somerset street, ran into the end of a shaft and was thrown down. The shaft struck Wyckoff in the chest, inflicting a painful, though not serious injury. James Davis, manager of the Cab Company, was in charge of the rig and he was walking his horse at the time. As soon as the man fell, Mr. Davis stopped and assisted in carrying him to Armstrong's drug store, where proper treatment was given. He was then taken home by Mr. Davis.

It was between a rig owned by W. A. Coddington and the one driven by Mr. Davis that Wyckoff attempted to pass and had he but waited a second or two the affair would not have happened.

FINDS VIOLATIONS OF LAW

DEPUTY FISH AND GAME WARDEN HAWKINS HERE.

Calls Attention to Provisions of New Statute, But Makes No Arrests.

Deputy Game and Fish Warden G. M. Hawkins, of Elizabeth, was in Plainfield yesterday calling the attention of the new game and fish laws. This provides that it is unlawful at all times to use, have in possession, or offer or expose for sale, any artificial bait with more than three hooks or more than one burr of three hooks attached thereto under a penalty of $20 for each offense.

Mr. Hawkins discovered violations of this law while in Plainfield, which under ordinary circumstances would have cost the violators $2,000 in fines. No action was taken because the law is a new one and it is the purpose of Mr. Hawkins to give all a fair opportunity to become acquainted with it as soon as possible.

CHOIR BOYS' ENTERTAINMENT

HOLY CROSS LADS RAISE FUNDS FOR BASEBALL TEAM.

Excellent Programme Rendered in the Parish House—Those Taking Part.

The Choristers Baseball Club, of the Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, gave an excellent entertainment last evening in the parish house for the benefit of the team.

The well received programme opened with a selection, "Stroller," rendered by five members of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, and this was followed by "Lorain Loree," a recitation by Miss Viola Lievers. Mrs. William A. Westphal and Miss Fannie Mills sang a vocal duet, "Beautiful Moonlight." Mrs. Henry W. Ward sang a contralto solo, "When the Heart is Young" in so pleasing a manner that she was recalled for an encore. Following this "Hiawatha" was rendered in a spirited way by the orchestra. Miss Ursula Krewson recited "The Wreck of the Clara M," and this was followed by two tenor solos, "Ecstasy" and "My Sweet Repose" by J. Edmund Skiff, the church organist. As an encore to this, Mr. Skiff sang an amusing little pickaninny lullaby.

The second part of the programme opened with the rendition of the musical ballad, "We'll Have to Mortgage the Farm," given in costume by Mrs. William A. Westphal, Mrs. Irene Tillapaugh, Miss Fannie Mills and William Jeffery and Paul Whitall and this was followed by "Then and Now," a recitation by Miss Ursula Lievers. Ralph S. Lane sang Mascheroni's bass solo, "A Soldier's Song" and, as an encore, "Blue Eyes."

Concluding the programmes was the amusing one act farce, "Popping the Question," given by six of the young people. The cast of characters follows:

Miss Winterblossom, a maid well along in years, Miss Laura Woolston; Miss Biffin, in like circumstances, Miss Etta Trembley; Mr. Primrose, "the particular Mr. Primrose," Leo Kenney; Ellen Murray, Ellen Murray, his young ward, Miss Ada Westphal; Mr. Henry Thornton, a young gallant, Paul Brakeley; Bobbin, the maid, Miss Lavinia Hand.

At the conclusion of the farce, the orchestra rendered "Night Hawk March" and the evening broke up informally. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were served.

Forty dollars was netted by the affair and the money will be used for purchasing uniforms and equipment for the baseball team. The enterainment was in the sole charge of Clarence J. Hand, the manager of the team. William Westphal is captain of the team.

GIRL ATTACKED BY TWO UNKNOWN MEN

Miss Mary Woermser Scares Off Scoundrels by Yelling "Murder!"

CITIZENS GIVE CHASE

SHE IS EMPLOYED AS MAID IN HOUSEHOLD OF DR. H. H. LOWRIE.

Both Men Make Good Their Escape—Girl Is Suffering From Shock—Aged Twenty-Three Years and Handsome.

Miss Mary Woremser, a beautiful young girl was attacked on Lake street and Hillside avenue last evening at 10 o'clock by two Italians. Cries of "murder, police help" by a woman's voice just as that aristocratic neighborhood was retiring for the night arroused the people who arrived on the scene just in time to save the girl from the hand of a villian.

The girl is a maid in the household of Dr. Henry H. Lowrie, in Park avenue. She has been in the habit of sleeping in a room, fitted up for a coachman, in a barn owned by her father on Lake street near Hillside avenue. Miss Woermser has made her sleeping apartments there for sometime.

Just before retiring last evening she opened the rear door for the purpose of getting a drink of water from a pump near by. She has no sooner reached the pump when from behind the shadow of a tree a tall man, roughly dressed, stepped out and embraced her. She crouched back and uttered a scream for help. The man placed his hand over her mouth and in a deep voice with a strong accent of Italian told her if she made a noise he would strike her.

The girl struggled violently while the tall fellow assisted by a shorter man started to carry her towards the open barn door. In her frantic struggles the frightened girl managed to get his hand away from her mouth and cried out "Murder" and "Police." The men became scared when they heard the ap proaching footsteps of men and let the girl fall to the ground. They started on a run.

Mrs. Louise Miller, who lives near by, took care of the girl while twenty men, from the fashionable houses in that locality joined in a man hunt for the two villians. The search was continued until a late hour but without success.

The girl is twenty-three years of age and is strikingly handsome. Mrs Lowrie said this morning that the girl is suffering from the shock of her dreadful experience.

It was discovered that the attack has been deliberately planned as the dog was found in a stunned condition with a gag in its mouth. The animal is owned by Mr. Woermser.

P. H. S. COURSE IN ATHLETICS

PRINCIPAL TRAVELL ANNOUNCES IT AS PART OF CURRICULUM.

Requirements Outlined—Open to All Pupils, Commencing at Fall Term.

Principal Ira W. Travell of the City High School announced this morning his intention to introducing a special course in athletics at the school. This course will be started with the opening of school in the fall and will be for both the boys and girls. The plan provides for at least one hour's work in some athletic sport or exercises two days in each week.

While this will be done in time out of school, the pupils will be marked in the work and a four years' course in athletics—two hours a week afternoons for the High School course—will hereafter be considered work equivilent to a year's course in any first-class study in the school curriculum.

In order to facilitate the work as much as possible, the pupils will be divided into squads of ten or a dozen under the direction of a leader chosen by the squad. The work of the boys will probably consist of all out-door sports in their season, football, ground hockey, basket ball, skating, ice hockey, baseball, while the girls will be organized in tramping squads and basket ball teams.

WORK IN STREET DEPARTMENT

SANDFORD AVENUE AND OTHER ROADWAYS TO BE GONE OVER.

Second Street Now Receiving Attention—Other Thoroughfares to be Repaired.

Sandford avenue will soon receive the attention of Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett. For the past few months that part of the avenue which was abandoned some time ago when the new bridge was built, has fallen into disuse with the result that weeds and small bushes have grown in rank profusion. Some of the property owners along that part of the thoroughfare have made objection to the present condition.

A force of men are now at work on East and West Second street finishing the work of repairing that roadway. Considerable rolling has yet to be done and as soon as that has been finished the work will be completed. Street Commissioner Gavett has partially laid out his work for the summer. West Fourth street will receive attention as will West Fifth street. The heaviest work will be on Watchung avenue from Sixth street to Woodland avenue. All along that stretch new stone will be laid and most of the work will be in the nature of repairs.

LITTLE PEOPLE HOLD FAIR

FESTIVAL ON MR. GINNA'S LAWN FOR CHARITABLE OBJECTS.

A Number of Attractive Arrangements—$70 Was Realized—The Beneficiaries.

As the result of a most successful lawn fair given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna in Watchung avenue, by the Hearty Workers, a society composed of fourteen energetic little people, the sum of $70 was realized. According to the wish of the members the proceeds will be divided between the Tribune Fresh Air Fund and the City Union, King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountains.

The spacious lawn was an ideal spot for such an affair and the little folks took entire charge of the candy and fancy tables, the ice cream and lemonade booths and the grab-bag. The lemonade well was attractively arranged beneath a large Japanese umbrella. The candy and fancy tables were arranged on the porch, while the lawn was used for the dispensing of ice cream and lemonade. During the afternoon the fair was well patronized and everything offered for sale was disposed of.

The officers of the Hearty Workers are president, Mary Rushmore; vice president, Priscilla VanWyck; secretary, Katharine Brown; treasurer Katharine Ginna.

Dance at 'Plains.

A dance will be given by the Superior Social Club in Earle's pavilion, Scotch Plains, tomorrow evening. It is expected that there will be a large attendance from this city and Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD GIRL WEDS NEW YORKER

Miss Grace Lilian Russell Marries Harry Bennett Machen, of New York.

QUIET HOME WEDDING

REV. D. ASA BLOCKBURY, OF NEW YORK, OFFICIATES.

Miss Marjorie Dorothy Russell Acts as Bridesmaid and Charles Hudson Machen as Best Man—To Reside in New York.

Miss Grace Lilian Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ingraham Russell, and Harry Bennett Machen, of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride on South avenue, Netherwood. It was a quiet wedding, only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom being present.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the wedding march from Mendelssohn was played by Westervelt's orchestra and the bridal procession started. The path lay down the broad hall stairs, which were decorated with greens entwined into a long rope with red carnations interspersed, and into the front parlor. Rev. D. Asa Blockbury, pastor of the Church of the Strangers, New York City, standing beneath a bower of greens and red carnations, tied the nuptial knot.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie Dorothy Russell and the best man was Charles Hudson Machen, a brother of the groom, of New York. The bride wore a travelling gown of pearl gray and hat trimmed with crepon to match. The bridesmaid wore a gown of pink and carried a bouquet of roses.

After the marriage had been performed the bride and groom received their friends at a wedding supper until it was time to depart for the honeymoon which will be enjoyed at a destination which was kept a secret. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Machen will reside in New York, where the groom is engaged in business.

WATSON ARRESTED.

Audit Office Employee Is Charged With Defalcation.

ESTIMATED $60,000 TO $75,000.

Amounts Deposited For Street Improvements by Railways, Electric Light and Telephone Companies Illegally Retained.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—James M. Watson, Jr., a clerk in the office of the auditor for the District of Columbia and the son-in-law of a wealthy retired railroad contractor, has been arrested on a charge of embezzlement of government funds. The amount is estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000. The warrant makes the specific charge of embezzlement of $8,000, which represents only a portion of the alleged peculations. Watson was not bonded, and in case he or his relatives, several of whom are said to be wealthy, fail to make good the alleged losses Auditor J. T. Petty will be held responsible for the amount. The auditor's bond is for $20,000. The money alleged to have been embezzled was part of the funds deposited in the office of the auditor by property owners who are willing to pay half of all costs of improvements abutting on their property, such as paving sidewalks, alleys and streets.

This embraces deposits by railway companies, electric light companies telephone companies, for crossing sidewalks, for sewers and water mains and is entirely separate from the other accounts. This account is not subject to review by the treasury department, but it is checked by the clerk in charge of the corresponding account in the District department, and he reported it correct as late as February, 1902.

The depositors, it is said, have the right to recover from the District through suit. The auditor's office is under the supervision of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia. Auditor Petty has complete charge of the assessment and permit fund, depositing the money in a bank to his own credit. Mr. Watson, it is alleged, has been intrusted with making the deposits and has returned the pass book in apparently proper condition in each instance. He has been an employee of the District for four years, and the alleged defalcations are supposed to have occurred throughout most of this period.

The discovery of the alleged shortage was made several days ago, but was kept secret by the auditor in the hope of securing restitution. The commissioners of the District were made acquainted with the condition of affairs and at a special session demanded from Auditor Petty a formal report on the matter and an explanation of the system by which such a large sum of money would be abstracted without earlier detection. The system is said to have been inquired into ten or twelve years ago, but no changes in methods resulted. Auditor Petty said that the accounts had been manipulated in such a clever manner that he was not certain of the exact situation until yesterday.

Watson was a joint publisher of a news bulletin issued in this city. In addition to running the paper, he owned a barber shop, which he has been trying to sell recently. He was the promoter of a patent medicine concern and the treasurer of what is known as the District Co-operative association, which takes in money from employees on deposit and lends it out again. Many of the officeholders at the District buildings are depositors in the association, turning the money over entirely to Watson and getting his personal receipt in tiny books resembling bank books. Several months ago Major Sylvester, the chief of police here, investigated Watson's record, and, it is stated, he found that Watson was sent to the Reform school while in his minority on a charge of forgery.

Major Howze Goes to Manila.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Major Robert L. Howze of the Porto Rico provisional regiment has been ordered to Manila to be present during the investigation of the charges made against him of cruel treatment of Filipino prisoners. General Davis will designate the officer to conduct the investigation and also will report on the propriety of the course followed by Major Hunter, who made the charges in the matter.

No Cake or Pie In Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, June 10.—The strike of bakers' employees continues, and several bread and confectionery stores have been compelled to close. Hotels and housekeepers generally are feeling the effects of the strike, as the bread production has been much reduced, and no cakes or pastry are being baked.

Four Killed by Thunderbolt.

WOOSTER, O., June 10.—John Winkler, John Shook, S. E. Reham and Clark Fisher were killed by lightning near Sterling, Wayne county. The men were carrying a heavy timber on their shoulders when lightning struck the beam and tore it to splinters, killing the four men instantly.

June Arrested For Larceny.

BOSTON, June 10.—Peter June was arrested here charged with being a fugitive of justice from Washington. It is alleged that he is wanted for larceny from Virginia A. Barbee in Washington June 3. June denies the charge.

Miss Fletcher's Prize Essay.

CONVINCING TESTIMONY.

$1,000.00 will be forfeited to any one proving this letter not genuine.

Briggs Ave., Morris Park, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1902.

Enclosed please find bill for Washer, with cash to settle same. I can hardly express my satisfaction with the machine, and thoroughly agree with you that the first time you use it you like it, but the more you use it the better you like it. I did not believe it possiby could do what you claimed, but thought it must have some good points, or you could not venture to send one on free trial. The free trial is a splendid idea, as I never should have been induced by any amount of advertisements to invest my money to find out if it was a good machine. I stood amazed as I lifted the articles from the washer on my first trial, articles that as I put them in were so soiled that I exclaimed: "Oh, yes, they'll come out clean and white—?" But they certainly did! I have three little ones and plenty of washing, and pretty much soiled generally, but my only regret is that I did not have the washer years ago, and thus have saved myself very much. Thanking you for being the means of robbing washday of its terrors, I am,

Yours very truly, MRS. E. H. VOSE.

REMEMBER—You take absolutely no risk, incur no expense or obligation whatever. The washer is sent by us on 30 days' trial. Express to your door in Newark or suburbs, and positively without any advance or deposit of any kind.

TARIFF PROPOSALS.

Chamberlain's Proposals Attacked In Parliament.

NO CHANGE IN FREE TRADE POLICY.

Chancellor of Exchequer Repudiates Trade Scheme—Unionists Vie With Liberals In Wanting an Out and Out Free Trade.

LONDON, June 10.—All the members of the government who contributed to the debate on the colonial secretary's tariff proposals vigorously declared themselves as free traders and frankly opposed Mr. Chamberlain's proposals. Except for Mr. Chaplin, not a voice on either side of the house was raised in effective support of Mr. Chamberlain's campaign.

Former members of cabinets and private members, irrespective of party, protested against any dickering with Great Britain's fiscal policy. The Unionists vied with the Liberals in declaring themselves out and out free traders.

All that was lacking in the complete rout of the protectionist cabinet minister was Mr. Balfour's official pronouncement as premier and on behalf of the government that the cabinet as a whole refused to adopt Mr. Chamberlain's views. Both the pronouncement and the premier were absent from the debate because, according to report, Mr. Balfour was spending the evening endeavoring to persuade the colonial secretary to remain in the cabinet notwithstanding his differences with his colleagues.

The debate was adjourned amid a sensation. Chancellor of the Exchequer Ritchie said he hoped Mr. Balfour would be able to give the house today a definite statement on behalf of the entire cabinet, though he could not promise it.

Upon the resumption of the debate Mr. Chaplin's amendment to the budget bill, which is the cause of this sensational political crisis, will be taken up. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman will demand the right of the Liberals to know the premier's attitude toward free trade before they support him in the repeal of the corn tax. Mr. Balfour will reply, and Mr. Chamberlain is also expected to speak. There are many members who believe that Premier Balfour will also resign and that a dissolution of the house is involved.

The crisis will be arrived at by Mr. Chamberlain's resignation or by an open declaration that he is willing to drop for the present his preferential tariff proposals.

Mr. Chaplin's amendment was scarcely made before it became a secondary consideration. Its defeat was assured. The fight, if such an undefended struggle could be so described, raged around Mr. Chamberlain. "Oil and vitriol" is the only adequate description of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech, which started the revolt. Amid intense silence this famous Tory ex-minister extolled the colonial secretary's virtues and damned his programme. "Black Michael," as he is familiarly called, was never seen to better advantage. The ministers sat with troubled faces Mr. Balfour looking especially dejected. Mr. Chamberlain, deserting his usual place, paler even than usual, stretched himself nonchalently at the end of the treasury bench. Throughout the afternoon he never exchanged a word with his colleagues. After Mr. Ritchie had renounced the colonial secretary's ideas Mr. Chamberlain stalked out of the chamber without even a nod to Mr. Balfour.

Member after member rose from the Unionist ranks. Some who supported Mr. Chamberlain refused to "eat their words" with which they had previously supported the government when the corn tax was originally brought in; others lauded Chancellor of the Exchequer Ritchie for his refusal to pander to the spirit of protection; all demanded that Mr. Balfour enlighten them regarding the government's view as a whole. James Bryce (Liberal) said that the reference to the United States made by Mr. Chamberlain and other speakers in support of the protectionist argument was quite erroneous, as American prosperity was due greatly to the cheapness of food under a system by which free trade prevailed between all the great states composing the American nation. The colonial secretary's idea would disintegrate the empire and produce a network of protective tariffs such as that in which America was now inmeshed.

Then came another sensation when the Hon. Arthur Elliot, the financial secretary to the treasury, replying on behalf of the government to Mr. Bryce's inquiries, made a bitter attack on protectionists and preferential tariffs. He declared that the financial policy of the government was clearly exhibited by its decision to revoke the corn tax, which savored of protection. "I ask the house seriously to consider what this country has to gain by giving up its position of being a country of cheap imports," said the speaker. "I am sure that the more the people inquire into the subject the more they will find it is essential to the prosperity of the country that this country should remain a cheap country and the more they will be convinced that the basis on which our financial and commercial system has been conducted since the days of Sir Robert Peel should not lightly be dismissed as of no account."

This direct attack on Mr. Chamberlain by a member of the government who, it is believed, must have spoken with authority elicited loud cheers and is considered even more important than Mr. Ritchie's denunciation as indicating that the majority in the cabinet is overwhelmingly opposed to any system of preferential trade.

From "the pump" comes the tidings that W. Stephen Devery is a candidate for mayor of New York. In his polished English, Big Bill says that 50,000 citizens are eager to sign a petition for him to run. Off hand, it might be added that that there are 50,001, who will be eager to keep him on the run.

A New York political daily mentions Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, of Somerset County, for Governor, while a Somerville paper introduces the name of Frank W. Somers, Somerset's county clerk, for the same exhalted office. Very good; but on what ground does Somerset County base any claim to recognition?

The efforts of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to raise funds for a memorial tablet at Washington Rock should receive substantial support. Telephone Monopoly.

Editor Daily Press:

Mr. Kinsman's letter, published in your paper Monday, asking the Common Council to grant the franchise for cheaper telephone service, should be generally read and endorsed. More than half our citizens can not pay the present rates. A new company offers to give them what they want at rates which they can pay. Why should permission be refused? It is very easy to provide against the new rates ever being increased.

It is objected that it will "disturb our streets." Every new building does the same. Even New York City is disturbing its busiest streets for rapid transit and for tunnel or bridge approaches. Every improvement or useful invention disturbs something for the moment. Objection on such grounds is a stock argument of monopolies.

One man argues that "the telephone is a luxury." If so, to limit it is class legislation. But, no! It is a necessity of modern civilization. To have it at a fair price, as our Western towns pay, is our natural right.

Let our people clearly express their desire, and they can obtain it. I believe that the majority of our Common Council is actuated by the spirit of that glorious original charter of West Jersey, which declared it to be a fundamental right of the people that every legislator could be questioned in his seat by any of his electors—and also that he should be allowed one shilling per day of sitting, "that thereby he may be known to be the servant of the people."

The last two games of ball played on the local diamond were not supported as well as they should have been. Both were good games and should have been well supported by the lovers of the National game. Manager Johnston has an aggregation of ball players gathered together that can demand a good guarantee in games played away from home. The management desires to have the team play as many games as possible on the home diamond but do not intend to stand much loss in a financial way. The two games to be played away from home the coming two weeks may be the means of awaking the supporters so that when the teams lines up on home ground again on June 27 there will be a record breaking attendance.

OBSERVES ITS ANNIVERSARY

THE EAST NEW JERSEY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Interesting Programme Incident to Session—Organization Sixty-two Years Old.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Perth Amboy, June 10—The sixty-second anniversary of the East New Jersey Baptist Association was observed yesterday with the First Baptist Church of this place. There was a large representation of Baptists from the Eastern part of the State and the sessions were of interest and helpful. The morning session opened at 10 o'clock with devotional services led by John A. Searles, of Stelton, followed with an address of welcome by Rev. Percy R. Ferris, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The response was by the moderator pro tem.

After the transaction of routine business the associational sermon, "Perceiving the Plan of the Ages," was given by Rev. W. G. Fennell, of Newark. The morning session was concluded with the appointment of committees and an address, "The Christian Warrior's Weapon," by Rev. Addison Moore.

After lunch was served, Rev. T. E. Vassar, Jr., of Elizabeth, opened the afternoon session with devotional exercises. An address, "Does the Church Need a Revival," by Rev. J. V. Elson, preceded a paper on "Unification of Church Work," by Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, Ph. D., of Elizabeth. There was another address, "Pastoral Evangelism," by Rev. W. A. Spinney, followed by a general discussion of the topic. Miscellaneous business, including the report of committees, closed this session.

A praise service, led by Henry A. Dunn, in the evening preceded the transaction of unfinished business and an address, "Our Perils and Our Possibilities," by Rev. C. J. Greenwood, of Westfield. Another address on the subject of "Apostolicity," was given by Rev. Dr. T. B. Thames, after which the convention closed.

Colored Folks Wed.

The wedding of Miss Anna Jackson, daughter of Simon Jackson, of Plainfield avenue, to Daniel Scott, took place last evening at the home of the bride in Plainfield avenue. The wedding was a quiet affair there being only a few friends present. The knot was tied by the pastor of the bride, Rev. Scott Wallace. Miss Mary Etta Brooks was the bridemaid and Tipton Goldstone was the best man. After a supper was served the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Atlantic City.

S. H. Allen, of the Public Library, accompanied by his mother, left today for Dyerstown, Pa., for a two weeks stay.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, were among the Plainfielders who attended the sessions of the General Synod of the Reformed Church, held at Asbury Park, Monday and Tuesday of this week.

It Is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.

TO JOHN O'CONNER.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Catharine D. Woodruff is complainant, and Mathias Silos, et al, (including yourself), are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainant's bill on or before the Eleventh day of July next, or in default thereof such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

How to Widen Revers—Medallion Trimmings and Fringe.

Revers, collars and stole pieces of coats and wraps may be widened admirably by ruched chiffon frills and a border of contrasting lace, black on white or ecru on white and cream or ecru on black. The contrasting lace is placed at the edge, and the frills fall from this.

The plain sailor hat is being revived, and nothing can be smarter, provided always that it is becoming. For those who wish a plain hat and cannot wear the stiff brim, the French sailor, with its jauntily rolled brim, is suitable and smart.

Some of the two and a half inch or three inch black insertions can be put into admirable medallions with only trifling waste. Another plan is to trim them with strappings of the silk piped with velvet or outlined with baby velvet and the pointed ends finished with tassels. An old fashioned fringe in jet or silk makes good tassels under a medallion of lace or jetted passementerie, and a waved trimming is also effective with tassels at the points.

Blouses or slips of plain silk or satin soon lose their freshness, but if covered with ficelle lace they acquire a new lease of life.

The cut shows a pretty bridesmaid's frock trimmed with bands of lace.

Tuscan Straws For Practical Purposes—A Great Deal of Red Used.

Tuscan straws for practical purposes still continue the rage. Some of the French sailors are bound with green and trimmed with fruit or flowers and a simple bow to form the bandeau of green velvet ribbon. These are worn tilted to one side, with a small sugar loaf crown.

A great deal of red is used, and white straw spotted with red is pretty with a red gown. White spotted with black, navy blue with white and tan and black are favorite mixtures, but the better style of hats, such as the picture shapes, are chiefly kept to one color, all black bravely holding its own, all white, all red and various shades of green also being in demand.

There is a new pale shade of apple green which is wonderfully becoming in millinery. A mixture of parma violet and pale green is always artistic.

Some of the French hats in rough straws are simply trimmed with wreaths of foliage.

For embroidery on linen a special cotton is sold in skeins, the same as is used for the popular white muslin cushion covers. The work, indeed, throughout strongly resembles that Swiss fancy, though it is more generally declared Irish embroidery when applied to linen. The chief motifs are carried out in a long, close stitch, which is repeated at the back with a little swiss openwork to lighten the effect. Sometimes the embroidery is arranged in stripes, alternating with lines of drawn thread work.

The hat in the picture is of yellow straw trimmed with black and yellow daisies.

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

On the day before my father was killed I called upon him for help. My wife and child were in an almost starving condition, and I could not get employment. It was a hard wrench to my pride to beg from him, but I did so, and—was roughly repulsed. The following day I had been to town to make another attempt to get work and had failed. Uncle Dick Norris had always been very friendly to me, so in my extremity I concluded to go to him and see if he could not let me have a bit of bread and some game, of which he usually had a supply in the house. On the way back I was cold, hungry, cynical and desperate. It seemed to me that the whole world was against me, that such a thing as a kindly heart did not exist, and that the bad and the unjust only managed to thrive. My father's strict orders prevented my mother and sister from doing anything for me and mine. An idea formed itself dimly in my mind that I was an Ismael, and that henceforth my hand should be lifted against every other man. I was half delirious with hunger and cold. The snow whipped me cruelly in the face as I plowed along. I was friendless and miserable, and haunted by visions of a pale wife and a starving child at my cheerless home.

"WE SILENTLY FACED EACH OTHER LIKE TWO MEN WHO HAD AGREED ON A DUEL TO THE DEATH."

"So absorbed was I in these miserable reflections that I did not see a figure approaching through the thickening snowflakes and the darkened woods. Evidently the person did not see me, either, until we suddenly confronted each other. He was a large man in a heavy overcoat, and he was muffled up about the face so that it was impossible to tell who he was. I had the sensation of a man who unexpectedly meets a wild animal in a jungle. Two eyes of deep and murderous malignity were fixed upon me. In his hand was a heavy stick which he held as if he intended to make an attack. I have no doubt that Franklin—for it was he—was even more startled at my appearance than I was at his. In the light of subsequent discoveries I am satisfied that having committed the crime of murder, he was terribly excited to run thus unexpectedly against the son of the man whom he had just killed. Whatever his thoughts were, it was my impression at the time that the person before me wanted to kill me, and I fancied that he was about to make the assault—for the light of murder still lingered in his face. He must have had a somewhat similar feeling about me; for we silently faced each other like two men, who had agreed on a duel to the death. I was not much troubled by the prospect of danger, for I had long since lost the feeling of physical fear. I had a stout cudgel in my hand and I was desperate anyhow. This condition of mind gave me strength and agility. I did not wait for an attack, but rushed at once upon him. My decision had been prompter than his, for he was unquestionably unnerved. My first blow landed fairly on his head, and, to my astonishment, the tall and vigorous looking stranger lay senseless at my feet. Further blows were unnecessary. As he fell something dropped from one of his overcoat pockets. I picked it up and found it to be a watch. This put an idea into my head—put it there strongly, burningly, and when I discovered who it was that I had knocked down, I did not stop to debate against the thought. I had always regarded Col. Franklin as an enemy of the family rather than a friend. I had been satisfied for some time that he grew rich off my father's unfortunate crime, and that it was he who kept alive my father's resentment against me. I cannot say that I reasoned all this out at that time, but I felt that I had felled an enemy and somehow I was entitled to the spoils. In plain English, I determined to rob the man whom I had thus vanquished. In one of his overcoat pockets I found a knife and the cuff buttons which have since been identified as my father's; in his vest pocket was the watch which has here been identified as Franklin's: and in his shirt bosom was the diamond pin which has figured in this case. These articles I quickly appropriated. A pair of handsome sleeve buttons which he wore attracted my attention, but they were fastened so firmly in as to resist my hurried efforts, so I tore the cuffs promptly from the shirt. I noticed that they had dark spots on them, which afterward proved to be blood. In one of the overcoat pockets I found a pistol, but I decided not to take it. It was just about such a weapon as that displayed here, but I would not like to swear it was the same. He also had a heavy stick, which being useless to me I did not take. Having secured all the valuables on his person, and satisfying myself he would soon come to consciousness, I hurried back to town to pawn the articles I had obtained. This I did, never stopping to think of the danger to myself afterward, and then hastened homeward over the short path. That evening we had something of a feast at home, I having made up a yarn to my wife to account for the food I bought. I have here the blood-stained cuffs with the buttons in them, which I did not pawn. You will see that Col. Franklin's initials are written on the linen in India ink."

"The Sioux!"

In the pioneer days of the Northwest their coming brought terror to the hearts of the settlers. We expect to bring pleasure to our readers by announcing that within a short time we shall begin the publication of a new serial story in which these red warriors figure, entitled:

"A Daughter of the Sioux"

It is a sufficient guarantee of its quality for us to say that it is written by that prince of American fiction writers,

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

The story deals with conditions in the Northwest following the days of the Custer massacre. It is full of that spirited kind of action that General King puts into his stories of the American army, and through it runs a fascinating and unusual love story. It is the best story that has been offered in newspaper form for years

Cup Yachts Again Fog Bound.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Fog again prevented a race between the three rivals for selection as cup defender. At the hour set for the start a thick bank of fog overhung Sandy Hook. It was clear within the Hook when the Constitution left for the starting line. The Reliance and Columbia followed, all three boats in tow. Carrying only mainsails and club topsails in a twelve knot wind, they sailed too fast for their tugs to keep ahead of them and had to ease off their sheets to keep the towlines taut. The Reliance and Columbia were two miles from the starting line when the fog shut down, and they returned to the Hook, followed later by the Constitution. The yachts will race today, weather permitting, under the auspices of the Atlantic Yacht club.

SPORTING NEWS.

AT THE BAT.

The Potter A. C. Seconds will play the Metuchen A. C. Saturday afternoon on the Potter's grounds.

Manager Conover of the Invincible Athletic Club nine would like to arrange games with junior teams in or near the city.

The Invincible Terrors defeated the Franklin Terrors yesterday by a score of 4 to 3. It was an exciting game. The batteries: Terrors—Mallinson and VanWinckle; Franklin Terrors—Randolph and Leon.

The Invincible Athletic Club defeated the Vine Street Juniors yesterday afternoon on Fairview avenue by a score of 13 to 6. The batteries were Conover and Webster for the Invincibles, and Schuck and Dresselt for the Vine Street Juniors.

Two victories have been added to the list of the Invincibles of the borough. In the game with the Park A. C., they came out victorious by a score of 15 to 8 and in a game with the Warrens, of the borough, yesterday, the score was 13 to 6.

Changes were made in the Association League schedule at the meeting last evening, which will give each team three games on the home field during the season. Aside from appointing umpires for Saturday's game and transacting other routine business, nothing of importance was done.

Without exception the diamond at Crescent Oval is the fastest of any of the local baseball fields in the city. The outfield is not quite so good, but it will be improved on from time to time. The location of the grandstand on the Oval is a strong attraction as spectators can get an unobstructed view of the entire field.

Robert Scott will play with the Reform Club for the first time Saturday and Joseph Farley will play with the Orange Field Club. They will play catcher and short stop, respectively. Mitchell will be the umpire for the Cuban Giants-Orange Field Club game, and C. Scott will umpire the Reform-Clinton Avenue game, Saturday.

Now that the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League has decided to return to amateur lines, better games in some respects may be looked for. At any rate the teams will be more evenly matched and more interest is sure to result. With semi-professionalism creeping into the league no one could tell where this thing would stop as one team would continually be trying to get better players than the other.

There is little likelihood of the Alis Club team being changed again for the present, with the exception of short-stop. The fans are well pleased with the team and believe that it will be a winner. Great things are expected when Westfield and Scotch Plains visit Crescent Oval and if Alis is not victorious it will be a disappointment to many. With a very few exceptions every member of the team is a hard hitter and good stick work counts these days.

TENNIS.

The boys' tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A. will start tomorrow afternoon on the home court. The interest in the game this year has been greater than last and some fine games are promised.

CITY LEAGUE MAY DISBAND

ACTION TAKEN BY ST. MARY'S AND HOPE TEAMS.

No Definite Decision by Hope Y. M. A.—St. Mary's Unsettled on the Question.

St. Mary's baseball team decided last night to remain in the league until the twentieth of the month and in the meantime an effort will be made to get amateur players to finish out the season.

In the event that no players can be secured the team will probably withdraw from the league and will keep the players and continue to play the rest of the summer with such teams as a schedule can be arranged with.

A resolution to withdraw from the Plainfield Amateur Baseblal League was introduced by G. E. Firstbrook, last evening, at a meeting of the Hope Chapel Y. M. A., and raised a storm of discussion. The meeting was for the purpose of taking action on the new rule prohibiting professionals and non-resident players from participating in the league games. The matter was finally laid upon the table until the meeting next Tuesday.

ORDER FOR RIFLE PRACTICE ISSUED

Instructions for Guardsmen Are Made Known by the Major-General.

PRACTICE AT SEA GIRT

OFFICERS DETAILED AS ASSISTANTS AT THE CAMP.

Range Open Until September—Transportation to be Issued—Officers to Qualify With Revolver—Text of Orders.

Orders for rifle practice for the National Guard at Sea Girt this summer have just been issued by Major General Wanser. The first order, containing instructions for the guardsmen, is as follows:

"1. Upon the recommendation of the inspector general of rifle practice, the following instructions for target practice for the season of 1903 will be complied with:

"2. The range will be open until September 30, for target practice of the National Guard.

"3. Commanding officers of regiments, separate companies and naval reserve will apply to Brigadier General Bird W. Spencer, inspector of rifle practice, before June 1, for assignment of dates for the practice of their respective organizations, and no practice will be permitted except on the dates so assigned, except by special permission of the inspector general of rifle practice.

"4. Transportation will be issued on application to the inspector general of rifle practice to the extent that the appropriation will permit.

"5. The inspector general of rifle practice may assign dates, during the period named in paragraph 2, on which all officers and men will be permitted practice at their own expense. On arriving at Sea Girt they will report to the officer in command of the range and be subject to his orders until excused or dismissed.

"6. Ammunition will be issued by the quartermaster general upon the requisition of the inspector general of rifle practice.

"7. Officers will be given an opportunity to qualify with the revolver at times, when their services are not required to command and instruct their men.

"8. Particular attention is hereby called, and all are specially enjoined, to familarize themselves with the new code for target practice issued in general orders No. 5, office adjutant general, Trenton, April 8, 1903."

The second order contains the names of officers detailed to rifle practice, and is as follows:

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Regarding South Jersey's claim for recognition in the next Gubernatorial convention the Newark Daily Advertiser says: "It is contended by certain South Jersey politicians and newspapers that a candidate for Governor must be selected in South Jersey, irrespective of his qualifications, or of those of eligible men in East and North Jersey." South Jersey does not contend any such nonsense. It does claim the nomination for Governor, and it presents the name of Hon. Edward C. Stokes, the peer in very respect of any man mentioned in East or North Jersey.—Mount Holly News.

MOTORMAN MET SUDDEN DEATH

Car Jumped Track at Elizabeth Last Night and Crushed James Christie Beneath It.

SOME OTHERS INJURED

All the Victims From This City—Car Was Rounding Curve at a High Rate of Speed Bound for Plainfield—Second Accident of Kind.

Killed.

JAMES CHRISTIE, motorman, Plainfield.

Injured.

JOSEPH DURYEE, conductor, Plainfield, severely bruised; injuries not serious.

MRS. FREDERICK SKILLMAN, Stebbins place, Plainfield; severely bruised.

MRS. FREDERICK LEWIS, daughter of Mrs. Skillman, also of Stebbins place, severely bruised.

Other passengers shaken up, but not seriously hurt.

Motorman James Christie, of this city was killed and several others injured in a street railway wreck on West Jersey avenue, Elizabeth, at 12 o'clock last night. Christie's back was broken and he was instantly killed. The car, going at a high rate of speed, left the track in rounding a sharp curve, struck a telephone pole and threw Christie to one side and under the car.

It was the second accident of the kind within a short time on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway, happening at about 12 o'clock last night soon after open car No. 80, of that line had left Elizabeth on its last run to Plainfield. The car was in charge of Motorman James Christie and Conductor Joseph Duryee, both of Plainfield. Christie was killed, while Duryee received several cuts and bruises. He will be able to return to work today. Other Plainfielders injured were Mrs. Frederick Skillman and her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Lewis, both of Stebbins place. Their injuries consist of cuts and bruises, but their condition is not serious. In all there were about thirty passengers on the car, but none were seriously injured. Most of them lived between Elizabeth and Westfield.

The accident occurred on West Jersey avenue at the corner of Linden avenue, Elizabeth. The cars have a short sharp decline on West Jersey avenue and at the foot of the avenue there is a short curve. It was at this point that the car jumped the track and ran at full speed into a trolley pole. The car was partially overturned and the motorman was unable to jump quick enough to avoid being killed. He was caught between the front of the car and the pole and death was almost instant. Christie's body was taken to the Elizabeth Hospital. It will be removed to Plainfield today.

When the car jumped the track there was wild confusion and the passengers were panic-stricken, several women becoming hysterical. All the nearby physicians were telephoned for and arrived within a short time, while the trolley company employes from Westfield were hastily taken to the scene of the wreck to render assistance. Shortly after 1 o'clock Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Skillman were brought to their home. The other passengers were also taken to their various homes and placed under the care of physicians.

Christie, the dead motorman, is a Scotchman by birth, having come to this country two months ago. In Scotland he ran a tramway car. Soon after coming to Plainfield he secured employment with Wm. Lindsay & Son, dairymen of Mountain avenue, and later got the job of motorman. His relatives all live in Scotland. They were notified today.

Duryee, the conductor, has been employed on the trolley road about six months. He came from Newark, where he had experience as a conductor on the lines in that city. He is married and has two children His home is in North avenue.

When an official of the company at Westfield was asked this morning as to the blame for the accident, he said that that had not yet been fixed.

—Miss Johnson has resigned her position as clerk at the Park Avenue Hotel.

Gowns of Bride and Bridesmaid—A Musical Programme at the Reception—Couple to Reside in New York.

Miss Estelle Fulton, daughter of Le Grand Fulton, and James W. Price, of Elizabeth, were married at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's father, LeGrand Fulton, in Grant avenue. There were present about one hundred and fifty guests from New York, Newark, Montclair, Bound Brook and Plainfield. The parlor, where the ceremony took place, was tastefully adorned with flowers and palms.

The wedding march was played by Miss Hazel Fulson, of Newark, cousin of the bride, and as the bridal party entered the parlor they were met by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, formerly the bride's pastor at the Monroe Avenue Church, but now of Jersey City, who performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white moire velour, with pearl trimmings, and she was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Fulton, as bridesmaid, who was gowned in white organdie over Liberty silk, trimmed with lace. Both the bride and her attendant carried handsome silk fans. GREAT SPRINTING.

Patrolman Outclasses Vagrant Who Describes the Dash in Police Court.

Richard Dunn, caught begging last evening, led Patrolman McCarthy a merry chase up East Second street before he was finally landed. He secured a good start on the detective, and for about fifty yards "legged it" at a pace that would have been good for a medal in a championship meet. The patrolman was right in at the finish, however, and as a result Mr. Dunn had a chance to tell the city court all about it this morning, answering to a charge of vagrancy. He said Elizabeth has the honor of his citizenship, and Judge Runyon told him to make tracks for that place immediately.

The case against Patrick Guinee, charged with having used indecent language, was adjourned to Tuesday at 9 o'clock.

At Commencement.

Among the Plainfielders spending a short time at Princeton during the closing days of the college year are Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. J. FREEHOLDERS PAY SHERIFF'S BILL

Mr. Coriell Wins in His Fight With Union County Board of Freeholders.

LEGAL BATTLE AVOIDED

SHERIFF MAKES AN AGREEMENT WITH THE BOARD.

Bill Amounted to $1,304—Had Been Paying Bills Out of His Own Pocket—Particulars of the Agreement Made.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 11—Sheriff Coriell's bill of $1,304 for expenses in the maintainance of the County Jail, which has been held up for the past six months, was ordered paid at the meeting of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders yesterday afternoon. Since the sheriff has been in office he has been running the institution from his own private funds. The bill he sent to the Freeholders was considered excessive. The matter has been brought up on several occasions before the Board and the payment had been put off. Sheriff Coriell finally threatened to sue for the amount.

The payment of the bill gives him a trifle over $300 for his own fees. It allows him thirty-two and one-half cents per day for prisoners. In addition the appropriation also pays for the warden's and matron's salaries. The care of the various offices in the jail building is likewise included. These are the terms of the arrangements signed by the Sheriff with the Board of Freeholders yesterday. In the future according to the agreement, Sheriff Coriell will be allowed thirty-two and one-half cents for maintenance when there are fifty or more prisoners in his keeping and thirty-five cents when there are less than fifty prisoners.

Mr. Bowers states that the lad came to the farm of a man named Nichwitz Tuesday night, with a story that his mother and father were dead, and that he lived in Philadelphia. The overseer of the poor took charge of him until his parents discovered him, taking him home yesterday.

Parties have been scouring the woods of Watchung Mountain for the boy ever since June 2. When he left home young Jankowski told his parents that he was going to school.

SUCCESSFUL CHURCH FAIR

THE NETHERWOOD EPISCOPALIANS IN PLEASANT AFFAIR.

Music, Fancy Articles and Edibles—A Mystery Table—The Patronesses.

One of the most successful church events of the season was the fair last evening at St. Stephen's Church rectory, Netherwood. The sale was planned by the rector, Rev. William Vincent Dawson, to whose able leadership the church owes much of its present prosperity. The fair opened at 4 o'clock and continued until 10, the rooms being crowded continually by those eager to purchase the pretty articles and attractive edibles that filled the tables.

The rooms presented a charming picture, with all the tables tastefully decorated. One of the best attended of these was the mystery table presided over by Mrs. Peterkin, assisted by Miss Pauline Buckley. The cake table with the Misses Blanche Miller and Harriett Knox in charge was another that attracted frequent visitors. The Misses Clara Davidson and Laura Christiansen, at the fancy table, and Mesdames Ralph Davidson and DuPuy, at the ice cream and berry table, found ready purchasers.

A feature of the entertainment was the rendition of Chopin's difficult Ario fantasia, fifth sonata, by Miss Pauline Buckley. Miss Maud Lord was chairman of the music committee. The patronesses were Mesdames Platt, Buckley, Davidson, Bearl and Knox, and the Misses Clark, Walsh and Willis. The affair netted extremely handsome financial returns.

INFRINGEMENT.

Campbell Printing Press Company Files Bill of Complaint in U. S. District Court.

The Campbell Printing Press Manufacturing Company has filed a bill of complaint in the United States District Court against the F. Wesel Manufacturing Company, of New York, claiming the infringement of its patent rights on a certain stereotype printing plate casting and finishing apparatus. The Campbell Company alleges that the Wesel Company has profited to the extent of $150,000 by the alleged infringement.

Road Improvement.

The New Jersey Central is soon to erect a switch tower near what was formerly the Church street crossing, ana at this point all switches in that vicinity will be operated from the tower instead of using the small switch device which has been the rule for years. The increasing business on the road has necessitated the improvement.

CROWNED HEADS ASSASSINATED

King Alexander and Queen Draga Killed in Royal Palace of Servia.

ARMY'S HORRIBLE DEED

Peter Karageorgevitch Proclaimed King—Ministry Murdered—Commander of the Royal Palace Guards and Two Personal Aids Slaughtered.

King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia were assassinated at 1 o'clock this morning in the Royal Palace at Belgrade. Peter Karageorgevitch, leader of the army, has been proclaimed King by the army.

Premier Marvrics and his wife, the commander of the Palace Guard and two of the King's personal guards were cut down while defending the King and Queen. The army was responsible for the murders. Every member of the ministry has been murdered and the soldiery are looting the homes of the dead.

The coup d'etat was planned for midnight and on the stroke of the hour the troops surrounded the Royal Palace, overpowered the guards and rushed into the royal chamber. King Alexander, who is an expert swordsman, fought off his assassins for a time with the aid of his guards. Queen Draga ran screaming from the room and was shot down on the threshold. Directly afterwards the King fell pierced by a fusillade of bullets. An heroic defense was made at the foot of the grand staircase leading to the royal apartments. Lieut. Lunjevitza, brother of Queen Draga and heir to the throne, was the spirit of the defense and when he was shot all the defenders fled, most of them being shot while flying for their lives.

The troops are in command of the palace; the streets, fortifications and populace are completely under their control. Dissatisfaction on the part of the army for lack of pay and the unpopularity of the King and heir-apparent are given as reasons for the massacre. The intrigues of Queen Draga are also given as a cause.

MR. BALL'S FUNERAL.

Services Held at Home Here and Interment in Buffalo.

The last rites for A. M. Ball, who died Monday, were performed at his late residence, 1 Myrtle avenue, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational Church, spoke briefly in fitting praise of the character and life of the dead man. Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" was sung by Charles L. Lewis. The burial took place at Buffalo, N. Y.

Changes at Station.

Several changes went into effect at the North Avenue station ticket offices yesterday. Edward Tomlinson, who has been one of the day agents, has resigned to accept a clerical position with the U. S. Express Company, and Joseph Berg, who has been night agent at the east-bound station, takes Mr. Tomlinson's place. John Whitenack, of Craig place, has taken Mr. Berg's place as night agent.

Gets Damages.

The claim of Miss Elizabeth Cutter, of 69 Sandford avenue, against the New Jersey Central for damages resulting from injuries received in the Westfield disaster, has been settled. Reed & Coddington were counsel for Miss Cutter, while Lawyer Conover represented the road's interests.

Miss May Yale, an actress, who is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Schorb, of East Front street, has signed a forty-two weeks' contract to play a soubrette part in Edgar Selden's musical farce comedy, "Peck and His Mother-in-Law." Her season begins in the latter part of August.

Likes Sewage System.

Albert Winter, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, was the guest of Chief T. O. Doane yesterday. He came to Plainfield to inspect the sewage beds in the interest of Nova Scotia parties, and in his opinion the system was the best he had ever seen.

Tug-of-War.

John Long, the captain of the Plainfiled Giants team of tug-of-war men, has arranged with the management of Riverside Park to have a match there on Saturday afternoon. The opposing team will be the St. Agnes Academy.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Sheriff Carman, of Middlesex County, has notified the Board of Freeholders of that county that the jail must be repaired as he "does not feel safe in his apartments in the jail building." No wonder the Sheriff feels insecure. Prisoners break out of the coop every now and then and not long ago a man was actually arrested for breaking into the building. He calls the place a "box." From the flimsy constructions of the cage it might properly be called a band box.

Gov. Murphy has received a reproduction of the great seal of New Jersey showing the coloring used in Colonial days, and determining with exactness the real "Jersey Blue." Done in water color, this model will be used for all future illustrations.

Pending a decision as to what is the proper seal of the prerogative court of New Jersey, that court is using a seal which is and for many years has been entirely illegible. An old seal was discovered with the inscription, "The earth is the Lord's, and the evenness thereof." Chancellor Magie has been searching for more than a year to determine how the word "evenness' was substituted for "fullness." He has consulted scholars of this country and England, and has been advised that there is some authority for the use of "evenness" in the translation of the original Hebrew.

THEATRICAL.

Not less than 500 persons will be engaged in the Manhattan Beach production of Pain's "Last Days of Pompeii," beginning June 24. One of the many new features will be a fire dance in which a score of Greek slave girls appear to dance upon a perfect sea of fire. The company's experts spent a good deal of time perfecting the illusion and they promise a sensation in realism.

"The Song of the Cities" in "The Prince of Pilsen," Henry W. Savage's musical comedy, at the Broadway Theatre, Monday, is the talk of New York. The song and dance that is presented by eight pretty young women dressed to represent as many of the leading cities of the United States is attracting as much attention for originality as did the Florodora sextette.

George Mead, of Somerset street, attended the strawberry festival at the New Dover M. E. Church, Tuesday evening, and had a beautiful time until he discovered that someone had surreptitiously confiscated his bicycle lantern. His efforts to avoid falling into the clutches of the law for violating the bicycle ordinance, while riding home, were a source of pleasure to his friends and much worriment to the victim.

The 150th performance of the "The Earl of Pawtucket" at the Manhattan Theatre, will be celebrated on June 22. It is hoped that Augustus Thomas, the author of the play, who is now in Europe, will be present on that occasion, as the Missouri Society, of which he is a member, will attend in a body, while the St. George Society, of which Lawrance D'Orsey, the star, is a member, will also be represented by a large delegation. It is the first time in a decade that a play of this character has shown such amazing popularity long after the close of the regular theatre season and in summer weather.

When the "Wizard of Oz" was projected for the annual summer production at the Grand Opera House in Chicago, Julian Mitchell wired to Fred Hamlin that there was but one man on the stage today receptive of the opportunities in Baum's creation of the Scarecrow. A cablegram to Liverpool resulted in the engagement of Montgomery and Stone for "The Wizard of Oz." Chicago's play going population indorsed Mr. Mitchell's judgment in selecting Fred Stone for a part that might have been hopeless in the hands of anybody but a real comedian, pantomimist, dancer and acrobat. Old timers with long memories say that Stone is the legitimate successor of the late George L. Fox. "The Wizard of Oz" is now running at the Majestic Theatre. Go and see it.

—The Independent Shooting Club will open its grounds on Maple avenue Sunday, for the summer months.

—The Japanese tea of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be held on Saturday, June 20, from 4 to 11 p. m., at the club house. Refreshments and musical entertainment will be given, both afternoon and evening. The only things saleable will be home-made cake and Japanese fans.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

New Jersey has too many laws and it is the ambition of nearly all legislators to add something to the scrap heap. A commission consisting of half a dozen newspaper men, and one good judge, could boil down the whole collection and clear away hundreds of pages of unnecessary statutes, superfluous nonsense and crudely-drawn acts. As it is now every legislature goes to work like a gang of laborers trying to build a hill, and careless of the material used so long as the desired bulk is attained. — Newark Truth.

A GREAT TRUTH.

How It Has Spread From Home to Home in Plainfield.

In every part of Plainfield; in the homes of the wealthy, in the humble abode of the man of toil; 'tis now a well-known fact—a great truth—that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought more comfort to backache sufferers and cured more sick kidneys than any medicine of modern times.

Mr. Jos. VanArsdale, carpenter and contractor, living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Three Favorites Won.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Mud runners were again in evidence at Gravesend, and the public had a profitable afternoon, as three favorites, two second choices and a long shot divided the money. The Clover stakes for two-year-olds, the feature event on the card, was won by the added starter Contentious. The Walden filly broke in front and, making all the pace, won handily by one and a half lengths, with Beldame, who was played down from 5 to 1 to 5 to 2, favorite, second, half a length in front of Mordella.

Dick Bernard Won Graduate.

CHICAGO, June 11.—E. E. Smathers colt Dick Bernard, at 13 to 5, won the Graduate stakes for two-year-olds at Harlem in 1:02 2-5, with Tryon second and Patsy Brown third. Allan-a-Dale, winner of the Kentucky Derby last year, was made the medium of a killing in the second race. He was backed from 6 to 1 to 4 to 1 and then won as he pleased from Toah and Golden Rule.

Silk Cord Made a Game Finish.

DETROIT, Mich., June 11.—One of the gamest finishes ever seen on a race track was at Grosse Pointe in the Press stakes. E. Corrigan's Sardine was favorite and took the lead in the stretch. Silk Cord, almost left at the post, came through and only lost by a neck. Kilmorie, winner of the last race, was bid up $605 and retained by his owner.

Frank Bell Beats Elastic.

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—The fair ground track was fast. Frank Bell, at the odds of 8 to 1, won the feature, a six furlong handicap, from Elastic, the favorite, who when the pinch came was unable to catch Bell, the latter winning by a nose on the wire.

Racing at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, June 11.—One favorite and two outsiders won the three events at Gentlemen's Driving park. In the 2:20 class, trotting, Miss Fearing won; Lady Helma second. In the 2:11 class, pacing, March Gale won; Tula K. second.

Rioting Cigar Makers.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 11.—Six hundred striking employees of the American Cigar company marched to the factory, broke into the building and compelled fifty employees who refused to strike to quit work. The strikers marched through the building, shouting defiance. The police were telephoned for, but were unable to clear the building. The sheriff refused to interfere until the police were unable to cope with the strikers. The latter were finally induced to leave, but later returned. After two hours the police drove the strikers from the building and have now established a strong guard.

Boston Lawyer Missing.

BOSTON, June 11.—William Gardner Reed, formerly one of Boston's leading lawyers, has been missing from Boston for more than a month, and no one appears to know his present whereabouts. A number of suits against him are pending in the civil courts, and all available property has been attached by creditors, these proceedings growing out of Reed's connection with certain mining properties. Mr. Reed was formerly prominent because of the fact that he was law partner of ex-Mayor Edwin U. Curtis.

Tiara Is Not Genuine.

PARIS, June 11.—The report of Clermont Ganeau, the archaeologist who was chosen to determine the authenticity of the tiara of Saltapharnes, the supposedly precious relic of the Louvre collection, sets forth that the tiara is not authentic and that it was executed at the instance of an unknown party by the Russian artist Reukhomovsky. The French government paid $40,000 for the tiara. The report has attracted widespread attention in artistic and archaeological circles.

Wife Recovers From Liquor Dealer.

CHELSEA, Mass., June 11.—A wife who had directed a firm of liquor dealers not to sell drink to her husband was awarded $300 by Judge Stearns in the municipal court.

CITY UNDER WATER.

East St. Louis Is Submerged From Two to Fifteen Feet.

TEN THOUSAND DRIVEN FROM HOME

Brave Fight Made by Citizens to Protect Life and Property From the Rising Mississippi—Eleven Lives Sacrificed to Flood.

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—Almost two-thirds of the territory of East St. Louis is under from two to fifteen feet of water. Between sunset and dawn eleven lives were sacrificed to the waters, and damage which no man attempted to estimate has been done to property.

Ten thousand persons have been driven from their homes.

Probably never before in the history of the country has a more valiant fight been made by brave men, with defeat staring them in the face, to protect lives and property than has been made by the citizens of East St. Louis. When the rising Mississippi began to threaten the city last Thursday morning Mayor Silas Cook ordered men to work to construct sand bag levees at once. The river rose higher, and more men were employed. Citizens of the best classes worked side by side with the laborers. Since Thursday morning 5,000 men under the leadership of Mayor Cook, without sleep, with little rest and food snatched at intervals, have toiled unceasingly to strengthen levees and to do everything possible to save the city. Not a wheel of industry is turning in East St. Louis. The smokeless chimneys of manufacturing plants stand lifeless while the flood whirls at the foundations.

The vast railroad yards are outlined by hundreds of half submerged cars, and here and there stand locomotives only half visible.

Huge grain elevators stand surrounded by a veritable sea.

To the south, beyond the railway yard area, are thousands of homes, mainly humble cottages owned by laborers and containing their all, submerged to the eaves.

In northern East St. Louis the description is repeated, but not on so large a scale.

The business portion of the city and the district containing the better residences is still intact, "but for how long?" is the question. Broadway, running from Eads bridge east to the city limits, a wide street walled with stone fifteen feet high, divides the city in halves. More than ten feet of water is pressing against Broadway from the south and in some places is sweeping through in streams as thick as a man's body. If Broadway shall break the water will rush over much of the city until Missouri avenue, running parallel one block north, is encountered.

Along the river front to the west a levee of sand bags from two to six feet high and two miles long keeps the river out.

Without warning the river suddenly began to rise. The city was made safe along the river front, but suddenly a new danger menaced. Word was received that the Illinois Central embankment skirting the river along the southern boundary of the city was threatening to give way. Couriers were sent on horseback and afoot to shout warnings to the inhabitants of the southern half of the city. Car loads of sand bags were rushed to the place, and work was hurriedly begun. Accustomed to warnings of impending danger, the inhabitants did not leave their homes. Higher and higher crept the water until a thin stream began pouring over the embankment, and suddenly it broke.

Thomas Middleton, a volunteer in charge of a gang of men who were working at the point where the embankment gave way, giving a description of the break, said:

"The break occurred at 11:40 o'clock. My gang was hard at work with the others. The water was pouring over the top of the embankment in a sheet even after all our work. Suddenly with a roar, a jet of water shot through the embankment almost at my feet. I was carried away, but seized some firm object and pulled myself out of the water. D. H. Sherwood, a laborer standing at my side, was swept away, and I saw him drown. In an instant the water had cut a section of the embankment out, and a stream twenty-five feet wide was rushing through. I saw another section of the embankment go out a few minutes later, and then that portion between the two torrents went down, and the river poured through in all its fury. I believe many men, especially negroes, were drowned. I know that several negroes, worn out, had been permitted to nap, and they were lying asleep right in the path of the break. They certainly were drowned."

Middleton escaped by running along the embankment back to the city.

The alarm spread like wildfire, and whistles were blown, bells rung, shots fired, and cries of warning were sounded, but with all this pandemonium the majority of the aroused inhabitants did not leave their homes.

Within an hour the houses stood in water that reached to the roofs of the one story cottages. It is known that numbers of people fled to the Centra hotel, a four story brick structure, and to the large brick buildings of the Washington and Franklin high schools. But none of these buildings contained more than 250 persons, and, although the rescue boats found many people in second stories and on house tops, there are rows upon rows of cottages that did not show a sign of life. There is grave fear that many bodies of dead will be found in the flooded cottages and in this section of the city. It has been practically impossible to learn of authenticated deaths, but from the most reliable sources it is believed that eleven persons were drowned, four of whom perished on the north side.

It was currently reported that seven negroes caught in the act of looting houses were shot to death. While this was not confirmed, it is known that there was heavy firing on the north side, where these negroes are said to have been killed.

The deaths of John Koolish, a Polish carpenter, and his three children, two boys, aged five and seven respectively, and a girl of twelve years, were caused by trying to save three kegs of beer.

The bodies were recovered and taken to a livery stable. Mrs. Koolish was summoned to identify them, and her grief was pitiable in the extreme.

As fast as scows could be secured they were launched, and volunteers started on rescue missions. A company of naval reserves from Alton which had rowed to the city in a cutter rendered splendid service in rescue work. Rescuers began work as soon as it was light enough to see and continued their work far into the night. Word was sent out generally for more boats, and the government responded through United States District Attorney Dyer in St. Louis, who issued an order to confiscate temporarily all boats seen in and around St. Louis regardless of ownership and rush them to East St. Louis. The St. Louis fire department at once tendered its hose and coal wagons, and the boats were brought to the desolated city. Volunteer oarsmen promptly manned every boat furnished, and soon scores of craft were rescuing flood sufferers.

The first boat loads contained refugees and some furniture. The order was issued peremptorily:

"If any more furniture is brought it will be thrown into the water. If a man thinks more of his furniture than he does of his neighbors he must lose the furniture."

After that no furniture was transported.

When boats were rowed alongside homes where the occupants were marooned in second stories and on roofs in the great majority of cases the occupants could not be induced to leave. They said that to leave meant that their belongings would be left to the mercy of river thieves, and they would remain and stand guard. Strangely, the women were those most unwilling to be rescued, although some of them wept in terror. They were assured that a thorough boat patrol would be established with orders to kill river thieves on sight, and finally the unwilling householders were persuaded to go to land. As wives entered boats that were too filled to carry husbands or children and were sent ahead they wept and clasped each other in abject fear that some further calamity might separate them forever.

At the landings weeping women were assisted from the boats, and throughout the day scores of boats rescued hundreds of refugees.

In the eastern extremity of the city at Washington place and Rock road, on a vacant area on high ground, 200 tents were utilized in erecting Camp Refuge, and a commissary was established. From the Broadway landing to Camp Refuge the flood sufferers were transported in wagons. Each family was given a tent. The city hall, churches, school buildings and other structures were thrown open and temporarily turned into relief stations.

Attorney T. E. Dempcy, who has charge of Camp Refuge, said:

"We must have food. East St. Louis is cut off from sources of supply, and what she had has been largely drawn upon during the past week. Large amounts of food were destroyed by the water, and we are in need of additional food to care for the suffering people. The viaduct is unsafe, and wagons cannot cross to St. Louis. Railroad traffic is cut off, and the situation confronting us is growing grave. Food must be secured in some manner or people already in distress will suffer more."

Another fear confronted the inhabitants. The water that had steadily been pouring through the Broadway embankment was believed to be undermining that bulwark, and it was declared that the street could not stand the heavy pressure from the south side long.

Denverside, a suburb of East St. Louis, was completely inundated, and Alta Sita, farther to the east, was half flooded. If the river should rise even a little more the water must swamp Alta Sita.

Riot guns were collected by Chief of Police Purdy and were given out to guards to patrol the streets where furniture is stacked and to patrol the sand bags levees. Any thieves or possible levee cutters are to be shot down instantly. Martial law has not been proclaimed officially, but East St. Louis is practically governed under such a condition during the flood, and there is no place for idle, curious persons.

End of Matos' Campaign.

CARACAS, Venezuela, June 11.—After the disastrous defeat of the revolutionary forces at Pedregal, twenty miles from Coro, General Matos, the revolutionary leader, was obliged to fly from the country with Generals Riera, Penalosa, Solagnie and Perdomo. They left Venezuela in a small rowboat and landed on the island of Curacao in a state of destitution impossible to describe after having been four days in reaching that island. The government troops captured nearly all Matos' army. This is the end of the revolution.

Postal Frauds Examination.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Postal officials were busy arranging for the presentation of the government's case at the hearing of Thomas W. McGregor, formerly in charge of the supplies of the rural free delivery service, and of C. Elsworth Upton, one of his assistants. The hearing is scheduled to occur at Baltimore today, and a number of inspectors have been sent there.

RUSSIA DECLINES AID

And Will Brook No Interference From the Outside.

CZAR CAN GIVE ALL NECESSARY HELP

While Appreciating Generous Offers From America For Kishineff Sufferers, It Is Not Possible to Allow Foreign Intervention.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—Numerous offers have reached the Russian government from American sources to aid the families of sufferers in the recent Kishineff incident. All such offers have been declined for the reason that Russia is entirely capable of extending relief and under the circumstances cannot accept outside aid.

Russia has not been unappreciative of the generous offers which have come to her from America since the affair at Kishineff nor of the humanitarian motive which may have prompted these offers. In view of the fact that his majesty the czar has the means at hand to relieve suffering wherever it appears in his empire, outside aid is unnecessary, and all offers of such must be declined.

Nor will it be possible for Russia to receive any representations regarding the Kishineff incident from a foreign power. The Russian government takes the same position as that long held by the American government—namely, that it refrains from interference in the internal affairs of another power and must insist on similar treatment for itself.

Should any foreign power take steps to restrict immigration of Russian Jews on the ground that they are undesirable Russia will protest. She admits the right of every nation to say who shall come through its gates and who shall not. Should any country as a result of the Kishineff incident adopt measures restricting immigration of Russian Jews Russia will regard such a step only as a defensive measure on the part of the power taking it and not in the light of a reflection on the Russian government.

The officials now assert that the troubles at Kishineff were an uprising of the peasantry against the Jewish socialist movement, the Jewish Socialists being the best organized in Russia. Interior Minister von Plehve is said to have read the Jewish deputation which saw him recently a lecture on the dangers of socialism, warning them that they must control their young men; otherwise the emigration of Jews from Russia would reach unprecedented proportions.

The Osvobozhdenie, which is a notorious anti-Semitic organ, asserts that Vice Governor Oustrougoski addressed the Jews at the funeral of the victims of the Kishineff massacre as follows:

"Gentlemen, you have assembled in extraordinary numbers. I could chase you away immediately, but I have pity for you. Calm yourselves. Forget what has happened. It was for your sins or your fathers' sins that God willed it. You must abase yourselves."

The same paper reports that a strong agrarian movement exists throughout the western Caucasus, where the Georgians and the inhabitants of Imeritia are terribly excited. The military has begun the work of pacification.

Carnegie Fossils For Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, June 11.—Dr. William J. Holland, director of the Carnegie institute of Pittsburg, announces that Andrew Carnegie had purchased from Baron de Bayet of Brussels his notable collection of European fossils and that the collection had been presented to the Carnegie museum in this city. Dr. Holland says paleontologists have long regarded the De Bayet collection as the best outside of the great museums of Europe and that there is nothing in America at present to equal it. When asked what the price of the collection was Dr. Holland said that was a matter which simply concerned Mr. Carnegie, but that the amount paid was princely.

Textile Strikers Are Active.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Damask weavers employed by Charles Hewitt in the Frankfort district were granted the fifty-five hour week, and the Turkish towel weavers employed in a mill at Clifton Heights, just outside the city, quit work in order to enforce their demand for the shorter week. Eighty-two firms have now signed the union scale. The Fairmount district was the center of such active work on the part of the striking textile workers that the strike leaders predict a practical tie up there by the end of the week. Some of the operatives in the Eben-Harding mill in that district have quit work.

Plainfield, N. J., June 11, 1903.

So the fish and game warden discovered here violations of the fish laws! Yes, it is a shame the way the Izaak Waltons are carrying off the big bass in Green brook.

If the Warrenville farmer who raised a ten acre lot full of mustard plants under the impression that he was cultivating oats got a revenge as fiery as his crop, it must have gone hard with his facetious neighbor who sold him the seeds.

Attention is called to the appeal made by the City Union, King's Daughters, for funds to defray expenses of improvements at the baby camp. Send any donation, no matter how small, to any of the organization's officers for this purpose.

For monumental meanness, the New York man who gave his bride of nine months an allowance of twenty-five cents a day and then drove her from his house on account of her extravagance ought to receive a medal. It's a wonder he doesn't sue her for non-support.

Now just watch this old game in which the governorship figures. It is generally attended by exciting incidents in which the imagination plays an important part. First this man and then that man is trotted out and then the bosses name the man, that lands the prize, without fuss or feathers.

The unknown youthful vandals who disfigured the exterior of the City Union of King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountain have escaped a much deserved trouncing. The Union has been put to much unnecessary expense in erasing the indecent language and pictures on the building, all because of the badness of these lads.

"The world will not rush to recognize the educated youth. It is stolid, stubborn, unyielding, and resists his claims as long as it can." Timely words these of Dr. George Gordon, in his address to Columbia graduates. The world expects more of the college man, and he has to fight hardest for his honors. A little rubbing up against the world, and he soon forgets the ideas of his own imporance that his college training sometimes breeds.

President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton, in his commencement address, strikes the right note when he states the purpose of a college training as academical rather than technical. He says: "Education is not the mere acquirement of technical skill. It is a branch of statesmanship. The technical school has its place, but the purpose of Princeton is to supply good citizens, thinking men, who shall make the policy of the country; and that policy is fundamentally intellectual. If the university confines itself to technical skill alone the intellectual horizon of the country will be narrowed."

Though he has fared ill politically, James E. Martine has worked as hard, probably for the success of his party as any Democrat in the State. Countless speeches made by the "farmer-orator" have served to keep party enthusiasm stirred up and his pocket-book has always been open when money has been needed. His confidence in his party's position and his unusually optomistic expressions have won even the admiration of even political enemies. The State Gazette, of Trenton, has this to say incidently regarding the popular Plainfielder:

"All doubt as to whether or not William Jennings Bryan and Grover Cleveland will be candidates before the next Democratic national convention for the nomination for the presidency of the United States, has been finally settled by the Hon. James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

"Says Mr. Martine: 'Neither Mr. Cleveland nor Mr. Bryan is available as a candidate.' This determination on the part of the Plainfield prophet ought to have a depressing effect on both Bryan and Cleveland because of his marked distinction as a seer.

"He has announced that Mr. Roosevelt has opened the way for the Democrats to the White House and they will march into it. With this assurance before them, and the knowledge that they will not be given an opportunity to occupy the president's chair, Messrs. Bryan and Cleveland must be disconsolate indeed.

"If there was ever a human breast in which hope springs eternal, that particular breast is owned by Mr. Martine. He comes cheerily into every State convention held by the Democrats and with oratory rarely equalled fills the Democratic heart to the point of bursting with confidence.

"It is a good thing for the Democratic party that it has among its members men of Mr. Martine's stripe; men who, by the power of words, can lift them up and bring them within sight of the promised land. The enjoyment of the view goes a long way to assuage the disappointment that follows their failure to reach the green fields.

"Now that Mr. Martine has calmly brushed Messrs. Bryan and Cleveland aside, we wonder who he will set up in their place."

New York, June 10th, 1903.

Editor The Daily Press:

I think all of us who have resided for any considerable length of time in Plainfield experienced a feeling of personal bereavement on hearing of the death of Mrs. E. B. Clark.

Her friends who knew of her terrible martyrdom of the last two years are thankful that the struggle is over and that she is at rest.

Mrs. Clark resided in out city for over twenty years. Her life was calm and unobtrusive, full of devotion to her family and she was always glad and ready to render any assistance in her power to those needing it.

But such quiet, gentle natures are only properly understood by intimate friends and to those who knew her worth the world seems poorer with Mrs. Clark's departure from it.

Mr. Entwistle is in the habit of feeding his poultry when he arrives home from work each evening. Monday night he noticed that one of the ducks was quite lame. He took the bird into the house, and a close examination showed that its leg was broken. Mr. Entwistle promptly reset the limb, bound a heavy cloth around it. Today the duck is walking as well as ever.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 14—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Gold or God.—Luke xviii, 18-30.

In the sermon on the mount Jesus said, "No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." In these words the Master clearly lays down the principle that it is absolutely impossible for any one to have two supreme aims in life. This principle is one the force of which is easily recognized. First place in the heart and life cannot be given to two objects. Only one thing can be supreme, and all else will revolve around it. This principle applies to God and money. It is absolutely impossible to give the supreme place to both God and money. Many would like to do it, and many have tried to do it, but it cannot be done. Of this fact we have an illustration in the rich young ruler who came to Christ. "God and gold" had been the desire of his life, but Christ soon convinced him that it must be God or gold. Both cannot have the supreme place, and all must therefore choose between them.

Since it cannot be God and gold, but must be God or gold, there should be no question as to which should be given the first place. Money is not to be despised. Its possession is not to be lightly esteemed. Honestly obtained and properly used, it is and can be a great blessing, but to make money supreme and everything else secondary, to make it the master and everything else the servant, is a false and disastrous basis of life. God should always be given the first place and everything else in life made secondary to Him. Yet, alas, how many turn from God and worship the golden calf, as the Israelites in the wilderness! To how many money is everything, although they may not realize it! It was so with the rich young ruler. Little did he imagine perhaps what a hold his riches had upon him until Christ put him to the test. True, he left Christ "sorrowful," and yet he left Him. He had tried to keep the commandments and had been unusually successful, and yet at one stroke Christ had revealed the fact that deep down in his heart the supreme place was given not to God, but to gold. And, although it is sorrowful, yet it is true, that with thousands of people this is still the case today.

"Gold is king" today as never before. An insatiate desire for riches and an inordinate love of money have existed in the past, with blighting consequences, but never perhaps in the world's history has money been such a supreme master as today. To get rich seems to be the chief end of man's existence. And to do so quickly all scruples are laid aside, honor, justice and integrity are swept aside and money possessed is used for the most dishonorable and debauching purposes. God Himself seems to be lost sight of in the wild pursuit for gold, and when possessed money and not God is worshiped. How truly therefore Christ spoke when he said: "How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God. For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." A camel cannot go through a needle's eye. No more can one who gives money the supreme place enter into the kingdom of God. First his heart must be changed, and this is possible to God. Nor do the rich include simply those who possess wealth. We may love money supremely though we do not possess it, and it is the love of money that displaces God in the heart and becomes the root of evil. Let us carefully guard ourselves against the tendency of our age to deify gold. Let us give God the first and supreme place in heart and life and make money as well as everything else subject to His will.

BIBLE READINGS.

Josh. vii, 16-26; II Kings v, 20-27; Prov. i, 9-19; xv, 27; xxii, 1; xxviii, 20; Matt. vi, 25-34; xxvi, 14-16; Acts iv, 32-37; v, 1-11; I Tim. vi, 9, 10.

Pen Points.

Forty one minute speeches in the prayer meeting are more inspiring than one forty minute one.

The lookout committee has not finished its work till every young person in the church is a member of the society.

The more associate members the better, provided we do not let them remain such too long.

The Junior society is a vital part of the Young People's society, not an organization separate and apart from it.

It ought not to be a hard task for a society of fifty members to get five new ones in six months. That's the requirements of our new forward movement.—John R. Clements.

The Author of "In His Steps."

On his recent western trip Dr. Francis E. Clark was the guest of Dr. Charles M. Sheldon while in Topeka, Kan. Dr. Clark is enthusiastic over the simple, democratic, Christian home life of the popular author of "In His Steps," this man who lives out his stories and practices his theories to the letter in his self sacrificing and devoted labors.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 14, "Use Every Opportunity." Text. II Tim. iv, 2.

"Be urgent in season, out of season." The apostle who wrote this advice was one of the most tactful of men. He was a past master in the diplomacy of speech and persuasive activity. He would be little disposed to urge to a disregard of courtesy. Inopportune importunity would find no defense with him. He who would and could become all things to all men that he might win the more fully recognized the need of personal adaptation to the circumstances in each case and would conform himself and his acts to the requirements of the time. This counsel is no warrant for unreasoning and unseasonable zeal. It does not countenance the substitution of persistence for persuasiveness.

It requires as much knowledge to discern when not to do a thing as to discover when to do it.

To attack when there is no reasonable expectation of success is poor strategy in religion as well as in war. The course of wisdom is to be ever prepared to attack and then, whether it is the recognized season or not, strike for victory when there is the right chance.

The test is a plea for an alert soul ever ready at an instant's notice to advance to the assault on the stronghold of Satan.

This is a greatly needed exhortation at the present time. There are many Epworth League members and not a few Christians of more advanced years and experience who will speak in meeting, but never utter a word to any individual regarding his salvation outside the walls of the prayer room. They never find just the right opportunity. The trouble is not that conversation with their unsaved friends would be unseasonable or resented. Oftentimes these very friends are hungry for some words of Christian counsel and wonder why nothing is ever said to them personally if Christ is so precious.

The trouble is that the alert spirit is lacking in the disciple of Christ and not the opportunity to exercise it. Again, it will be found by every earnest hearted follower of Jesus that the expectant, eager soul, the one who feels the inner urgency of spirit, induces the same feeling in others. Indifference begets indifference. Deep and friendly interest will open the way of approach in marvelous ways. Nothing can prepare the way to another's heart so well as a genuine soul longing to reach that heart. So surely as love begets love interest will kindle interest. All seasons are opportune for one who is ready to sow beside all waters.

Besides the effect on others of this state of constant readiness and expectancy, there is a singular influence on the soul of the worker himself. The watchfulness and eagerness to help others produce a greater degree of discernment as to opportunities and methods of approach. They foster a kind of intuition of the condition of others and tactful adaptation of means to reach the desired ends. The consciousness of assistance by the Holy Spirit becomes an abiding experience.

Spiritual Nourishment.

Make your most simple act complete. Do your most common daily duty from its divinest motive, and what a change will come! Still your life will need days of retirement when it will shut the gates upon the noisy whirl of action and be alone with God. But it will not be upon them that it will mostly depend for spiritual nourishment. They will be like great exceptional banquets and extraordinary feasts of grace. The daily bread of spiritual life, the ordinary feeding of the soul on God, which really makes its sustenance, will be in the perpetual doing of the works of life for him. The real sitting down to be fed will be mysteriously identical with the most eager and energetic standing on the feet to do His will.—Phillips Brooks.

Praying For Power.

There is no use praying for power. It is never given as a direct answer to prayer. Pray to be wholly Christ's; pray that His will may be done in you; pray that He may accept you and use you as He shall deem best, and then you will find yourself a power of some sort, and it will matter little to you what sort. You will not possess the power, but will be the agent of power—God's power working in you and with you in the accomplishment of His holy purposes.—Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

When You Are Tempted.

At no time of your life can you be so sure of the help of the suffering but victorious Son of God as when you are tempted. And each one ought to know his peculiar temptation and to fight his fight and with the help of God gain the victory.—Episcopal Recorder.

Beyond Today.

If we could see beyond today
As God can see;
If all the clouds should roll away,
The shadows flee,
O'er present griefs we would not fret,
Each sorrow we would soon forget,
For many joys are waiting yet
For you and me.

If we could know beyond today,
As God doth know,
Why dearest treasures pass away
And tears must flow,
And why the darkness leads to light,
Why dreary paths will soon grow bright!
Some day life's wrongs will be made right;
Faith tells us so.

If we could see, if we could know,
We often say!
But God in love a veil doth throw
Across our way;
We cannot see what lies before,
And so we cling to Him the more;
He leads us till this life is o'er;
Trust and obey.

—Christian Work.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FASHION HINTS.

Voiles and Eolliennes In New Shades. Ecru Tints Smart.

In voiles and eolliennes the colors are much the same as last year, but the new mignonette tint is less like reseda than of yore and shows more of a bluish shade.

The two leading blues are delft and pastel blue, the latter resembling the former veiled with gauze. There are fewer pinks, and the new pink is too much on the blue tone and lacks the warmth of last season's tone.

All the ecru putty and biscuit tints are extremely modish, and touches of color in the chou and belt act as a charm on such neutral shades.

The new skirts are excessively wide, and the circular gaugings are accepted with avidity, but these are woeful failures when touched by the 'prentice hand, and the new housemaid skirts gathered at the hips are becoming to but few figures. Neither fashion is likely to be very popular, and gaugings must necessarily be restricted to few textures.

Black point d'esprit dresses are decorated with ruchings and made on a glace taffeta lining which only shows here and there through the fullness.

Ecru veiling makes a charming tailor made when trimmed with lace dyed to match.

Lace is as much worn as ever for a trimming, and all over lace is even more used this summer than before.

Whole dresses made of lace are the smartest thing a woman can have, and nothing is prettier than a three-quarter wrap made of heavy lace in black, ecru or gray.

The shirt waist in the picture is of linen. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Hats Versus Bonnets—Some Dolly Varden Shapes.

There is an attempt abroad to revive the bonnet, but it has not yet proved popular. The reason is not hard to find. The average woman dislikes intensely to have her age added to by the slightest degree. For the white haired matron of mature years, however, nothing is more becoming than a broad bonnet with wide black strings made of velvet or lace.

From the bonnet has sprung a glorious picture hat something after the order of the old Dolly Varden shape, with a lace brim threaded through with ribbon tied loosely under the chin or perhaps hardly tied at all. This is one of the prettiest hats of the season, especially in summer straw with lace tulle or wide satin strings and a single flower of great beauty.

There is one golden rule in choosing a hat. Have it as simple as possible, but be sure that the outlines are good. One of the most perfect hats of the season is of Romney shape in a fine black chip. On one side is a very smart black bow, and from this two ostrich plumes take a graceful sweep to the left side.

The cut shows a smart stole of black chiffon and white lace.

Mystery of the Bayou Woods

By. WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

Wright took from his pocket a small paper, which he opened, and displayed the cuffs, which were given to the jury to examine.

The prosecuting attorney examined him at considerable length, but could not shake his testimony.

It was not possible to doubt the young man's evidence, for it was corroborated by a number of minor circumstances, and besides, it was a complete explanation of the mystery. Franklin had shot Wright from behind, had perhaps in a sort of murderous fury beaten him about the head with his stick and had then robbed him in order to create the impression that robbery was the motive for the crime; then while hurrying away from the scene of the murder he himself had been knocked in the head and robbed. The testimony showed that he had been in the Bayou Woods with Wright, that he had a wound in his head, that his watch and pin had been pawned, that Wright had secured the cuff buttons and the cuffs, that the pistol with which the murder had been committed was probably his and the ball fitted it.

There was clearly no case against Herbert Wright, and the prosecuting attorney himself moved that he be discharged from custody and that the court order the arrest of James Franklin on the charge of murder until his case could be investigated by the grand jury.

And so when Herbert Wright left the court room with the congratulations of his friends he passed by Franklin, closely guarded by the sheriff.

* * * * * * *

The trial of James Franklin took place a few weeks later and he was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. Persistent efforts were made to overturn the judgment of the court and the governor was appealed to, but both the supreme court and the chief executive declined to interfere and Franklin expiated his crime on the gallows.

CHAPTER XIX.

The people of Nilus were naturally much interested in knowing the actual value of the Colorado mine which had been the exciting germ of such an elaborate conspiracy, but it was sold to Frederick Merivale for a sum which was entirely acceptable to the Wright family, but was never accurately made public.

Of course the memory of the tragic events herein set forth left its trace upon all those connected with them, and Mrs. Wright, Miriam and Herbert decided upon an extensive trip to Europe, where they hoped to blot out the incidents of the ghastly past. For many months a terrible strain had been upon them, and only when all their trouble was over did they realize how great it had been. Amid peaceful scenes of the Old World, and in quiet nooks unadvertised by the indefatigable tourist, they passed an eventful year, and the record of an unhappy past became dim and unobtrusive.

Irving Warde in the meantime remained in this country, and waited confidently, but with some impatience, for Miriam's return. The interval of absence was brightened by regular letters, in which the wonders of the Old World were not the sole topic of consideration, but were indeed rather overshadowed by the wonders of love, which kept two distant hearts as warm as summer days. It was, from one point of view, an unfruitful year for Warde, though he made steady progress upward in his profession; but he stifled as well as he could his selfish feelings, and whenever he grew despondent he took out Miriam's letters and dreamed of the happy days to come.

And Miriam came back radiant with what she had seen and experienced, with bright eyes and browned, clear cheeks, but unchanged in heart so far as Warde was concerned, and it was not long before she consented to name the day for the marriage, and that happy event followed in due course of time.

Fenton drifted away to one of the large cities. His work in the Wright case had won him fame far beyond his own state, and he was recognized as a bright man in police circles elsewhere; and so it was not long before he was snapped up by a superintendent on the alert for good material, and he became a famous detective.

If anyone has some curiosity on the subject, and will pass along Madison street inspecting the signs of the Nilus lawyers that swing out over the sidewalk, he will find one that is old and dingy, but still bearing the faint lettering:

JOHN W. EVERETT,
Attorney-at-Law.

"The Sioux!"

In the pioneer days of the Northwest their coming brought terror to the hearts of the settlers. We expect to bring pleasure to our readers by announcing that within a short time we shall begin the publication of a new serial story in which these red warriors figure, entitled:

"A Daughter of the Sioux"

It is a sufficient guarantee of its quality for us to say that it is written by that prince of American fiction writers,

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

The story deals with conditions in the Northwest following the days of the Custer massacre. It is full of that spirited kind of action that General King puts into his stories of the American army, and through it runs a fascinating and unusual love story. It is the best story that has been offered in newspaper form for years

MORE HELP NEEDED.

Urgent Request For Aid From Topeka Is Received.

AN APPEAL MADE TO ALL THE PEOPLE

Mayor Low's Committee Taking Active Steps to Supply the Needs of Flood Sufferers at the Kansas Towns and Their Suburbs.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Mayor Low has received the following telegram from W. S. Bergundthal, mayor of Topeka:

"Yours received. We can use to alleviate suffering all the funds the charitable people can give. Five thousand people must be supported with food and clothing for a long time to come. Money is needed most, as supplies of the kind needed can be purchased near home, railroads furnishing transportation free. Remittances should be made to F. M. Bonebrake, cashier of Central National bank, treasurer of relief committee."

The mayor's committee for the relief of the sufferers by fire, flood and tornado has issued an address reciting specific cases of need and saying:

"The people of Topeka, Kan.; Kansas City, Kan., and its suburbs, Spartanburg, S. C., and vicinity and Gainesville, Ga., are in sore distress.

"The recent floods, cloudbursts and tornadoes have visited these respective communities with disastrous results. Thousands of people are out of employment, are homeless and are in want of the necessaries of life."

HANNA—M'CORMICK NUPTIALS.

President and Miss Roosevelt Were Present at the Ceremony.

CLEVELAND, June 11.—Miss Ruth Hanna, the daughter of Senator Marcus A. Hanna, was married in St. Paul's church to Joseph Medill McCormick of Chicago, the son of Robert S. McCormick, ambassador to Russia. President Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt were among the guests. Bishop W A. Leonard officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Billings of Groton, Mass.; Dr George McGrew and the Rev. Mr Jones of Cleveland. As the organ played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" the bridal procession entered the church. The ushers who led the way were Howard M. Hanna, a cousin of the bride, and Malcolm McBride of Cleveland, William Williams of Philadelphia, Robert Allerton, Joseph Medill Patterson and Edward S. Beck of Chicago, Ernest Minor of Cincinnati and James Barney of New York.

After the ushers came the bridesmaids—Miss Florence Cobb of Cleveland and Miss Mary Hopkins of Washington, Miss Virginia Johnston of Pittsburg and Miss Frances Lewis of Portland and Miss Laura McGinley of Pittsburg and Miss Eleanor Patterson of Chicago. Their dresses were of white silk mull over pale green silk with deep falls of lace. The hats were of lace, with lace medallions and pale green ostrich feathers. They carried bouquets of white sweet peas. Behind the bridesmaids came the maid of honor, Miss Lucia McCurdy, a cousin of the bride. Her dress was similar to those of the bridesmaids, but her hat was trimmed with white instead of green feathers. She also carried white sweet peas.

Then came the bride, walking with her father, Senator Hanna. Her gown was of white peau de soie over white silk and chiffon. The veil, worn over the face, was caught with a cluster of orange blossoms. Her only ornaments were diamond combs and a pearl necklace worn over a lace collar.

At the steps of the altar the groom and his brother, Rutherford McCormick, who was his best man, met the bride. During the ceremony the president and his daughter occupied a front pew on the Hanna side.

After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at Senator Hanna's home.

Among the wedding gifts were an after dinner coffee set from the Roosevelts and a vase of Italian ware from Mrs. McKinley.

Peace Now at Figuig.

PARIS, June 11.—The operations of the French military expedition to Morocco were practically concluded when word was received at Beni-Ounif, Algeria, that the head men of the seven villages composing the Figuig oasis had made full submission. The rigorous terms presented by General O'Connor, the French commander, were in the nature of an ultimatum, requiring, first, an indemnity and, second, a guaranty for the future. The general gave notice that unless these terms were accepted the bombardment of the villages would be renewed, and the head men accepted them. A formal return to peace conditions will be accomplished in two or three days.

Confessed to Three Murders.

DETROIT, Mich., June 11.—Eight other persons besides the three to whose murder Mrs. Mary McKnight confessed yesterday, an investigation shows, have died in the past fifteen years under circumstances that, in view of the woman's confession, are now thought to be very suspicious. All of the eight were either relatives or intimate friends who died while living with Mrs. McKnight or while she was at their house. All are said to have shown symptoms that are now believed to indicate strychnine poisoning.

Van Dyke and Abbott at Harvard.

BOSTON, June 11.—Rev. Henry Van Dyke, D. D., of Princeton, who is to preach the baccalaureate sermon to the Harvard senior class this year, and Rev. Lyman Abbott, D. D., have been appointed preachers in Harvard university for one year from Sept. 1 by the overseers of Harvard.

BALFOUR'S DEXTROUS MOVE.

Premier Averts the Crisis Threatening His Party.

LONDON, June 11.—By a dextrous and extraordinary speech Premier Balfour temporarily smoothed over the differences in the cabinet, relieved Colonial Secretary Chamberlain of any necessity of resigning and for the moment averted a crisis which threatened the Unionist party. This Mr. Balfour accomplished without committing the government either to protection or free trade.

In a whimsical vein Mr. Balfour explained that the only reason that the corn tax was put on was because the government wanted money, and the only reason it was taken off was because the government wanted money no longer. Reverting to the charges of vacillation, the premier declared that he himself, though a believer in free trade (which statement met with loud applause), did not regard it as a fetish, and he had absolutely an open mind regarding the necessity for any alterations in a system which was founded to suit conditions of fifty years ago. He refused not only to make a statement of any finality upon such an important question, but he also refused to compel his colleagues to conform to a standard of opinion upon which he himself had an open mind. He admitted that differences of opinion existed within the cabinet, but these were not serious enough to cause the resignation of any member.

Mr. Balfour made an impassioned plea, enforced by the precedents of friction in Mr. Gladstone's ministries, for allowing the premier to retain an open mind upon a question so difficult and so superior to all party issues. The speaker did not believe that the country would ever return to the old protective system, and no tax on food was ever imposed without the full assent of the working classes. They were confronted, however, continued the premier, by three great phenomena—huge tariff walls against the United Kingdom, the growth of the trusts and the desire of the colonies for closer fiscal union with the mother country. These factors could not be ignored. He maintained that the method of starting a public discussion was the only way to deal with them, though he did not commit himself to Mr. Chamberlain's more advanced programme. It would be folly and rashness, he said, to interfere with the great system which had been in operation for so many years without the most careful examination and without due regard for history and the traditions of the past.

The effect of his speech will generally be taken to mean that the tariff issue is to be shelved for the present.

Henry Chaplin's amendment, which gave rise to the most interesting debate of the present parliament, was defeated by the overwhelming majority of 396 votes, composed of Unionists, Liberals, Irish members, Mr. Chaplin's adherents and almost all the followers of the government, while many others of the Conservative party abstained from voting.

CLERGYMAN FIGURES IN DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Watt, of North Plainfield, Defendant in Counter Proceedings.

WOMAN WILL NOT TALK

REV. DR. VAN DE WATER NAMED BY HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Watt Began Suit First on Charges of Like Nature—Marital Troubles Up in Court Over in New York.

In a countersuit to an action for divorce brought by Mrs. Adele Watt, of No. 7 Rockview terrace, her husband, Commodore Archibald Watt, alleges that he is entitled to an absolute severance of the marriage bond. He names as correspondent Rev. Dr. George R. Van De Water, rector of St. Andrew's, New York, and one of the most prominent clergymen in the Episcopal Church in America.

Mrs. Watt in her bill alleges that her husband is cruel, neglectful, indifferent and also makes a more serious charge. A reporter for The Daily Press saw Mrs. Watt at her home last evening, but was unable to obtain a statement. "I have nothing to say," was the only statement she would make, and it was apparent from her persistent refusal to talk that she had been advised by her counsel to maintain silence. The defendant in the counter action is little known here. She lives quietly and has not figured in local society so far as is known. Rev. Dr. Van De Water has visited this city on several occasions and is well known among the Episcopalians.

The separation suit and the counter action came up in Special Term, Part I, of the Supreme Court in New York, yesterday before Judge Blanchard, on a motion to have the issues framed so that the suit could be tried before a jury instead of by a judge sitting in Special Term.

Some thirty-five questions, called issues of fact, were filed in the court to be submitted to the jury that hears the case, counsel for both sides agreeing on such a disposition.

Among the issues which will be submitted to the jury are whether or not the defendant neglected and ill-treated Mrs. Watt; admitted his improper relations, and said her name was "Mrs. Rice"; was addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors, and abused and villified the plaintiff; was guilty of improper conduct on board the America in 1898, and refused to allow the plaintiff's daughter by a previous marriage to live with her.

Dr. Van De Water is entitled to be served with the summons and complaint, so that he can defend himself. At his house, No. 7 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, last night it was given out that he was out of town. Last August the vestry of Dr. Van De Water's church gave him a vote of confidence in a set of public resolutions when his name was mentioned. Last night, when several of them were seen, they deplored the continual litigation, and declared that the use of Dr. Van De Water's name was uncalled for, and the result of vituperation. "He is innocent," said one of the vestrymen; "his relations with Mrs. Watt, who was a worker in church and guild, were simply those that would naturally exist between the rector and any active member of the church. The matter will be entirely cleared up, and this outrage in attempting to connect Dr. Van De Water in a malignant form with the proceedings, will react upon the instigators, to their dismay."

Miss Riegel Married.

At the home of the bride's parents in South avenue, Wednesday afternoon, Miss Elizabeth Riegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Riegel, and Charles Hall, also of this city. Were married by Rev. Dr. George Buckley, of Elizabeth. Miss Catherine Riegel, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Edward W. Vail, of this city, was best man. The couple will reside with the bride's parents for the present. The groom is an employe of the Scott Press Works.

"One Grand Sweet Song."

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, celebrated the the thirty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, last evening, and the affair was observed at home in a quiet manner. The children of the couple being the only ones present.

Samuel Schuyler and family, of Jersey City, are visiting relatives in this city and the borough.

Director J. Frank Hubbard, of the Union County Board, was made chairman of the meeting. In all fifteen bids were received. It was decided to build an iron girder and brick arch bridge. The contract for the iron work was awarded to the lowest bidder, the Dover Boiler Works, for $3,795, and the mason work also to the lowest bidder, William Farrier, of New Market, for $2,663. The bridge when completed will cost $6,458.

According to the contracts the mason work must be completed by September 1, and the iron work by August 15. All of the other bids received were considerably higher than the ones accepted.

STRAWBERRIES AT TRINITY

LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY HOLD A FESTIVAL.

Arranged by Mrs. Disborough and Mrs. Paul, Who Received Assistance.

The fact that there were at least a dozen other local attractions may account for the small attendance at the strawberry and ice cream festival at Trinity Reformed Church last evening. The affair was under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church. Be as it may those present found the event a source of pleasure from a social standpoint at least. There was no ostentatious display, the table decorations being simple though quite pretty in effect.

Mrs. Mary Disbrough and Mrs. H. B. Paul arranged the affair and carried it through to a successful termination. Much assistance was given them by Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, Mrs. Salmon C. Baker, Mrs. Sarah Kershaw, Mrs. B. D. Newell, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. Edward J. Cooley, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse and Mrs. Seaman Williams. Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Cooley had charge of the sweetmeats, the former selling dainty candies and the latter toothsome cake.

After their return from a honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Parry will reside at Bound Brook, where the groom is employed in the American Engine Works

Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church Entertains Large Crowd.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENT

A STORY READ BY MISS DIETRICH A FEATURE OF AFFAIR.

Songs by Members of the Choir—Cake and Candy Sale—All Under Mrs. Hazeltine's Direction.

A unique entertainment consisting of tableaux which represented the story of "Lovey Mary," was given in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The chapel was filled with members of the church and congregation and the whole affair was a decided success. The story, which has been enjoyed by thousands of people, was read by Miss Dietrich, while the tableaux were given by these persons representing the principal characters in the story:

"Lovey Mary," Miss Alberta Waterbury; "Mrs. Wiggs," Miss Bessie DeForest; "Tommy," Elston Hoagland; "Mrs. Bell," Miss Jessie Pruden; "Miss Hazy," Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross; "Nurse," Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland; "Asia," Miss Bertha Inglehart; "Europenia," Miss Marion Inglehart; "Mephisto," Harold Luckey; "Faust," Harry Messersmith; "Mrs. Redding," Mrs. LeRoy Gates.

After the tableaux a trio consisting of Clifford S. Braider, piano; E. Maxwell Honeyman and R. Wilson Derby, mandolins, rendered several popular selections.

In addition to the entertainment there was a sale of cake, candy, ice cream, strawberries and cake. Those at the cake and apron table were Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. H. A. Pope and Miss Sally Boss, while Miss Jessie Pruden and Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross were in charge of the candy table. Mrs. J. A. Haynes and Mrs. William VanWinkle comprised the committee on refreshments and the waitresses were the Misses Emma and Minnie Line, Bertha Hill, Ethel Boice, Marion Inglehart, Belle Williams, Florence DeForest, Hattie Messersmith and Beatrice Miner.

The entertaimnent was given under the direction of Mrs. Charles Hazletine and Mrs. Russell Bond, while Mr. Dunning and Mrs. LeRoy Gates took charge of the decorations which were very elaborate.

The proceeds of the affair will go into the treasury of the society and will be used for the kitchen fund. It is expected that the net profits will be large as the patronage was most generous.

STORM STRUCK.

Plainfield and Borough Received Severe Wetting Down Today.

Flood and wind did considerable damage in many parts of Plainfield and the borough, last night and this morning. On Richmond street, the tracks of the trolley company were inundated and transfers had to be issued to allow passengers to cross from one side of the ponds to the waiting car on the opposite side. On many of the city streets boats could have been floated. Green brook, in the borough, threatened to overflow the banks. Stony brook carried the threat into execution and the water flooded cellars and tore up streets and roads. The sidewalk in front of Herman Keller's cigar store caved in and the dirt fell into his cellar burying several boxes of Havana tobacco. A barn belonging to George Stewart collapsed this morning, damaging a wagon and buggy. A trolley wire on Somerset street between Somerset place and Craig place blew down.

Weather Observer John Neagle reports that in about twelve hours 3.93 inches of water fell in Plainfield. This is about the average for a month.

Be on Hand.

The members of Company K will leave this evening for New York, without their uniforms, on the train leaving the North Avenue station at 6:23. The company members will go to the city to bid farewell to Capt. William B. Martin, who leaves for England to compete with the crack marksmen across the water.

—Panic-stricken passengers rushed from a burning trolley car, this morning, on East Front street. The entire top of car No. 129 caught fire, but the blaze was soon extinguished.

CHORUS WELL TRAINED

SINGING WAS TUNEFUL AND ACTING EXCEPTIONALLY SKILFUL.

Boys' and Girls' Chorus a Pretty Feature—Plot of Cantata From Sacred History—House Was Crowded—Many Plaudits.

Gorgeous costumes, well trained voices, skilful acting and beautiful music augmented the success of the sacred cantata, "Esther, the Beautiful Queen," given last evening in Vincent Chapel under the auspices of the Young Men's Brotherhood of the First M. E. Church. Every seat in Vincent Chapel was filled. The plot of the cantata hinges on the destruction by the Persian king Ahasuerus of his overbearing counsellor, Haman, who for his hatred of Mordecai, a Jew, had caused a great massacre of the Jewish people. Haman's true character is revealed to the King by his wife and Queen, the beautiful Esther.

Following is the cast of the leading characters:

Lewis; Zerish, Haman's wife, Mrs. Stephen Tugwell; Ida, their child, Miss Frances Rittenhouse; Mordecai, a Jew, Elmer D. Cutting; Prophetess, Mrs. W. A. W. Burnett; Miriam, Mordecai's sister, Miss Florence Bennett; Scribe, Thomas MacDonald; First Maid of Honor, Mrs. Joseph Dunham; Second Maid of Honor, Miss Nelly Tabb; Rachel, Zerish's maid, Miss Carrie Mulford; Hagai, Eugene Edgar; Herald, Harold Fenno: Guards, Arthur Humble, Harold Whitney, Augustus C. Hoagland, William D. Pike.

Shearer, S. H. Tugwell; the Misses Florence Bennett, Luella Derby, Mattie Humble, Elsie Horne, Edith Mager, Grace Martin, Alice Martin, Carrie Mulford, M. Phillips, Frances Rittenhouse, L. P. Sewell Ulrich; Misses Minnie Dobbs, Helen Edgar, Winnifred Hammond, Margaret Rolbey, Mary Robley, Edith Taft, Margery Taft, Helen Platt, Katherine Smink, Edna MacDonald, Lyde MacDonald. It is believed that about $100 will be cleared by the affair. The Young Men's Brotherhood, under whose auspices it was given, does an excellent work in assisting all the departments of the church. Its officers for the present year are Nelson A. Miller, president; Stephen H. Tugwell, vice president; Louis V. Wilson, secretary, and Ralph S. Lane, treasurer.

As a token of the esteem in which he is held the members of Warren Chapel and Crescent Avenue Church presented two substantial checks to Rev. J. O. McKelvey last evening at a surprise given in honor of the tenth anniversary of his pastorship. The affair was attended by many members of Crescent Avenue Church and by almost the entire congregation of the chapel.

The reception was also an occasion for wishing Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey God-speed on their intended trip abroad this summer. The rooms of the edifice were artistically decorated with flags and bunting, which, lighted by lamps with many colored globes, gave the room an attractive and hospitable appearance. During the evening musical selections were rendered by several members of the chapel.

The address of the evening was made by Frederick H. Andrews, superintendent of the Sunday-school. He told of the growth of the church and Sunday-school and attributed it largely to the energetic work of the pastor. He also spoke of the ten years in which the pastor has been connected with the church as being ten years of spiritual helpfulness. He was followed by Leander Lovell, who was the first superintendent of the Sunday-school. Mr. Lovell spoke of the past ten years as being a decade of healthy growth and said that the vacation which the pastor and his wife was about to enjoy was well earned. He closed by saying that the people of the chapel and of the mother church wished to express their appreciation of his work at the church in a substantial manner and ended his remarks by presenting two envelopes to the pastor.

To the remarks of the speakers Mr. McKelvey responded feelingly and thanked the members for the remembrance by saying that while he was abroad he would be with the church and its members in his prayers and thoughts.

The affair was arranged by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society'. Those who took part in the entertainment were Misses Edith, Nell and Grace Squier who rendered piano selections; Miss Helen Wooley, who gave several recitations; Elmer Wheeler favored with flute solos; Miss May Leavers favored with recitations; Theodore Gavett and Chester Briggs rendered mandolin selections, accompanied on the piano by Miss Carrie Dewey; and Miss Mary Newman soprano solos.

Dr. O'Hanlon, whose financial collapse has recently been announced, has probably done as much to raise money for needy Methodist churches as any man in this State. The New Jersey writer for the New York Press makes a suggestion that ought to meet with a ready response. He says: "What Dr. O'Hanlon has done for Methodism the Methodists should do for Dr. O'Hanlon. In his financial extremity he needs more than sympathy."—Paterson Daily Press.

When people ask, "What new feature will Coney Island offer this year?" they expect an interesting disclosure of a characteristic mechanical device which will arouse the wonderment of all who visit the seaside resort. This year the big feature is called "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," says Alice Rohe in the Evening World, and the attraction is placed at the head of any mechanical and electrical device illusion that has ever been shown. The device is supposed to be the reproduction of Jules Verne's romance, and the illusion consists of the voyage of a submarine boat from Coney Island to the North Pole. The journey which is supposed to cover thousands of miles, starts at one end of the building in reality, and the boat comes to the surface at the same spot.

THE MINE WORKERS

Failure on Part of Operators to Keep Agreement.

MAY MEAN ANOTHER BIG STRIKE.

President Mitchell Will Attend the Meeting on Monday, When the Questions In Dispute Will Be Discussed by United Body.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 12.—Failure on the part of the operators to pay the 2 per cent increase in wages for May which the miners claim is due them under the provisions of the sliding scale is one of the matters other than the selection of conciliators which will likely engage the attention of the convention of the United Mine Workers which opens in this city on Monday.

The strike commission awarded that "for each increase of 5 cents in the average price of white ash coal of sizes above pea coal sold at or near New York, between Perth Amboy and Edgewater, above $4.50 per ton, free on board, the employees shall have an increase of 1 per cent in their compensation, which shall continue until a change in the average price of said coal works a reduction or an increase."

April 1 last the price was $4.50 a ton, the basis on which the sliding scale computations are to be made. May 1 an advance of 10 cents a ton on the circular price was made. This, on the face of it, would entitle the mine workers to an additional increase in wages of 2 per cent. None of the companies has granted the additional increase, add the miners are endeavoring to find the reason for this.

An operator who was asked for an explanation of the companies' apparent neglect to live up to the award of the commission in this regard stated that he had not heard the matter discussed, but believed there are a number of very good reasons why the increase is not forthcoming. Chief among them, he said, is the fact that the miners are not entitled to it.

The award specifies that the increase shall be computed on the average price of the prepared sizes and not the circular price. The circular price has been advanced 10 cents, but the average price is still less than $4.55, according to the report of Statistician W. W. Ruley of Philadelphia, who is employed especially to figure and report the average price to buyer and seller, or, rather, operator and carrier, that it may be possible to compute the 65-35 division of proceeds.

Another reason given is that the commissioner provided for in the award who is to do the figuring on which the sliding scale fluctuations are to be computed was not appointed until yesterday. He is Professor Charles P. Neill of Washington and was appointed by Judge Gray.

District President Nicholls said he knew of no other matter of any considerable importance that would divide attention with the matter of conciliators at the convention. The delegates are free to transact general business, however, and it may be, he said, that other matters will come up.

A letter was received by President Nicholls from President Mitchell at Indianapolis in which he says he will arrive here Monday morning.

NO BATTLE WITH FARMERS.

Dewey's Military Escort Reaches St. Francis Safely.

ST. FRANCIS, Kan., June 12.—Chauncey Dewey, Clyde Wilson and W. J. McBride, charged with the murder of several of the members of the Berry family near Colby, Kan., have arrived under escort of Company C of the Second regiment of the Kansas national guard.

The prisoners are closely guarded by soldiers to prevent any attempt of Berry sympathizers to capture them. Hundreds of persons gathered in the town to witness the arrival of the troops, but no demonstration of any kind was made.

At several points during the march from Colby men were met who were known to be friends of the Berrys or enemies of the Deweys, and the greatest precaution was exercised to prevent them wreaking vengeance upon the prisoners. At no time, however, were any advances made in this direction, and the stories of conflict which were circulated were creations of the wildest fancy.

Students Leave Their Alma Mater.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12.—The closing scenes of Princeton's one hundred and fifty-sixth commencement were witnessed here when the members of the graduating class left in little groups for their homes. At the station each man was put through a car window head first, and a parting song was sung and a cheer given for him. Many wept as the trains pulled out and they bade farewell to undergraduate life. "Old Nassau" was sung whenever a train started with 1903 men aboad.

Labor Trouble Settled.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 12.—The difficulty between the Mason Builders' association on the one side and the Bricklayers and Plasterers' union and the Stone Masons' union on the other has been settled. The journeymen had been on strike since May 1. They secure what they contended for—the withdrawal of the reference card requirement and a wage rate of 50 cents an hour, with an eight hour day.

Joseph Gets Punishment.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Samuel Day of Brooklyn while defending his mother from the assault of his infuriated brother Joseph inflicted wounds on the latter which may cause his death.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Jackson, Ky., Is Patrolled by Armed Guard of Soldiers.

IETT AND WHITE WILL GET JUSTICE

Intimidation That Has Prevailed In the County For Years Will Not Be Longer Tolerated—Good Order Is Maintained.

JACKSON, Ky., June 12.—Putting the town under martial law, with Provost Marshal Longmire in charge, has created consternation in some circles and relief in others. The soldiers on guard and on picket duty are authorized to make arrests anywhere and take their prisoners before the grand jury and not before the county judge.

The presence of State Inspector Hines also continues to be a matter of respect as well as of anxious speculation. The closing of the "blind tigers" and the vigilant patrol of the troops to see that the closing orders of the provost marshal are rigidly enforced have stopped the random firing in and about the town at night and also have made quite a difference during the day.

With Colonel Williams in command of a battalion of troops to execute any order of the provost marshal and State Inspector Hines watching the progress of the trial as well as the conditions in the town, there is a general impression that Governor Beckham proposes to have order in Jackson and let the law take its course in Breathitt county. Such is the comment on all sides, so that the witnesses are no longer thought to be apprehensive as to what may happen to them.

Some even go so far as to think that the intimidation that has prevailed in this county for years has lost its force. It was openly stated that B. L. Ewen would not have dared heretofore to have told about being offered $5,000 if he would not testify against the defendants. It is thought the jurors as well as the witnesses will have less fear in the discharge of their duties.

The soldiers are disarming all whom they find with concealed weapons and are maintaining such order and confidence as have not been known here for a long time.

EAST ST. LOUIS FLOOD.

The Dikes More Than Sufficient to Protect City.

EAST ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Several persons have fallen from rafts and from overturned boats and been drowned, but not a life has been lost by the inundating water at East St. Louis. If all the dikes surrounding the flooded district were to break at once there would be no loss of life and the city would not be flooded in the residential district, while there would be not more than two feet of water in the business portion.

The people have been so thoroughly warned that they could escape from the most dangerous of places at the first menace, and even if the water came in it could not form an overwhelming deluge.

The dikes are more than sufficient to protect the city from damage, and the crisis is over. Martial law has not been proclaimed and will not be. The police are amply able to preserve order in the ordinary manner, and, although there are militiamen here, the soldiers are simply doing police duty.

East St. Louis, which has for a week been thrown into a turmoil, is rapidly regaining normal conditions in the business districts not under water, although it will be weeks before the effect of the flood is offset.

In order to prevent curious outsiders from collecting in the city and to protect exposed property from thieves the police department has issued passes by the hundred to accredited citizens. No others are allowed to pass into or from the city without a special permit.

Clergy Had to Turn Waiters.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The entire force employed in Kinsley's restaurant has gone on strike. The demand made here, as in other places, was for the absolute recognition of the union and an assurance by the employer that none but union men would be employed. Terms would have been reached on the questions of hours and wages had not the union made its demand for absolute recognition. The strike came at an inopportune time for a number of Methodist ministers who were holding a banquet. The clergymen were forced to leave their tables and wait upon themselves.

Hooker Day Celebration.

BOSTON, June 12.—Lieutenant Governor Guild has received word that the secretary of war, through General Chaffee, has authorized the appearance here on Hooker day, June 25, of four troops of cavalry, a battery of field artillery, a battalion of infantry and four batteries of coast artillery. The secretary of the navy has arranged for the appearance in the procession of two battalions of seamen and one battalion of marines. The fleet in the harbor on Hooker day will consist of the Texas, the Indiana, the Hartford and five torpedo boat destroyers.

Dutch Tars Have Beri Beri.

LEWES, Del., June 12.—The Dutch bark Amsterdam, from Java, which arrived at Delaware Breakwater on Wednesday, had eight of her crew sick with beri beri. They will be landed at the United States quarantine station.

May's Lick Fire Loss $100,000.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., June 12.—The business portion of May's Lick, near here, has been destroyed by fire, including the Presbyterian church; loss, about $100,000.

It's all right, Jupiter Plubius, but don't rub it in.

This is the season of school graduations and weddings. Both are commencements.

Almost tempted to wish that the Baptist convention had not been held in Perth Amboy. Too much rain already.

A man in Boston, who claims to be a teetotaler, was sent up for ten days because he was "jagged" for three weeks on buttermilk. Wonder what he used for a "chaser."

Sad isn't it? Young man in New York was taken to an insane asylum the other day because he declared he had "made" Devery. Wasn't there any jail in the neighborhood?

The story of the fiendish work of the Austrian army in slaughtering King Alexander and his Queen reads like a chapter of history of the Dark Ages. Civilization shudders at the news of so horrible a deed. May the usurper's crown rest as uneasy as did that of Hamlet's slayer.

An exchange says: "'A man who cannot afford to advertise cannot afford to open a store,' is the opinion of an experienced merchant. 'A man who goes into business should set aside something for advertising, even if it should be necessary to cut down by that much his proposed purchases of stock.'"

The Company K boys go down to New York tonight to bid adieu to their captain, William B. Martin, who sails for England tomorrow. Captain Martin is a member of the All-American team which will strive to win back the Palmer trophy. Every patriotic citizen hopes for the success of the team.

In describing one of the attractive society weddings of yesterday, The Daily Press inadvertently made the some what startling announcement that "the bridegroom was gowned in white organdie trimmed with Irish point lace." We have been unable to determine thus far whether the joke is on us or on the groom. At any rate we are certain that he looked charming in his fetching costume.

Many patrons of the Alis-Pearsall game complained of the boisterous conduct witnessed on the grand stand and about the field. Though no blame can be attached to the management for this condition of affairs, it would be well if some action be taken to eliminate a repetition of this spectacle at the Alis-Madison game tomorrow. Give the rowdies to understand that their bar room conduct will not be tolerated.

The commencement at the Plainfield Seminary yesterday marked Miss M. E. Kenyon's thirty-fifth anniversary as principal of that institution. She has done a good work during the period of her administration. Many of the graduates and pupils are members of representative families in Plainfield and neighboring towns. They reflect great credit on the training of the Plainfield Seminary and honor on Miss Kenyon, whose life work has been the development of womanhood with high aims and standards. For a number of years, Miss Arnold has been Miss Kenyon's efficient colleague.

BETTER POLICE PROTECTION

GAMEWELL SYSTEM WILL BE IN OPERATION IN TEN DAYS.

Citizens to Have Access to Boxes—Their Location—Other Changes at Police Headquarters.

In ten days Plainfield will have in operation a system of police patrolling equal to the best. By that time the new Gamewell system will be in working order, the new switch board having already been placed in the chief's present office.

There will be sixteen boxes visited by the officers. During the night a call will be received at headquarters from one or another of the boxes at intervals of every five minutes. There will be five keys to each box to be used by citizens living in the immediate vicinity.

The Police Board is now receiving bids for the steel cells which are to replace the present wooden affairs. Partitions are up for the men's dormitory on the floor above the present police quarters. Two patrolmen will sleep in the rooms in turn during the night and two more in their turn during the day.

The boxes are located as follows: Park and North avenues; Madison avenue and West Front street; Berckman and East Front streets; Washington and East Third streets; East Fifth and Richmond streets; South and Belvidere avenues; Carlton and Watchung avenues; Crescent avenue; Eighth street and Park avenue; Central avenue and Randolph road; West Seventh street and Division street; West Seventh street and Grant avenue; Grant avenue and South Second street; Clinton avenue and West Front street; Plainfield avenue and West Front street; West Third and Liberty streets.

The Police Board are receiving bids for a patrol wagon and horses which will be ready for service, it is expected, as soon as the Gamewell system is in working order.

In the rooms which are being fitted over for the use of the police above their present quarters, there is a pool room for the use of the men. It is situated between the chief's office and the dormitory. It has already been used to some extent.

The annual police inspection and revolver shoot which was to take place this afternoon on Sergeant Frederickson's grounds at Leland avenue, has been postponed until next Thursday probably, owing to the weather conditions.

The regular weekly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon. A parlor meeting was discussed, which will take place at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hamilton next Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Emma Bourne, State president of the organization, will make an address. Refreshments will be served. All are welcome.

The local baseball team will cross bats with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. at Elizabeth. A better game than was witnessed last Saturday is expected.

The Watchungs will play the Cranford A. C. on the Madison avenue grounds on Saturday afternoon. A close game is expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meserole will entertain the senoir class of the local High School tonight.

Lewis Tinsman, who was recently injured on the railroad, is able to be around.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine, who returned ill from her California trip, is improving.

Thomas Bodine took a trip to Asbury Park yesterday.

Frank Wynkoop is threatened with pneumonia.

Lester Meserole spent Wednesday in New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

One of the prettiest as well as the most exciting ball game of the season will take place at Westfield Saturday afternoon when the local team and several hundred rooters will journey to Westfield and engage Manager Denman's crack team in one of the snappiest games the residents of that town have witnessed this season. The locals are playing winning ball; have not been defeated this season and Captain Crusius says will not be when the dust clears away on Saturday afternoon, at Recreation Park.

The members of the ball team seem to have lost all interest in the proposed strawberry festival which has been talked over. Now is a good time for some of the lady friends of the team to take the matter up, as the season of berries will soon be a thing of the past.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. transacted routine business at their weekly meeting last night. Considering the warm weather the meetings of the local Council are well attended and a determined effort is being made to increase the membership of the Council.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather of Wednesday afternoon and evening, the Ladies' Circle of the Baptist Church, held a most enjoyable as well as profitable lawn fete at the home of Chas. H. Vincent, of the borough.

The local real estate dealers could rent fifteen or twenty $10 and $12 per month houses to out of town parties if the houses were built. There is a good opening for some capitalist to invest a little money in this line.

The picnic and dance of the Superior Social Club, held at Earl's pavilion last night, was well attended. Guests were present from Plainfield, Rahway and Elizabeth Music was furnished by Naylor's orchestra.

The trolley company is beginning to run a number of new cars which look very, neat but Scotch Plains would appreciate them a great deal more if the company will try and run them somewhere near schedule time.

The annual children day exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school will be held in the church on Sunday night. A pleasing programme is being arranged and all are invited to enjoy the event with the school.

One of Plainfield's automobilists met with an accident while riding along Mountain avenue last night. A passing horse and wagon was pressed into service and the disabled machine towed back to Plainfield.

Summons has been issued by Judge Clark on contract in the case of Fazio against Lyano, summons returnable on Monday, the 15th. Both parties are from Berkely Heights.

As soon as Street Commissioner Bruchmann finishes the work of repairing the roads, work will be started on sidewalks, some of which are in very bad condition.

Manager Johnston announces that the line-up of the team against Westfield will be the same as has represented the village since the opening of the season.

The weekly teachers meeting of the teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school was held last night at "The Manse."

Harold, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh, is seriously ill with an attack of pneumonia.

The regular weekly prayer meetings of the Baptist and Methodist Churches will be held tonight.

The annual examinations for promotion at the Public School will be held next week.

IN AID OF THE NURSES HOME

THE COUNTRY FAIR AT SERRELL FARM A SUCCESS.

Patronage Good — Those Having Charge of the Arrangements— Mrs. Serrell's Scheme.

The country fair held Thursday afternoon and again yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Serrell in West Seventh street, for the benefit of the Nurses' Home for Muhlenberg Hospital, was much of a success, despite the rather disagreeable weather. On Thursday it was necessary to have the sale on the porch of the Serrell home, as the rain made the lawn too damp to carry out the original idea of having it out-of-doors.

However, the country idea was carried out true to nature and the patronage was gratifying. Yesterday afternoon the lawn was used and the decorations were most attractive, depicting a genuine farm scene. The women were gowned in short calico dresses and the proverbial sun-bonnet played a prominent part. The affair was arranged by Mrs. L. W. Serrell, assisted by Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren and Miss Elizabeth Cook.

Those in charge of the various tables and booths were: Spinning wheel, Miss Ida Stewart; Industrial, Mrs. Henry Clay Irons; toy, Mrs. Arthur Murphy; "Jack-in-the-Box," Mrs. Geo. Macintyre; haystack, Mrs. Arthur Boone; lemonade, Mrs. LeRoy Mack; flowers, Mrs. Gaston; candy, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell; fine arts, Miss Maud VanBoskerok; paper, Mrs. W. W. Moore; fortune telling and star gazing, Miss Katharine Stewart; ice cream, Miss Emily Haff; tea table, Mrs. E. S. Hyatt, Mrs. Frank W. Iredell, Mrs. F. S. Martin, Mrs. F. W. Wallace, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., and Mrs. Hugh Hastings.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FOR WARM DAYS.

Laces Are Popular and Spots Are Fashionable—Dust Coats.

Laces are as popular as ever, but the tints are slightly altered. Ecru is toned down and labeled straw or champagne, but the old tint is just as fashionable. The fleelle shade with the slight greenish tint is still to be patronized, as it is shown in handsome Irish crochet and in lovely embroidered robes of net. Medallions of embroidery are introduced on thin gowns and are generally inclosed in lace. Grass lawn has returned in a new guise, and there are robes much embroidered and incrusted with lace which have the smartest air. In fact, the tussore tint is much in the foreground, and the silk is to be used both for dust coats and for gowns.

Spots are very fashionable on lawns, crapes, cottons and on the lighter kinds of wool garments.

The new dust coats in tussore silk, alpaca and lawn are trimmed with flat embroidered galloon and a good deal of lace, but very handsome effects are obtained with spreading collars of the deep Richelieu shape and either broad insertion of lace or diamond shaped motifs in combination with tucks.

A handsome gown of champagne colored crepe de chine is inserted with stripes of lace to match and appliqued with a bold vandyke design in black chantilly lace. The full bodice has a pretty pelerine of the crape with a plisse frill and a collar arrangement of the black lace, and there are stole ends of the crape drawn and finished with tassels.

A smart three-quarter coat is here shown. It is of tussore silk, with a needlework collar and cuffs.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

The Accordion Plaited Skirt—The Popularity of Red.

The accordion plaited skirt appeals to many, and some of the leading houses are selling smart specimens ready made.

The economically minded will do well to consider the purchase of the ready embroidered linen and cambric blouses, not to speak of the muslin robe.

The popularity of red is great, and nothing can be more serviceable. There is a new kind of hopsack linen which is prettier than the stiff fabric of yore, inasmuch as it does not crease, but instead falls into charming folds. Most of the linens boast of the little loose bolero or sack coat with the blouse bodice trimmed with tags and tassels. For all practical purposes the skirt is short, though not aggressively so, and the bottom has the wide flare which is a necessity.

Bonnets have made their appearance. The tendency is toward the 1830 shape, which may be large or small to suit the individual taste.

The illustration shows a very pretty cape effect, which may be carried out in lace or in any other fancy material.

SERVIAN REGICIDES.

Alexander and His Consort Killed In Their Palace.

KARAGEORGEVITCH THE NEW KING

Official Reports Show the Queen's Two Brothers, Premier, Minister of War and Many Soldiers of the Guard Were Killed.

BELGRADE, Servia, June 12. — A military revolution broke out here at 2 a. m. yesterday morning. The troops revolted under the leadership of Major Angikovics, surrounded the palace and a party of officers, by previous arrangement with General Ljubasivkovics, called upon King Alexander to abdicate in favor of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch. The king refused and shot Colonel Naumovics, who made the proposal. The other officers thereupon summoned the war minister, General Pavlovitch, and Tudorovics, the minister of the interior, and assassinated King Alexander, Queen Draga, her two brothers, Premier Markovitch, Ministers Petrovitch and Tudorovitch, General Pavlovitch, ex-minister of war; two aids de camp, two loyal officers, and twelve members of the royal guard.

QUEEN DRAGA.

The leader of the actual assailants was Lieutenant Colonel Mischich, who himself murdered the queen. The latter, together with her two brothers, were struck down with an ax. The king was shot. The queen died immediately. The king lived a few minutes after being shot.

A new government was formed and the following proclamation issued:

"To the Servian People—Last night the king and queen were shot. In this grave and fateful moment friends of the fatherland have combined to form a new government. While the government makes this announcement to the people, it is convinced that the Servian people will gather round it and lend it their aid to maintain order and security throughout the land.

"The government hereby makes known that from today the constitution of April 6, 1901, comes in force. A meeting of the national representatives, dissolved by the proclamation of March 24, is summoned to meet at Belgrade June 15."

The immediate cause of the revolution was the return to Belgrade of Lieutenant Lungievitza, brother of the queen and a supposed candidate for the throne.

The surviving ministers have been arrested. The obsequies of the king and queen will occur June 14.

A festal illumination of Belgrade was projected for last evening.

The history of the murdered Alexander was full of stirring incident and adventure and might have been described as romantic if it had not been so unutterably sordid. But there was nothing in the young man's life which could not be accounted for fully by his parentage. He was in every respect the son of his father, King Milan, of most unsavory memory, exhibiting all the attributes of the latter except his surpassing genius for intrigue. From his mother, the unfortunate and much maligned Queen Natalie, he inherited physical courage and an ungovernable temper.

That Alexander was an astute and bold politician nobody ever doubted. His seizure of the throne, his management of his unscrupulous but able father, his prompt solution of more than one political crisis and the adroitness with which he overcame the difficulties in the way of his marriage proved that. There is no doubt that he realized better perhaps than most persons how near he was always standing to the edge of a precipice. Only last year there was an attempt on the part of the supporters of Prince Karageorgevitch to seize the guardhouse and custom house of the frontier town of Shabatz, and it was perfectly well known that they were always on the watch for an opportunity to revolt. Only a few months ago in order to strengthen his position Alexander executed a coup d'etat by which he temporarily suspended the constitution in order to get rid of certain electoral, press and other laws of which he disapproved. He was aware also of the disaffection in the army, which was due chiefly to the desire of Queen Draga to have her brother, a most undesirable person, declared heir to the throne and also to her incessant intrigues to secure the promotion of her relatives and friends over the heads of other and generally more deserving officers. It seems that this disaffection was deeper than he suspected and has been put to effective use by the Karageorgevitch party.

Whether the agents of a much greater power are working behind them with a view to later national developments remains to be seen.

The Servian army has proclaimed Prince Karageorgevitch king.

Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, proclaimed king by the Servian army, has been living in Geneva since 1891. He appeared greatly astonished on receiving the news from Belgrade.

Over the telephone he said that he had not yet received any official notice regarding the events which took place in Belgrade. He did not even know whether it was true that he had been proclaimed king and said he did not know when or whether he would start for Belgrade. The new ministry, he added, included several of his adherents, but he was unable to speak definitely on this subject.

Prince Karageorgevitch declares himself innocent of any knowledge of the tragedy at Belgrade. He said that through his grandfather he had undoubtedly the best right to the Servian throne and intended taking it if possible for the sake of his son, but he expects to meet with great difficulties and hopes for assistance from Austria.

From other sources it is learned that the prince left secretly this morning for Vienna, whence he will proceed to Belgrade. Rumors have been current here for three days of expected trouble in Servia, and Prince Karageorgevitch has been receiving a great many telegrams from the frontier of Servia.

The prince is a widower, aged fifty-three, and appears older. He is of medium height and build, and his face, distinguished by a long military mustache, is rather fierce.

Russian money was undoubtedly used in the revolution, which, according to general belief, was planned at Geneva. It is recalled that when the Austrian empress was murdered by the Anarchist Luchenl in this city in 1898 Prince Karageorgevitch openly applauded the deed. He is extremely popular here with all classes and is described as unassuming, sensible and strictly honest in all private and public transactions.

No international complications are likely to result from the tragedy. The Austro-Russian agreement of December, 1902, concerning the Balkans is so perfect that even if intervention in Servian affairs became necessary it would occur by the common accord of the powers.

Prince. Peter Karageorgevitch, the newly proclaimed king, entertains great esteem and deference for the king of Italy.

The newspapers here forecast a better future for Servia, and the new state of things is heartily welcomed by the masses.

Nothing definite has been decided regarding the burial of the dead.

It is now known that the bodies of the king and queen were thrown from their bedroom window into the park. King Alexander was shot through the neck at the first fire, and the rush of blood suffocated him.

Queen Draga received several shots, and after she was dead the regicides slashed her body with their swords and thrust it through and through.

The rugs in the royal chamber were soaked with blood which flowed over the inlaid floors. The window hangings were torn down and trampled under foot, the windows broken and the objects of art shattered in wanton destruction.

The murderers afterward embraced and congratulated one another on the success of the plot and announced joyfully to those below that the king and queen had been disposed of.

The residence of the queen's brothers, near the palace, was wrecked. When the brothers, says the correspondent, were lying dying from their shot wounds they kissed each other.

Court Marshal Nikoljewitch escaped from the royal palace and sought refuge in the Austrian legation. The Austrian minister, Herr Dumba, was thus the first diplomat to learn of the assassination. He sent a boat across the river, requesting the officer commanding at Semlin to send troops to protect the legation. While the officer was deliberating whether he ought to encroach on Servian territory the minister sent another message withdrawing his request.

Shots were fired at the Russian legation, but it was afterward explained that they were fired by mistake.

About 150 officers were in the plot, which was astonishingly well kept. The streets of Belgrade are fairly quiet. The soldiers, in force, are doing police duty.

Soldiers at Morenci.

PHENIX, Ariz., June 12.—Strike news from Morenci has been very meager. Acting Governor Stoddard received a telegram from General Baldwin saying that he would send troops from Fort Wingate and perhaps would be on the ground himself in a day or two. In the meantime he is in communication with the commanding officer of the Texas department relative to sending troops from Fort Bliss at El Paso. To this Governor Stoddard replied that the Wingate force would be equal to the emergency.

Rochester Has $400,000 Fire.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 12.—The total loss, at a conservative estimate, of the fire which has occurred in this city aggregated $412,900. Of this amount the loss to the brick Presbyterian church was $150,000. It was just three weeks ago that the church debt was liquidated. The burned building will immediately be rebuilt.

Newark Furnace Men Strike.

NEWARK, N. J., June 12.—Over 100 furnace men and wheelers in the employ of the New Jersey Zinc and Iron company are on strike because three of their members have been blacklisted by the company. The entire plant will have to close unless the trouble is adjusted.

"The Sioux!"

In the pioneer days of the Northwest their coming brought terror to the hearts of the settlers. We expect to bring pleasure to our readers by announcing that within a short time we shall begin the publication of a new serial story in which these red warriors figure, entitled:

"A Daughter of the Sioux"

It is a sufficient guarantee of its quality for us to say that it is written by that prince of American fiction writers,

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

The story deals with conditions in the Northwest following the days of the Custer massacre. It is full of that spirited kind of action that General King puts into his stories of the American army, and through it runs a fascinating and unusual love story. It is the best story that has been offered in newspaper form for years

SPORTING NEWS.

LINE FLIES.

The Potter's Seconds will play the Metuchen A. A. tomorrow afternoon.

The Potter A. C. will play the Willow Grove team tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock on the home grounds of Potters.

Bert Moore, formerly of the Safe Works' team, has signed with Alis Club, and will alternate between right field and catching.

"Warry" MacLaughlin has signed to play with the Newark Eastern League team for the rest of the season and he joined the team yesterday.

The Somerset Field Club defeated the Brookside A. C. 27 to 4 yesterday afternoon on the Mountain avenue grounds. The batteries were Blatz and Stagar for Somerset and Flack and Smith for Brookside.

The probable line up of the Alis team tomorrow in its game against Madison A. C., is Richradson, 1b; Page, 2b; Worhly, ss; Hemminger, 3b; Barnes, c; Lederer, lf; Wm. Schoonmaker, rf; Geo. Dupee, cf; Day, p.

The A. B. C. baseball team played a game yesterday with the Bryant School team, defeating the latter by a score of 24 to 0. Minford and Brown was the battery for the victors, while Loizeaux and Loizeaux was the battery for the school team.

In view of the fact that Hope, the Alis pitcher, has secured steady employment by the New Haven, Conn., team for Friday of each week and also pitches on Sunday, he will not continue to play with Alis. The club has secured Day, of New York, for tomorrow's game and if reports are true he is equally as strong as Hope. Worthly, the strong short-stop from Brooklyn, will probably play that position for Alis deuring the rest of the season.

Which ever team wins in tomorrow's Westfield-Scotch Plains game at Westfield it will not be by a score a whole lot to nothing. A rivalry between the two towns which exceeds the Plainfield Consolidated-Westfield series has put all other sporting topics on the shelf, for the past week and the rumors, if confirmed, will see two mighty teams against each other. This and that big league man has been placed on the respective teams by the gossip mongers and there has been so much information given out in this direction that if there is any degree of truth in the reports the attendance will see a clash of talent at reduced rates It is highly probable however, that the roster of the New York Americans, Jersey City's, Newarks, Torontos and Buffalo has not been cut down for tomorrow so they will be unable to present fairly good teams for their league struggles.

TENNIS.

The tennis tournament for the men and boys' classes of the Y. M. C. A. opened yesterday afternoon and evening on the Y. M. C. A. court. In the boys' tournament in the afternoon Heath defeated Taylor by a score of 7 to 5 points and in the evening Vail lost to Schomp by three points, the score being 8 to 6.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Invincible A. C. plans to hold a cross country run to Moldenke's castle in the course of a few weeks. Those who make the best showing will be selected for the club track team.

Plainfield has been unsuccessful in winning any of the prizes offered in the inter Y. M. C. A. gymnastic meets held at Jersey City. New Brunswick, however, comes in with one prize. Taylor took second place in the 75-yard dash, thus entitling him to a bronze medal. New Brunswick took first place in the boys' relay race, thus winning the silver plated, gold lined cup, offered. Mr. Heywood, who was appointed a committee of one to secure the cup, has it, and will send it to New Brunswick this week.

GOLF.

The Class A series of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association team matches began yesterday at the Baltusrol Golf Club, when the home players beat the Apawamis team by 7 to 2. Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of Baltusrol, beat her opponent, Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, 3 up. Today Essex County plays at Baltusrol.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The summer schedule for the Sunday-school will take effect at Trinity Reformed church Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel will give its strawberry festival and entertainment this evening in the chapel.

The Woman's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church took in $54 at the festival held in the church Wednesday evening. Most of this will be profit.

In the way of improvements it is likely that the old benches used for many years in the Sunday-school room at the First Baptist church may be replaced by chairs. The sentiment is in favor of the change.

It has been decided to hold the next convention of the East New Jersey Baptist Association with the Baptist church at Rahway. The latter church extended an invitation to the association and it was accepted.

At a recent social given by the Epworth League of Grace M. E. Church the sum of $12 was realized. This was announced at a meeting of the league held Wednesday evening. A trolley party is being planned.

MAN HURT; WAGON SMASHED

WILLIAM VAN WINKLE INJURED IN A FIERCE RUNAWAY.

Horse Becomes Frightened at An Automobile and Driver Thrown Out.

William VanWinkle, of Wilson avenue, was thrown from a wagon yesterday afternoon in Washington Park and sustained severe injuries and bruises. The horse became frightened at an automobile and the wagon was completely demolished.

Mr. VanWinkle's horse shied at a passing auto, breaking a strap of the harness. The horse bolted. VanWinkle held to the remains until the horse turned the corner of Mercer avenue and Washington avenue and threw him to the ground.

The man was thrown heavily against a pole and lay there unconscious. He was picked up and given some stimulants. Mr. VanWinkle was able to resume work this morning. The horse practically escaped injury. The animal's mad flight was stopped by Joseph Powers.

Robin Red Breast.

Editor Daily Press:—

The Audubon Society desires to say a word just now to the farmers concerning the robins, against whose "robbery" of the garden and field so great an outcry is made. In the account "How Birds Affect the Farm and Garden," we are told that "examinations show that less than five per cent. of the robin's food is grown by man. Nearly half is of wild fruit and nearly half is composed of wasps and bugs, spiders, angleworms and a large per cent. of grass-hoppers, crickets and caterpillars. He also eats great numbers of March fly larvae so preventing much injury to the grass in the hay field.

Prof. Forbes asks, will the destruction of seventeen quarts of average caterpillars, including at least eight quarts of cutworms, pay for twenty-four quarts of cherries, blackberries, currants and grapes? A robin has saved from ten to fifteen bushels of apples, that were worth a dollar a bushel, by clearing the tree of canker worms in the spring. Yet this robin was shot for pecking one of the apples that he had saved for the ungrateful fruit grower. The same authority tells us that each insectivorous bird destroys annually twenty-four hundred insects, and there are 100,000 kinds of insects in our country.

The majority of the birds live on insects and in some parts of our country farmers are keen for the preservation and protection of the rose breasted grossbeak, which out west is called the potato bug bird, and the meadow lark, whose food thro' most of the year is over 90 per cent. of insects. One third of the cat birds food consists of insects, the king bird devours 90 per cent. as the proportion of his food, the chikadee lives on canker worms, the cedar bird, known as a cherry lover, is not so bad as he is painted, for out of 155 stomachs of these birds examined only five had in them cultivated cherries.

If our farmer friends would keep a few of these facts in mind they would better appreciate our law who places a fine of $5 upon any person who kills or has in possession the dead body of either of these birds.

The writer would take this occasion to say, in reply to a recent criticism in another paper, that this society has neither written nor "inspired" any article relative to the killing of English sparrows, while as to the work done by our society only its members, all of them busy men and women, know how much is done and if those who could do better, would join with and assist us, none could be more grateful for such help than we. Our object is to inform and increase public sentiment. Prosecutions are the province of the Fish and Game Commission.

Respectfully,
Audubonian.

Loud complaints are heard from several counties of this State of the extravagance, bad government and defiance of the public will of Boards of Freeholders. The trouble seems to be that small and greedy politicians seek places on these boards, and many of them depend upon what they make out of it as their main income. This fosters jobbery and all sorts of extravagant schemes and bad contracts, and the public money is grievously wasted. The fault lies, primarily, with the people themselves. They should exercise more care in selecting their Freeholders. When a small, mercenary politician secures the nomination defeat him at the polls, whatever party he may profess to support. The new primary law will go far to remedy the evil.—New York Herald.

ADVICE, PROPHECY AND RETROSPECT

Senior Class of Borough High School Hold Their Last Exercises Before Parting.

FRIENDS FILLED SCHOOL

MUSIC AND POEMS INCLUDED IN THE HIGHLY CREDITABLE PROGRAMME.

There Are Twenty-Two Graduates—Those Participating Acquitted Themselves to the Delight of All Their Friends.

Class history, advice to undergraduates and prophecy were the features of the class day exercises of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School last evening. The auditorium of the Somerset street school was filled with parents of the pupils and their friends, undergraduates and members of the Board of Education.

The opening address was made by the president of the graduating class, Frederick Armstrong. He said that instead of being joyous over the fact that the irksome books and papers could be laid aside, those who are leaving school experience much that is sad.

The class history, by Raymond Martin, was exceptionally clever. It included pleasant reminiscences which delighted members of the school and visitors alike. Frederick VanEpps rendered some banjo selections, accompanied by William E. MacClymont upon the piano. The renditions were cleverly executed and greeted with applause.

Miss Clyde Slater in an interesting humorous article read the official senior advice to the junior class. Miss Irene Miller read the class poem composed by herself. It was well written and was received with much applause. The class prophecy by Edgar George, Jr., was one of the hits of the evening. Miss Sadie Winkler composed the class song which was sung in closing. The lines gave evidence of unusual skill in poetical composition.

The members of the graduating class are: Arthur Humble, Miss Maria Englehart, Miss Agnes LaBoyteaux, Miss Sadie Winkler, Edgar Adams, Miss Stella Vermeule, Miss Jeanette Bergman, Miss May Seal, Miss Clyde Slater, Miss Hope Miller, Fred Armstrong, Miss Belle Williams, Miss Hattie McLaughlin, Miss Priscilla Krewson, Miss Edna Lewis, Miss Leah Hammond, Miss Matilda Coddington, Raymond Martin, Miss Florence Conroy, Miss Minnie Nischwitz, Edgar George and Miss Hazel Martin.

The exercises were held under the direction of Superintendent Homer J. Wightman.

LIBERTY BELL AT ELIZABETH

HISTORIC RELIC CAN BE VIEWED FOR TEN MINUTES MONDAY.

Big Crowds Anticipated — Parade, Salute and Bell Tolling—Relic on Way to Boston.

Many Plainfielders will go to Elizabeth Monday to see the Liberty Bell pass through that city on its way to Boston. The train will stop there for ten minutes by special arrangement made with Mayor Ryan. The train will arrive at 1:20 p. m. Trains leaving Plainfield at 12:09 and 12:44 will arrive in Elizabeth in time for the ceremony. On account of the crowds, an earlier start might be advisable.

General Drake says that the Zouaves, headed by a band, will parade from their armory to the Pennsylvania station and will bring with them the old Revolutionary cannon which was captured from the British at Stony Point by General Anthony Wayne. A National salute will be fired from this historic field piece while the special train is standing at the station.

When the Liberty Bell leaves Rahway a telephone message will be sent from there to Elizabeth, and the bell of the First Church will at once begin to ring, and will keep tolling until the train reaches Elizabeth.

The Royal Hungarian Band, composed of thirty-five young men, now in this county for the purpose of making a tour, has been engaged by Drake's Veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth, to play when the Liberty Bell is at the station.

MISSION BAND'S GOOD WORK

YOUNG WOMEN OF TRINITY REFORMED CLOSE PROSPEROUS SEASON.

After Reports Are Read a Talk is Given on Mission Work.

The monthly meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed Church, and the last for the season, was held last evening in the lecture room of the church. Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, the president, was in charge. The reports for the month showed that much had been accomplished. The flower committee has sent flowers to New York and literature and cards have been sent to the hospital in Arabia and yesterday the domestic committee packed a barrel with clothing, valued at $39 to be sent to New York.

The emergency committee reported that over $6 had been realized from cake sales. Mention was made of the proposed entertainment to be held October 20, and it is also proposed to hold a handkerchief bazaar in the fall. The treasurer's report showed a balance of over $17 in the treasury.

After the presentation of reports, a most interesting address was given by Mrs. Morris, of Brooklyn, who represents the Board of Domestic Missions. She spoke chiefly of the mission work among the Mountain Whites of Kentucky and among the people of Oklahoma.

CAPTAIN MARTIN LEAVES FOR ENGLAND

CO. K SAYS "GOOD-BYE"

PRESENTED CAPTAIN WITH MAGNIFICENT FLORAL HORSESHOE.

Sketches of Capt. Martin and Co. K—Following International Shoot in England, Team Will Compete in Other Contests.

Captain William B. Martin, of Co. K, who left New York City for England this morning at 8 o'clock on the Cunarder Lucania, was given a glorious send-off by the members of his company, about thirty of whom last evening journeyed to the steamer moored to Pier 51 to wish him Godspeed.

In behalf of the company, Sergeant A. I. Littell presented the Captain and Mrs. Martin who accompanies him, with a magnificent horse-shoe of roses, five feet high, with the word "Success" in large floral letters. Captain Martin made a graceful response telling his men of the plans for the trip and his hopes for a successful issue in the international contests. A couple of pleasant hours were spent in the steamer's saloon in conversation before the final adieus were spoken. "Success" was adopted by the team as a watchword for the trip.

Capt. William B. Martin.

The committee in charge of the presentation consisted of A. I. Littell and Frank W. Wickoff.

Eight members of the international team made the trip, and about ten others accompany them, including Yard Breez, of Trenton. The international shoot for the Palma trophy will take place at Bisley Camp, England, July 11. The contestants will shoot at distances of 800, 900 and 1000 yards, each competitor to have fifteen shots at each target. The team making the highest aggregate at each range wins the championship. The Americans will contest in other matches in England, Scotland and Switzerland. Col. Bruce and Lieut. Alfred Jones are in charge of the party.

Captain William B. Martin has had a military career of unusual length as well as distinction. His first military experience was with the National Guard, in which he enlisted December 16, 1884. His rise was rapid, from corporal in 1886, to sergeant three years later. He was made commissary sergeant of the Third Regiment in '96.

The captain is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, serving as first lieutenant and battalion adjutant in the Third New Jersey Volunteers. He was mustered out with his regiment in February, 1899, and the following fall became first lieutenant Co. I, Second Regiment. Two years later he was chosen captain, from which position he resigned in October 1901.

In January of last year, Captain Martain was made battalion adjutant and first lieutenant in the Third Regiment, and in the summer was advanced to the office of inspector of rifle practice with the rank of captain. His present position as captain of Co. K, he has held since November 5, 1902. His last three commissions he held within the space of a single year. His early experience as private in the crack Phil Kearney Guard laid the foundation for many of his later successes as a marksman.

Captain Martin has been a member of the Third Regiment rifle team since 1892 and of the New Jersey State team since 1899, the latter team winning the Hilton trophy in '99 and 1900 and the inter-State match for the past two years. Since the reorganization

ATTRACTIVE CHURCH FUNCTION

ANNUAL SALE OF LADIES' GUILD, A SOCIAL AND FINANCIAL SUCCESS.

Held at Church of Heavenly Rest—Many Customers Well Satisfied—Those in Charge.

From 4 o'clock until 10, yesterday afternoon and evening, the members of the Ladies' Guild, of the Church of Heavenly Rest, made pleasure and profit of the fair which they hold annually for the benefit of the church.

Especially attractive among the tables were the fancy booth, presided over by Mrs. W. C. Peck, Mrs. W. E. Vanorden and Mrs. Harry Farley, and the souvenir table in charge Mrs. Juan Babcock, Miss Nellie Miner and Miss Elizabeth Forster. The lemonade was served from a prettily decorated booth by Miss Helen Bird, and all kinds of dainty aprons were sold by Mrs. William Grannite, Mrs. Charles Graves and Mrs. Phillips. A miniature grocery store, with Mrs. Russell Hazzard and Mrs. H. D. Thompson as clerks, and fortune telling by Mrs. B. K. Burke, costumed like a gypsy, were unique features of the entertainment.

The ice cream parlor was a room frequently visited by all. Tickets at the door were on sale by William Vanorden, assisted by Edward Grannite, and the following young women were waitresses: The Misses Edith Squier, Viola Stuts, Margaret Phillips, Viola Hallard, Clara Hallard, Christine Thompson and Marjorie Burke. The entire sale was under the supervision of Mrs. E. E. Brown, the president of the society. The orchestra of the Y. M. C. A. discoursed music.

OLD RELIC IN NEW HANDS

PLAINFIELD HAND FIRE ENGINE GIVEN IN TRUST TO ELIZABETH.

Was Used in Fighting Borough and City Fires—Exempt Firemen Had It in Charge—Will be in Parade.

An old hand fire engine which, for many years did good service in fighting fires in Plainfield and the borough, has passed into the possession of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of Elizabeth. The relic has been in the keeping of the Exempt Firemen's Association who, because they have no association building in which to keep a trophy of such bulk, have thought it wise to turn it over to the Elizabeth fire fighters. The trustees of the Elizabeth veterans visited this city last evening to execute a document passing the old engine over to them to be held in trust.

The hand engine was used first in North Plainfield and Plainfield, all the prominent citizens running with it to fires, taking their turns in pumping the water on the flames. When a modern department came into being, the old machine was loaned to the Scotch Plains department, and when the latter outgrew its swaddling clothes, it was relegated to a back corner. Later it was given over to the care of the Exempt Association, whose members have taken great pride in the relic and part with it reluctantly.

The engine will be repainted and will be drawn in line at the big Allentown parade next October.

INJURED IN R. R. COLLISION

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN HURT, BUT NOT SERIOUSLY.

Accident Near Whitehouse—Freight Buckles and One Car Falls in Front of Swift Passenger.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Whitehouse, N. J., June 13—Two men were injured in a collision between a passenger and freight train at the Somerset County line two miles east of this place at 8 o'clock this morning. James Leggett, the engineer, of the passenger train, and his fireman, Evans, both of Mauch Chunk, were injured by jumping.

The passenger train, known as No. 6, was running from Mauch Chunk at about 50 miles an hour. It was due at Somerville at 8:17 and in Plainfield at 8:34. Leggett saw that something had gone wrong on the freight train and in the next instant he saw the train buckle in the center. One of the steel cars fell on the passenger track in front of the approaching passenger train. Leggett put on the air brakes and jumped. His fireman followed his example. Both were bruised and Leggett was badly crushed.

The impact of the passenger train threw the empty car high upon an embankment. The cars of the passenger train were crushed in on one side and the passengers were thrown into great confusion.

The engineer was attended by Dr. W. E. Berkaw, of Annandale, who was on the train

UP IN THE AIR.

Westfield Man Soars Heavenward While Blasting in a Cemetery Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 13—Charles Sorter, superintendent of the Fairview Cemetery, had a lively experience yesterday, while blasting for the removal of old stumps. He used dynamite in his work and the charge did not go off as soon as Mr. Sorter believed it should. Very cautiously he crawled on his hands and knees toward the stump. Just as he got to a point close to the stump the charge of dynamite went off and the superintendent rose to a height of fifteen feet, a greater distance than that attained by the stump. Aside from a few bruises and a great scare, Sorter got off all right. He will be more careful next time.

Safe and Sound.

Miss Caroline Thompson, of West Front street, who left college at Kansas City, May 27, to return to Plainfield, was satalied for more than a week at Junction City, Kansas, by the floods. The last message received from her was on May 31, until yesterday when a letter announced that she was well. She is now on her way home.

Fifteenth Anniversary.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 13—Martin Welles, president of the Borough Council, and Mrs. Welles, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding, last evening.

ONE-MAN POLICE FORCE DISBANDS

North Plainfield Protected by One Lone Patrolman, and He Is Otherwise Engaged.

RESIGNED ON SATURDAY

STARTLING REVELATION OF INADEQUATE PROVISIONS AGAINST CRIME.

Chief Campbell the Only Officer Regularly Employed in the Borough—One Man Doing Four Men's Work—What's to be Done About It?"

North Plainfield's one man police force has disbanded. This announcement will come as a revelation to many of the people in the borough who have been living in blissful ignorance of the fact that the entire district has been covered by one man at night and one by day. Chief Marshal William Campbell is the only regular officer employed in the borough and his duties keep him engaged in the day time. At night one special marshal does police duty when his services can be secured. Otherwise there is no one on hand to protect property and prevent crime. There are a few others special patrolmen who can never be found when wanted.

Peter Blaich was the "last of the Mohicans" in the borough and his resignation, it is understood, was handed in to the police committee Saturday night. Walter Smalley is a special marshal and spends his time during the day driving an ice wagon. At night he is sent out on beats, which should be covered by at least four men.

There is not another town of 5,000 inhabitants in New Jersey, probably, where the police protection is so inadequate.

Mayor Smalley said this morning that there is no cause for alarm as the vacancies will be filled as soon as possible. Asked why the vacancies had not been filled before, the Mayor said that the difficulty was in finding men of the proper calibre to fill the positions. As soon as the right names are submitted to the committee they will be appointed regular police officers.

SKIPPED HIS BAIL?

Rumor That Joseph Block Failed to Appear When Wanted.

There is a rumor that seems to be well founded that Joseph Block, who was held for the Grand Jury to answer to a charge of robbing the safe of Fay's bakery has skipped his bail. His counsel, William Newcorn, refuses to talk on the subject and Chief Kiely is equally reticent. It is said that when Block's case was brought up recently by the Grand Jury, he was nowhere to be found.

Real Estate Changes Hands.

The following real estate transfers in the borough and of borough people have been recorded at the office of the County Clerk at Somerville: Thomas J. Alcott, U. S. Marshal, to Wm. H. Conrad, $5,000; Jeremiah Manning et ux to Augustus V. Searing, Jr., $1; Charles L. Moffett et ux to Levi D. Darby et al, $1; Mary Ellen Dempsey and husband to Mary Trimble, $1; Lucy D. Tomlinson to Anna Hoffman, $2,750; Wm. B. Smith to Walter E. Parker, $10,000; Wm. E. Parker to Mabel O. Smith, $10,000; Wm. C. Stanbery to Mary P. Bettman, $1, and Isaac Vail et al to David D. Smalley, Warren, $300.

In the Court.

Hamlet was a melancholy Dane, and so was Knutt Knausen in the city court this morning when he appeared to answer to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. The court was lenient and suspended sentence. Tom Mullen and Morris Garnon were reprimanded for fighting, sentence being suspended. Walter Freeman was another bad boy. He threw stones at a street car in Netherwood and was relieved of $3 by the court.

Pleaded Not Guilty.

John P. Eiss and Joseph P. Sellner, indicted on the charge of obtaining money on false pretenses from Ernest Morris, of Muhlenberg place, this city, pleaded not guilty yesterday in the court of quarter sessions at Elizabeth. The trial was set for Thursday, June 18.

Settled Claim.

Charles M. Bennett, of Vine street, who received injuries in the Westfield disaster in January, has satisfactorily settled his claim with the New Jersey Central, through Claims Agent J. K. Large.

SPORTING NEWS.

WILLOW & HORSEHIDE.

The North Plainfield Crescents defeated the North Plainfield Juniors in a game of baseball yesterday by a score of 16 to 13. The batteries: N. P. C., Schuck, Collins and Kipsey. Juniors, Carney and Dresselt.

The Underwood team defeated the Dunellen Juniors Wednesday afternoon on St. Mary's grounds by a score of 18 to 2. Jack Wearren made a two-bagger and brought home two runs. Conklin pitched well for Dunellen, but received poor support.

The fans will regret to learn that Flynn, the popular second baseman on the Alls team will not continue to play in Plainfield. He has just signed with the Springfield team in the New Eanglnd League. Manager MacLaughlin has secured a good man in his place of the name of Page, of Brooklyn. He will play today.

It is not generally known that Patrolman John Huff, of the local police department, is an old-time baseball player. A few years ago he was one of the crack players in New York State, having played second base with a number of strong teams. He was said to be a terrific batter and strong fielder. John loves a good game to this day and he often regrets that he did not continue in the game.

GOLF.

Golf members of the New York Cotton Exchange will hold their annual golf handicap at the Colonial Club today. There will be two classes of competitors—those whose handicap is 18 or less being in Class A, and all others in Class B. There are to be three prizes in each class, and a gross score prize. It is expected that Plainfield will be represented in the tournament.

Several golfers who figured prominently in the recent New Jersey championship at Baltusrol will get together soon in a series of best-ball matchees. One three-green affair on the tapis will have as principals the new State champion, Marc M. Michael, Allan N. Kennaday and Archie Graham. The plan is to have a match on the home green of each of these players. Another match in prospect for this vicinity is a four-ball affair in which T. T. Reid and George Low will play Howard Colby and David Hunter.

An interesting bit of news regarding the age of golf in Scotland and its continuance in one family has been brought to light by the return of Douglas McEwan, a prominent Scotch professional and clubmaker, to his old home at Musselburg, to carry on the golf business so long maintained there by his family. It is hard for Americans to realize the personal interest felt in many Scotch towns over the long association in their localities of many golfers who have given their lifework to the interests of the game. Douglas McEwan left his home three years ago to accept a professional position at another club, and his recent return has been hailed with joy by all the citizens. The McEwan firm was founded in 1770, and is now in the hands of the fifth generation. It is undoubtedly the oldest firm in the trade. Its founder, James McEwan, came from Stirling. The only relics in the possession of the family are his Burgess ticket, dated 1775, in which he was described as a golf club maker at Bruntsfield Links, and a curious short spoon. The clubs of the firm are now known wherever golf is played.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

A new schedule for the players in the tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A. has been arranged by Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood. It allows three men to play so that two men will remain in each set until the finish when doubles will be played with the six members still remaining and the play-off will follow by the three winners of the three sets, thus making two winners at the final game to play in singles. The winner will be the victor of the entire match instead of two men as at first arranged.

Enclosed please find bill for Washer, with cash to settle same. I can hardly express my satisfaction with the machine, and thoroughly agree with you that the first time you use it you like it, but the more you use it the better you like it. I did not believe it possibly could do what you claimed, but thought it must have some good points, or you could not venture to send one on free trial. The free trial is a splendid idea, as I never should have been induced by any amount of advertisements to invest my money to find out if it was a good machine. I stood amazed as I lifted the articles from the washer on my first trial, articles that as I put them in were so soiled that I exclaimed: "Oh, yes, they'll come out clean and white—?" But they certainly did! I have three little ones and plenty of washing, and pretty much soiled generally, but my only regret is that I did not have the washer years ago, and thus have saved myself very much. Thanking you for being the means of robbing washday of its terrors, I am,

Yours very truly, MRS. E. H. VOSE.

REMEMBER—You take absolutely no risk, incur no expense or obligation whatever. The washer is sent by us on 30 days' trial. Express to your door in Newark or suburbs and positively without any advance or deposit of any kind.

An extremely warm summer is in store. Are you ready for it?

Nothing like having neat, durable awnings on your windows and porch to keep out the hot sun.

We make and put up awnings that do the trick—awnings that are well made of good material—and that look attractive, as well.

Doesn't cost much for this work, either.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

A new fire extinguishing apparatus is installed in the Rushmore Dynamo Works.

Bert Nickerson, formerly of the Pond Tool Works, visited his brother, Harry Nickerson, of Lee place, yesterday.

Robert T. Johnston, of this city, has secured a patent on a rotary folding and delivery mechanism for printing presses.

William Durant has resigned his position at the Potter Press Company, to take a similar one at the Campbell Press Works.

A photograph was taken of the entire force of employes of the Rushmore Dynamo Works yesterday by one of the employes.

A piece of iron from a chain noose yesterday afternoon fell on the finger of Thomas Welsh and severely crushed it. The accident happened at the Scott Press Works.

Henry H. Wark, of the Waldron Wall Paper Machine factory, of Highland Park, N. J., has secured a position with the Pond Machine Tool Works, of this city.

The main belt in the Rushmore Dynamo Works broke suddenly yesterday morning and shattered several panes of glass, besides breaking other belts. None of the employes was injured.

Loring Johnson, of Prescott place, an employe at the Pond Tool Works, was taken to the hospital yesterday morning to have a small piece of metal removed from his eye. He will be detained some time.

John Martin, of the Potter Press Company's works, has picked a baseball team from among the different gangs in the shop. He has arranged a game to be played today with a picked team from the Aluminum Plate and Press Co.

Many improvements are being contemplated by the management of the Scott Printing Press Works. A large cross compound steam engine will replace the engine now in use and a steam condenser of considerable size will be installed. It is probable that the machinery will be operated by the new system by the end of July.

The Scott Printing Press Works of this city are building a large four deck printing press to be shipped to Texas. It is the second machine of its kind built by that factory and is to be used in a large newspaper publishing house. The press is on the same scale, in some particulars, as those used by the New York Herald.

Plainfield, N. J., June 13, 1903.

Ten young men who have suffered the "pangs of disprized love" have formed a rejected lovers association, and forsworn the fair sex. Remarks about "race suicide" are now in order.

Congress adopted Betsy Ross's design for the National flag on June 14, 1777. That's one hundred and twenty-six years ago, and now the Sun doesn't set on American soil. Remember that tomorrow.

The King's Daughters have appealed for aid in furnishing their babies' camp on the mountain. They are doing a work of true benevolence and should not be handicapped because of a lack of funds or equipments

A New York baby swallowed a valuable diamond pin and her fond papa shouted to the doctor in great distress of mind: "Hurry, I can sell that pin for $100." This touching spirit of paternity is only equalled in history by that of a New York reform administration.

A man who gave indications of having indulged too freely in spirituous libations wandered into the Elizabeth police court yesterday, laid a coin on the Justice's bar and demanded a drink. Hope he didn't intend to cast any unpleasant reflections on Elizabeth police practises.

A consignment of 1,500 cigars that will retail for $4 apiece has just passed through the New York custom house. It is just possible that the millionaires who buy them will not experience any keener enjoyment from their smoke than the laborer does with his "T D."

The one hundred and fifty girls in Bayonne who have struck because they didn't have enough work are not holding down government positions as might be supposed from their ground for complaint. If they were, their action might lead to serious questions as to their sanity.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey has done a great work in the local Christian field during the decade of his pastorship at Warren Chapel. He has earned the rest which he has wisely decided to take at this time, and may be sure that his congregation will eagerly await his return from Europe.

The citizens of North Plainfield ought to insist upon their rights to protection of person and property against crime. The policing of the borough seems to be most culpably insufficient, according to the facts as presented in another column. The matter will bear prompt and thorough investigation. Chief Campbell is in nowise responsible for this condition. We trust that the Councilmanic police committee will take the matter in hand at once.

A New York police captain has been afflicted with a peculiar disease, the muscles of his neck, it is said, being so affected that he has been unable to look either to the right or the left. He is not the only one of his profession who has suffered in this way, the misfortune usually occurring at times when there is "something doing."

Mrs. William E. MacClymont has returned home after visiting her father and mother at Norristown, Pa.

Miss Evelyn G. Drake, of New York, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. James Howley, of West Third street.

of the National Guard in 1899, he has belonged to the Second Regiment team, which was twice successful in winning the Columbia trophy.

His career with the All-American or international team has included every contest since competition for the Palma trophy was re-instituted in 1900. In 1901, the team met defeat at the hands of the Canadian marksmen, but won ample revenge the next year over both the Canadian and English teams. Captain Martin was also winner of the famous Wimbledon cup shot for at Sea Girt.

In October of last year, Captain Martin won the Gerstenberg trophy against all of the best shots in the District of Columbia, the contests taking place in Washington. The shooting was done under most unfavorable conditions, a new range, new rifles, Government ammunition and a tricky wind making good shooting a matter of extreme difficulty, and lending all the more credit to Captain Martin's performance.

The captain is a leading Elizabeth dentist and a precentor of the Second Presbyterian Church of that city.

Company K, Second Regiment, National Guard of New Jersey, was organized on the evening of February 27, 1901, with Dr. W. K. Browning first lieutenant and J. M. Lewis second lieutenant. The company was mustered in by Col. Quincy O'Gilmore. Four months after the company was organized, Dr. Browning was made captain of the company and held that position until last November when he resigned on account of his growing business.

When the company enjoyed its first year in camp great interest was manifested in the rifle practice. Twenty-three marksmen and two sharpshooters is the record made by the local men. In the second year at camp the number of marksmen had increased to forty-nine, with 11 sharpshooters and four experts.

The present officers of the company are as follows: Captain, William B. Martin, whose departure for the international contest in England, was celebrated by the members of the company last evening; first lieutenant, J. M. Lewis; second lieutenant, H. B. Kitchell; quartermaster sergeant, Edgar R. Pearsall; commissary sergeant, P. B. Creager; first sergeant, C. A. Peterson; second, A. I. Littell; third, Asa F. Randolph; fourth, A. M. Siders; fifth, O. R. Pearson, Jr.; corporals, G. Harold Whitney, N. R. Hart, George A. Apgar, Clarence Bilyeu, Alfred Trenchand, A. R. Phillips and William B. Harsell. There are now 65 members in the company.

Company K led all the other infantries of the State at the rifle practice shoots at Sea Girt last summer. Although young in years, it has attracted attention all over the country in military circles for its fine showing at the targets.

Since the company has been organized it has been driven from pillar to post. For a long time drills were held in Washington Hall on Second street until the accommodations became inadequate, when open air drills were held for a time. Later Saengerbund Hall was used. The rooms on East Second street in the Democratic Club headquarters were used for a time until a month ago when the hall in the Schepflin building was secured. There the company has located permanently.

That Flag.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

May I ask what we have the large white pole on Front street opposite Park avenue for? There was a time when Old Glory used to wave from the top of it at least once a week but of late I have failed to see it at all. Either some one whom our City Fathers have directed to attend to this act of patriotism on the city's part is neglectful to his duty, or the flag must be unfit for service. If it be the former reason let the Common Council give some one a gentle hint, and if it be the latter, make the citizens of Plainfield aware of the fact, for I am sure there are enough of us who would willingly contribute toward a new one.

Let the Stars and Stripes wave over our city and teach the younger generation what our flag looks like and the older to respect it. America.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Supreme Court has laid itself open to criticism by believing in women's rights by declaring that a wife cannot recover from another woman for alienating the affections of a husband.—Newark News.

In blaming the newspapers for publishing news of their proceedings, grand jurors simply establish their own guilt, for how could the newspapers get the news if some of the jurors did not "leak"?—Camden Post-Telegram.

It Is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.
